Mr. Punch shook his head. "Not at all. You see, Susie kept saying "Moo, moo!" all the while she was dancing. I guess the cat must have thought she meant more, more. So it kept right on fiddling. I began to think I'd better stop all this myself. So I jumped up from under the tree and ran up to Susie. 'Stop this at once!' I commanded. 'It isn't right for a cow like you to go jumping around. Stop it I say!' But she didn't."

"We were going over the moon."

"And then what did you do?"

"I jumped on her back. I said, 'Now let's see you dance, my fine lady—I mean, my fine cow. See if you can dance with me on your back,'" Mr. Punch sighed. "But she kept right on. I thought she wouldn't be able to lift me. She didn't seem to mind me at all. In fact, she jumped higher than ever.

Clouds Were Damp

"At last I felt the top of my head getting damp and I saw that she had jumped to the bottom side of the clouds."

"My goodness!" the two shadows exclaimed.

"Of course,' Mr. Punch went on "I didn't feel much like staying on the cows back after that. I made up my mind to roll off as soon as Susie came to the ground again."

"Oh, that was the best thing you could do, Mr. Punch," Hanid said.

"It's a good thing you thought of that," said Knarf.

"But I didn't roll off—"

"You didn't!"

"Susie didn't get down to the ground again. She kept going right up. She went through the clouds higher and higher, until all at once—"

"All at once, what?" the two shadows cried in their excitement.

"—all at once, there was the moon, right ahead of us. I saw that we were going to go over the moon. That's pretty hard to believe, isn't it?

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

. . . Someone else wore a frock of dusty pink dotted with navy. It was made with a yoke which reversed the color scheme to navy dotted with pink, and was worn with a jaunty sailor of dusty pink edged with navy grosgrain ribbon.

Vocal Recital Is Given By Pupils Dorothy Allan Park

A profusion of lovely peonies, red, pink and white, were used last night to adorn the stage for the artistic recital presented by a group of singers from the studio of Dorothy Allan Park in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Each number by the talented singers contributed to the success of the whole evening's program, which was enjoyed by a host of Peterborough's music-lovers.

Fine tonal qualities, produced with flawless ease, were coupled with diction and phrasing that were tasteful in a very rare degree in a program which was varied in style and voice. The singers, in each instance, had the sympathetic co-operation of the gifted accompanist, Gwen Craw, throughout the following program, which opened with the National Anthem:

1. "Time, You Old Gypsy Man" (Maurice Besly), Olga Westbye.
2. "When Daisies Pied" (Arne), "Gath'ring Daffodils" (Old English), "Spring" (Harold Darke), Joy Walker.
3. "A Poor Beggar's Daughter" (Old English), "Phyllis on the Newmade Hay" (Old English), "Pur dicesti o bocca bella" (Lotti), Margaret Westbye.
4. "Dove Sono" (Figaro) (Mozart), Olive Searles.
5. "Come and Trip It" (Handel), "D'ime Prison" (Hahn), "To a Minature" (Brahe), Hazel Elliott.
6. "Bois Epais" (Lully), "Cuckoo" (Martin Straw), "Spring Comes Laughing" (Carew), Cora Charlton.
7. "Voi che sapete" (Mozart), "A Prayer" (Garrett), "Cuckoo" (Liza Lehmann), June Shield.
8. "Wohin" (Schubert), "Who is Sylvia" (Schubert), "A Spring Morning" (Old English), Alicia Langley.
9. "Les Cloches" (Saint-Saens), "Spring's Awakening" (Sanderson), Olga Westbye.
10. "Should he Upbraid" (Bishop), "If My Songs Were Only Winged" (Hahn), "Flower Song from Faust" (Gounod), Isabel Duthie.

12. "A Swan" (Grieg), "Nightingale of June" (Sanderson), Olive Searles.

Hostess Tea Is Held on Lawn

The lawns sloping to the very edge of the Otonabee River; the lovely shade trees from whose grey trunks waved trios of small Union Jacks; the flowers everywhere; the huge, colorful umbrellas, and the dainty, summery frocks of the ladies, was the delightful picture witnessed at a Hostess Tea Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Dodds, 225 Engleburn avenue, under the auspices of the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E.

Tiny tables were scattered over the lawns, and were covered with white cloths marked with a red cross. The tea table was covered with white linen, and lovely with a variety of summer flowers in a silver bowl. Tea was poured by Mrs. F. Hooper and Mrs. H. Keefer, assisted by Mrs. R. Cottrell, Miss I. Wesley, Mrs. G. Melton, Mrs. A. E. Borland, Mrs. A. E. Moorhead, Mrs. H. K. Clifton, Mrs. C. Newman and Mrs. C. McWilliams.

Mrs. W. H. Ashby was in charge of the draw for a cake, and treasurer for the day was Mrs. F. Frape. Tea cups were read by Mrs. N. Stanger and Mrs. J. M. Arnold.

LET YOUR HERO CHOOSE.

It's perfectly safe to encourage your hero to make your choice of perfume for you. And it is the wise girl who will take whichever fragrance he selects and like it, says M. Wm. D. V. Jequier, Paris perfumer, who is making an extended visit in the United States.

"Men have keener noses than women, and are very good judges of which scent suits a woman's personality best," declares this expert.

Exhibition Directors Ask County Councillors To Build Sheep Barn At "Ex"

An appeal to the County Council to build a new sheep barn at an estimated cost of $2,400 was made by a deputation of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition on Tuesday afternoon. The members of the deputation were Tom Brown, president, E. F. Mason, treasurer, Frank Savigny, chairman of the sheep and swine committee, and Charles Westlake, managing director. Their request was referred to the Finance Committee.

"When we were called to Toronto to meet J. A. Carroll, superintendent of agricultural societies, last March, one of the things he asked us was what was the matter between the Exhibition and the County Council," Mr. Brown said. "We told him that we hadn't owned the grounds and the Council probably did not feel like making any permanent investment on that account. Now we have full possession of the park as long as it is used for agricultural purposes, and we are asking the Council to help us out in a real way by building a barn that is much needed by the exhibitors of sheep. The building we have in mind would be one hundred feet long by forty-eight feet, with four rows of pens inside."

Mr. Mason said the chief reason he was a director of the Exhibition was because it had been striving for years in trying to promote agriculture in this county and district. "We are hoping to get some help from the Government, but they seem to be holding back until they see what the County Council will do for us. What they have told us is that if the county is not interested in the Exhibition, why should they be."

Mr. Savigny said that more breeders of sheep would be exhibitors if there was better accommodation for their animals. Some of them had quit coming to Peterborough because they were dissatisfied with the old pens along the south fence.

Mr. Westlake supported the appeal to the Council briefly mentioning the fact that the Exhibition Board had received the grounds as a gift from Harold A. Morrow, and that a special effort was being made to improve the Exhibition in keeping with that new position of ownership.

Red Cross Hospital.

The invaluable community service rendered to the people of the north-eastern section of the county by the Apsley Outpost Red Cross Hospital was summarized by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, representing the Hospital Board, in a petition to the County Council on Tuesday afternoon for an increased grant toward its maintenance.

During the year ending September 30 last, the hospital admitted 47 patients, held 18 clinics, and 18 babies born outside the hospital were attended by a nurse in the absence of a doctor. There were 606 outpatients visited, also 32 schools at which 583 children were examined by the nurse and 120 of them received treatment. Rev. Mr. Spence also said 922 homes were visited.

Women's Institute.

The operating costs were $3,369.48, comprising a surprising volume of work done by the nurse in one year. receipts from all sources $1,154.77, and deficit of $2,214.77 was made up by the Ontario Division of the Red Cross Society.

"We can't go on with such a heavy operating loss, and it would be a calamity to the north country if the Apsley Hospital was closed," Rev. Mr. Spence added.

Reeve Wellington Caldwell of Chandos supported the petition, and said many other persons in the county outside the Chandos area benefitted from the services of the hospital.

The petition was referred to the Finance Committee.

A deputation from the Women's Institute of East Peterborough appealed to the Council for a grant to assist them in carrying on their work. The members were Mrs. Wellington Lean of Apsley, president; Mrs. Harry Shearer, Hall's Bridge, first vice-president; Mrs. Harry Mann, Trent River, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Leona Shearer, Hall's Bridge.

"I never heard a group of ladies of fewer words," Reeve Gifford remarked.

"But what does Reeve Gifford know about that subject," Reeve Anderson commented.

Oddfellows Hold Decoration Day

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 22.—Members of the Order of Oddfellowship from Peterborough, Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay, and other outside points joined with the Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, for its annual decoration day service on Sunday at 2.30 p.m., Standard Time.

Headed by the Millbrook community band, under Lieutenant W. Peryer, over sixty members of the Order paraded to the Cenotaph in the Town Hall square, where an interested audience had gathered, including not only local residents, but a large number from Toronto, Peterborough, Bowmanville, Port Hope, and the surrounding countryside.

The program for the decoration ceremony was in charge of Brother P. I. Bentley, P.D.D.G.M., Brother V. R. Hunter, P.G., acting as Marshal, and the lodge ritual being taken by the Noble Grand Brother, Fred Elliott, and by the Lodge Chaplain, Brother Wilfrid Elson.

Brother W. C. Fallis, P.G., read the names of the departed brethren, the wreath in memory of those who were killed in the Great War being laid on the Cenotaph by Brother Fred Elliott, N.G. The names of deceased members of the Rebekah Order were read by Sister Maud Armstrong, P.N.G., and the wreaths in memory of those in local and outside cemeteries were placed on the Memorial by Sisters Isabel Thorndyke, P.N.G., and Zella Bentley, P.N.G.; the flowers in commemoration of Oddfellows buried in outside cemeteries were laid on the Cenotaph base by Brother H. Fallis, P.D.D.G.M.

Lieutenant Peryer sounded the Last Post, and followed with the stirring notes of the Reveille, after which the address of the day was given by Rev. A. L. Sisco, who on very short notice took the place of the Rev. P. C. Howard, of Bobcaygeon, Grand Chaplain for Ontario East, who at the last moment was prevented from keeping his appointment to speak.

Rev. Mr. Sisco spoke briefly on "The Beauty of God, Who is the God of Beauty," Whose loving power, and understanding, cover up sadness and sorrow as the beauty of garden and field, typified by the lovely blossoms in readiness to place on the graves of the departed brethren and sisters, will cover their last resting-place.

The band led in the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and after the march back to the Lodge rooms, the various committees left by car for the several cemeteries to decorate the graves. The Community Band paraded to the bandstand and gave a brief concert before dismissal, to the great pleasure of the waiting audience.

Farmers Are Opposed To New Ideas

Reeve W. A. Anderson Regrets Indifference Union School Boards

Disappointment that the people of Otonabee were not unanimously in favor of the Department of Education's plan of encouraging the union of school sections under one board was reflected in a little speech made by Reeve W. A. Anderson at this morning's meeting of the County Council. It followed Deputy-Reeve M. H. Johnston's reference to the need of cheaper money, loans at 4 per cent at the least.

The Government grants $100 to each school section that adopts the union idea, and Reeve Anderson said that if the Otonabee school sections had all decided to fall in with the Department's project, they would have received the equivalent of a mill in their tax rate.

"But some of the people, instead of coming out and trying to see whether this plan would benefit them, are sitting back fearing that they are going to be hurt," Mr. Anderson said. "Goodness knows they have been hurt enough now, and they should be trying to get out of their difficulties. They have seen country children going into the city to the Collegiate Institute, many of them getting a smattering of algebra and Latin, and then going out into the world unprepared for any definite work. I believe that kind of education is doing far too much to separate our young people from the home life of the country, and I think it should be up to our people to grasp any new thing intended for their benefit."

Norwood Request.

Col. R. E. Birdsall and G. A. Brethen were a deputation from the Norwood Fair Board this morning, asking for a grant from the County Council. Their request was referred to the Finance Committee.

"We try to run a good, clean show," Col Birdsall said, "and we believe that competition leads to improvement of our live stock."

Mr. Brethen spoke of the importance of stimulating interest in agriculture by such agencies as fairs. Interest, he said, transformed work into play instead of drudgery, and if more of it could be stimulated among the young people to-day, the farm and tax problem would be largely solved.

Deputy-Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan touched upon another form of interest with an appreciative reference to the report of a plea for cheaper money for farmers made by J. J. Duffus in the

Examiner Team Captures Bingham Trophy

The Examiner's team of Junior Merchants, Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson, captured the North American championship when they won the Bingham trophy at Quebec Wednesday.

It was the first time in the 16-year history of the competition that a Canadian team had captured the championship; the closest any other Canadian got was a fourth in the finals. The two Peterborough boys won the Ontario championship at Toronto a week ago Saturday, went to Quebec the first of this week and won the Canadian championship there on Tuesday. Next day they defeated the Toledo News-Bee, whose team had eliminated competitors from newspapers all over the United States.

The two boys are Examiner carrier boys who first represented this paper after they had tied for first place in the Examiners Junior Merchants' Salesmanship competition, each scoring 80 points. Having won this competition they were formed into a team, one boy to take the part of an Examiner salesman, the other taking the part of Mrs. Brown, as a non-reader of the Examiner. In their skit the salesman is calling to see if he may secure an order from the non-reader to have the paper delivered regularly.

It was with this skit that the boys won the championship of North American, and the trophy that was donated by the former United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Robert W. Bingham. Mr. Bingham originally started out as a newspaper boy and later became owner of the Louisville Courier and Louisville Times.

Lloyd Williamson is 15 years old and has just ended his first year in Collegiate. He has been carrying the Examiner since spring. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross A. Williamson, 337 Reid street.

Arthur Roode is 11 years old and is in the junior fourth class at King Edward school. He has been carrying the Examiner for nearly two years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Roode, 247 Westcott street.

The trips to Toronto and Quebec that these youngsters have taken are the first they have had away from home. They are accompanied on them by H. B. Cowan, Jr., circulation manager of the Examiner. On Wednesday night the two boys telephoned their parents to tell them of their victory.

Munchuk Is Given Life In Jail

Verdict Of Murder Is Quashed By Supreme Court

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP). — The Supreme Court of Canada today quashed the murder verdict against William Munchuk for the axe-slaying of Mrs. John Seabright of St. Catharines, Ont., and substituted a manslaughter verdict with life imprisonment.

A long-smouldering fence dispute resulted in the crime that put Munchuk and his wife on trial for the death of the Seabrights, neighbors of the Munchuks, who were killed with an axe in June, 1936.

Indicted in September, 1936, Mr. and Mrs. Munchuk were tried for the murder of John Seabright. Mrs. Munchuk was acquitted. Munchuk was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years in prison, a term he is now serving.

The Crown proceeded with an indictment of Munchuk for the murder of Mrs. Seabright, and in March, 1937, he was sentenced to death for this crime. The Ontario Appeal Court directed a new trial and the Supreme Court of Canada sustained this direction.

Sentenced To Death.

In March last Munchuk was again tried and convicted for the murder of Mrs. Seabright and was sentenced to death. Execution of the sentence was delayed pending an appeal to the Ontario Appeal Court. This court upheld the verdict on a three-to-two decision. Defence then brought the appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Justice Oswald Crocket dissented in today's decision. He would have quashed the conviction absolutely and registered an acquittal.

The majority judgment declared the last trial of Munchuk a mistrial on the ground that the issue of provocation had been decided at the trial at which Munchuk was convicted of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Seabright.

The provocation to the slaying of Seabright would apply also to the slaying of his wife, the court decided. On this ground the murder verdict was reduced to manslaughter and life imprisonment substituted for the murder verdict.

Italy Is Asked To Withdraw 10,000 Troops

LONDON, June 23.—(CP-Havas)—Immediate withdrawal by Italy of 10,000 soldiers fighting in Spain was mentioned as a possibility by the News Chronicle today.

This step would be taken, the Liberal newspaper said, in order to persuade Great Britain to put into effect the Anglo-Italian agreement concluded in April.

It had been reported earlier the Earl of Perth, British ambassador in Rome, had told Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, a substantial, voluntary withdrawal of Italian effectives, with or without suspension of hostilities, might result in application of the accord.

The News Chronicle said in a dispatch from its Rome correspondent:

"Premier Mussolini has received reports stressing the fact that the Italian infantry, although it was in the forefront of the battle during the break through to the sea and the follow-up in the direction of Valencia, is not a decisive element in the war.

Fire Swept Areas Still Need Rain

EDMONTON, June 23 (C.P.). — A south-east wind carried hope of rain to-day to 700 men battling widespread forest fires in Northern Alberta and a hope for people in Central Alberta of a cloudy sky to replace the smoke haze of the last few days.

Clouds that gathered in Southern Alberta left welcome rains yesterday at Medicine Hat and Lethbridge, a shower at Edmonton showed indication of drifting farther north. Weather forecasts, however, called for "scattered showers," and forestry officials declared a downpour would be needed to stamp out the fires.

Throughout the Peace River district, east around Lesser Slave Lake and further east still at Lac La Biche, fires were reported burning fiercely. J. A. Hutchison, Alberta's Assistant Director of Forestry, remained grounded at Peace River on an aerial survey of the fires.

Every available piece of forest fire fighting equipment had been sent from Edmonton and equipment from Rocky Mountain House, 150 miles south-west of Edmonton, was being transferred north.

Kenya Colony's drought has been broken by heavy rains, over a month late.

Champions Two Examiner carrier boys walked off with the North American championship in a continent-wide Junior Newspaper Salesmanship contest at Quebec on Wednesday, after they had captured the Ontario title at Toronto a week ago, the Canadian title at Quebec on Tuesday. In this picture the boys are receiving the Dominion trophy from George H. Mitchell, of London, resident of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Circulation Managers Association, who donated the cup. The two boys are Arthur Roode (LEFT) and Lloyd Williamson.

Catholics Of Nation Worship At Quebec

Thousands Attend Dominion's First Eucharistic Congress

QUEBEC, June 23 (CP).—On the war-scarred plains where Canada's destiny was sealed in Battle, the pilgrims to the Dominion's Eucharistic Congress thronged today to worship the Prince of Peace at the first pontifical Mass in Roman Catholicism's national demonstrationof faith.

The Plains of Abraham, where French fought English and a nation changed hands, were peopled today with intermingling thousands of both races, united now in a common devotion. Kneeling in an arena if 100,000 sets, they ringed a tall, glistening repository and in their own name and in that of the 5,000,000 Catholics of Canada adored at the sacrifice of the altar.

At the foot of the spire-like shaft, a richly-robed figure went through the age-old ritual of the Mass. Archbishop William Mark of Vancouver was celebrating one of at least 50 masses in this ancient church city that opened its gates yesterday to the levout.

Outside Clergy

In every one of the churches scattered about Quebec's winding, cobblestoned streets there was a sermon. Archbishop James C. McGuigan of Toronto spoke to those who came to the Plain for the outdoor manifestation of the church.

"Catholics of both French and English tongue," he said, "join in the same hymn of triumphant faith and ardent love, as we assemble on this historic spot to bear witness to the real presence of our divine Lord and Savior in the most blessed sacrament of the altar, and proclaim him 'King and centre of all hearts'."

"Our holy father, Pope Pius XI, is present at this national congress in the person of his legate, the Cardinal Archbishop of Quebec, to give

Queen's Mother Fails To Rally Dies In London

LONDON, June 23.—(AP).—The Countess of Strathmore, mother of Queen Elizabeth, died early today at her London home. She was 76.

Lady Strathmore married the fourteenth Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne fifty-six years ago. She was formerly Miss Nina Cavendish-Bentinck, a member of the family of the Duke of Portland.

Her illness was announced only Tuesday. She was taken suddenly ill last April 28, but recovered so quickly that physicians ceased issuing bulletins on her condition the next day.

The King, who returned last night from Weymouth, where he attended Home Fleet manoeuvres, and the Queen, as well as Lord Strathmore, were at the bedside. The Queen had remained in London to be near her mother.

Second Daughter Also Present.

A second daughter, Lady Rose Leveson Gower, flew to London yesterday from the Isle of Man and also was present when Lady Strathmore died.

The Countess was the daughter of the late Rev. William Cavendish-Bentinck. She was married in 1881 to the heir to the ancient Scottish Earldom which was to produce the first commoner Queen of Great Britain since the days of Henry VIII.

When the engagement of their daughter, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, was announced to the then Duke of York, the Earl remarked it was a "true love match," since the Strathmores never had aspired to Court circles.

The countess was said to have been

31,650 Volunteers Sought By Royal Air Force In Big Recruiting Campaign

Vigorous Steps Are Being Taken By British Secretary For Air To Secure Greatly Needed Recruits

LONDON, June 23 (CP-Havas).—Launching the greatest recruiting campaign ever undertaken by the Royal Air Force, Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary for Air, today asked for 31,650 volunteers.

Enrolment of the new fliers and technicians will begin next month and continue through the fiscal year, it was announced.

Sir Kingsley called for 2,100 pilots, 550 observers, 26,000 specialized workers, and 3,000 apprentices.

"Consequent upon the recent decision of His Majesty's government further to expand the Royal Air Force," the statement said, "Sir Kingsley Wood, secretary of state for air, and the air council have decided to take most vigorous steps to obtain a record number of pilots, observers and tradesmen required from July onwards."

"Sir Kingsley Wood now asks for the full support of the public to ensure that necessary entries are regularly obtained in different classes each month. Only in this way can an adequate supply of trained personnel be made available for the Royal Air Force as it increases in size."

The pilot recruits, who will have officer status, will be paid £340 (1,700 the first year and £390 thereafter during a four-year enlistment. Upon entering the reserves for six years they will be paid bonuses running up to £300. Some will have the opportunity of becoming officers permanently.

Candidates for these posts must be between the ages of 17½ and 2 years and must have a good primary education.

Comba Is Given Freedom By Supreme Court

OTTAWA, June 23—(CP)—The appeal of the Ontario Attorney General' Department against the verdict of the Ontario Appeal Court quashing the conviction of acquitting John Comba, 26-year-old Renfrew, Ont., youth of the sex-murder of 13-year-old Ethel Hedderwick, was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Canada today.

The decision of the Supreme Court climaxed a long legal dispute in connection with the murder and guarantees Comba his freedom.

There was no written judgment handed down in the Comba appeal.

Ethel Hedderwick left the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hedderwick, Renfrew, on the morning of Aug. 3, 1937 to pick choke cherries at the farm of J. H. Carswell on the outskirts of the eastern Ontario town. When she failed to return for supper search parties were organized.

Found Girl's Body.

Joining in the search was Comba, partly crippled because of a leg injury suffered several years ago in a baseball game, and unemployed. About eight o'clock in the evening, Comba found the girl's body by a bush on the Carswell farm.

The girl's skull was battered and on her arm were abrasions as though she had been struck when she sought to protect herself. Nearby was a large stone—a stone which the crown later said was a murder weapon but which Comba said was not dislodged from its seat in the ground until he stumbled over it as he found the girl's body.

Three weeks later Comba, after having made several voluntary statements, was charged with the murder of the girl. On Nev. 25 a jury at the Pembroke, Ont., assizes under Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court, sentenced him to be hanged Feb. 10. The trial lasted eight days, the jury deliberated five hours.

The evidence against Comba was circumstantial, having largely to do with the Crown's contention he was near the scene of the crime.

Child Falls 24 Feet

TORONTO, June 23 (AP).—A six-year-old child, Norman McLean, is in a critical condition in the Hospital for Sick Children as the result of a 24-foot fall last night.

The child was apparently playing on a roof when he fell off, landing on a truck loaded with steel bars. The child was found with his head between some of the bars.

Boy Suffers Two Broken Legs

LAKEFIELD, June 23 (Special) — Struck down by a car when he darted across the main street of Lakefield, 7-year-old Bernie Hutt was seriously injured early this afternoon. The boy appeared to have both legs fractured above the knees, a preliminary examination revealed, and he was suffering from head injuries. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough by his physician, Dr. H. E. Moore.

The boy was playing on Lakefield's main street, and suddenly darted across the road from behind a parked car, not noticing the approach of an automobile driven by a tourist from the United States. Another boy, Almond Soles, said the car was travelling slowly at the time and that it stopped within its own length after striking the boy and knocking him down. The car did not run over Bernie, he said. One headlight of the car was smashed.

Lakefield's Assessment Plea Turned Down By Committee

Lakefield's petition for a reduction in its equalized assessment, on which county rates are levied, was rejected by the equalization committee of the county council Wednesday afternoon on a motion by Reeve Milby of North Monaghan, seconded by Reeve Anderson of Otonabee.

Affirming that the village had lost $264,501 in its local assessment since 1936, when county property was valued by a special board with Judge S. L. Smoke presiding. Reeve C. S. Tanner asked for a cut of $200,000 and when he saw the tide going against him he suggested a compromise decrease of $100,000. Norwood, Havelock and Smith township are next in line for decision on their appeals for a lowering of their equalized assessments.

It was generally recognized by the council that Lakefield has suffered a serious loss by the closing of the Canada Cement Company's plant, a loss in employment with consequent results throughout the village that seem to be clinched by the sale of the power house to the Hydro-Electric Commission, but on the specific claims presented to the council Reeve Anderson argued that the village had actually made a gain in the amount of taxable assessment.

Says Village Gains

Reeve Anderson found in the report of the valuators a special reference to Lakefield, a statement which apparently none of the members of the council had seen prior to yesterday. From his enquiry Mr. Anderson said the Cement Company

Four Spy Suspects Confess Chief Investigator Claims

NEW YORK, June 23 —(AP)— Leon G. Turrou, who was the United States Government's chief investigator in the German espionage inquiry until he resigned recently, today declared he had "signed confessions" from the four spy suspects now in custody.

"They are self-confessed spies and they have already involved many others," he said. The four defendants pleaded not guilty to espionage charges yesterday.

Turrou issued his statement before a hearing started on an order to restrain the New York Post from publishing a series of articles written by him. The articles were advertised as the "authentic inside story behind the United States Grand Jury indictments of 14 German officials."

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy obtained the order yesterday, on the eve of the scheduled publication of the first of the articles, requiring the Post to show cause why it should not be restrained from printing them.

Hamper Investigation.

Hardy contended publication of the series at this time would hamper the progress of the investigation, which is still under way.

"I never intended in any way to interfere with the administration of justice but merely to reveal the sinister forces behind this spy ring, which will not be revealed at any trial," Turrou said.

J. David Stern, publisher, declared the government, by endeavoring to enjoin his paper from "printing the news," was making "an unprecedented attempt to erase freedom of the press from the constitution."

The four held here are: Johanna Hofmann, who was a hairdresser on the North German Lloyd Liner Europa until her arrest last February; Guenther Gustave Rumrich, former United States army sergeant; Private Erich Glaser, of the Uniter States army air corps, and Otto Herrmann Voss, expert airplane mechanic.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, June 23.

SEARCHERS tonight dropped food and water from an airplane near the boat in which Leo Gonzales and Frank Prada of Port of Spain have been drifting since Monday.

The pilot of the machine said the sea was too rough for him to land, but the men retrieved the bundles he dropped. Both appeared feeble and exhausted. Their boat was about sixty miles off the coast.

South China Offensive Is Under Way

Japanese Airplanes Twice Bombed Swatow, Treaty Port

SHANGHAI, June 23 — (CP). — Japanese planes twice bombed Swatow, Kwangtung province treaty port 220 miles northeast of Canton, today while 10 warships stood by after landing several Hundred marines on the nearby island of Namoa under cover of a barrage.

The attack lead to the belief that the long-awaited south China offensive to cut Canton off from the central battlefront was underway.

Occupation of Namoa was completed by nightfall yesterday though Chinese troops resisted, reports here said.

The British Destroyer, H. M. S. Duchess was en route to Swatow from Hong Kong as a precautionary measure. Swatow, situated on a promontory of the Han River, is the centre of a large foreign trade, especially for rice, sugar, camphor and embroidery.

Gunboats form the Japanese armada of 90 ships made their way up the muddy river almost within gun range of the Matowchen booms built across the river and fortified by Chinese to prevent a naval attack on Hankow.

River is Mined.

Chinese were said to have mined the river liberally above the boom, especially at the entrance of Poyang Lake at Hukow to prevent a naval expedition against Nanchang, great Chinese air base.

To meet the new thrust General Chiang Kai-Shek relied upon the Yellow River temporarily to protect his left flank while he concentrated 1,200 tanks, nearly 700 new artillery pieces and large numbers of planes, newly arrived from Soviet Russia and other foreign countries.

At Canton it was said the training of 800,000 new Szechwan troops was completed.

(In Tokyo a foreign office spokesman described as "utterly groundless" a report published in Tokyo newspapers that the Foreign Minister, General Kazushige Ugake, was considering a formal declaration of war.)

Driver Jumps As Car Hit By Train

SUDBURY, Ont., June 23—(CP). —William Martin of Copper Cliff jumped from his car at a railway crossing west of here last night just in time to see the car swept away by an on-rushing Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train. Martin was uninjured.

As Martin approached the crossing, the stearing gear of his car locked. Fearful of the roadway onto the railway tracks, he stopped his car on the crossink. When he saw the train rushing at him, he leaped from his car with time enough only to clear the right of way before the crash. The car was badly damaged.

Out 'Tin-Canning'

VANCOUVER, June 23—(CP). — Unemployed men today ignored warnings by Mayor G. C. Miller and Chief Constable W. W. Foster and scattered over the city with tin cans and banners asking for contributions.

Police headquarters said constables were being sent out to arrest the men.

Toronto, June 23

POLICE reported Arthur Feeney aged one choked to death today after swallowing a rubber nipple. The baby was sleeping in a room with his father nearby. During a coughing fit, the baby swallowed the nipple which was being used as a comforter.

A doctor removed the nipple but an inhalator failed to revive the child. Coroner Dr. F. W. Ticket investigated.

Fanned By Gale Fire Burns Quebec Village

ST. LUC, Que., June 23—(CP). — Whipped to fury by a whistling southwest gale, fire practically wiped out this little Matane County village Wednesday.

All but a handful of St. Luc's population of 250 were left without homes after a blaze, which broke out in the village's parish hall and roared northward, destroyed every building in its path. Only a half-dozen small frame houses, the village church and its presbytery remained when the fire burned out after raging for six hours.

Most of St. Luc's farmers were at work in their fields when fire of undetermined origin broke through the roof of the two-storey parish hall. An alarm brought all St. Luc's residents into the village for fire-fighting duty, but their bucket brigades were helpless as the flames leaped from one rooftop to another until 23 homes, three stores and two restaurants were blazing. All were reduced to cinders.

Water Pumped From Wells.

The village was without waterworks, and water could be pumped only slowly from private wells. The district had been without rain for several days, and a stream at the south end of St. Luc was nearly dry.

Church, presbytery and the few homes which were untouched escaped only because of their southern position, with the wind blowing the fire away toward the other end of the village.

No lives were lost in the fire. Womenfolk of the village herded their children and carried what possessions they were able to save out of danger as the flames worked their way through St. Luc.

Most of St. Luc's residents planned to march last night to the Town of Matane, six miles away, to get shelter until they make new homes.

Child Is Drowned While At Picnic

SCARBORO', June 23 (Special).—Wandering away from a group of picnickers whom she had accompanied to the Rouge Valley Wednesday afternoon, five-year-old Patricia Edgerton, 211 Bolton Avenue, Toronto, drowned in the Rouge River near the Lansing cut-off road. When her absence was discovered, members of the party set out to search for her and saw her body floating in the river at a shallow spot.

Wading into the water, they brought the tot ashore and took her to the Glen Eagles Manor, where two guests, Miss Dorothy Hubbard and Miss Olive Massey, worked on her for some time in an effort to restore life. In the meantime, a telephone request brought an inhalator from the Consumers' Gas Company, Toronto, but after almost two hours' application, life was pronounced extinct by Dr. R. M. Rogers, West Hill.

Early Vote Is Hoped For In Budget Debate

OTTAWA, June 23. — (CP)— Through sweltering heat that took its toll when Finance Minister Dunning was taken to his home after collapsing in the lobby of the chamber, the budget debate continues in the House of Commons with hope of an early vote, probably tomorrow.

Features of yesterday's debate included an appeal from Dr. W. J. Veniot (Lib. Gloucester) for reorganization of the Fisheries Department, castigation of the textile industry by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader ,and a charge from A. J. Lapointe (Lib. Matapedia-Matane) that French-Canadians were not being given suitable recognition in appointments to high offices of the Canadian National Railway.

Mr. Dunning suffered a slight heart attack during the afternoon debate and after receiving medical attention was taken to his home. Few members of the House knew what had happened for some time. Mr. Dunning may be absent from his duties several days and the task of closing the budget debate may have to be taken on by Prime Minister Mackenzie King or some other members of the government.

Repeats Charge

Mr. Woodsworth repeated his charge that the evidence gleaned by the Turgeon report on textiles indicated a group of "high class crooks" had been defrauding the federal treasury and no action taken against them.

He compared treatment of the textile companies who had rendered false tax returns with that accorded Vancouver unemployed who had been handled with "gas and clubs" for the crime of trespassing on public property.

Want Statement

Before prorogation of parliament it was the responsibility and duty of the government, Mr. Woodsworth declared, to say what action would be taken against textile company tax evaders who were making enormous profits while paying pityfully small wages" to their workers.

Revenue Minister Ilsley said action had been taken to recover taxes allegedly owing to the government by the textile companies but the action was civil and not criminal which would be inappropriate under the circumstances.

Mr. Woodsworth thought making a false entry was criminal but the minister said the alleged short payments arose from undervaluation of inventories. Action was underway against eight companies.

Halifax Man Is Head Of Doctors

HALIFAX, June 23—(CP).—Dr. T. H. Leggett of Ottawa exchanged his Presidential chain and insignia for a Past President's badge as Dr. K. A. MacKenzie of Halifax was installed as head of the Canadian Medical Association at a colorful ceremony last night.

In a brief address Dr. MacKenzie asked for the "active support of lay organizations who are beneficiaries in this great trust" of the medical profession.

Officers of the association wore academic caps and gowns and decorations at the installation ceremony. Sir Humphrey Rolleston of Surrey, England, physician to the late King George V., was presented with an honorary membership in the association. Earlier in the day the English physician gave the Osler oration, honoring Sir William Osler, Canadian-born physician-author, who became Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford.

The F. N. G. Starr medal for extraordinary service in the field of medicine was presented to Dr. John S. McEachern of Calgary. Dr. McEachern was honored for his efforts toward federation of the National Association with provincial medical organizations and for his promotion of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer.

Problems Are Economic

TORONTO, June 23 — (CP). — Hon. H. H. Stevens, Leader of the Reconstruction Party and member for Kootenay East, told a Toronto service club to-day he was glad to see Ontario and Quebec working together after years of estrangement.

Canada's constitutional problem had "degenerated into a hopelessly involved legal wrangle over interpretation of certain clauses of the British North America Act," Mr. Stevens said.

"Our problems are not so much legal and constitutional as social and economic," he declared.

All Nazi Germany Is Thunderstruck When Unser Maxe Goes Down For Count

Berlin, June 23. (AP).

ALL Germany, clustered about it's short-wave raido sets in the early morning hours, was thunderstruck and almost unbelieving at the unexpected news "Unser Maxe" Schmeling failed in his heavyweight comeback try, and failed by the knockout route.

Their high hopes of hearing black-browed Schmeling had fought his way back to the heavyweight championship were dashed so suddenly that gay radio parties and cafe gatherings were quickly dampened.

Heavy-lidded Germans, who had stayed up till 3 a.m. for the shortwave broadcast only to hear a 2:04-minute fight end with dramatic despatch, climbed into bed a saddened lot at Joe Louis's victory.

All over the Reich they had clustered in homes, restaurants and cafes to hear the fight they hoped would bring the world's championship to Germany.

It was said Chancellor Hitler, at his Bavarian mountain retreat, was among those who heard the disheartening news.

St. Paul's Church Hold Annual Picnic

A joint congregational and Sunday school outing at Fee's Landing was one of the most successful picnics in the history of St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon. More than 500 children and adults were on hand.

Leaving Peterborough by bus about 1.30 in the afternoon, the picnickers travelled to Fee's Landing and held an entire afternoon and evening of outdoor games. Hundreds went swimming to escape the intense heat and all the children were given rides in boats. A diving exhibition by a crack swimming class from the Y.W.C.A., under direction of Miss Caroline Littlefield, was a feature of the day.

Foot races were run by children from the age of four to youths in senior 'teen ages. The baseball games were played, by chosen teams and composed of both boys and girls. The intermediate and senior departments of the Sunday school chose two teams and that captained by Bill Ferguson won 7-6. Captain of the losers was Margaret Parker. The Men's Association trounced the combined team of the Session and Board with a score of 14-8. The Junior Department chose sides and played to a 9-all tie. They will continue the battle next year, they said.

A basket picnic was supervised by the Ladies' Aid of the church and the picnickers returned to Peterborough about 9 in the evening. The entire picnic was under the direction of the Men's Association of the church, with Dr. J. C. Craig as chairman. Charles M. Lawrence, general superintendent of the Sunday school, was in charge of the arrangements.

House of Commons. "After reading the paper last night, I felt we should do something to strengthen Mr. Duffus' hands. Farmers simply can't pay 5½ per cent. interest. Four per cent. should be the limit. Ontario farmers have not been receiving relief, but they have been helped a lot by loans that have kept them from being turned out long ago."

His resolution was seconded by Reeve Milby.

"I think we ought to thank Mr. Duffus for his action in getting so promptly the soil survey in Peterborough County," Reeve Anderson added.

On the advice of E. A. Peck, K.C., county solicitor, a deputation from Dummer Council, George Parsons, Earl Ivey, and Stewart Clysdale, was told that when the county buys the township property for reforestation, it shall be exempt from taxation. The agreement with the Provincial Government for the acquiring of this area of Crown lands has not been sealed, but it is expected that an authorizing by-law will be passed before the week's sessions end.

QUEBEC, June 23 (C.P.). — A demand for more rigid divorce laws was left with the Dominion Government to-day by the Catholic Women's League of Canada as it disbanded after its 18th national convention.

Protesting "vehemently" against any move to made divorce legislation "any less stringent," the League at its concluding session yesterday adopted a resolution urging upon Justice Minister Lapointe the contention that freedom to remarry after divorce should be made "even more difficult" than now.

Punishment for adultery should remain in the Criminal Code, too, the C.W.L. held. It decried the action of the New Brunswick Barristers' Association in asking adultery be removed from the Code insofar as that province was concerned.

The League's drive for clean literature was contained in a resolution deploring the sale of "demoralizing publications in Canada." It called also for the presentation of authentic news stripped of anything that might serve as anti-religious propaganda.

As the League ended its meeting, it elected Mrs. T. H. Hay of Regina as president for the coming year. The new president, first vice-president last year, succeeded Miss Florence Boland of Toronto.

public testimony that Canadian Catholics have the apostolic faith of Peter and believe that the living Christ is really, truly and substantially present in this stupendous mystery of faith," he said.

The Toronto prelate, in his robes of red satin, expressed hope 'our legislators and public executives may be guided by Christ's principles."

"His royal dignity demands that society conform to the dictates of his commandments and the principles of Christian life. Principles that should no more be excluded from the conventions of labor unions and the deliberations of economics or the councils of parliaments than from the sacred synods of the church," the archbishop said.

Mgr. McGuiggan said all the chaos of the social, economic and industrial relations of today ultimately was due to man's forgetfulness of Christ or his wilful disregard or denial of his kingship over him in his relations with his fellowman.

A sermon in French delivering the same message was prepared by Mgr. Georges Gauthier, Archbishop Coadjutor of Montreal.

Capture Two Men After Firing Shots

TORONTO, June 23.—(CP).—A chase through the east end of Toronto ended early today in suburban Scarborough with the arrest of two men and the escape of two others on foot, despite warning shots fired overhead by police.

Police set out after a truck carrying away a weighing machine stolen from a drug store. Finally Harold Lacombe and Ross Winn were arrested sitting in the truck at the roadside.

Two other men trying to break open the weighing machine in a nearby bush, according to police, fled through neighboring sandpits as police approached with flashlights. Police fired into the air as a warning to stop but the men got away.

Theft of the machine was the fourth crime in seven hours on Kingston Road last night.

Barbara Splits With Husband Child In Dispute

LONDON, June 23 (A.P.). — A source authorized to speak for the former Barbara Hutton said to-day she had obtained a court order for possible restraining steps against her husband, the 42-year-old Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, to safeguard herself and their child.

The Danish nobleman was in Paris and there were conflicting reports as to whether he would come to London to-day, possibly to shed some light on the mysterious kidnapping and estrangement reports affecting his family.

The action of the heiress to the Woolworth fortune was understood to be based on a dispute with Count Haugwitz-Reventlow over custody of their two-year-old son, Lance, who it has been estimated would inherit $20,000,000 from his mother.

Gave Rise in Kidnap Threats.

A spokesman for the Countess said her husband's "recent behavior" caused her to take legal steps for protection. The Countess went to court after adopting unusual safeguarding measures at her house in Regent's Park. The precautions gave rise to reports of threats to kidnap the boy.

The Countess was reported to be planning to make application to have the boy made a ward in Chancery, which would require that he be kept in the jurisdiction of the Court.

The London Daily Mail quoted the Count as saying in an interview in Paris that British police wanted to question him in connection with his wife's precautions. The paper also quoted the Danish nobleman to the effect that "sharp differences" had arisen between himself and the Countess over the future education of their son.

But subsequently the paper published a report from its Paris correspondent that Count Haugwitz-Reventlow denied reports of the differences between himself and his wife.

Mrs. Mellow favored with instrumental music during tea, and at the close a very short program was presented, consisting of a solo by Miss Lena Gordon, guitar and vocal duet by Misses Evelyn Brisbin and Bernice McKinley, a reading by Mrs. Herbert Blezzard, and a solo by Miss Irene Smith from Coldsprings, closing with all singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

THE BUILDING UP OF BOBBY

HE WAS SO LITTLE AND THIN EVERYBODY PICKED ON HIM...

"My boy gained 4½ pounds in 2 weeks"... Writes Mrs. H. C. Konradt

"My little boy has always been underweight and never had any color. Now he has gained 4½ pounds in the 2 weeks that he has used Ovaltine."

This excerpt from a letter written by Mrs. Konradt covers, of course, only one individual case. And we do not claim or guarantee that similar results will occur in every case when Ovaltine is used. But this letter is so typical of thousands we have received that we feel a thorough trial of Ovaltine is justified by every intelligent mother in similar cases of underweight.

Another mother writes:—"My daughter weighed only 51 pounds. Hearing so much about Ovaltine, I decided to get some for her. Now in a little over 3 weeks, she has gained 7 pounds."

Ovaltine is a delicious pure food concentrate approved by thousands of physicians . . . It is also widely used as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged—and for sleeplessness when taken as a drink at bedtime.

For the sake of your child, try Ovaltine. You simply give it mixed with milk (either hot or cold) and children love its delicious taste. Get a large-size tin at your drug or grocery store today! And accept free offer at right.

Why Should Brantford Pay?

Brantford city council has asked the Ontario government to pay the costs of the provincial by-election to be held in that city to fill the vacancy caused by the death of M. M. MacBride, because no provision had been made in the civic estimates for such an expenditure. It seems rather strange that municipalities should have to make such a request but the fact is that for some reason or other, the provincial authorities have always loaded the cost of preparing election lists upon the municipalities. Peterborough's share of the cost of last year's provincial election was $1,559.77 and there does not seem to be any logical reason why the taxpayers of this city should should have been called upon to piy even the 77 cents for a matter that was purely of provincial concern.

The municipalities, in fact, are required to go to the trouble and expense of preparing ever year a list of those citizens who are entitled to vote only in elections for the provincial assembly, known as Part 3 of the voters' lists and this procedure seems to be a sheer waste of time and money inasmuch as when the provincial elections are held new lists are prepared anyway.

Getting out voters' lists for provincial purposes is entirely a provincial concern and it should be paid for by the province. Everybody seems to recognize that fact except the provincial government.

He Was Called Away

Rev. Dr. Donald MacOdrum did not live long to enjoy participation in the affairs of the high office to which he was called when named Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. We believe any minister would appreciate such honor, it being the highest post in the gift of the Presbyterian church. There are few men who possessed such a world outlook as the late Dr. MacOdrum, and he had secured that not by reading or study but largely by personal visitation and active experience. It seems that almost from the moment when he became Moderator he had started planning the work he intended to do and his plans included nothing at all which could be regarded as an easy tenure of office.

It is interesting to note that the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is granted high place in the Table of Precedence which governs state functions in Canada. Subject to the revision of the table in 1923 the Governor-General is our first citizen, followed by the Lieutenant-Governors of the nine provinces. Then comes the Prime Minister of Canada. Archbishops and Bishops come next in order of seniority, then the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, linked with the head of the Unitd Church and Baptist Church.

So the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church is given a higher standing than members of the Dominion cabinet or premiers of the provinces. We merely mention this distinction as indicating the rank of the office to which Dr. MacOdrum had been elevated. It would not in the least have affected his outlook or interfered with the sincerity of the desire with which he would have entered the new field so widely opened to him. He was like a man who opened the door of a new house but in the wisdom of the Almighty was not permitted to enter and make his habitation.

Buying Union Goods

Members of the Bread Drivers' Union in Toronto announced they intended to make house-to-house calls asking people to purchase bread made by union bakers. A Toronto paper did a little investigating on its own account and asked ten housewives if they preferred to have bread made by union men. There were three who agreed the idea appealed to them.

That question is rather closely related to the one dealing with the demand on the part of union men for union-label goods. We recall having been handed an assignment a good many years ago which made it necessary to spend half a day calling on dealers in cigars, boots, hats, clothing and overalls for the purpose of finding out if union men when doing their buying insisted on having goods with the union label attached. Trades unionism was running fairly strong at the time and the information secured was regarded as important.

The result of all those inquiries, and they were carefully made with nothing taken for granted, was that dealers said they were not often asked for goods with the union label attached. There was more demand for union made cigars than any other article; the next in order was for union-made overalls, but after that the demand fell off sharply.

Dealers said the price had more to do with most of the sales than anything else, and they admitted they would not lose trade to any extent if they did not stock union-made goods. Before the information was published the results were submitted to the president of the Trades and Labor Council in that city and to two presidents of local unions, and they were quite frank in stating they believed what the retailers had reported was quite correct. They admitted too it was one of the weaknesses of their movement that members who were working under union conditions and earning fair wages were content to do their shopping in the lowest priced field where goods had been made under non-union conditions.

Dealing With Skunks

We read in the Sault Ste. Marie Star that the Women's Institute of Dayton-in-Algoma has offered a price of 25 cents for each skunk skin delivered to the secretary. The Star explains that the ladies have nothing at all against skunks in general, but within recent times the skunks have been visiting the chicken yards and carrying away numbers of birds which are never returned. Three or four in a night seems to be the accepted standard for such a raid. The Sault paper believes the secretary of the institute who has to count the pelts delivered is entitled to a certain degree of sympathy and hastens to extend it.

And that is as far as the Sault Star is inclined to go. Jim Curran, the publisher of the Star, at one time published a book of rules telling how to deal with skunks. He held that beating on a tin pan with a stick had a soothing effect upon the skunk and also that a few kind words would often prove the best sort of technique. Never at any time did he advocate violence when attacking a skunk as his years of experience in dealing with these animals had convinced that no one had ever been able to hit a skunk quick enough. We suggest the publisher of the Star might at least have sent one of his books to the distressed ladies at Dayton.

Calling Too Often

A transient was in a Peterborough store the other day making a few purchases, included in which were a loaf of bread and a pound or so of bacon. He paid for them but complained it was getting harder than it was a couple of years ago. The merchant who told of the incident said the man would not be over 30 years of age and appeared to be physically fit and of good size.

The complaint of this transient was that people were getting tired of their repeated calls. There were certain ones in each community where he had been calling for several years, but in recent times there were a number of these people who had told him they thought it was time he was making an effort to shift for himself; one man informed him he did not believe it was necessary for any person to be out of work for all time to come, and at another place he had been told if he did nothing except go and look for hand-outs he never would find work. So he felt life was getting tough.

The real problem is in helping the right people when it comes to dealing with transients. One man who is less than a block from this office informed us today he had a caller in the morning, and he gave him a quarter because he believed the man was hungry. He happened to look out of the window after he left and saw him join with two others and go down the street. In about half an hour there was another transient and he was recognized as one who had been waiting for the first one a short time before. He got nothing.

The man to whom we refer is generous to a fault and his hand is continually in his pocket, but he is closing down. His reason is this:

"I have had some of these chaps calling on me for six years. I felt that as long as I had anything to give then I should do what I could to help them. Some time ago I became suspicious when I purchased meal tickets and began giving them out. I found they were not received with the same feeling as when money was donated. Often enough the transient was not hungry at all otherwise he would have been glad enough to have been provided with a good meal. Some of them come in with a breath which they cannot conceal nor do they try. There have been plenty of days when three of them have landed in and I have come to the conclusion that I am regarded as a sure thing and for that reason I am definitely closing down."

We regard that man's experience as worth printing because he is talking about something which he has experienced and paid for. He is convinced the average man on the road never seriously looks for work.

A Farmer Protests

The Examiner has received the following communication, and it was intended for publication because printed in large letters were the instructions: "Print This in Your Paper."

"Now and then I read in the papers where a magistrate has asked some man in court 'Why don't you go out and work on a farm?' In a good many cases from what I can make out the man in court has been arrested for being drunk or on a charge of being a vagrant.

Sometimes it turns out that the man is allowed off on the understanding that he will get out of town. Often enough it is to such people that the advice or question is put 'Why don't you got out and work on a farm?'

My experience is that there would not be one of these fellows in an assortment of fifty who would be worth his salt on a farm. For the most part they haven't been working. They have been riding all over the country mostly on freight trains, making their living as best they can by asking people for it, drinking when they get a chance, and it all means when put together they are not in good physical condition and yet they keep on asking these people why they don't go out and work on a farm.

If you'll stop a moment and do a little thinking you may see why a farmer does not want that kind of help around his place at all. Few of them, if any at all, ever had any farm experience, and a man who has never been on a farm is not much use apart from a few jobs in harvesting. The day to day work he has to be taught, and he has to be willing to get up early in the morning and attend to business for rather long hours. The man who has been bumming around the country for several years can't fit in with that kind of work and we haven't time to teach him as we know he is not likely to stay.

Now there's something more and it is important. In our farm life when we take on a man to work we have to take him into our home; we have to provide a room for him and he eats along with the rest of us and in a general way has pretty much the freedom of the house. I think that is something we are entitled to consider when they tell us to take men on the farm. We have a right to know that they will work and we have a right to know they are all right in their habits and outlook. That's about all I have to say on the subject and I wish you'd fix this up a little and put it in your paper because I know a good many people out in the country who are getting weary of people advising others to go and work on a farm. You'd think any person was good enough for farm work. Well that's not the case."

There were very few alterations made in that letter. The farmer who wrote it had a case to state and he went at it directly, and we are inclined to agree that his argument is well founded.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The heat wave and the first day of summer arrived together and we imagine that could be described as a sample of good staff work.

Prince Edward county has its lowest tax rate since 1914. Apparently then it is possible for municipalities to lower their levies.

The Dionne quintuplets have finished their third screen picture and if Dr. Dafoe is not careful the famous five will be becoming camera conscious.

Canadian Fascists announce they will hold their national convention in Kingston after all. It seems the officers prefer a quiet place as the scene of their deliberations.

If the duty of a Budget-maker is to prepare one that will have the least upsetting influence. Mr. Dunning has achieved a masterpiece. His budget is forgotten already, except in the House.

It is only, perhaps, what might be expected but the folk who are leading the chorus of complaint about the heat are the same people who only a few days ago were kicking about the cold nights.

Driving instructor says it is easier to tell a girl than a boy how to properly manage a car. There is nothing strange about that when one recalls that a married woman will believe everything her husband tells her.

Peterborough Rotary club had a splendid time when they gathered at a farm home for a meeting, and they were shrewd enough to have their gathering a week or so ahead of the full blast of bringing in the hay.

Joseph Kennedy, U.S. ambassador to London, says he is not going to run for president of United States. As there are nine children in the Kennedy family the father may believe it best to wait until they all become of voting age and then his chances would be better.

T. B. Eberlee, M.A., of Vanleek Hill was selected as principal of Lindsay high school out of 72 applicants. The new principal can have the satisfaction of knowing he seemed the most desirable in so great a company, and the town itself can feel pleased that so many people desired to go to Lindsay.

The question now is whether the committee which probed Hydro should be paid $15 per day. There were 11 probers and they probed for 11 days and a little mathematical probing shows that means a bill of $1,815. If a motion is in order we suggest the bill be assessed at $1.81, that it be paid and charged to experience.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Wee Angus looks washed out today, between a shade of green and gray, but he'll come through all right; for he's improved yes quite a lot, he's not as bad as what he thought, when he got home last night.

¶ There were three picnics yesterday, and he and Dan went on their way, their vision was not small; they figured things out rather neat, how when it came on time to eat, why they'd attend them all.

¶ I thought when they were leaving home, they'd be attending just their own, but that plan was too thin; they knew folk at the other two, just hang around was what they'd do, and they would ask them in.

¶ Wee Angus was all fit to cry, he felt like how he'd likely die, his stomach had an ache; and all he did was twist and turn, and he felt hot enough to burn, for hours he stayed awake.

¶ He tried to list the things he ate, of stuff they heaped upon his plate, three picnics in a row; of cones and cake and lemonade, of sandwiches he grew afraid, his feet would hardly go.

¶ He didn't want a thing today, because he's looking green and gray, he seems filled up with woe; Wee Angus says 'twas a mistake, for him and Dan to try and take—three picnics in a row.

Our Statesmen At Their Tasks

(From Parliamentary Debates)

COME AND READ

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Would my hon. friend guarantee that to be correct?

Mr. BLACKMORE: Would the hon. member like to come across and read the book, or shall I send it over to him by a page?

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Would my hon. friend say that it is correct and that it has been tried elsewhere?

Mr. BLACKMORE: I assume the hon. member knows how to read. He can come across and see the book.

STICK TO THE POINT

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. I would point out to the hon. member that we are discussing a motion having reference to the situation in Vancouver, which has arisen as a result of the eviction of men from the post office. I must ask the hon. member as far as possible to confine himself to the subject matter of the motion under discussion.

Mr. BLACKMORE: I thank you, Mr. Speaker. I conceive we shall never solve a problem of this kind until we have money and with that in mind I was discussing money. I believe the solution lies right there. For the benefit of the Minister of Fanance I shall quote a passage by the Professor of Economics of the university of Chicago.

Mr. SPEAKER: I must point out to the hon. member that there will be other opportunities to discuss questions of finance. I suggest that at the present time the hon. member should confine his remarks to the question before the house, namely a motion with respect to the situation in Vancouver which has arisen as a result of the eviction of men from public buildings in that city.

CAN'T DO THAT

Mr. DUNNING: May I respectfully call the attention of the chair to the fact that the hon. member is now entering upon the budget debate. He is now quoting from my budget speech. Under the rules of the house that speech woud come before the house in the budget, and I submit the hon. member cannot anticipate that debate on this discussion.

The CHAIRMAN: In my opinion the point of order is well taken.

Mr. LANDERYOU: Then I shall not read it. I simply wished to refer to the statement of monetary policy, and the reference made by the minister to monetary reform in general.

Mr. DUNNING: There will be plenty of opportunity in the debate on the budget.

Mr. BENNETT: So far as the point of order is concerned, there is no reason why he should not read it at this time.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

Mr. STEVENS: If the minister will now permit a question, where would a single, destitute, unemployed non-resident in Vancouver secure a meal to-day?

Mr. ROGERS: Well, I should like to point out that when the original offer was made to the non-residents by Mr. Pearson, it was made clear to them that they would be provided not only with transportation to the point of origin but also with meals until they reached their destination. There was nothing to prevent these non-residents from accepting this offer of transportation. As a matter of fact, according to our figures, the number of non-residents has been reduced from about 1,500 to somewhere in the neighborhood of 100.

Mr. BENNETT: Might I ask whether or not any provision has been made for food and shelter for these men to-day and tonight?

Mr. ROGERS: An that point I understand that some special provision was made for them following what took place yesterday morning. I have no definite advice as to what has been done subsequently.

Mr. BENNETT: The minister has no advice on that?

Mr. ROGERS: I have no advice at the present time.

EMPTY FORDS

Mr. DUNNING: Hear, hear.

Mr. McGEER: I am glad to hear the leader of the opposition say "Hear, hear."

Mr. BENNETT: I did not say that. It was said by the Minister of Finance. He is somewhat more Tory than I, so I think it is quite all right.

Mr. McGEER: I am free to confess that for a little time that was so. And I never dreamed it would be my misfortune to sit in a Canadian House of Commons and see the leader of the opposition, a Conservative, more Liberal than some of the Liberals who were sitting on the treasury benches.

Mr. DUNNING: You haven't yet.

Mr. McGEER: But this action on the part of the minister leads me to believe that he is beginning to see the light, and that democracy, if it is to rule, must be superior to the private money system.

Mr. DUNNING: I always said so. The hon. member could not quote a word of mine to the contrary effect said anywhere at any time.

Mr. McGEER: What I want to say to the Minister of Finance is this, that the other day when I heard him deal with monetary reform I was wondering if he had in mind some of the statements made by the present Prime Minister, the head of the Liberal party, in the house in 1933 and 1934.

CHECKS ON HER ALIENS

(Niagara Falls Review)

THE SPECIAL branch of Scotland Yard is checking on aliens in Great Britain and the magnitude of the task is seen in the estimate there are 200,000 of them. Always has Britain been regarded as a sanctuary for aliens, particularly political refugees, but the thing can be carried too far; particularly if some of the aliens show themselves ungrateful for the privilege. Each will be questioned and checked and presumably all will have to show where and how they live, particularly if they are suspected of being spies.

• Something Wrong With This Scribe

(By J. V. McAree in Globe and Mail)

THERE ARE two schools of thought on our knee-not dandling, debating. One contends that we ought to make a statement to allay public unrest; the other, speaking less elegantly, that we should keep our trap shut. It occurs to us that a compromise would be satisfactory, and now we issue a brief communique, to be followed, if necessary, by a more detailed analysis of the situation. At present it is promising, but not very, although we are full of hope, as is our happy nature. The truth is that we are doubly afflicted and partly hamstrung. We have a knee which was twisted at handball, and just when that seemed to be improving we were crippled by a wart on the sole of a foot. If it had happened that the knee was on the same side as the wart we might be comparatively a sound man today, but in deferring to the wart on our right foot we put unnatural strain on the knee of our left leg, and for some time it was a question which of them would lay us low and turn us into what is somewhat wistfully called a shut-in.

FOR A YEAR now, off and on, we have been hobbling about, and our opinion of medical science could easily be a good deal higher without being at all flattering. So far as we are concerned, it is on our last leg, and if it doesn't meet the challenge more successfully than it has done it will hear from us something to its disadvantage. While we know that every one is prone to think that whatever ails him is the most painful and disabling thing that possibly could afflict anybody, there is no question that a visible disability has its peculiar exasperations. If a man is troubled with a duodenal ulcer it is a matter between him and his doctor. People will not stop him on the street to ask what is the matter with him. Particularly, they will not ask him how are his gallstones today, sir. But if a man has to limp or hobble he cannot escape public notice, and we have become weary of replying to such various questions as how are our corns how are our ankles, and do we feel any better. We are tired of saying that, while the wart seems no worse, the knee seems no better, for we are conscious that the questions generally are hypocritical, and that few people really care and are profoundly interested. So our replies are inclined to be a trifle curt, thus causing the tender-hearted to turn away sighing: "Poor fellow, he must be suffering the torments of the damned."

WE ARE NOT, though we feel we are pretty brave about it. We are chiefly suffering from public attention. It has been made plain to us that the tendency to regard a wart as something trifling, if not indeed comical, is almost universal. So in the popular inability to make any distinction between warts and corns. One whose vitality is considerably reduced by wartishness is sensitive on this point and when asked about his corns is likely to become profane or pointedly silent. More than once we have suffered from hoarseness trying to explain just what is the matter with us, and that it is not the responsibility of the surgeon who relieved us of a wart, plus a much more serious radium burn last October. We have had to explain not once, but a dozen times, that we have tried saliva, iodine, osteopthy, bandages, massage, short-wave treatments and some good reliable charms. What on your corns? No, not on our corns. On our warts and our twisted knee. Oh, I didn't know you had a twisted knee. Well, we're trying to explain.

• World Needs Men Who Are Over 40.

ON THE EVE of his seventy-fifth birthday, Henry Ford prescribed a cure for the nation's ills. In a signed article in The Country Home Magazine, a national farm publication the Detroit industrialist states that the trouble today is that prices are too high and turnover far too small, which gives the money-making advantages to a few instead of to the many. Here's his prescription:

"Plant more acres and work the land right up to the fence-rows. Get more products on the market. Cut prices. Get better machinery and cut production wastes. Forget all this bosh about machinery robbing men of their jobs. Good machinery creates jobs by the millions. Every new product that can find a market means more employment. The duty of industry is to pay the highest wage to the producer, and sell the product for the lowest price to the consumer."

In a series of random comments published under the title "If You Ask Me" Mr. Ford expresses his views on the state of the nation and the world in general. Some of his ideas are as follows:

"If a dictatorship comes here, it is because the people have been asleep on the job, and, therefore, deserve it. Of course, to have a dictator you must have two things: a man big enough to dictate and the people dumb enough to be dictated to. We don't grow either of these in the United States."

"A prosperous era is just ahead of us but this nation can't prosper unless and until our farms prosper. Farming is a basic trade—our first source of materials. Progress on the farm means progress off the farm as well."

"The day of livestock on American farms is bound to end. For all practical purposes the horse has already gone out, and the milk cow is going to vanish from the face of the earth. We can develop more efficient sources for the nourishment which we now get from milk and other dairy products. There are more economical sources, direct from our field crops. As for meat—that's not an efficient food either. You can get the same nourishment direct from grains and other field crops with less bother."

"Deprive the world of the brains of those above fifty and everything would come to a standstill. On farms or in factories we need a cross section of worker ages—boys and young men, middle-aged folks and old heads. That blends the energies of youth with practical experience."

"Tomorrow is going to prove a big improvement over today. There will be less drudgery and there should be less worry. I don't think any great number of huge fortunes will be possible. You can no longer write success in terms of dollars. But dollars never were the whole thing in any successful job. To make a useful idea work is the only success I know."—

RAY OF HOPE

(New York World-Telegram)

IN THE MIDST of feeling utterly woebegone at what the Nazis are doing to Vienna and the black pall they are spreading over the fondly remembered gemuethlichkeit, we were cheered to read about our visiting Viennese octogenarian, the Baroness Josefa von Dobrzenski-Dobrzenica.

The baroness is 82 and just arrived from a cruise around the world. Night after night, fellow passengers reported, she was still on the dance floor at 2 o'clock in the morning, chipper and gay, when they went off to bed. Her first inquiry here was for the hot spots and smart cafes.

"I love to dance," she said. "It keeps me young. I'm really not very old anyway."

That's the Vienna that used to be. With such people as the baroness claiming it as home, Vienna may rebound yet from the Nazi heel.

WHO CAN find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies. She considereth a field, and buyeth it: and with the fruit of her hands she planteth a vineyard. . . .

She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness. . . .

He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given...

GRATITUDE

(New York Times)

IT IS NOT SO common nowadays to hear people say that America has been good to them. That is the opinion expressed in a New Jersey will. The testator, dying at the age of 57, leaves his savings of approximately $16,000 to the United States Government. He was brought here from Italy as an infant, grew up to be a mechanic, never married, and felt that his money should stay in the country where he earned it rather than go to brothers and nephews in Italy.

Measured in dollars, there are a good many people in the country, native and immigrant, to whom America has been much kinder. The present legacy means perhaps $400 a year saved, which might be done without difficulty by an unmarried man on a small wage.

Please let no cynic suggest that this man left his money to the Government not because he liked the United States more but his relatives less.

Gun Contracts Separate House Informed

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP)—Contract made by the Canadian Government with the John Inglis Company of Toronto for the manufacture of Bren guns is entirely separate from the contract made with the same company by the British War Office, Defense Minister Mackenzie told the House of Commons Wednesday in reply to a question from J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Leader.

Mr. Woodsworth asked how the Minister reconciled a joint arrangement between the two Governments for the manufacture of the guns with his statement the Government knew nothing of British orders for war materials in Canada.

Mr. Mackenzie said the Canadian Government would save more than $1,000,000 as a result of the volume of production made possible by the British order, but the two contracts were negotiated separately. He promised to table the contract with the Inglis Company.

(Canada has placed an order of 7,000 Bren guns with the John Inglis Company and the British Government has ordered 5,000. Value of the Canadian order is about $5,250,000).

Mr. Mackenzie also informed Mr. Woodsworth that Major James Hahn was not appointed by the Canadian Government to go to England in 1937 and 1938 to make a survey of munitions production for the Government.

Mr. Woodsworth queried the Government yesterday concerning Major Hahn.

PETES SWAMP BOWMANVILLE IN JUNIOR LAKESHORE TILT

Gee Clark Twirls Neat Junior Ball Teammates Good

Pounding two pitchers hard here last night, the Young Petes waltzed home in front of Bowmanville with a soft 12-1 Lakeshore Junior Baseball League victory. A fair-sized crowd of fans at Riverside Park saw Herb. Ralph's homesters bash the ball hard in three of the seven frames to cop the nod in most decisive fashion. Bowmanville looked away off form.

Gee Clark twirled the Young Petes to victory with a seven-hit slab performance, fannig seven and walking none. He pitched himself out of two nice holes when Bowmanville threatened in the second and fourth. His support was almost perfect. Ed Hooper started for the visitors and fanned five in the first two frames. But he was nailed hard the next stanzas and gave way to Graham. The latter had plenty of trouble in the fifth when six runs scored. Their support was wobbly, six runs being unearned.

Leads Hitters.

Girard led the winners at bat with three hits in four tries, while Edmunds got a triple and single, and Kelly a two-bagger and single. Everyone hit but Berwick, Slemon, Witheridge, and Nichols had two hits each for the losers. Stanley twisted his knee in the fourth and had to retire. There were no real fielding features.

Young Petes got a cheap run in the first when McNabb walked, pilfered two bases, and scored on an error. They got three in the third on a walk, singles by Clark and Kelly and Edmunds' triple. Two more tallied in the fourth on singles by Girard, McNabb, and Stanley, plus a wild pitch and stolen sack. The locals ran wild in the fifth to score six markers off Graham after one was out. They did it on two errors, a walk, Kelly's double, and singles by Todd, Castle, Collins and Edmunds. The losers' lone run came in the fourth when Slemon singled, moved up on Witheridge's hit, took third on an infield out, and crossed the plate on a fly to right.

St. James Bantams Win In Ten Frames

St. James' Bantams, 1937 champions of the Church Softball League, last night entered the finals against All Saints' by virtue of a 25-16 win over George Street at Queen Mary School. Tied at 16-all at the end of the ninth, the Saints' piled in nine runs in overtime to cop the decision. Fine hurling by Leether in the late frames held down George Street as St. James' went on to win. Roode and Morrow were fielding stars, while Baldry, Roode, Powell and Greatrix led the hitters. The first of the finals will be Friday at Prince of Wales. The teams:

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THIS ISN'T AN air-conditioned column, but maybe a little hockey chatter will cool us off. We generally burst forth in the hot spell with a jab or two on the ice game, though it seldom helps very much. However, we got to thinking of the Peterborough Hockey Club the other day when we heard that Lindsay expected to ice a powerful junior team next winter and Pick Hines had been invited to coach the club. If the local puck officers let Hines get away and coach hockey in Lindsay instead of here, then they're more afflicted with astigmatism than we think—and we think plenty along that line! Pick was the best coach last winter this town has had in a decade, and he didn't get treated any too well by puck officials here. He was pretty sour on 'em at the final hockey meeting of the season, or just after it, and we wouldn't blame him too much for doing his stuff elsewhere next winter. But we hope not.

* * * * * * *

PICK HINES was induced to coach the Petes in O. H. A. senior "B" company last winter and the former Windsor and Toronto coach made a fine job of it. Took a fair team, had 'em winning from the start through their schedule, had 'em get a group title over 1937 champs and had 'em losing by but one goal to Niagara Falls in Ontario semi-finals. Had the fans fighting for tickets all winter and had a good share in providing the club with a huge bank balance at the end of the season. He got a cut all right, about half of what he should have received. Or less than half. While several other officers for some reason or other received nice gifts. We don't believe Manager Herb Payne of the intermediate Bees got a thing, either. Or some of the players who took part in the first senior "B" games, but were dropped later.

* * * * * * *

NO USE MINCING words—we don't think the Hockey Club executive last winter handled things any too well. Especially toward the end of the season. Lot of dissatisfaction over the Brennan case, and plenty of squaks about "gifts" given or not given those who did or did not earn them. Most of the players have yelled plenty and some are still sore. We hope a few changes are made in the executive and team next winter and we hope the powers that be in puckdom here use some discretion next time. Pass a little gratitude around to the guys who do the coaching and playing and don't overlook some. Slip the doctors who donate service gratis a gift, if the gates warrant it. And the St. John's Ambulance Corps. And others.

* * * * * * *

WE ARE FAR too cynical in sports to expect any show of gratitude for anything we do. So it is always a pleasant surprise when someone says thank ya. Not like at the final hockey meeting here—which we ducked, knowing it would be a prolonged sour session of bickering—when just one man got up and said we deserved some thanks for our publicity efforts. Three guys (we've boosted each of them a lot, too) responded along this manner: "Oh, that's his work; he's gotta do it." A typical case of short-sighted badgerdom. Any kid knows there are two types of publicity, the enthusiastic one and the "gotta" kind! But that doesn't bother us or keep us from still being enthusiastic about sports. The game is bigger than any man. However, we hope for an improvement in the executive handling of hockey here next winter. And we sure hope Pick Hines isn't lost to the Petes. Golly, we got writing hockey to get cool—and here we're burned up like a bride's first cake!

YOUNG PETES blasted the ears off two Bowmanville pitchers here last night in a Lakeshore Junior Baseball League tilt at Riverside. A fair crowd—but nothing to rave about—saw Herb Ralph's gang take a 12-1 smirk over the Rubbertown outfit in a fray as o e-sided as the score indicates. Bowmanville were decidedly off form, and the locals were clicking on all cylinders. Getting good pitching from Gee Clark, smart fielding from the whole crew and plenty of hard, timely hitting. With Edmunds, Kelly and Girard the main stickers. The latter did some neat pegging to second to nip foolish opponents bent on larceny. Stanley had his knee twisted in the fourth frame and had to be toted to the sidelines. Bowmanville pitchers looked good in spots, fanning quite a few, but were first cousins to the Y. P. boys other times. Yeah. Herb has a good gang of local juniors.

JOE LOUIS is no ge ntleman. Else he wouldn't have crossed Max Schmeling and us up with that terrific first-round bombardment. And all those pug fans who travelled miles, put up at expensive hotels and paid around 30 bucks a seat to see barely two minutes of fighting! It was an awful surprise, but the Detroit colored chap fooled 'em all and deserves plenty of praise. He's a real champ now. At that, we still firmly believe that, if Louis had sparred around carefully for a time, Max would have beaten him—having more ring brains over the route. But Joe outguessed him. A gee we know sat down in a tavern by a radio last eve at 10 o'clock to listen to the scrap. He ordered a quart but was barely started on it when the fight was over. "I should have ordered only a pint," he remarked ruefully! And now we wonder what sort of a welcome Hitler will have for Der Maxie, after a Negro knocking him kicking in one round.

SOME MIXUP occurred in the Girls' Softball League and now Lindsay is claiming a default over Keene. Manager Stephenson of Lindsay claims his team was to play Keene here Tuesday and the squad came down but there were no opponents. Says the loop prexy so advised him, that it'd be Tuesday. And a letter from the league secretary was received in Lindsay Wednesday a.m., stating the game would be here Friday. Mailed Monday eve apparently. "I've written the secretary asking for the game by default," Manager Stephenson said. "There will be no game Friday. I've asked for an executive meeting to decide this and until they decide there won't be a game." If Lindsay should beat Keene, either by default or on the field, there will be a three-way tie for second place. Looks to us from our perch on the lower limb of the slippery elm that the Supremes have a case for the courts. And yet can Keene be penalized if league ossifers muff one? So when is the next game now?

ONE FOR THE book took place in the Southend Softball Loop last eve when DeLaval lost to Quakers by a 24-23 score, though being 16 runs up going into th elast of the sixth. The Porridge Punchers pushed over 13 runs in the eighth and ninth spasms. Losers looked to be lilting through the number and took out their pitcher to save him, and then the T. N. T. went up. Three twirlers toiled for the victors. With the account of the weird affair last p.m., Secretary Jack Copping of the Southend League sent this note: "If you can make a writeup of this game you are a better man than I am. I have a headache from trying to keep the score straight and am going to join the DeLaval manager in an aspirin. P.S.: Also Max Schmeling." If there are any to spare, we'd like to join in also in this orgy d'aspirin!

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP).—Old Tex Ricard once remarked: "I never seed anything like it"...Neither had this chronicler...Joe Louis had Max Schmeling on the ropes, then on the deck almost before the German could holler "Ach himmel!"...Schmeling was doomed almost from the start... He didn't use a crouching attack as he did in the first bout and really gave Louis a shot at his kisser.

Tommy Farr bet $125 even money at the ringside that Louis would win by a knockout and collected in less than 10 minutes...If anyone in the Schmeling entourage visited Louis' dressing-room to congratulate him, this collum was scooped...Two years ago when Max upset all the dope, John Roxborough and Julian Black were the first to pay their respects...

Among the guys with red faces are several former heavyweight champions who picked Schmeling...Jim Braddock was the only one to hit the nail on the head...He first picked Joe in seven, then dropped to five and if the fight had been postponed a day, probably would have called the round.

Joe Jacobs got the works all around ...The commission wouldn't let him second Schmeling and the working press ticket Mike Jacobs gave him was in a corner far from Max's...In the dressing room, Joe stood without a word and let Max do the explaining...It was the beginning of the end for him, too.

Nor was the well-known Mr. Jimmy Johnston strutting as usual today...He said Louis "would quit again"...Ouch!...Louis collected in the neighborhood of $400,000 for less than three minutes' work...Max got around $200,000 which will go a long ways toward healing those bumps and aches.

Tigers Take Easy Win From Cubs

Tigers took a 22-6 Junior City Baseball League win over Cubs at the Exhibition Grounds last night. There were 11 Cubs fell by the strikeout route and 13 Tigers, while the losers were limited to seven hits as against 17. Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Owing to so many other outside tournaments and also to the fact that many stayed home to hear what they thought was going to be a good fight caused our entry in the local tourney to drop down to 18 entries. This is the smallest turnout we have had since this series started. Here are the results:

First—M. Fletcher and W. Cathcart, travelling bags.

Second—V. Tully and S. Trowbridge, verandah chairs.

Third—H. Renaud and D. Carlisle, alarm clocks.

Fourth—J. Sedgewick and H. Darling, comb and brush sets.

Over at Cannington in their men's rink tournament, their entry was also small, 18 rinks in all, and at that six of them were entered from here. We are at a loss to explain this as this town is very popular in lawn bowling circles and generally draws big crowds. Nevertheless it was an enjoyable event, and two local rinks were in the winners' circles. First—N. Routley, C. Williamson, E. Sackville, G. Gimhlett, skip—water sets. Third — H. Beatty, H. Girven, R. Burns, E. Wall, skip—bedspreads.

Twenty-four rinks from Toronto, Oshawa, Port Hope, Peterborough, Stirling, Campbeldford and Kingston took part in a lawn bowling tournament here last night. Winners and prizes were as follows:

For three wins: First, E. A. Hircock, Cobourg, 45 points and a plus of six. Second, J. Topping, Kingston, 44 points and a plus of 12. Third, J. McTague, Cobourg, 34 points and a plus of one.

For two wins: First, Percy Locke, Campbellford, 42 points and 3 plus.

For one win: First, Walter Wiggins, Campbellford, 35 points and 8 plus.

Those from the Campbellford Club entered in the Cobourg tournament were: Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wiggins, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Glover.

Campbellford Stars Lose To Seymour

CAMPBELLFORD, June 23. — A picked team from the Seymour Township League defeated the Campbellford "All Stars" 13-3 in a benefit softball fixture on Wednesday evening. It was the third softball game played to raise funds for Owen Hendy, who has been in the Belleville Hospital for nearly a month as a result of an infection which followed an injury to his hand in a game in Havelock early in the season.

Petes and Ponies First Place Fight

C.O.B.L. standing to date:

Team	P.	W.	L.
Petes	5	3	2
Kingston	6	2	4

Kingston Ponies are here Saturday to play the Petes at three o'clock in Riverside Park in a loop fixture. Undisputed possession of first place in the standing is at stake, a win for the locals putting them on top but a loss shoving them in behind Oshawa. Kingston needs the victory badly to pull up in the race in this hot campaign.

No definite announcement of the starting pitchers has been made yet. Ed Roller of the Ponies is liable to start, with Tony Paczkowski and Yammy Jamieson in reserve. The Petes have lefty McNally, Russ Kitchen and possibly Gunner Whitehill and Joe Jakafby ready. Likely one of the first two mentioned will get the call. Manager Eddie Murphy may be back playing second again. It should be another nifty ball game and rates a big crowd of fans.

Quakers Win Weird Battle

In a weird Southend Loop softball game at Brinton Field last night, Quakers defeated De Laval by a 24-23 score to make it a tie between these teams for third place. The winners overcame a 16-run lead built up in the first six frames. Coughlin started for Quakers but was sent early to the showers and Cournyea, who followed, was also banged hard and often. Wilson was pitching good ball with a big lead, but he wanted to rest for an important Church League game, so Abbott was sent in to hold the lead. Quakers immediately began pounding Abbott's pitches, and eventually copped the nod on hits and walks. Delpellaro relieved Cournyea and pitched fine ball as his buddies began hitting hard. Dixon and Townsend led the winners, the former with four hits, including homers in the eighth and ninth with the bases packed, and the latter getting five, three for extra bases. For the losers, Wright got four, with Dallin and Weart having three each. Gatfield, Clark and Cournyea went good defensively. The teams:

De Laval .... 606 700 040—23	17	8
Quakers ..... 030 005 385—24	18	6

Umpires, Smith and Coursey.

The Quaker win leaves Little Harlem on top with five wins in seven starts. Keene and Cogs each have four and two, while Quakers and De Laval are third with four and three. Two games are left in the half, Cogs vs. Hawks Thursday, and Keene vs. Brinton here. Six teams are still in the running, and a four-way tie is possible if Cogs and Keene lose.

LOUIS RETAINS TITLE BY TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT IN THE FIRST

Schmeling Gets Bad Beating Brief Scrap

German Floored 3 Times Before Fight Is Stopped

NEW YORK, June 23 (A.P.).—Joe Louis, 24-year-old Alabama negro, to-day very likely is the complete fighting man, the incomparable destroyer that the world thought he was two years ago.

Last night, before 80,000 bug-eyed witnesses at Yankee Stadium, the young champion removed the last doubt of his greatness by blasting Max Schmeling, his one formidable rival, into fistic oblivion in two minutes and four seconds, quickest heavyweight championship knockout in history.

To-day there isn't a man left to truly debate Joe's right to the crown he won last summer from Jim Braddock.

He probably will be matched to-day to fight Max Baer in September, but last night when the laughing Baer was introduced he encountered one of the most whole-hearted boos that ever echoed through The Bronx.

A terrible right to the kidneys that caused Schmeling to scream with pain and that partially paralyzed his 32-year-old legs gave Louis the revenge he had sought ever since the German knocked him out in 12 rounds two summers ago.

Settles the Issue.

Three other smoking Louis rights to the jaw dumped Schmeling on the canvas. The third time he was down, his hands and knees trying vainly to rise. Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the slaughter. But it was the right to the body, delivered with every ounce of Joe's strength after about a minute of mixing, that settled the issue.

Schmeling still groaned from the pain of the blow in his dressing room as he explained to the German Ambassador, Heinrich Dieckhoff, what had happened. His left eye was swollen almost shut. He said his head had been clear right to the last, but the ringsiders thought he looked dazed.

Max Machon, Schmeling's trainer, threw in a towel when the count over the third knockdown had reached five. "I saw the man couldn't move, so what could I do?" he asked later.

Donovan first threw the towel from the ring, then turned and quickly lifted the struggling Max to his feet. The count by then had reached eight. After a few minutes in his corner, Schmeling walked across to his conqueror, shook his hand and mumbled, "You are a good fighter."

In the fury of the champion's attack, Schmeling scarcely had a chance to use his great right. He was caught cold, despite the fact that Louis had been proclaiming for weeks his intention of forcing the fight.

So busy was Max warding off his tan pursuer that he threw only two rights. The first was in close, during a mix-up at the outset, and did no harm. The second he shot in desperation, after he had been hurt. It was high on Joe's cheek and the champ paid no attention to it.

Louis Meant Business.

The moment the bell rang it was all too evident that Louis meant business. He went right across after Schmeling, pumping punches, and giving Max no chance to stand his ground. Schmeling's face was red after the first flurry.

His back still was against the ropes when Louis suddenly brought over a right to the head that turned the German half around, and followed it with his blast to the kidneys. It draped Schmeling over the ropes and his yelp of anguish was heard across the ring. The referee shielded him for several seconds befor he continued.

Louis charged in and banged him on the chin with another right. Down he went for a three-count, his mouth bloody and his face twisted. He barely was up before Joe clipped him again. This time, clearly confused, he bounced up at the count of one.

Now Louis made sure of his kill, as the tottering Teuton stood there, his guard barely up, Joe measured him carefully and sent a terrific right to his chin. Max fell straight forward, his face nearly striking the floor. In that instant his dream of being the first man to regain the heavyweight championship ended.

Tribe Hands New Yorkers Double Loss

NEW YORK, June 23 (C.P.). — Unless those Yankees of Colonel Jake Ruppert soon get around to popping their baseball fireworks, Colonel Jake won't have anything but his beer sales to worry about along about World Series time this fall.

Of course, there'll be a lot of Colonel Jake's brew poured before they wrap up the pennant on this year's American League wars. And, with plenty of time still remaining to unwrap the power and class that everyone knows the Yanks packed in their bats, there's no immediate viewing with alarm.

But with the season approaching the half-way mark, Gehrig and company is in third place to-day, 4½ games back of Cleveland Indians, and that certainly shouldn't make those who invested a few bob at the 7 to 10 pre-season odds feel any too comfortable.

The late Murderers' Row had its best chance of the season to do something about the whole business this week in a four-game series with the Tribe. But the Indians came from behind for a 10-5 decision in Tuesday's opener, and then took both ends of a double-header yesterday, 3-1 and 7-1.

Boosts Indians' Margin.

With the second-place Boston Red Sox dropping an 8-3 decision to the Tigers, in which Vernon Kennedy handed Lefty Grove his second defeat of the season, the double win boosted the Indians' margin over their nearest rivals to 3½ games.

Bill Terry's Giants, at the head of the National League parade, also gained ground by coming from behind with a five-run outburst in the seventh and eighth frames to clip Cincinnati Reds, 6-4. By knocking off their closest pursuers, the Giants boosted their lead to 2½ games.

Monte Stratton's eight-hit pitching gave the White Sox a 16-3 win over Washington Senators. The Athletics beat St. Louis Browns 7-1.

Lon Warneke's pitching led the Cardinals to a 4-2 victory over the Boston Bees. The Cubs-Phillies game was rained out.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Mel Harder, Johnny Humphries, and Johnny Allen, Indians—Harder and Humphries combined in pitching eight hit 3-1 opening victory over Yankees; Allen hurled four-hitter to win second game 7-1.

Sam Chapman, Athletics — Hit triple and double, driving in two runs in 7-1 victory over Browns.

Joe Medwick, Cardinals— Clouted homer and triple to send home three runs as Cards beat Boston 4-2.

Sam Leslie, Giants — His single with bases full in eighth drove in winning runs against Cincinnati.

Hank Greenberg and Vernon Kennedy, Tigers — Greenberg's 17th homer featured five-run first inning rally, while Kennedy held Red Sox to eight hits and fanned seven to win 8-3.

Newark Bears Threaten Rout In Minor Race

TORONTO, June 23 (CP).—With the International Baseball League pennant race already showing every sign of turning into a rout, the current edition of Newark Bears today were gunning for a few of the records set up by their championship team last year in an effort to inject some excitement into the chase.

A year ago today, the "Wonder Bears" were riding in first place with 46 wins and 14 defeats and held a 13½ game lead over the Montreal Royals, who were in second place at that time. They then went on to win the pennant by a record 25½ games.

Today, the Bears, on strength of their present 13-game winning streak, were just two games off the pace of last year's team with 43 victories and 15 defeats.

Despite the fact they are only nine games ahead of the second-place Buffalo Bisons, who are giving stronger opposition than the Royals did last season, the present team has already equalled a 12-year-old mark that the 1937 outfit couldn't touch.

In defeating the Royals 9-4 yesterday for their 13th in a row, the Bruins tied the club mark for consecutive victories set in 1926. Ten in a row was the best the Bears could do last season, and that included eight straight won the playoffs.

The Bears slammed out 13 hits, including Jimmy Gleeson's ninth homer of the season, to hand the Royals their fifth straight defeat.

Leafs Whip Chiefs 6-1.

In the only other game, the other clubs having played off their scheduled contests as parts of doubleheaders, Toronto Maple Leafs whipped Syracuse 6-1. The Leafs pounded Ted Kleinhans and Jake Mooty for 14 hits, while the veteran Johnny Berly stopped the Chiefs with five hits.

NEW RUGBY HEAD

EDINBURGH—(CP).—Dr. W. H. Walsh, former Merchistonian and Edinburgh University player who represented Scotland eight times at rugby, is the new president of the Scottish Rugby Union.

Lacrossers Play Here Tomorrow

The Long Branch lacrossers are here tomorrow (Friday) night to play the Petes in an O.L.A. Senior "B" fixture at nine o'clock in the George Street arena. It is a scheduled fixture and the locals will be out hustling after their fourth win in the group. They have lost but twice this year, once to Brampton — and that game has been thrown out, owing to an ineligible player—and once to the famed Orillia Terriers in an exhibition tussle here Tuesday night. If the weather is right, a good-sized crowd of fans should be on deck Friday evening to see a lively gutted-stick game.

Not a great deal is known at present here of the Long Branch squad. They must have a good team to be entered in the Senior "B" grouping, and efforts are being made to learn more of the team today or tomorrow. They are likely to field a strong squad here, and it ought to be another neat number. The Petes expect to be at full strength again, with all their players available, and Coach Frank Randle believes the Petes should chalk up another win. But he feels the Long Branch gang have a chance of upsetting the dope, as anything can happen in the lacrosse world this year. At least, fans are always sure of action and thrills in this game.

Mark St. Juveniles Eliminate Park St.

Mark St. Juveniles qualified for the finals in the Church Softball League last night by beating Park St. 17-12 at Central in a semi-final fray. First of the finals will be Friday at Central. The winners last night hit Campbell hard all the way. Davis had four hits, Curtis two triples and Agnew a homer and single. Some good catches by Briscoe and Anderson robbed the winners of other hits. Campbell hit a homer and Martin two triples for Park St. Eason fanned five and walked four in five heats. Eason became wild in the fifth, feminine fans helping to rattle the starting twirler. Davis finished strong. Campbell struck out five and walked six. The teams:

Urge Recasting Of Private Sanitaria Act

TORONTO, June 23. — Complete recasting of the Private Sanitaria Act, and strict Government control over all private mental institutions—including the charges to patients, detention regulations, committals, general inspection of care and operating conditions, and the right of patients to legal advice—are recommended by Royal Commissioner Fred H. Barlow, K.C., in his report on the recent investigation into the administration and affairs of Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph.

The report, which was released yesterday by Hon. Harold J. Kirby, Minister of Health, and will be considered for possible future legislative action at the next Cabinet Council of the Hepburn Government, also finds that Angus McIntosh of Montreal, whose complaints primarily precipitated the inquiry, was "forcibly detained" in Homewood for more than two years, although admitted as "a voluntary patient."

Finds Liberty Taken.

"On April 11 1934 at the request of Mrs. McIntosh, and on the certificates of two local medical practitioners of the City of Guelph," the report states, "he (Mr. McIntosh) was committed to the institution, thus taking from him his liberty and giving the institution the right to forcibly detain him. From that time until the month of June, 1936, when he was transferred to the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, he was forcibly detained in the institution."

Commissioner Barlow claims that in spite of explanations supplied by the Homewood authorities, it is quite unnecessary to interpret the Private Sanitaria Act to ascertain whether the authorities believed they acted properly in refusing to release Mr. McIntosh without his wife's consent. "It is sufficient to know," he stresses, "that Mr. McIntosh was detained. A person's liberty is the dearest thing he possesses. He should not be deprived of this so long as he is able to fit himself into our social structure without injury to himself or others. In a private mental institution this liberty can be taken away from him on the certificates of two doctors. Once so committed, a patient, so long as he or his relatives are able to pay, may find great difficulty in obtaining his liberty. It is one thing for the State to deprive a person of his liberty; it is another thing for a private institution to be able to detain a man against his will. It is quite clear to me that the Private Sanitaria Act as it stands at present is not sufficient protection to a person who becomes mentally ill, and some drastic changes are quite clearly necessary."

Transfers Censured.

Commissioner Barlow deals sharply with Homewood's action in placing Mr. McIntosh under lock and key, and transferring him subsequently to what is known as the violent ward. "I am of the opinion," he says, "that these transfers were not in the best interests of Mr. McIntosh, and in fact militated against his recovery. The evidence shows that it was the interests of the other patients and not the interests of Mr. McIntosh that were considered in removing him finally to the violent ward. It is unnecessary to go into detail as to the noise and unpleasant surroundings in the violent ward. The evidence shows that these surroundings must have been most disturbing to Mr. McIntosh.

"If the institution was unable to take care of him without placing him in association with such patients, I am of the opinion that his wife should have been asked to remove him from the institution. It is quite clear to me that the institution has inadequate facilities for the proper segregation of the different types of patients, and that if the institution is to continue to accept or continue to keep violent patients of the maniac type, special provision should be made for their segregation."

Profits Considered.

During the year ended November 30, 1937, Homewood paid out in salaries the sum of $57,544.61; for wages, $28,353.51, and for staff bonuses, $3,441.48, a total of $89,339.60. The net profit for the year, after making provision for income taxes, amounted to $56,449.65, which included the interest on investments amounting to $16,580.22. A dividend of 12 per cent. was paid, amounting to $48,000, and the balance of the net profit was transferred to the surplus account.

"If it should be considered that the profits are excessive, having regard for the services rendered," the Commissioner finds, "the same can be controlled by Government regulation. While this is a private institution, nevertheless the services it provides are rendered to the public, and the latter are entitled to protection. Mr. McIntosh paid the same amount per diem when he was in the violent ward as when he was in the most comfortable quarters. There is, however, not sufficient evidence before me to enable me to form an opinion as to whether he was overcharged. I am, however, of the opinion that some control of the charges to patients should be exercised by the Government."

Preparations For Visit Of King And Queen To France Complete

Preparations for the state visit of the King and Queen to France on June 28, have been completed. Wide precautions have been taken by French and British police and secret service operators to prevent demonstrations against the visiting royalty. Their majesties will cross the channel from Dover to Boulogne and then to the Bois de Boulogne station of Paris. They will be welcomed by President Albert Lebrun and Mrs. Lebrun, lower LEFT. From the station the royal party will go to Quai d'Orsay (foreign office building) a view of which is seen, lower CENTRE. Here the King and Queen will reside during their visit. A vew of the Arc de Triomphe is shown, upper LEFT, with a general view of Paris and the famous Eiffel Tower, also shown.

Hastings Cradle Roll Members Receive Diplomas

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 23.—The sacrament of infant baptism was observed on Sunday morning at the Trinity United annual children's day service, when the following children were baptized by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Newell; Marilyn Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hess; Douglas Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fairman, and Margaret Rose, daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Neil Scriver.

For this very special service, which is annually looked forward to, the church was enhanced by the singing of song birds and beautiful baskets of peonies, ferns and iris adorned the church windows and the front of the church. The large silver church basket was filled with roses in memory of Bryant Scriver, who passed to higher service five years ago.

The church was filled for the service, and in response to their names being called by Mrs. J. B. Scriver, the cradle roll superintendent, the following little tots came forward and were presented with roses and their cradle roll certificates: Otler Paul Scriver, Margaret Rose Scriver, Reid Watson Scriver, Marjorie Isabel Fleming, Douglas Alfred Forde, Shirley Elizabeth Forde, Mary Loraine McConnell, Carol Anne McConnell, Gerald Edwin Morrow, Gerald James William McGee, Arden George McGee, Marilyn Frances Hess, Audrey Eleanor Brinklow, Althea Alice Scriver, Nancy Jane Scott, Phyllis Delane Montgomery, Douglas Bruce Fairman, Ethel Wanita Scriver, Kenneth Wayne Barker and Kenneth Bruce Forde.

The following four-year-olds were presented with roses and are leaving the cradle roll: Margaret Adele Dodd, Daniel Douglas Grieve, Carol Mae Baker, Edgar James Brown, Eldon Gordon Barker, William James Fairman, Paul Stanley Stevenson and Jean Muriel Fleming.

Others on the cradle roll are: Walter Wayne Dodd, Roland Douglas Montgomery, Barbara Ann Scriver, Elwood Percy Washburn, Lloyd Herbert Oliver, Gary Eaton Dodd, Marion Bernice Grieve, Betty Evelyn Barker, Phyllis Marina Turner, Keith Edward Brinklow, Anita Ethel Scriver, Kenneth Richard Scriver, George Ian Sine, Robert Victor Fairman and Donald George Fairman.

The pastor delivered a very helpful message to the parents, in which he explained the responsibilities of the parents to their children.

The funeral of Doreen, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Washburn, was held on Thursday, June 9, from the residence of her parents, Rev. F. W. Newell conducted the service, and interment was in the Trent Valley Cemetery.

Toronto Fisherman Hooks Big Muskie

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, June 23. — The biggest muskie was landed on opening day by A. E. Jones of Toronto. The fish tipped the scales at 18 pounds, measured 45 inches length and 18 inches girth; bait used was a jointed plug. The fish was caught near Puff Ball Inn, with Douglas Dart of Trent River as guide. The muskie put up a good battle for 15 minutes, during which time it pulled the three hooks out of one end of the plug and in doing so hooked itself with the other two hooks, and finally was landed with a gaff hook.

Mr. Jones told The Examiner he had travelled extensively, having fished in the Adriatic, Italy, Turkey, Scotland, England and the Ionian Sea, but never caught a fish like this one he landed in Trent River. W. L. Jifkins of Toronto, also guest at Cedar Isle accompanied Mr. Jones and proudly boasts he is the last surviving member of a company of "Ye Old Time Fishemen," having visited Trent River annually for the past 35 years.

Plan To Abolish 'Senate' At Next Session

MONTREAL, June 23. — Quebec's Legislative Council, last "Provincial Senate" in Canada, will be dissolved at the next session of the Legislature, political observers believe. Comprising twenty-four members appointed for life and resembling the Ottawa Senate in functions and procedure, the Council has long been attacked as a useless and costly appendage.

During the 1936 Provincial campaign Premier Duplessis promised to abolish it if he was elected. He has delayed carrying out his promise because consent of the Council would be necessary. Nearly all the members are Liberals, and besides having no love for the Duplessis Government, they would be unlikely to want to sign their own "death warrants."

Lavored by Liberals.

However, the Provincial Liberal Convention a fortnight ago went on record as favoring the abolition of the Legislative Council. Presumably the Liberal Councillors think the same way as their confreres, so would not be averse to disbanding.

Several of the M.L.C.'s have sat so long they have little interest in politics, but sixteen are definitely listed as active Liberals. The Council, however, gave Mr. Duplessis little trouble. It was recognized that if the members bucked any Duplessis legislation, the Premier would soon find a way to get rid of the Upper Chamber. As long as the members listened to reason he was willing to forget his 1936 statement as an election promise, for many of the Councillors are old men and eventually there would be seats for good Union Nationale members.

Now the Liberals have put the abolition plank into their platform, however, it is politically expedient for Mr. Duplessis to recall that he thought of it first.

Protest Longer Beer-Room Days

OSHAWA, June 23.—Strong exception to the publicity given Oshawa's alleged bootleggers by Mayor Alex McLeese and the proposed by-law to extend the hours of the beverage-rooms has been forwarded to City Clerk Fred Hare by the King Street United Church Young People's Society.

The resolution asks "which the Council considers more important, the financial benefits that would be derived by the five hotels in the city by longer hours, or the added temptations and moral downfall of young people of the city."

The resolution protested vigorously the action of City Council in granting longer hours for local beverage rooms.

It also protested "the statement made public by our Mayor in regard to there being 200 'blind pigs' in Oshawa. We fail to see how this public statement, which was published in the newspapers and so brought to the attention of other young people in the province, reflects any credit on our city, even if it were true. There are hundreds of local young people who are proud of their city, and we certainly do not appreciate discrediting public statements of this nature, especially when coming from the Chief Magistrate of the city."

Plan To Prosecute If Books Are Found To Be Faked

OTTAWA, June 23.—If there has been a deliberate falsification of the records by the eight textile companies now being sued by the Government in the Exchequer Court, criminal action will follow, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, indicated in the House of Commons Wednesday.

The Government is seeking to recover taxes totalling $1,000,000 from the eight firms. The Crown is acting upon information supplied by Mr. Justice Turgeon in his Royal Commission inquiry into the textile industry.

The Revenue Minister's announcement came in the midst of bitter debate on the Budget, when J. S. Woodsworth demanded criminal action against the textile companies.

"There is no doubt that if there is a deliberate falsification of accounts, it is criminal," said Mr. Isley. "But that is a thing that has to be established, and that will be determined in the civil actions we have taken."

The C.C.F. leader waved a copy of the Turgeon report high in the air as he denounced the textile firms. One company had made an investment of $500,000 in 1905 and it had yielded 14,800,000 in dividends. Another company, according to the Turgeon inquiry, had "falsified the returns to the Government in order to conceal the existence of a secret reserve which between 1916 and 1936 totalled $2,500,000," Mr. Woodsworth quoted the report.

"Have these taxes been collected?" asked Mr. Woodsworth. "And further, have the criminals been punished?"

"They don't punish criminals of that kind," observed Miss Agnes MacPhail.

Driver Jailed In Hit-Run Case

OSHAWA, June 23.—Charged with criminal negligence and failing to return to the scene of an accident, Frederick Tomkins, Toronto, was sentenced to four months in jail on the first charge, and was fined $25 and costs or an additional month on the second, when he appeared before Magistrate Frank Ebbs in Police Court on Wednesday. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Tompkins's driving permit was cancelled for sixty days.

"This is the type of offense that must be stamped out at all costs. It is becoming all too frequent on our highways," Magistrate Ebbs declared in passing sentence. "You have pleaded guilty to this offense, which is a serious charge, and must be dealt with accordingly. On this occasion, for no apparent reason, you struck this woman with your car and drove on without being interested enough to stop and give her any assistance that might have been needed. It is a lucky thing for you that she was not seriously injured," the Magistrate declared.

According to Provincial Traffic Officer Charles Hefferman the accused was travelling west on the Kingston Highway on the evening of May 28, when he collided with Mrs. William Hugh, who was walking west on the highway, near Dunbarton.

ton) taunted the government on its high expenditures, particularly on royal commissions the value of whose work he questioned. He spoke of $35 a day expense allowances as compared with 75 cents a day allowed those on relief.

Orvis Kennedy (S.C., Edmonton East) made his maiden speech with some arguments based upon Social Credit theories and a discussion of rail rates and subventions. He urged the Government to enlist the services of experts to show the way to using Canadian resources for the benefit of every persons rather than for the enrichment of a few.

Suggests a Way Out.

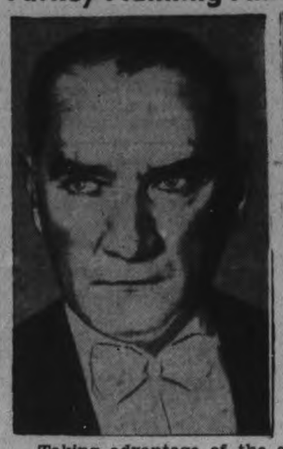
J. S. Taylor (Ind., Nanaimo) suggested, as a means of relieving the Dominion from "financial constipation" that wealthy citizens surrender to the Government for 10 years securities amounting to $200,000,000 to be used as a basis for issuing new money to that extent.

In addition the Government could issue $400,000,000 on its gold reserves, thus creating a $600,000,000 fund to be used to stimulate industrial life. It might be considered a form of managed inflation.

The securities would be returned at the end of 10 years, and the interest would be paid in the meantime.

Lionel Chevrier (Lib., Stormont) urged the advantages of proceeding with the St. Lawrence deep waterway scheme, and expressed the belief that realization of that project was nearer now than it had ever been. Its accomplishment had long been a hope of the people of his district.

Turkey Planning Annexation



Taking advantage of the seriousness of the European situation, Kemal Attaturk, LEFT, President of Turkey, is planning to annex the Senjak of Alexandretta, which includes the cities of Alexandretta and Antioch, to the Turkish empire. At present the Sanjak of Alexandretta is an autonomous unit under French mandate and administered by a high commissioner appointed by the League of Nations. The map, RIGHT, shows the area which it is feared Turkey will annex.

happiest when caring for Glamis Castle, their Scottish seat, where Macbeth is said to have murdered Duncan.

Court circles immediately wondered whether the death of the Queen's mother would cause postponement of the State visit the King and Queen are scheduled to pay to France next week.

The Royal Court is expected to go into mourning, which might preclude the visit.

The King and Queen, who had been in constant touch with the Strathmore residence, Cumberland Mansions, returned to Buckingham Palace shortly after her death.

The Earl of Strathmore, who at 83 is tall and thin, happiest in rough tweeds pottering about his 24,700 acres, and the Countess always lived in a retiring manner, most of the time at Glamis Castle.

Court Order Awaited.

The King will decide how long the Court shall go into mourning, and a Court announcement was expected later today.

High Government officials immediately discussed the matter with Paris, where there was anxiety to know whether the Countess's death would affect the elaborate state visit plans.

The Queen and her family had been aware for some weeks that the end was near for the Countess, who had been suffering from heart trouble, but the Queen bravely went through her public appearances. She feared the worst after the Countess had a heart attack yesterday.

Two sons, David and Michael Bowes-Lyon, saw her before she died. A third son, Lord Glamis, heir to the earldom, also survives, and also a third daughter, Baroness Elphinstone.

Lakefield's

had been paying full taxes on about $75,000 prior to 1935, but since the new valuation of the county was made in December, 1936, Lakefield had approached the company for consideration of their loss, when it appeared that the big cement plant might be demolished, and the company had agreed to pay full taxes on the sum of $100,000. Reeve Anderson contended that the village was better off in that particular change to the extent of about $25,000 in assessment.

Since the Hydro bought the power plant the Commission had accepted an assessment of $85,000 on which full taxes were levied, but previously there was a fixed assessment of the Cement Company of $30,000 by an agreement which expired January 1, 1937. That meant a further advantage to the village of $55,000 assessment, and Reeve Anderson summed the two items up to the effect that Lakefield had improved their taxable assessment for local and county purposes approximately between $70,000 and $80,000.

Company's Agreement

The special report from the valuators pointed out that prior to 1936 the Canada Cement Company was assessed for $380,000 for school taxes only. There was also an assertion that if the company did not operate in any year they would pay the general rate on the assessment for school purposes; and further that the company had paid the general rate on the full assessment for two to four years.

When only Reeves Mann, Seeney and Thompson supported his case, Reeve Tanner said: "Lakefield has received no consideration at all, but this is a long way from being settled. If the equalized assessment continues as it is it means you don't want the villages in Peterborough county to continue to exist."

"The way I figure it you are getting $2,900 new taxes," Reeve Anderson observed.

Rent For $1 A Year

"When we went to Montreal to interview the Cement Company at the time there was talk that they were going to blow the roof off their mill, they told us that if anyone wanted to rent the plant they could have it for one dollar a year," Reeve Tanner added.

Warden McDonald interjected a warning against the statements reflecting on the soundness of the county that were being broadcast from discussions of the assessment. There were some farms no longer in use, he said, but who was going to pay the taxes "if we throw up our hands everytime we hear about a decline in values." The Warden said Peterborough county was in a sound position, "and you are not getting anywhere by such talk as we have heard these last few days, and that is published abroad. The idea will go out that this is not a good place to come to. There was a statement made yesterday that summer resorts are being overtaxed. Some of my ratepayers spoke to me about that last night, objecting to such an idea going out. They wanted me to deny it as far as Dummer is concerned, and to say that our township is not trying to take advantage of the people who have summer cottages at the lake. We are not valuing such property at its full value because we realize that these cottages are occupied only two or three months during the summer. People coming to Stoney Lake say it is just as beautiful as Muskoka, and we are certainly not going to do anything in Dummer to discourage them from coming to the lake."

Reeve Tanner's amendment to the Milby-Anderson motion, asking for a $200,000 reduction in Lakefield's equalzied assessment, was seconded by Reeve Mann.

MR. JUSTICE KRUSCHEN IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

Mystery of Bank Clerk's Failure

JUDGE: Were you a failure at school?

PRISONER: No, my lord. I was a good student and captain of the football team.

JUDGE: Ah! I think I can solve this mystery. Tell me, prisoner — how many games of football do you get every week now?

PRISONER: Why, I can only play once a week—on Saturdays—at the most.

JUDGE: Thank you. That will do. This case is as clear as daylight.

PRISONER: (excitedly): Oh, sir, I'm sure I'd be fit if I could exercise more often. I'm not getting half enough fresh air or exercise nowadays.

JUDGE: Fresh air? What's the good of talking about fresh air when you work in the city? What you want, young man, is something to make up for this inevitable lack of exercise. Something to keep your system from becoming sluggish. Something to keep you clean and fresh and regular internally, just as you were at school when you were playing games every day. And that something is Kruschen Salts.

PRISONER: I sometimes take Epsom Salts, my lord. Wouldn't that have the same effect?

JUDGE: Epsom alone is not good enough. Nature designed your system to need several different salts and in Kruschen all those salts are found. Each little daily dose of Kruschen contains exactly one day's supply, exactly the right amount to keep all your organs—liver, kidneys, stomach and everything—tuned up to perfect fitness. Kruschen is more than ever necessary at this time of the year, because it is a valuable tonic.

PRISONER: Thank you for explaining that so clearly, my lord. I am really glad to know how to keep fit.

JUDGE: That's right! Now go back to your work, and we'll soon see you the smartest, keenest man in your office. But remember that regularity is the thing. It's the little daily dose that does it.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

TASTELESS IN COFFEE OR TEA

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Murray Street Holds Picnic At Nicholls Oval

Nicholls Oval looked its best Wednesday evening when three hundred people from the Murray Street Baptist Church assembled for the annual Sunday School picnic, and enjoyed a sumptuous picnic dinner on the grassy sward and beneath the maple trees near the caretaker's residence.

Weather conditions were ideal and a cool breeze swept across, chasing the torrid temperature which had distressed every one during the afternoon. It was pleasingly cool in the park and the children in large numbers competed for the various prizes on the sports program. The Young People's Society had a refreshment booth managed by Miss Burgess, Miss Jean Barringer and Vernon Whatley. Serving of the supper yas directed by Mrs. A. W. Wray and Mrs. Harry Graham. During the supper music was furnished by the George Street Orchestra under the leadership of W. H. Cunningham.

Scores Are Hurt In Fight Riot

Human Body System Of Air Conditioning

HALIFAX, June 23—(CP). — Being born without an air conditioning system was one of the cause of death in infancy, Dr. H. R. Clouston of Huntingdon, Que., told the Canadian Medical Association in a scientific paper to-day.

Nature's first air conditioning system was in the human body. The system in the nose and throat warms, moistens and washes relatively germ-free and dust-free, the air before it reaches the lungs.

Some babies born without the necessary apparatus, may die of chronic irritation or infection due to dust and germs which get into the lungs.

The condition is relatively rare, but it is more prevalent in certain localities than in others. It follows certain laws of heredity and seems to be confined to males.

Usually accompanying this condition is another dificiency. The babies have no "sweat glands." These control the temperature of the body without which the children suffer acutely in warm weather. Water given off in the form of perspiration cools the body. Without this cooling system the temperature may rise to abnormal heights.

Dr. Clouston estimated there were more than 7,000 cases of this deficiency, known as heretiary esctodemal dystrophy, in America. He presented a graph to show the intensity of the condition is becoming less severe with the improvement in living conditions.

Gross Receipts Of Fight $1,015,096

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP). — Counting the $75,000 receipts gained from movie and radio rights, the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight championship fight last night totalled more than $1,000,000.

Total gross receipts were $1,015,096.17. Gross ticket sales totalled $940,096.17, with the net gate at $893,113. Gross attendance was 72,000, paid 66,227. Louis receives 40 per cent. and Schmeling 20 per cent. of the net of $803,113.

Louis received $321,245.20 for his two minutes and four seconds of work, or approximately $2,590 a second. For his receiving, Schmeling received $160,622.60, just half of the champ's share.

SCHMELING FANS.

TOKYO. — Joe Louis' one-round knockout of Max Schmeling—story and pictures—was front page news in Japan today. Boxing fans said pre-fight sentiment overwhelmingly favored Schmeling.

Woman Must Be Returned To House Of Refuge

A resolution by Reeves Tanner and Milby at this morning's session of the county council instructed Louis Fry to take immediate steps to have Miss Hattie Williams, housekeeper for John Deremo, at present a resident of Douro, brought back to the House of Refuge, and that any further violation of rules of the institution by Mr. Deremo be reported to the provincial police.

Some antecedents of this case have already been reported. Reeve Martin Coughlin took up the story this morinng to amplify it with recent developments, and Deputy-reeve Harry Reid of Otonabee, chairman of the House of Refuge Board, contributed a few additional details.

Reeve Coughlin told the council that Deremo's shack was "terrible" and "not fit for a dog although he has seven or eight of them out there." Complaints were sent by some persons to the Old Age Pensions board, Miss Williams being a pensioner, and Mrs. Craig, inspector for the board, visited the Deremo abode but was refused admission. Provincial Constable Silvester's aid was called into action and Miss Williams was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. Craig gave further instructions that the elderly housekeeper not return to the Deremo house until it was made fit for occupation, and in the meantime she was to be taken to the House of Refuge.

"Kidnapped" Woman

Shortly after the arrival of Miss Williams at the Lakefield home, Deremo followed close on her heels, and it was stated tried to remove her by force. The Board of Management were present and that effort was checkmated. A few days later he went back again and told the superintendent that he was going to take Miss Williams to Port Hope. While Mr. Fry was telephoning to a member of the Board, Deremo and Miss Williams disappeared. In Reeve Coughlin's words "He kidnapped her" in the manner but without the consequences of a true son of Priam.

However, instead of going to Port Hope Deremo and his housekeeper landed back in Douro, the household conditions are not much better than when Mrs. Craig visited the place, and apparently the whole process will have to be gone through again.

"Why not have Deremo arrested?" several members of the council suggested.

Reeve Coughlin said it was surely the duty of Mr. Fry to have Miss Williams brought back to the House of Refuge until proper and orderly decision is made as to her future.

"If there is any interference by Deremo when Fry goes there, then the police should be called in," Reeve Tanner advised.

Two Old Friends

This snap-shot was taken when Dr. W. D. Scott went to have a chat with his old friend, C. B. Routley of 416 Stewart Street. Both Dr. Scott and Mr. Routley were in business in Peterborough for over 50 years, and they are both honorary deacons for life at Murray Street Baptist church.

130 Cakes Eaten at School Picnic Eight Gallons Of Lemonade Drunk

AN EXAMPLE of mass production and mass consumption was given on Thursday by members of the Home and School association of the Prince of Wales school, who supplied all the food for ravenous school children holding their annual picnic.

Most breath-taking total of all was the number of cakes that were baked for the boys and girls. There were 130 of them—chocolate cakes, light cakes, ginger cakes, angel cakes, every kind of a cake that has ever been seen. And 616 children ate them all, down to the last crumb.

They drank 80 gallons of lemonade made from 50 dozen lemons and oranges and 40 pounds of sugar. To make the sandwiches they bolted down required 120 loaves of bread, 35 pounds of butter and huge quantities of canned salmon, eggs, peanut butter, and cheese. And on top of that every youngster received a free ice cream cone.

A score or more of mothers worked most of Wednesday preparing the food for the picnic, probably the largest that will be held in the city. The work was under the direction of the Social Convener, Mrs. W. Constable, 154 Rubidge street and Mrs. P. Black, Charlotte street, president of the Home and School association.

Brantford Man Is Struck By Car

He said the driver picked him up and took him to a doctor's office where he received first aid but he was unable to give the name of the motorist or of the doctor. The man's left leg had been badly bruised by the impact.

T.B. Free Cattle Only For Export

Farmers in this district should be interested in the changes that have been made in the Bureau of Animal Industry regulations in regard to their requirements for cattle imported into the United States. Dr. Thomas Johnson, V.S., has received notice of these changes in an official communication from William Moynihan, District Veterinary Inspector who points out that the new regulations require that all cattle, except those for immediate slaughter, must be accompanied by tuberculin test certificates and where tests are necessary they must be made within 30 days of export.

The ruling, the District Inspector says, becomes effective July 1, 1938, and consequently on and after that date official veterinarians will only be authorized to issue certificates

Trophy Comes To Peterborough

The Bingham trophy, emblematic of the North American championship in the Junior Newspaper Salesmanship contest, which two Peterborough Examiner carrier boys, Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson, won in Quebec on Wednesday. It was the first time since the cup was presented 16 years ago that a Canadian team had captured it.

Peony Bloom Is Much Superior

The second annual peony show under the auspices of the Peterborough Horticultural Society was staged Tuesday evening in the centre display window of Richard Hall's store, and proved a very fragrant and gratifying success. While the number of entries did not correspond with last year's successful show, the quality of bloom proved of superior quality. The number of entries showed the directors that there were citizens taking sufficient interest in the society's efforts in beautification, to prepare exhibits of the most interesting nature. Spikes of delicate-hued delphiniums displayed by W. J. Smith and W. C. Wilks, made a lovely background and were flanked by displayed peonies from the gardens of H. Carter and W. H. Young. To James Forbes went the honor of a most original design for a dining table decoration. The decorative sections were will filled, but red peonies were conspicuous by their absence. The display benefited by the artistic temperament of the assistants of Hall's store, who so generously gave of their time and experience which made the show so successful. The committee gratefully acknowledge the generosity of Charles Saunders for the use of this particular window, also Messrs. Gracie, Young and Carter for their services as judges. The following were adjudged winners:

Three blooms, alike or different.—W. Carter.

Decorative basket of iris.—W. H. Frise.

Farmer Charged With Cruelty

In police court this morning Archie Wilson of Harvey Township was charged with cruelty to animals, the information reading that he had failed to provide sufficient food for two mares, four bulls, three cows and 25 small pigs.

Wilson, who was represented by Alex. Elliott, K.C., was not present when court opened with Magistrate Gee on the bench, failing to understand that his presence was required today, and court had to be adjourned until he could motor in from Harvey.

He was then arraigned before Gordon Puffer, J.P., and the case was adjourned until Wednesday of next week without plea or election.

Crown Attorney McElderry argued that one condition of the adjournment should be that the defendant should pay the costs of the witness fees. Mr. Elliott demurred at that proposal, remarking that it was very unusual and the point will be threshed out later in the case.

Air Gun Is Seized From Chinese Chef

If there are any rumors afloat that Chinese in Peterborough are in training in order that they may go to the assistance of their homeland against the Japanese invaders, the stories are not without at least a modest amount of confirmation. At least the Chinese chef in a local establishment has been so carried away by military inclinations that he borrowed an air rifle from a small boy and has been getting in some target practice. Unfortunately for the Oriental marksman, however, his rifle drill attracted the attention of some one who thought the police ought to know all about it, and as a result the air gun has been seized by the strong arm of the law.

Municipalities' Relief Share Is Placed At Thirty Per Cent

TORONTO, June 23. — Ontario mayors, in conference yesterday with Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Welfare, were officially notified that relief costs for the balance of the year will be shared on a basis of 45 per cent for the Province, 30 per cent for the municipalities, and 25 per cent for the Dominion Government.

This apportionment has resulted from the formal announcement from Ottawa that their former grant-in-aid to the Province at the rate of $465,000 monthly will be continued for the remainder of 1938.

Queen's Park had hoped it might have been increased but take some consolation out of the fact that the payment is now labelled as a "minimum" grant. When Ottawa again reviews the complete relief picture —next fall—they may step up the contribution, the Hepburn Government hopes.

Mr. Cross stated after his conference with the mayors that should any municipality exceed its 30 per cent schedule the Government will discuss the situation with it in the fall, and endeavor to work out some amicable disposal of the additional costs.

All such cases, he said, would be treated individually and on individual merits.

OTTAWA, June 23 — (CP). — A Canadian angle to the United States investigation of an alleged German spy ring was disclosed here last night.

Insurgent Bombers Score Victory Over Hospital

Insurgent bombers sweeping over Figueras, Spain, transformed this hospital into a tomb for an unestimated number of patients and nurses, when they scored a direct hit with high explosives bombs. Railway Probe Is Concluded By The Senate

OTTAWA, June 23 (C.P.).—After seven weeks of hearing proposals for the solving of Canada's railway problem, the special Senate Railway Committee will soon start to work preparing its report.

Public hearing of evidence was concluded yesterday and the 20 members need only memoranda they have asked from railways officials to complete their file of information. When they have received this they will start preparing their report.

It is not expected any legislation will be introduced this session to implement any of the committee's findings. The desire of Commons and Senate members is to prorogue Parliament before July 2, and this would leave no time for the extensive consideration that would have to be granted to any recommendations the committee produce.

During its long sessions the committee has heard officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways argue for and against unification. The C.P.R. stand has been that unification would save the country $75,000,000 a year; the C.N.R. has argued the savings would be much less and that it would not be in the public interest. The formula of C.N.R. executives for treatment of railway ills was compulsory co-operation.

The last witness neard by the committee was Sir Edward Beatty, C.P.R. president, who attacked the C.N.R. position, answered questions asked by Government Leader Dandurand about what the C.P.R. would bring into unification and suggested independent experts examine the facts relating to unification.

The reading of Sir Edward's brief and his questioning by members of the committee occupied most of the day. When the C.P.R. president said the C.N.R. officials believed Canadians did not wis hthe National Railways to be measured by the ordinary yardstick of commercial administration he ran into objections by Mr. Dandurand.

The Senator said C.N.R. officials were as anxious as those of the C.P.R. to reduce expenses but they must give consideration to public interest while the C.P.R. simply thought of dividends and profits for their shareholders.

Conservative Leader Meighen took a different view. This idea of the C.N.R. function lay at the root of the whole trouble. C.P.R. officers had to give as much attention to public interest as those of the C.N.R. The trouble was C.N.R. officers had sought to consider matters which properly were for consideration of Parliament and the Government.

Blame Outboard Motors

KITCHENER, Ont., June 23 (C.P.). — Fishermen who failed to lure trout from the Bridgeport Dam area which was well-stocked three years ago and kept closed until last Saturday, believed to-day they had solved the mystery of the poor fishing. They blamed it on the use by some fishermen of outboard motors on boats. Now the motors have been banned an danglers are hopeful this week-end will see record-breaking catches.

3,000 Expected To Attend Tory Convention

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP). — The influx of delegates and visitors to the National Conservative Convention and the American Association for the advancement of Science along with the usual stream of tourists, lobbyists and parliamentarians will jam this capital to capacity in the first week in July and provide a golden harvest for hotelmen, rooming-house proprietors and the restaurants.

Probably 3,000 persons will be here for the Conservative gathering and 800 for the science convention.

John R. MacNicol, Conservative convention chairman, said today that 2,500 reservations for rooms have been filled and 1,000 delegates have signified their intention of attending the first party convention since 1927 to choose a new leader to succeed Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and draft a new platform.

From answers to invitations already received, there will be 100 per cent. attendance from British Columbia and Manitoba, while Alberta and Saskatchewan "have exceeded all expectation," Mr. MacNicol said.

Ontario and Quebec delegates will all attend, and the Maritime representation will be 25 per cent. more than the 1927 convention in Winnipeg.

More than 300 resolutions have been received already and will be considered by the 84-member resolutions committee. Other committees are credentials, publicity, nominations, finance and organization.

Riot Follows Eviction Of Unemployed

Damage estimated at $80,000 was done during the height of the riot that ensued when R.C.M.P. officers, reinforced by members of the local police, employed tear gas and batons to evict Vancouver unemployed from the post-office and the city art gallery. The men had occupied the buildings for several weeks in an effort to attract public attention to their plight. A vigorous protest has been lodged against the federal government by C.C.F. leader J. S. Woodsworth over acton of the police. One of the evicted men, injured during the riot, is shown here with police officers standing by.

People To Blame For Sensationalism

WINNIPEG, June 23 (CP) — If newspapers become sensational it is because the public demands details of crimes and tragedies, Ishbel Ross of the New York Herald Tribune told a banquet audience here last night.

The Herald Tribune writer said in Europe the American press is considered a hectic institution which runs to headlines, improper invasion of private rights and persecution of front page figures.

"The flight of the Lindberghs from their native country is the perfect argument in support of this theory," she added. "The Herald Tribune felt that the humanities were so involved in this frightful kidnapping that they refused to print anything about the story at all except a five-line box each day, stating there were no new developments.

"We did this for a week but we simply couldn't keep it up. The paper was flooded with calls, letters and protests. Our readers insisted on getting all the facts."

Should Be Awarded

Then Berner put on his clothes, mounted his bicycle, and rode a mile to the Armouries to report for parade.

Strawberry Crop Shows Increase Of Eight Percent

TORONTO, June 23 (CP).—Despite frost damage to early bloom in Western Ontario, strawberry production shows an estimated increase of eight per cent., the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Statistics Committee of the Ontario Department of Agriculture announced today in a published report. Strawberries in Eastern Ontario need only moisture to make the crop an excellent one, the report stated.

Although raspberry acreage is down five per cent., all indications point to a crop of last year's proportions. Currants and gooseberries are also listed as average. Cherries, due to frost and adverse weather conditions, will be below average, but good sizing may cause a slight upward revision in the present estimate. Sweet cherries, however, promise a medium to heavy crop.Byng is light with Windsors just above average.

Plums and pears are also below average, with Bartlett pears generally light in Burlington and Niagara West districts. Niagara East has an average set. Plums are irregular with European varieties such as prunes, Reine Claudes, gages and lombards, medium to good.

Blue grapes show average prospects; whites are light and reds heavy. Vineyards are in excellent condition, and a good average crop total is in prospect.

An average crop in all varieties of peaches is expected. Extensive thinning operations are under way in most orchards. There is a large acreage of youn gtrees just coming into bearing.

In apples, Spy, McIntosh, Snow and Wealthy, promise a slightly below average to average crop in Western Ontario, with early apples below average. The total apple production at present can be classed as slightly below average.

In Eastern Ontario, an average crop of apples is expected in Northumberland, Prince Edward and Hastings Counties, with lighter crops of winter varieties in Durham and Ontario Counties. Production on the whole should be higher than last year.

Prospects for vegetable production are considered good with a slightly higher commercial acreage in Western Ontario.

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Entranced by the southwest country, and in love with a footloose Texan, Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star, has just decided to purchase an Arizona ranch and forsake her film career. A few days at the ranch of the wealthy Mexican Montova family, which extended its hospitality to Ellen and Bill after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm, had given both the young acress and the Texan a new viewpoint on life. At Nogales, where Bill had driven Ellen to return to Hollywood, she makes her new decision and asks him to manage the ranch she plans to buy. He accepts but is hesitant to speak of his love for her because of his position and her wealth. They find the type of ranch they desire in the vast Durango property, 6,000 neglected acres in a beautiful Arizona setting. Back in Nogales to buy the Durango ranch, Bill is disappointed when Ellen tells him she is dining with Felix Montoya, son of their recent host.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 21

BILL HUNG up his telephone with mixed feelings of disappointment and anger.

It simply hadn't occurred to him that Ellen might not be available as a dinner companion. All morning he had been with her, out on the Durango ranch acres. They had ridden back after noon, had stopped for a delightful little adventure at lunch in a Mexican home. They had talked and planned and been as intimate almost as brother and sister. He just had unconsciously taken it for granted that she would be his dinner date.

The first inflexible rule of love, though—applicable both before and after marriage — is never to take anything for granted. Bill Baron was smart enough to know that, normally. But a man's mind is never quite normal when his heart is involved.

"That chill!" he growled, thinking of Felix.

He went on to his own room, which was on the opposite wing of the patio from Ellen's, and began somewhat sulkily to shave and bathe and dress for dinner alone. He had been in the mood for a real meal, in a nice place, and by glory he'd have it if he had to eat with nobody. Lunch hadn't been much, and he was hungry.

He softened some as he dressed, however. After all, Ellen had done nothing unkind to him. Another man had simply come to see her, had asked to take her to dinner, and she had accepted. Bill himself hadn't, as Ellen tactfully reminded in their phone conversation, mentioned taking her out until 7 p.m. That is rather late.

"Venison in the dining room tonight, Senor Baron," a hotel maid told him when he came down the arched promenade. "Fresh from the Mexican hills today."

"Thanks, but I have to dine out," he told her.

It had occurred to him that he'd better leave the hotel for dinner, lest he encounter Ellen and Felix there and cause Ellen some embarrassment. Best thing, when a rival has your girl, is to keep out of sight. After all Bill owed Ellen that consideration. He did not forget that she was his employer, too.

He decided to dine at El Tecolote —The Owl.

It was a gay place on the American side of the border, small but select as to clientele and food. It had a floor show, a center area for dancing, a very good orchestra, a reputation for decency.

It was already past eight o'clock when he came in, and he was hungry as a bear. The room appeared full.

"There is a single seat, senor, there by the palm fountain," the head waiter informed him, pointing. Artificial palm trees stood in a tiny desert oasis created there, opposite the orchestra. The seat was right at the dance floor, but Bill didn't care. He took it.

Men and women alike turned to look at William Baron as he strode across. This handsome Texan was a striking figure, made more so tonight by his slightly aloof air which was bred in part by his combined hunger and moodiness. He didn't glance at his admirers; he just sat down opposite a stranger at a tiny table and urged the waiter to hurry the main dinner along.

The music broke into the chatter and laughing then. Couples edged onto the floor, and one pair went into a faster bit of gliding and whirling. A pretty Latin girl stepped out and sang a chorus of the song, so sweetly that she commanded applause for two encores. Bill watched her disinterestedly. When his food came, he pitched in for full enjoyment of it.

Some tables had been reserved, and the parties were arriving. He gave them no notice. He couldn't see all of the room because of the palms. The stranger opposite him finished eating and left presently. The waiter reappeared, solicitous.

"If the senor would like a lady companion for the evening," he began, 'the management—"

"No," Bill interrupted. The waiter bowed away.

The food lived up to promise. Its warming, satisfying influence crept over Bill, and his mood gradually changed. He began thinking of the gaiety around him. Girls were laughing, men were showing off. The drinking so far appeared to be orderly. It was a nice place, The Owl. Bill thought some of plans for buying the Durango rancho, and of the architect he had tentatively hired, but his attention kept coming back to the gay scene in the dining room. The orchestra appeared to have gained enthusiasm. The night was on.

Presently a musical overture heralded a floor show number, and Bill, who had finished eating and was thinking to go, decided to remain for one act at least. He felt pretty fine, his good humor returning. They didn't need his table; he'd wait.

The act started when the orchestra leader abruptly halted his music for an instant to shout one word:

"LOLITA!"

He pronounced it beautifully—Lo-LEE-tah—giving it just the proper liquid flow asonly a Latin can.

At once the music was a muted, melodinous, Mexican dance rhythm —a haunting, seductive thing. Speech and laughter ceased; diners sat up in their chairs expectantly. Then all at once the dance floor was glorified by a vision in crimson.

Lolita could have been 17 or 18. Or 16. She had something of Lupe Velez in her eyes; but not the sophistication. She had black hair. She wore no jewelry, needed none. Her bare arms were ornamental enough, her lips and eyes and cheeks themselves were jewels. And the velvet thing she wore seemed blessed with an iridescence—or was it th flow of beauty and motion Lolita put into it, Bill wondered?

Repeated applause spattered the act, in sheer admiration of the girl's appearance, and instantly the room was quiet again save for the music. Her act was long, but she danced so superlatively well that nobody cared. She was quite serious about it; maintaining an expression in keeping with her classic motion, almost an aloof, unseeing expression as of deep ecstasy.

The thunder of applause of course brought her back, and with the encore her manner changed. The orchestra stepped up to a saucier cadence, and lovely Lolita became a temptress and a flirt. She put in several eccentric, comic little steps, still delightful; then she began circling the floor in her own solo interpretation of a Mexican tango. She winked at a man or two, and tickled a fat customer under the chin. Bill laughed with the rest. Then all at once Lolita was at Bill's table. The music stopped dramatically, the orchestra leader's baton still poised.

"You dance wiz me, eh senor?" Lolita asked him.

Bill stared incredulous, but pleased.

"Go on! Go on! You're getting a break, pal!" The crowd was shouting at Bill, razzing him as he hesitated. "The lady won't bite! Go on! What do you want in life, anyway!"

Bill Baron was a good fellow, in more ways than one. Women admired him and men liked him, which combination is somewhat rare in this jealous world. Moreover, he had been fed and rested into a happier mood by now, and he retained much of youth anyway. All at once he was up and dancing away with Lolita. The applause and laughter roared.

He did very well at it, too. He could dance smoothly. The tango was not beyond him, and Lolita molded herself to his slightest motion. She clung quite close, a happy, beautiful thing, smiling into his eyes.

They were whirling rather fast, over near the orchestra, when Bill caught, all at once, the strained look on Ellen Dale's face. Ellen sat with Felix, who was beaming.

Bill halted the dance, the floor show. He was staring.

"H-hello," he stammered.

It was awfully lame. Knowing it, he blushed, feeling the heat creep up on him, and blushing the more therefor.

He was badly confused, but as Lolita gently urged him he went on dancing quickly. There wasn't anything else he could do.

Wigs Taken Off

LONDON, June 23—(AP).—Lawyers took off their court wigs and clerks went without vests to-day, with the temperatures in the 70's marking a week-long heat wave.

Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., was the only counsel before a House of Lords committee to keep on his wig, after the chairman, Lord Carnock, suggested the barristers be comfortable.

"It gives me confidence," Sir Patrick said.

It was 75 to-day in London. The week-end peak was 78.

DOROTHY DIX

A group of school girls who find themselves tongue-tied and dumb when they meet strangers, and especially strange boys, ask me how they can become fluent conversationalists.

Well, daughters, for the most part the gift of gab is sotmething that comes by nature, and if your Fairy Godmother failed to put a numble tongue instead of the traditional silver spoon in your mouth when you were born, it is just too bad. You are out of luck and can never hope to become a real, genuine, bona fide, top-flight spellbinder.

You see, the trouble with learning to be a good talker is that conversation is an unformulated art, with no rules and precedents to guide you; no recipe for making it. You can't say: Take a cupful of words, throw in a few facts, sweeten them with a little sentiment, season them with wit and humor and turn out a dish that every one will eat. You can't even lay in a supply that will always be available because the very secret of good talk lies in its spontaneity, and no one knows before which way the cat will jump.

Nor can you drag the poor creature in by its head or its tail unless you have the temerity of an old man I once knew, who, no matter what subject was being discussed, would loudly clear his throat to attract attention and say: "Speaking of shipwrecks. When I was wrecked off Cape Horn, etc., etc." Ad infinitum. But while it is true that by learning your little piece and being always ready to speak it you will not become one of the talkers upon whose words audiences hang, you need not regret your amateur standing, for there are no other such bores as those professional conversationalists who seize the centre of the stage, hold it and shut every one else out while they strut their stuff.

So, little ones, you need not mourn as one without hope if you cannot think of something dazzling and scintillating to say when you are introuced to the Jones lad. Just take it easy. Fall back on the good old weather, which is always fair and warm and settled, as a conversational jump-off. Few people care for verbal fireworks unless they are doing the shooting themselves, and they are thankful to any one who does not put a strain on their originality or their vocabularies. Being dumb yourself makes you a million times more attractive to others than making them feel dumb themselves.

Keep the conversational ball going. Don't catch it and hold it when it comes your way. Toss it on to the next person. Bear in mind the fact that the dullest man in the world would rather hear himself talk than listen to Solomon, and that every woman regards her row with the butcher as a more thrilling episode than your account of how you were wrecked in an airplane on top of a mountain.

Don't talk too much. The most tiresome people on earth are the chatterers whose tongues are hung in the middle and work at both ends. Monologists are pests that we flee as we would Satan. Remember that no one can be thrilling and exciting to listen to for more than fifteen minutes at a time. So make it short and snappy.

Don't talk about yourself or your affairs. And, above all, don't tell your secret sorrows. Only our mothers are intrested in our symptoms and our operations and heart throbs and how much we paid for our new hats. Let other people tell you about theirs, but weep mum about your own.

If you don't know what to say to people, just try out your conversational lines on yourself. You know the things that make a hit with you. You like people to be friendly to you and to show an interest in you. You like it when they compliment your new frock, or your hair-do, or your game of tennis, or the way you dance. It pleases you when they remember that you like chocolate ice cream instead of vanilla.

You like it when they listen to what you are saying as if it was really important. And you like it when they don't try to high-hat you conversationally and just talk about simple everyday affairs instead of the trend in Norwegian literature. You will never go amiss when you say the things to other that you would like them to say to you.

And finally, my children, if you want to be thought brilliant conversationalists, don't talk. Listen. The most fascinating people we ever meet are those who lend us their ears instead of giving us their tongues. If you can learn to put real heart-interest in your tones as you say: "Oh, do go on! It is the most thrilling thing I ever heard," and "Please tell again that witty story about the two Irishmen. You do that dialect so marvellously," you will have mastered the whole are of being a great conversationalist.

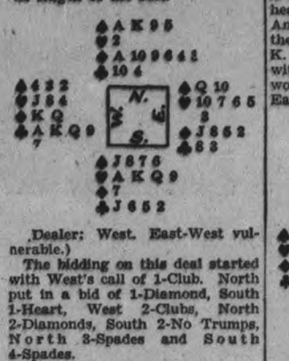
"The Authority on Authorities"

A BIG ADVANTAGE

ONE OF THE greatest advantages of a four-four trump division between declarer and dummy is its perfect adaptability for a cross-ruff. Using only one trump at a time, instead of two as when trumps are led, you manage to have a winning trump in a much larger number of tricks, perhaps twice or nearly twice as many as the length of the suit.



Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal started with West's call of 1-Club. North put in a bid of 1-Diamond, South 1-Heart, West 2-Clubs, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Spades and South 4-Spades.

East opened the club 8 against this contract. West won with the K and after cashing a second club trick, led a third on which North played the spade 9 and East overruffed with the Q. Having lost three tricks, it was now necessary for declarer to plan the hand so that no additional trick would be lost.

With perfect timing he accomplished this. East's return, after winning the third trick, was a heart, which was won with South's A. The diamond A was cashed and a diamond ruffed. The hearts K and Q were now taken and the heart 9 ruffed with the spade 5. Another diamond ruff followed and the club J trumped with the spade K. The diamond 10 was ruffed with the spade 8 and the spade A won the final trick, on which East's 10 fell.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"And all of a sudden," said Mr. Punch to Knarf and Hanid, "the cow landed on the moon. I jumped off her back at once and seized her tail and kept her from jumping any more. She might have started jumping over the stars, you see."

"Are they higher than the moon?" Hanid asked.

"Oh, yes—a great deal higher. I would never be here to tell you this story if she had jumped over the stars. Well, Susie was a pretty sensible cow all right, so she decided not to do any more jumping. So I finally let go of her tail. Then I looked around to see what the moon was like."

"I jumped off and seized her tail."

"Was it a full moon or a half moon?" Knarf wanted to know.

Mr. Punch shook his head. "It was neither. It was just a thin little sliver of a moon. The little path that curved off ahead of us was freshly sprinkled with new white pebbles (they were really called moon-stones as I found out later). Well, I made up my mind to go up the path as far as it led to see if we couldn't reach a house or something. I remembered—and I suppose you do, too—that there's a man in the moon."

"Oh, yes, we've heard of him," Hanid, listening eagerly, exclaimed.

"I've often seen his face," Knarf added.

"That's right," Mr. Punch answered. "He does show his face on nice, clear nights. So up the path we went, Susie and I. I looked around for a little pasture where she could eat some grass. Bue there weren't any pastures and there wasn't any grass. 'We'll come to the house of the man in the moon soon enough,' I told her. And just as I said that, what do you think?"

But No Windows.

"What?" the two shadow children asked excitedly.

"Why, there, at the top of the path, was the house. It was pure white and it had steeples and towers and roofs and chimneys. It was the most beautiful and delicate house I had ever seen. But somehow it seemed strange."

"How was it strange, Mr. Punch?"

"It didn't have a single window or door that anyone could see. It was nothing but walls."

"My goodness. Then how did you ever get in?"

TOURS, France, June 23.—(AP)—Five officers of the Air Ministry staff and a wireless operator and a mechanic were feared killed today when a twin-motored airplane crashed during a night flight over Central France.

Insurgents Break Government Lines

HENDAYE, June 23 (AP).—Spanish Insurgents broke through government lines to the south bank of the Seco river today after capturing the village of Onda, on the outer rim of Valencia's defences.

Government troops held firm south of the river, however, despite incessant poundings from heavy artillery and almost ceaseless machine-gunning by relays of swooping planes.

Onda, 35 miles north of Valencia, is about 15 miles inland from Villarreal on a line government forces have held stubbornly against the insurgent drive south along the Mediterranean seaboard.

Government machine-guns implanted on a 3,000-foot peak and in the angle formed by the Seco and the Castellon De La Plana-Valencia highway swept the battlefield and repelled the insurgent waves.

Drastic Retrenchment Program Is Proclaimed In Japan

TOKYO, June 23 (AP).—Reflecting the stringency of Japan's economic position, the government announced today a drastic new retrenchment program expected to begin functioning July 15.

The order, to be implemented by application of those portions of the "Nazi-model" national mobilization law applying to economic activities, was titled "mobilization of materials."

It affects production, distribution and consumption inside Japan and gives priority to materials to supply arms, ammunition and export materials, the government said.

"The ultimate end of the current incident still is very distant," the government communique announced, in an obvious reference to the conflict in China, now almost a year old.

Long Drawn-Out War.

The inevitability of protracted warfare necessities further control over economic functions, it added, and consequently the Cabinet approved the plan formulated in a five-Minister conference.

The plan contains eight planks:

1. Restricted use of metals, chemicals, oil, gasoline, rubber, wool, linen, leather and lumber.
2. Promotion of thrift among the people whereby it is estimated $2,320,000 could be saved during 1938.
3. Reconstruction of export trade. (The import control law will be relaxed to allow entrance of raw materials intended to become exportable manufactures).
4. Control of commodity prices to halt the current upward trend.
5. More intensive use of synthetic materials.
6. Further curtailment of imports except war materials and raw materials for exportable manufactures.
7. Distribution control.
8. Increased promotion of mining and home industries.

Japan invoked 11 of the 30 articles of the National Mobilization Law on May 3. These portions required registration of all adults with

County Councillors Have Their Wives Inspect County Home

Woodstock, Ont., June 23.

WARDEN Charles Milton wasn't satisfied with the report a special committee of Oxford County Council made on the county home, so asked all the councillors to bring their wives to town today.

The wives inspected the home and brought in a report to the council, recommending a few more curtains and replacements for broken cups. Two hand irons weren't enough to handle all the ironing, they reported.

The councillors were so pleased with the report they treated their wives to dinner.

police, and empowered the government to examine reports and records of any business.

The measure provoked a serious parliamentary crisis when many members of the Diet opposed its passage. It gave the government unlimited power to draft human and economic resources in a war emergency, and eventually passed when Premier Prince Konoye pledged it would not be applied in the present Chinese conflict.

Application of the 11 articles at the time was believed to be a compromise after a Cabinet crisis in which the Premier was reported to have threatened to resign rather than invoke the law to please army and navy interests.

On May 26, however, the Cabinet was reorganized when three Generals, Ugaki, Araki, and Itagaki, took places in the government along with Ikeda, who as former directing head of the vast Mitsui interests is one of Japan's foremost financiers and business men.

Little Germany Tavern Keepers Face Lean Week

NEW YORK, June 23 (CP) — Harlem's thousands of dusky celebrants shagged off to bed or weaved their way to work today after a night of joyous jubilee which was touched off ecstatically when Joe Louis pasted Max Schmeling helpless inside of a round and retained the world heavyweight boxing title.

Through the hours of the night, a large portion of the 300,000 population of the Negro sector of New York milled excitedly up and down Seventh Avenue, north of 110th street. They danced and shouted, tooted horns, rang cowbells. They climbed all over passing trucks, buses and rode on the tops of taxis a la Emperor Jones. Dusky belles came truckin' out of restaurants and bars to join the mob.

Some of the Louis supporters regarded the win as a kayo for the Reichsfuehrer. They paraded down the avenue, giving the Nazi salute, preceded by a sign which said "down with Hitler. Up with Louis."

Squads of additional police had little to do as the thousands observed the victory good naturedly, and without indulging in any extremes.

Yorkville, as New York's "Little Germany" mourned the toppling of Schmeling.

Few of the thousands in this German district expected "Der Mox" to lose. Probably none conceived him losing in the first round—as one fraulein put it: "Ach-widout a chance."

So came the gloom to Yorkville. Almost everywhere it was noticeable from late last night when the loudspeakers blared forth the result—"Louis by a knockout in the first round"—until well on in the day as the German settlement shelled out its greenbacks.

Tavern keepers, primed last night for wild jubilation stood glumly at their doors today facing a lean week. "If he win last night," said one "all my tables ist booked — but Maxie lose und all the money go to Harlem. For a week there will be no more beer drunk."

Western Liberals Said Dissatisfied

OTTAWA, June 23—(CP).—The budget debate may end with a vote Friday night, making it one of the shortest in recent years. It was not certain to-day whether Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader Bennett would speak, but it was considered likely they would.

There were reports along the parliamentary corridors last night that a group of Western Liberals possibly would bolt the party on the budget vote. It was reported some were dissatisfied with the Government's monetary policies and some with the absence from the budget of tariff reductions. However, while one or two may jump the party traces, it was considered unlikely there would be many.

A tentative agreement has been made between the parties to prorogue June 30. Judging from the past, however, the House is more likely to close July 2 than June 30. There generally is a last-minute change of plans, a few members wanting to bring up new subjects or prolonging debate on old ones.

MAN'S BODY FOUND

Humpage—Butters

HAVELOCK, June 23.—A wedding of much local interest which took place in Toronto last Saturday, was that of Miss Marion Aileen Butters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Butters, of Toronto (and formerly of town), who was united in marriage to Kenneth Marshall Humpage, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Humpage, of that city.

Rev. Murdock MacKinnon officiated at the ceremony, with the wedding party standing against a background of peonies, palms and ferns. Mrs. Vera Clark played the wedding music and Mrs. R. W. Robertson sang.

The winsome bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chantilly lace on princess lines, with stand-up Peter Pan collar, and a short train. Her full-length silk veil, embroidered at the corners, was arranged with a headdress of pearls and orange blossoms, and her shower bouquet was of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Thelma Johnson of Trenton attended her cousin as bridesmaid, in pink marquisette over taffeta embroidered with turquoise bows, and Carroll Card, another cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, wearing a floor-length dress of turquoise marquisette with pink bows at the waist. Mr. Maurice Humpage was best man for his brother and the ushers were Craig Butters, the bride's brother, and Bill Sharp.

At the reception afterward at the Old Mill, the bride's mother wore peacock blue lace with leghorn hat and American Beauty roses. The groom's mother was in gray lace over turquoise with gray mohair hat and Talisman roses.

The happy couple will reside on Gainsborough Road, after a motor trip through the Southern States, following a trip to New York. The bride travelled in a modish dress and three-quarter coat of parisand trimmed with dubonnet. Her hat was parisand and her accessories dubonnet shade. She wore a red fox fur, the gift of the groom.

Among Havelock friends and relatives who attended the wedding were: Mrs. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, daughter Josephine and son Errol; Mrs. T. Sarginson and son Neil; Mr. and

Ann Johnston Weds John Cairns

Standards of pink and white peonies decorated Sacred Heart church at eight o'clock this morning, Thursday, for the wedding of Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. Chas. Johnston and the late Mrs. Johnston, 215 Perry street, to John Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cairns, 275 Prince street. Rev. J. J. O'Brien officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride was gowned in white suede lace over satin, made on long princess lines with short train and Queen Ann Collar. Her white marquisette veil fell gracefully from a halo of orange blossoms, and she wore white suede shoes and white kid gloves, and carried a shower bouquet of rapture roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ann Cairns, sister of the groom, was in turquoise blue net and lace over taffeta, with lace and net jacket. She wore a white linen hat, kid shoes and white lace mittens. Her bouquet was of dark briarcliffe roses.

Mr. Edward Johnston, brother of the bride, was best man, and the usher was Mr. Edward Cairns, brother of the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque; to the bridesmaid a locket of blue forget-me-nots; to the soloist a gold compact; and to the best man a cigarette lighter.

Mrs. H. B. Puffer, Mrs. William Copp, Mr. and Mrs. George Rigby.

A wedding breakfast was held at the Champlain Hotel following the ceremony, where the bride's sister, Mrs. A. Ledasseur, in navy sheer with corasage of talisman roses, received with the groom's mother, Mrs. Cairns, wearing a striped navy sheer and corsage of roses and sweet peas.

The young couple left for a trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a dress of straw colour with flowered jacket and large leghorn hat. She wore straw-coloured accessories, and carried a beaded bag. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Cairns will live at 215 Perry street.

We Noticed

....That the half-holiday yesterday found many young ladies headed for the beach, coolly attired in gay sport green short-sleeed shirt worn with costumes. Particularly smart was a beautifully tailored matching slacks. Her companion looked chic in a short, white gored skirt and trim jacket buttoned down the front.

....Someone else was wearing a sun dress of powder blue shantung with a divided skirt and navy blue bolero. A large navy hat of rough straw protected its wearer from the scorching rays of the sun.

....A bathing suit of bright coral was taking its first dip in the waters of Lake Chemong, and it was made with a detachable skirt over a trim tank suit, and worn with a white rubber bathing cap.

Desert Problem Is Solved By Strawberries In June

By MARY MOORE)

As usual with fruits freshly in season it is "gilding the lily" to do anything but serve them as is—I want my strawberries whole,—with no sugar, and if it is one of my lean days I'll take a little cream on them. Peaches and raspberries are just the same.

But some people have to cook to be happy (lucky for me!) so your chances with embellishing the berry are at hand.

The two best are Emen's Strawberry Pie and Strawberry Mousse—recipes for both of which have appeared before. If you want them again, write.

Meringues for Buffer Suppers are particularly good (see last week's page), and as I promised some deserts to go with last week's Smorgasbord suggestions a Strawberry Meringue is the season's best gift.

Strawberry Meringue.

Prepare large individual meringues (see below), and remove the centres by scooping them out while the meringues are still soft. Fill the cavity, heaping it well, with fresh strawberries which have previouly been halved and sugared slightly. Top with whipped cream and garnish with a perfectly shaped berry. Serve cold (but do not put meringues in refrigerator) on lace paper doilies.

Individual Meringues (cases).

Whites 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1¾ cups powdered sugar (or 1 cup fine granulated). Beat whites until stiff, add gradually two-thirds of the sugar and continue beating until mixture holds its shape, add flavoring, then fold in remaining sugar. Shape with spoon or pastry bag and tube on wet board covered with letter paper or white shelf paper. They should be at least four inches in diameter to make an adequate dessert when filled with berries or ice cream. Bake 50 minutes at 275 deg. Fahr. then remove from paper, and if they are to be used as cases, scoop out the soft centre before allowing them to cool.

Frozen Strawberry Whip.

Into a large cold mixing bowl place 1 cup crushed strawberries from which all the juice has been drained, ¼ cup confecioners' sugar, 2 cold egg whites, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Using a rotary beater beat until the mixture is very stiff. Then pack into tray of mechanical refrigerator and leave until frozen without stirring. Cut into squares for serving.

The above is a very economical dessert.

If you wish to extend the strawberry flavor for a big family dinner the following way to make a steamed pudding may appeal to you.

Strawberry Puffs.

Chop cleaned berries until you have two cups. (Do not hull berries until they are washed or some of the exposed flesh will take on water—for this recipe some of the less choice berries can be used).

Sift together 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, and to them add 1 egg beaten with ½ cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Beat well. Place 2 tablespoons of the chopped berries in bottom of custard cup which has been buttered and place 2 tablespoons of the batter over them. Steam very tightly covered for 20 minutes and serve warm with cream or Foaming Sauce (see below). This may be baked same as any fruit Betty by putting all the berries in bottom of buttered baking dish and covering with the batter and baking at 375 deg. Fahr.

Foaming Sauce.

One-half cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons fruit juice, 1 egg white. Cream the butter and sugar well, then add the vanilla and fruit juice (strawberry juice if this is to be used for the above Strawberry Puffs), and flavoring and beat. Before serving, add the water carefully and the egg whites which have been beaten until stiff. Beat until foamy and serve immediately.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream.

One and one-half tablespoons granulated gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1-3 cup boiling water, 1 strawberry pulp (juice and mashed berries), powdered sugar, ¾ cup cream, pink coloring (if desired). Soak gelatine in the cold water and dissolve in the boiling water. Add the fruit pulp and sugar to sweeten it (between ½ to ¾ cup should be enough to suit the average taste). Then add coloring. Stand bowl in pan of ice water and beat until mixture begins to thicken; then add cream which has been beaten until stiff. Mould and chill. Canned strawberry juice may be used when the fresh are out of season.

Lenox Strawberries.

Wash, pick over and hull choice strawberries. Pour over them the Lenox Mixture (see below), chill thoroughly, arrange in glasses and garnish around edge with whipped cream (sweetened and flavored delicately with vanilla) forced through a pastry bag and tube.

For the Lenox Mixture, mix juice of one-half orange, 4 tablespoons sugar, and 6 drops orange curacoa (if you do not have it on hand use 1 teaspoon orange extract). Allow the above quantity for each serving.

Strawberry Chiffon Pie.

One tablespoon gelatine, 4 eggs, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup crushed berries, ½ cup sliced berries, 1 cup whipping cream whipped, if desired. Soak the gelatine in ¼ cup cold water; beat egg yolks with ½ cup of the sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, pinch of salt, and stir in double boiler until thickened, then add gelatin and crushed drained berries. Cool until thickening begins, then fold in stiffly beaten whites mixed with ¼ cup sugar. Pour into bake pie shell and dot with extra berries and top with whipped cream.

The same recipe will do for raspberries, or peaches, apricote or pineapple.

Write enclosing stamped addressed envelope if you want Emem's Strawberry Pie (with syrup glaze) or Strawberry Mousse.

Quibbel-Dobbin

A quiet, lovely wedding was solemnized at Queen Street United Church, Lindsay on Saturday at one o'clock, Rev. H. C. Wolfraim officiating, when Viola Dobbin, Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millen G. Dobbin, Lindsay, became the bride of Ralph F. Quibbel, son of Mrs. F. Quibbel and the late Mrs. Quibbel, Lindsay.

Delphiniums, peonies and orange blossoms adorned the church, and beautiful organ music throughout the ceremony was played by Mrs. W. Ferguson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in turquoise blue chiffon with taffeta trim. Her halo hat and accessories were of white, and she carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and blue cornflowers. She was attended by her sister, Miss Winnifred Dobbin, wearing pink sheer with white accessories, and carrying a bouquet of blue delphiniums.

The best man was Mr. Clare Ebert of Lindsay.

Following the ceremony the young couple left on a motor trip to Fort Erie and points west, and on their return will live at 13 Pettinger street, Lindsay.

Style Whimsies

Attractive black crystal bottles of fragrant bath oil to match the perfume she wears are suggested for shower presents for the bride. They would be appreciated, too, by the going-aways.

Millbrook Couple 40 Years Wed

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Gray is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deyell, of Cavan, and is the last actual member of the Deyell family to be residing in Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gray were Mr. John Gray's parents, and the "bride and groom" have been life-long residents of Millbrook a ndvicinity, their first home after marriage was at Carmel, a short distance south of the village, and seventeen years ago they came to Millbrook to live on Main street, where they have resided ever since. They were married at the Manse, Millbrook, on June 16, 1898, by the late Rev. William Johnston, minister of the Presbyterian church.

Showers For Bride-Elect

Miss Esther Lashbrook, Rubidge street, has been much entertained prior to her marriage on Saturday, June 25.

Mrs. T. Rose of Bolivar street entertained at a linen shower in honor of the bride-elect, when lovely gifts were presented in a decorated basket by Barbara Rose and Marian Butcher. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Marjorie McDougall, Bethune street, entertained at a miscellaneous shower, and gifts were presented by Miss Betty Craig and Miss Ruth Smith. Games and contests were enjoyed during evening, and refreshments served.

Mrs. W. McKinlay, Rose avenue, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower. Gifts were presented to the bride-elect by Christina Monk and Billie Bebee, which was followed by an evening of games and singing. Refeshments were served at the close.

Western Wedding Of Local Interest

Of interest locally is the wedding in Edmonton recently of Elizabeth Blanche Logie, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Logie, a graduate of Nicholls Hospital, and the late Mr Logie, who was manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Peterborough during the war.

The wedding of Elizabeth Blanche Logie, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Logie and the late Mr. Logie (former residents of Chatham, N. B.), and Oswald Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Manning, took place in Robertson United Church, at a ceremony holding the interest of society here and in Ottawa where the bride's family had their residence for several years.

For the occasion the church was filled with palms, ferns, and flowers in silver vases adorning the pulpit.

Entering the church on the arm of D. McCallum, manager of the Edmonton branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the bride was very lovely in a gown of white lace made with a simple bodice and a long skirt worn slightly en train. Her veil of white illusion tulle hung from a circlet of orange blossoms. Her slippers were white satin and she carried a colonial bouquet of roses and sweet peas held in a silver flower holder worn by her grandmother, Mrs. G. B. Fraser, on her wedding day.

Miss Marjorie Logie was her sister's bridesmaid and was charming in white organdie with drifting skirt banded in coral taffeta. Her hat made entirely of flowers, was coral to match the trimming on her gown. She carried a muff of pink sweet peas.

Rev. H. A. McLeod performed the marriage ceremony and A. Kevon played the wedding marches. The soloist was Miss Violet Cumming. Ralph Smith, Thomas Attwood, Lionel Dobson and Kenneth Higham were the ushers.

The wedding reception to seventy guests was held at the residence of the bride's mother. The rooms were decorated beautifully with pink and white flowers.

Receiving with the wedding party were Mrs. Logie and Mrs. Manning. Mrs. Logie wore a smart gown of French grey ninon, and a wide brimmed grey hat trimmed with violets. Slippers of violet suede and a corsage of roses completed her toilette. Mrs. I. J. Manning chose a costume of night blue net with hat to match and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride travelled in a tailored frock of pink wool worn under a coat of navy French crepe. Her hat was pink felt, and her slippers and accessories were blue to match her coat.

Taffeta evening frocks with velvet bows again are in demand.

HOW TO BUY BY GRADE
When ordering your beef, eggs, poultry, canned fruits and vegetables, and creamery butter, ask for the quality you want, by grade—then look for the grade mark on your purchase. When you buy by grade you buy with confidence.

BEEF
The Government grades of Beef are RED BRAND - BLUE BRAND
RED BRAND, "Choice" quality, is marked with a red ribbon-like stamp, so that part of this grade mark remains visible on every cut. BLUE BRAND, "Good" quality, is marked similarly, with a blue ribbon-like stamp.

EGGS
The Government grades of Eggs are
(GRADE "A1") - GRADE "A" - GRADE "B" - GRADE "C"
GRADE A (three sizes: Large, Medium, Pullet), best quality, suitable for poaching, boiling, frying; GRADE B, good quality, slightly inferior to Grade A for poaching, boiling, frying, but entirely suitable for cooking purposes;

GRADE C, lowest graded quality. (Grade A1, Large, Medium, Pullet, finest quality fresh eggs from Government inspected flocks, are available in limited quantities in certain localities.) Grade names are marked clearly on egg containers.

POULTRY
The Government grades of Poultry are
GRADE "A" - GRADE "B" - GRADE "C"
GRADE A, superb birds, well-fleshed, especially fattened for tenderness and flavour;

GRADE B, good birds but not as well-fleshed, fattened or flavoured as Grade A;
GRADE C, lowest graded quality. Graded poultry may be identified readily by a coloured tag on the wing or breast of the bird — Red for Grade A — Blue for B — Yellow for C.

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES
The Government grades of Canned Fruits and Vegetables are FANCY QUALITY - CHOICE QUALITY - STANDARD QUALITY
FANCY QUALITY, packed from a selection of the best fruit and vegetables available; practically uniform in maturity and free from blemishes; uniform in size and colour, canned at the proper time, so that excellence of flavour and appearance may be preserved.

CHOICE QUALITY, packed from fruit and vegetables selected for tenderness and flavour. Not as uniform as "Fancy Quality," allows slight variation in size, colour and maturity.
STANDARD QUALITY, packed from fruit and vegetables of good quality but not necessarily meeting the higher grade requirements as to size, colour and maturity.

CREAMERY BUTTER
The Government grades of Creamery Butter are
FIRST GRADE - SECOND GRADE - THIRD GRADE
FIRST GRADE—highest quality; excellent flavour; well made; smooth, waxy texture; uniform in colour.

SECOND GRADE—usually imperfect in flavour; may be defective in texture or uneven in colour.
THIRD GRADE — inferior to second grade in flavour, texture or colour.

Alex Wilson Tells Of Early History At Church Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 23. — Another anniversary was observed on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church basement, when the congregation, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, enjoyed a splendid congregational social, as a fitting close to their 80th anniversary.

Hastings' oldest native resident, Alex. Wilson, aged 84 years, had the honor of telling in his own humorous and interesting manner of the history of Presbyterianism in Hastings from 1858-1938, giving a full account from its beginning.

Guests invited for the occasion were Rev. Wm. and Mrs. Stocks, the latter extending greetings from St. George's Anglican Church, and Mrs. Newell of Trinity United Church, the Rev. F. W. Newell being unable to attend.

The room was beautifully arranged with summer flowers, and the table was made most attractive when arranged by Mrs. J. V. Findly, Mrs. W. S. Wilson and Mrs. W. S. Fife. A three-storey birthday cake, the gift of Mrs. Charles Dodd, was adorned with 80 candles and centred the table. On either side were silver holders with tall burning tapers, and on each corner were placed silver vases of Sweet William. Miss A. Hermiston, St. Andrew's oldest active member, and one who seldom misses a Ladies' Aid meeting, had the honor of cutting the anniversary cake. Mr. Alex. Wilson, the oldest male member of the church, blew out the candles. Worthy of mention was the fact that Miss Margaret Johnston, who recently celebrated her 82nd birthday, was present and was also asked to cut the cake.

Interesting Program.

The program arranged by the president, Mrs. W. S. Fife, was exceptionally well given. Rev. D. K. Perrie acted as chairman for the following:

Violin selection, Donald Beamish, accompanied by Arthur Beamish on the piano; solo, Mrs. Stewart Whitred, "The Little Old Church in the Valley"; remarks by Rev. D. K. Perrie and Rev. Wm. Stocks; recitation by Miss Jessie Whitred, "That Terrible Tommy"; guitar instrumentals by Messrs. Jess Hall, Harold Fife and J. Taylor; piano instrumental by Mrs. D. K. Perrie and Miss Betty Campbell.

A dainty lunch, including sandwiches, cake, tarts and the anniversary cake, were served by the members of the Ladies' Aid.

Face Broke Out In Large, Red Pimples

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face; many a cheek and brow in the mould of beauty, have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost by the presence of skin eruptions.

Pimples are caused by the blood being in an impure condition, and are a source of embarrassment, and many of those so afflicted are ashamed to go out in company.

Miss Phyllis Twiddy, Ivanhoe, Ont., writes:—"Last spring my face and back began breaking out in large, red pimples.

It was very embarrassing for me to go out in company, and people began to avoid me.

I tried several kinds of blood purifiers, but none of them seemed to help me. I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles, and my friends wondered where all the pimples had disappeared to."

Tenders Called For War Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP).—The United States Navy accelerated its warship construction today under the $1,000,000,000 fleet expansion act.

It called for bids on four destroyers, three submarines, three fleet tugs, and the propelling machinery for a submarine tender. Upwards of $40,000,000 was involved.

Two of the big seagoing tugs, expected to cost $2,076,000 each, were authorized in the act to expand the fleet by 20 per cent. The others were approved in earlier legislation.

The award of contracts, expected in a few days, will speed up naval construction toward a rate unmatched since Great War days.

MILLBROOK

Small Attendance At Golden Links

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 23.—The June meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle was held on Monday at the home of the president, Miss Phyllis Kidd, who occupied the chair. Owing to the school examinations and the warm weather, the attendance was not as large as usual, but interest was well sustained.

The president reported the annual bale sent to Peterborough, and gave a list of the contents which included a complete and dainty layette, as well as other articles, with toys and picture books for children and some hospital supplies.

The treasurer, Jean L. Burnham, reported the allocation half raised at the end of the six months, $25 having been remitted to the Presbyterial treasurer. Two members were appointed to write to a sick and absent member, Margaret Luxon, of Newtonville, Betty Lunn and Miss Burnham.

The history of The Church of All Nations, opened in 1928 in Toronto, was taken by Jean Burnham, and proved informative, the lesson was read by Della Mae Sisco, and Jean Fisher gave an outline of "The things we are up against"—drink, gambling, impurity.

Mrs. D. Lunn closed the meeting with prayer, and the hostess served home-made candy during the social hour. The invitation of Mrs. Howard Brackenridge to hold the July meeting at her home, Second Line, Cavan, was gratefully accepted, a picnic lunch to be served.

HOW YOU CAN Attract MEN

OF course, you have no men friends if you've let yourself become dull, cross, and nervous. Men like lively, peppy girls—girls with plenty of energy to go places and enjoy life.

Don't let love and romance pass you by. Help build up your pep and you, too, should have gay friends.

Here's good advice: Start taking time-proven, reliable Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and note the difference. This famous Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots, helps Nature tone up your system and thus soothes jumpy nerves and gives you more pep to really enjoy life.

Tear out this notice NOW as a reminder to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound TO-DAY without fail.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" distress from female functional disorders with Pinkham's Compound. Let it help YOU.

Oshawa Minister Is The Speaker At Janetville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, June 23.—Rev. W. R. Tanton of Simcoe Street United Church, Oshawa, and a former pastor here, was the guest speaker for the annual Sunday School anniversary at the United Church on Sunday, June 19.

The altar was a bower of beauty with a profusion of rose peonies, which in their silent beauty and perfection gave abundant assurance that "Come what may, God is in His Heaven, and all is well with the world."

The children's choir of eighteen voices rendered exceptionally splendid numbers. These included two anthems, a much anticipated and appreciated vocal duet by little Ralph and Anne Robinson, aged five and four, who sang "Happy Days" in soprano and alto parts. Their mother, Mrs. William Robinson, presided at the organ for the morning service.

Evening Service.

At the evening service Mr. Tanton spoke on the subject, "Christianity in the Home."

The regular choir rendered delightful anthems, with Miss Bessie Howe at the organ, and Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, assisted in the service.

Rev. M. A. Bury, who was home for the evening, expressed the appreciation of the congregation in having Mr. and Mrs. Tanton present at this time and for the excellent and timely discourses.

The church was filled to the doors for both services.

Bonarlaw Pupils Present Program

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, June 23.—A splendid demonstration concert was given in the Orange Hall, Springbrook, on Wednesday evening of last week by the school children of Springbrook and Bonarlaw schools who have been receiving musical instruction from W. H Wildman of Norwood. There was a good attendance.

A number of choruses were given by Springbrook Junior, Springbrook Seniors, and Bonarlaw pupils separately as well as Springbrook Seniors and Bonarlaw pupils combined. Two choruses by five girls of Springbrook Junior room were also given.

Canon W. G. Swayne of Bonarlaw acted as chairman in his usual capable manner, and in introducing Mr. Wildman to the audience expressed his appreciation of the result of the training the pupils have received from their instructor. He mentioned the splendid way in which the pupils kept together in the various choruses and the beauty of tone.

Mr. Wildman, in a brief address, explained the work he is doing and paid tribute to the school teachers, Misses McKeown and Wallace of Springbrook and Miss Pollock of Bonarlaw, who have assisted him greatly in this work.

Between numbers by the pupils, Mr. Wildman contributed a pleasing piano solo; Miss Norma Mason gave a recitation entitled "Stage Fright"; Messrs. W. H. Wildman and J. F. Baker sang two duets, and Mr. Baker gave two tenor solors. Mr. Wildman was accompanist for all musical numbers.

Misses McKeown, Wallace and Pollock each expressed their pleasure seeing so many of the parents out to attend the concert and thanked those who had assisted with the program.

Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee is chairman of the committee. The motion to buy the property from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, by Reeve Tanner and seconded by Reeve Milby concluded an hour's discussion, and Warden McDonald called a night session to enable the council to examine some of the property Friday afternoon.

The Warden said there was 500,000 feet of merchantable pine and considerable pulpwood in this forest, nearly all of which has never passed out of the possession of the Crown.

"There are no strings to the purchase except that no part of the land can be sold without the assent of the Department," Reeve Anderson informed the committee. "This reforestation project is largely a voluntary effort by this council for those who come after us."

Mr. Anderson said some counties had gone into reforestation on a sort of partnership plan with the government, and would thereby have to share with the province any revenue or other benefits that might accrue. Peterborough has preferred to obtain sole possession, and will have full rights to whatever profits or other income that may in time develop.

First Price $8,000

In the negotiations with the government, Warden McDonald said, the first sums mentioned were around $7,000 and $8,000. The Department valued the 2,665 acres at three dollars an acre, but finally accepted the council proposal of $3,000.

Reeve M. Coughlin, Douro, expressed a personal doubt about the benefits of this form of reforestation especially in a county so heavily wooded as Peterborough and with continuous replanting by nature, at no cost to the county. "I can appreciate the benefits to those persons who wish to plant out trees on their own property, say an acre, or two or three as the case may be. But I simply can't see the wisdom of the county going into it. Timber was worth more thirty years ago than it is today, and when thirty more years roll by it doesn't appear that there will be as much demand then as now at the rate so many substitutes are being introduced."

Tried For Murder Aboard Ship

HONG KONG, June 24. (CP-Reuters).—Ordinary seaman Edwin Dwyer, 19, was acquitted today on a charge of murdering leading seaman Robert Dickinson, 29, aboard the cruiser Dorsetshire off Australia May 2.

The defence refused to submit evidence and claimed the crown's case was purely circumstantial.

The crown had charged Dwyer shot Dickinson after the latter had discovered an offence Dwyer had committed. It was the first trial in a century for murder aboard one of his majesty's ships.

Ottawa Is Unable To Go Ahead With Insurance

OTTAWA, June 24 (C.P.). — The Government will not proceed with an Unemployment Insurance Bill until the necessary legislative jurisdiction is vested in the Dominion Parliament, A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni) was told on Thursday when answers to his questions were tabled in the House of Commons.

State Secretary Rinfret in the tabled answers said Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia had agreed to a proposed change in the British North America Act to give the Dominion jurisdiction. Alberta, New Brunswick, and Quebec would not agree.

The Government has not submitted to the Provinces any draft measure to provide for unemployment insurance. What was sent to them was the draft of the proposed B.N.A. Act amendment.

Mr. Neill asked if the Government would lay a draft Bill on the table of the House. The answer said:

"To lay on the table a Bill which the Government knew in advance to be ultra vires would not be in conformity with the Government's view of sound constitutional practice. To publish a draft, which would not even be a Bill, would appear to be open to even more serious misconstruction.

"The Government feel that, before attempting to proceed with specific detailed proposals for legislation, it is essential that the necessary legislative jurisdiction should be vested in Parliament."

Fur Merchant Is Sought On 3 Charges

Quebec Court Fails To Hold Man For Ontario Police

TORONTO, June 24 (CP).—Ontario police launched an air and land search today for Jacob Isaac Glick, Sudbury fur merchant, as they sought to break up a huge internation illicit fur ring operating in three Canadian provinces and great Britain and the United States.

Glick is out on bail on charges laid in Ontario and Quebec and a third charge was laid against him today by Ontario. All charges are of illicit fur dealing.

Glick was arrested yesterday at Rouyn, Que., when he stepped from an airplane which police said contained $10,000 worth of poached furs. Hon. H. C. Nixon, Ontario Minister of Game and Fisheries, formally requested Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec not to allow Glick bail. Before the Quebec Premier acted, Glick was released on $100 bail and disappeared.

Seek Re-arrest

Hideout Reported.

Provincial Police throughout the north country were seeking Glick. At least one airplane left to-day to search an isolated lake far north of Sudbury where illicit fur dealers were reported as having a hideout and where they thought Glick might be.

"We had quite a bit of trouble last year with a huge ring or rings of illicit fur dealers, but we are having much more trouble this year," said Mr. Nixon.

"The dealers using an airplane, land on a lake, pick up thousands of dollars worth of fur cached there in a few minutes, and soon they are out of the province.

"The dealers work through Winnipeg and Montreal. Sometimes they ship direct to London and to the United States."

Mr. Nixon said he would ask the Legislature next year to make airplane transport of furs illegal in Ontario without a special licence from the Department of Game and Fisheries as a means to check the swiftly-growing traffic.

If Glick is captured in Ontario, Mr. Nixon said he would not be released on bail. He was arrested first last week in Gogama on a charge of illegally buying 90 muskrat skins from Treaty Indians.

He was released on bail and remanded for trial on July 8 at Elsas, 150 miles north of Sudbury.

Need More Money To Run Down Spies

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP).—President Roosevelt said to-day he thought the army and navy should have more funds for running down spies in the United States.

The President's comment, made in response to press conference questions, came after he had said that the question of publishing a series of newspaper articles on New York spy investigations involved both patriotism and ethics.

The articles, prepared by Leon G. Turrou, a former Justice Department agent, have not been published pending the outcome of a suit brought by the Government to prevent their publication.

Asked whether recent disclosures regarding spy activities in the United States would make it desirable to provide additional funds for counter-espionage by the army and navy intelligence services, Mr. Roosevelt replied in the affirmative.

Japanese Advance Up Yangtse Slow

SHANGHAI, June 24.—(AP)—The Japanese advance up the Yangtse River toward Hankow slowed to a snail's pace today as a result of severe fighting and an overflowing river.

Forces on the north bank of the Yangtse, fighting to attack obstructive booms across the river at Matowchen and Kiukiang, reached Yentang in Anhwei province. Since the capture of Tsienshan a week ago, this unit had advanced nine miles and was approximately 70 miles from Kiukiang, 135 miles down river from Hankow, the provincial capital.

Foreign sources said 100 Japanese marines were killed and 20 injured when a navy launch in the area struck a Chinese mine Thursday. Among the casualties were a Japanese news correspondent and a photographer.

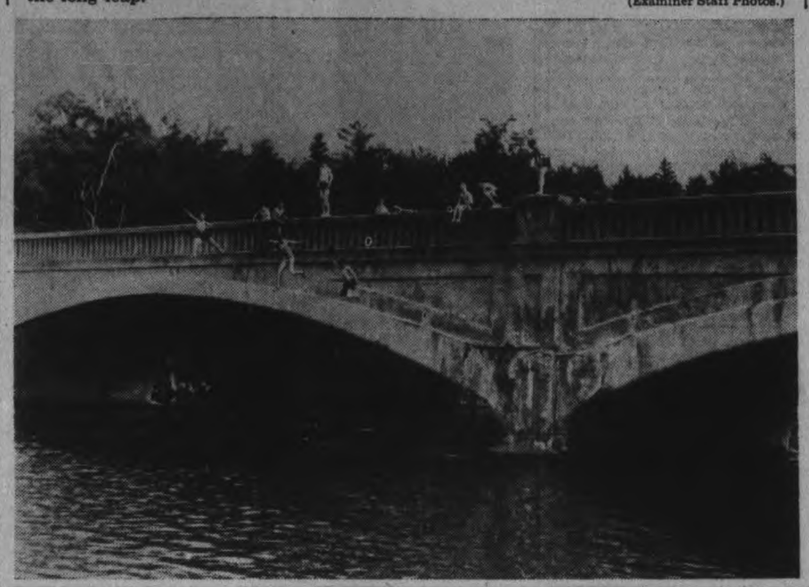
Jumping From Bridge

Height held no fears for these youngsters who were swimming at Inverlea park on Wednesday afternoon in the broiling sun. For hours they ran to the top of the bridge, jumped from the top into the cool water away below, returned for another and another jump. All in their early 'teens, the youngsters seemed not a whit afraid of the long leap. (Examiner Staff Photos.)



County Asks Minister To Fire A. L. Killaly

Resolution Claims Canal Superintendent Refuses To Co-operate With Council

That A. L. Killaly, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, be asked for his resignation on the alleged grounds that he had refused to co-operate with the county council and had acted in an arbitrary manner, was the substance of a resolution to the federal Department of Transport, moved by Reeve Wallace Shearer of Harvey, and seconded by Reeve John Clark of Galway, and passed by the county council Thursday afternoon with Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield opposing it.

"I certainly won't subscribe to that resolution," Mr. Tanner declared. Mr. Killaly has his peculiarities, but I believe that he is a very conscientious official."

"You must be one of his favorites," Mr. Shearer replied. "You can't get any co-operation at all from him on the lakes. You have to go over his head for everything you want."

Mr. Shearer said that Mr. Killaly had caused Potts' stillpond to be drained, that Potts appealed to him and then had to wire to Ottawa to have stoplogs placed in the dam again.

Suburban Speeding

Steady improvement in the roads supervised by Suburban Area Commission is creating a speed problem, M. E. Smithson, one of the three Commissioners, told the council. "The eventual solution may have to be the appointment of some traffic officer," Mr. Smithson said. "I leave that suggestion with the county roads committee. Only a small percentage of automobile drivers travel at a high speed over our roads. They drive in the centre of the road over the little hills, without a thought of the fact that farmers still have to cross the roads with machinery and cattle. There is danger to the driver and the farmer, but so

Land Dispute May Be Motive Double Murder

BRUDERHEIM, Alta., June 24.—(CP) — Police today investigated what they called a double murder and suicide on a farm in the Bruderheim district about 35 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Investigation showed, police reported, that Michael Ogal, 26, shot his brother John, 37 and his father, Alex, 72, and then turned his high-powered rifle on himself. Police were investigating the possibility a land dispute was the motive for the crime.

The shooting wiped out all male members of the family, leaving two sisters at the farm 13 miles northeast of Bruderheim, and six married sisters residents in Northern Alberta. Mrs. Aled Ogel died about three years ago.

No Buyer Claimed Woman's Eye

WINDSOR, Ont., June 24 (CP).—Mrs. Annie Middleton, Windsor, said today no buyers have yet claimed one of her eyes which she recently advertised for sale at $6,000. She offered to sell the cornea of either of her strong eyes because she was "completely fed up" on being on relief.

"Once I had taken the step I felt relieved about the whole thing," she said. "My husband never had an idea I was thinking of such a thing, and it has come as a big surprise to him."

Mrs. Middleton, 40, native of Glasgow, Scotland, decided on such a course to obtain money, after hearing operations of cornea transference had been successful in restoring sight to a blind eye.

Her husband, a baker, has long been without work, and the family has been on relief for 3½ years. Mrs. Middleton feels confident her family can become re-established with capital.

Seeking To Avoid Clash With Fascists

TORONTO, June 24.—(CP)—Two Leftist political parties made plans today to avoid any clash between their supporters and Fascists who hold a meeting here July 4 in Massey Hall. The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation's Toronto region council has announced a meeting the same night at Queen's Park, more than half a mile away, to attract its members from any possible clash with the Fascists.

The provincial office of the communist party said today an announcement would be made tomorrow about its plans for an anti-fascist meeting the same night. The communist headquarters said even if no meeting is held, their members had been requested to stay away from Massey Hall that night.

"We are not going to interfere with the Fascist meeting in any way," said Trustee William Dennison of the C.C.F., announcing the meeting. "We would much rather have our supporters in Queen's Park than have some go to the other meeting and perhaps lose their tempers."

"When he arrived there, he got in touch with the provincial police and said he had stolen a car from this city," Detective Sharpe said. "He was lodged in the Sudbury district jail and I brought him back Wednesday. The owner of the car went with me and has not yet arrived home."

The landing was made from Namoa Island, 20 miles east of Swatow. Chinese, after retreating inland, counter-attacked and held their ground against the Japanese near Chihlin.

Prime Minister Chamberlain Is Bitterly Assailed For Stand On Ship Bombings

Sir Robert Hodgson Asks Franco To Explain Without Delay While Bombing Of Ships Continues

LONDON, June 24 (CP-Havas).—The opposition press today assailed Prime Minister Chamberlain for his stand against retaliation for the bombing of British ships in Spanish ports.

"The real facts are that Mr. Chamberlain has not the courage necessary to be prime minister of Britain at the present critical time," the News Chronicle (Liberal) charged. "A firm policy now would pay as it paid at Nyon and over Czechoslovakia."

The Daily Herald (Labor) commented:

"If to defend our merchantmen in this instance would lead to the outbreak of a general war in Europe we would be the first to say 'very good, let them be defended.' But really it is cheap and desperate rhetoric to suggest any such thing.

"Is Premier Mussolini declaring war upon us if we tell General Franco we will not tolerate the destruction of our ships and the murder of our seamen? Is Franco taking us on in addition to the Spanish government? Asking these questions is answering them."

More Than a Gesture

The Daily Express (Independent) predicted that if Sir Robert Hodgson, British agent in surgent Spain, is unable to give the cabinet Francos promise that deliberate attacks on British ships will cease, the Ministers will at once consider further action. Such action, the Daily Express said, might involve recall of Sir Robert from Burgos and a demand for withdrawal from London of the Duke of Alba, Franco's agent.

"This will be more than a 'gesture,'" said the Express, "as it would seriously handicap Franco in his trade relations with Britain, which are important for him."

Ask For Explanation.

Sir Robert Hodgson, British agent in Insurgent Spain, today requested the Burgos authorities to explain without delay why General Franco's airplanes continue to bomb British ships in Spanish Ports.

On receiving General Franco's reply Sir Robert will immediately return to London, where he expected early in the coming week. Whether or not Sir Robert returns to Burgos will depend on the nature of the explanation he brings with him.

A decision on this will not be taken until after consultations between Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Halifax, and Sir Robert.

Following adoption of the British plan for the withdrawal of volunteers the non-intervention committee is now considering how to finance establishment of observers in Spanish Ports with fanlitie or unloading war material.

Negotiations are under way for the exchange of 100 British prisoners held by General Franco against 100 Italian prisoners held by the Republicans.

Plea For Return Of Ex-King Is Made At Birthday Dinner

LONDON, June 24 (A.P.).—A plea for the return to Great Britain of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor was voiced last night at a dinner of the "Society of the Octavians," which met to celebrate the 44th birthday of the former King.

Cheers greeted reading of a telegram which said: "Thank you for to-night's dinner and good wishes, which we much appreciate. Signed, Edward."

The society, sworn to uphold the honor of the former monarch, was formed by Windsor's admirers shortly after his abdication December 12, 1936, to defend him "from all slanderous attacks" and obtain fuller recognition for his past services to the country.

Compton Mackenzie, author and chief speaker at the dinner, denied any desire to "embarrass their present Majesties," but declared that those present "all agreed in love, devotion and loyalty to our former King."

Italy And Germany Assure Switzerland Her Neutrality

ROME, June 24 — (AP) — Italy and Germany today announced they had assured Switzerland they would respect her neutrality.

Both also congratulated the little republic on obtaining her freedom from obligations to take part in any future League of Nations sanctions—a freedom acknowledged by the League Council May 11.

Italy's assurance was given in an exchange of letters with the Swiss government.

"The Italian government is convinced that the unconditional maintenance of the integral and perpetual neutrality of Switzerland constitutes an important factor for peace in Europe," wrote Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister.

Switzerland joined the League with the stipulation she would not join in military sanctions and in April notified Geneva she would not even participate in economic sanctions.

Von. Ribbentrop's note to the Swiss government, dated June 21, congratulated Switzerland on liberating herself from League Sanctions obligations. It said:

"The German government welcomes this result because it sees in it unqualified maintenance of Swiss neutrality, an important element for safeguarding European peace".)

Twenty new locomotives on British railways will be named for duchesses.

Man Walks Down Town In His Winter Overcoat Woollen Scarf And Mitts

House Endorses Budget By Big Majority

OTTAWA, June 24—(CP)—Safely over the hurdle of the budget debate after a flurry of divisions, the House of Commons has settled down to discussion of the few tax changes the budget contained and is heading for prorogation within a week.

After a week's debate the House yesterday turned down the amendment and sub-amendment which would have defeated the Government. Harry Leader (Lib., Portage Le Prairie) was the only Government supporter to register with his vote his protest against lack of tariff reductions, voting against his party.

Dr. H. R. Fleming (Lib., Humboldt) caused a flurry when he arose near the end of the debate to protest vigorously against failure of the Government to lower tariffs, and to declare he would not b "intimidated by any minister of the Crown" nor would any party whip "snap me into action."

Dr. Fleming concluded, however, with the announcement he would vote for the budget and he did so when the divisions were called.

Abandoned Pledges of 1919.

Opposition Leader Bennett did not enter into the debate proper but twitted the Government on having abandoned its low tariff pledges of 1919 and subsequent years, and congratulated the country on having a government with the "courage to forget its promises" when they realized, as the Conservatives had always maintained, those promises would be disastrous to the country if carried out.

The Conservative financial critic, Hon. Earl Lawson (Con. York South), had moved an amendment regretting the Government had failed to take adequate measure to relieve the burden of taxation.

M. J. W. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) moved an amendment to the amendment regretting also that the government had failed to implement the low tariff pledges adopted at the 1919 Liberal Convention in Ottawa.

Mr. BENNETT explained why his party could not vote for the sub-amendment. Conservatives had always felt the 1919 pledges would be disastrous to the country if enacted and so could not express regret that the government had abandoned them.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who did not enter the debate formally, merely observed that although Mr. Bennett had dis-associated himself from the C. C. F. group their amendment lined them up with the Conservatives since adoption of their sub-amendment automatically supported the conservative amendment.

The C. C. F. sub-amendment was defeated on a division of 169 to 23. Voting with the C. C. F. group were

County Buys

Economy Essential

Reeve John Clark, Galway-Cavendish, said the proposal was all right "if you don't spend too much money on it and if you pay as you go. If good judgment is used, you should have an asset. It all depends on the way the county manages it."

Some counties who are adopting reforestation plans have bought land up to $20 an acre with no signs of trees on it, Reeve Gifford remarked. "Of all the schemes I have heard about, ours seems the most laudable. The land is cheap, there is a lot of timber on it, and any benefits accruing from it will belong entirely to the county. Of course, if the whole idea of reforestation is wrong, then we have made a mistake, but our mistake will be much less than the other counties are making. I think we are twenty years ahead of any plantation I've seen yet."

Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston said the property would probably require a man and helper to look after it, planting and doing other promotional work in the summer and thinning out in the winter. Timber could be sold from time to time, and the revenue should pay for the present maintenance.

"If North Monaghan had those 2,600 acres Peterborough county wouldn't have got a hand on them," Reeve Milby commented.

Mr. Anderson said he had at times thought over the doubts Mr. Coughling expressed, but on the other hand there was the possibility of making a successful venture out of the undertaking. Something should be done to determine the limits of the property. Mr. Anderson omitted mention of all the time he has devoted to the reforestation project not only in the county but also in the district from York to Frontenac, of whose zone association he is convenor. He pointed out that the committee had not bound the county to anything, that the transaction with the government could be abandoned now if it did not receive the approval of the members. Mr. Anderson said that the Dummer-Belmont area was attractive for reforesting. Plans would have to be made for taking care of the property from the time the county secures possession of it, and it seemed advisable that a committee of management should have some member appointed for five years to give continuity of supervision and knowledge of the project.

Lobsters Are Mourning Loss Of Grandpappy Weighed 30 Pounds

Yarmouth, N. S., June 24.

IF THE Atlantic's waters off the Nova Scotia south shore seem a little saltier than usual tonight, it's tears. Every lobster from Block Island to Campo Bello is amourning the loss of his grandpappy.

Grandpappy came to an untimely end when he got tangled up in a trawl from the Yarmouth schooner Nina L. Amid remarks about submarines and Loch Ness monsters he was hauled aboard and weighed. Verdict—a little more than thirty pounds. Grandpappy's total wheelbase was thirty-seven inches.

They broke his claws off so they could get his body into a pot. Then they got two more pots and cooked the claws. The body fed the thirteen-man crew.

After they had a banquet from a claw, they filled its shell with water. It held a quart and a half. It was more than a foot long.

Hawks Create Four Way Playoff Tie

The Hawks, fighting to avoid elimination in the Southend Softball League race, last night downed the Cogs by a 13-8 count to create a four-way tie for third place. The winners came from behind and pounded Todd's hurling hard to cop the vedict. Elliott and McGregor divided mound duties for the Hawks. This win leaves Little Harlem in first place with five wins in seven starts; followed by Keene with four and two; and Hawks, Quakers, Cogs and DeLaval with four and three. The last game of the first half will be tonight at the Brinton Field between Keene and Nationals. A Keene win will give the Villagers a tie for first, while a loss will give them a tie with the above four for second place. The Leafs are the only ones of the eight clubs not in the running yet. An executive meeting will be held tonight after the game and the playoff question settled at this time.

Venetians Cop 16-8 Win Over Admirals

Two Watercraft Softball Loop games were run off at the Ex. last night here with Venetians taking a 16-8 win over Admirals and Falcons copping an 18-6 nod over Comets. Some nifty softball was shown in the first fray with fair pitching and nice fielding, Admirals' errors being costly. An opportune circuit clout by Richardson aided Admirals at one time. The second game was a lively exhibition with Clancy of Falcons going great on the initial sack to rob his rivals of many hits, as he brought in five runs for his team. The Comets lacked the punch to pull out the victory. Hunter and Miller, opposing pitchers, worked hard. Next games are between Comets and Admirals, and the Venetians and Falcons.

Buying Subsides In Late Trading New York Market

NEW YORK, June 24—(CP)—After giving shares of the United States' leading corporations one of their most striking five-day price advances in years, the buying wave in the New York Stock Exchange subsided in the late trading today.

During the morning, many leading issues rose $1 to $3, in active dealings, making extreme gains since the start of the week of $10 to more than $15, but by Mid-afternoon, prices were off $1 or so from the best.

Trading slackened on the setback, however, and there was no rush to sell, as traders hoped the market was only taking a breathing spell. The early rush of buying piled up total transactions of 1,700,000 shares in the first three hours, largest in months.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem steel, and Chrysler, up $2 and more at the best, lost nearly half their gains. Westinghouse Electric rose about $3, Then cut its rise to $1.50. Issues remaining $1 to $2 above yesterday's close included International Harvester, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Dupont, Union Pacific and others.

Hammond Holds Unbeaten Count With 134 Runs

LONDON, June 24 (CP Cable).—After a poor start England made a brilliant recovery to score 283 runs for five wickets at the tea interval in the second cricket test match with Australia at Lord's today. Walter Hammond, England's captain, remained unbeaten with 134 runs while Edward Paynter, veteran Lancastrian, was dismissed after scoring 99.

The pair put on 222 runs in a fourth-wicket partnership, passing the English record of 151 by C. B. Fry and F. S. Jackson for Anglo-Australian tests made in 1905 at the Oval.

Hammond gave a brilliant exhibition of driving and cutting reaching his century in two hours, 25 minutes. Paynter was more restrained but frequently lashed out at the visiting slow bowlers. After being England's top scorer with 216 not out in the first test at Nottingham, the Lancashire pro experienced hard luck in going out leg-before-wicket to W. J. O'Reilly when only one short of the 100-mark. He batted three hours, his hits including a six and 13 fours.

The opening batsmen failed badly. Leonard Hutton obtained four. William Edrich failed to score and C. J. Barnett left after making 18. Following Paynter's dismissal, Denis Compton lost his wicket with his score at 6 and Leslie Ames played with Hammond until the tea interval.

During the morning the King paid a surprise visit to the St. John's Wood ground and Earl Baldwin presented the players to his majesty. Thirty-one thousand spectators saw the opening day's play.

The teams:

England—W. R. Hammond and Barnett, Gloucestershire; K. Farnes, Essex; Verity and Hutton, Yorkshire; Ames and Wright, Kent; Edrich and Compton, Middlesex; Paynter, Lancashire; Wellard, Somerset.

Australia—D. G. Bradman, S. J. McCabe, W. A. Brown, C. L. Badcock, A. G. Chipperfield, J. H. Fingleton, B. H. Barnett, A. L. Hassett, E. J. McCormick, W. J. O'Reilly, L. O. B. Fleetwood-Smith.

Canadians To Fly For the R.A.F.

OTTAWA, June 24.—(CP)—The exodus of Canadian civil pilots to Great Britain to fly with the Royal Air Force probably will be accelerated by the announcement in London by Sir Kingsley Wood, British Air Secretary, that 31,650 volunteers, including 2,100 pilots would be recruited for the force, it was learned today.

For the past few years, many Canadian flyers who obtained private flying licences through flying schools and clubs in the larger Canadian cities have been taking advantage of opportunities offered by the R.A.F. Such pilots have gone to England on their own initiative and at their own expense.

The number of Canadian pilots now with the R.A.F. has not been officially disclosed but it is estimated at about 200.

While the British recruiting campaign also is aimed at obtaining observers, apprentices and specialized workers, it was indicated here that Canadian airmen are only interested in the request for pilots.

80,000 Roman Catholic Men-Folk Raise Reverent Voices In An Oath Of Unflinching Faith

(By William Stewart)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

QUEBEC, June 24—(CP)—From Quebec's broad cliff-top where the green-sloped plains of Abraham stretch far beyond countless church spires in the ancient city, more than 80,000 Roman Catholic men-folk raised reverent voices last night in an oath of unflinching faith.

For days from all parts of Canada and the United States they had gathered in the old capital where more than three centuries ago forefathers implanted that faith that brought them here as pilgrim's to Canada's first National Eucharistic Congress.

Broke Midnight Stillness.

Their solemn, spoken vow broke the midnight stillness over hallowed ground where forefathers also shed blood in final settlement of Canada's civil rule and echoed over the black St. Lawrence River which once echoed to the roar of cannon and musket from the selfsame spot.

The huge assembly packed a glistening, white amphitheatre encircling a repository where the blessed sacrament of the Catholic church was exposed in a seven-foot gold monstrance.

The thousands knelt on low wooden benches with bowed heads for an hour's adoration before they were called upon to raise their heads and give verbal manifestation of their faith.

Second Day of Congress.

The demonstration marked the second day of the congress. It was perhaps the most impressive of its kind in the Roman Catholic church's long history in Canada.

Cardinal Villeneuve, named by the Vatican as personal representative of Pope Pius XI, attended under escort of a Papal mission of six out from Rome for the congress, and nearly all the Dominion's Archbishops and Bishops.

The Papal Legate was seated in a tall white throne to one side of the gilded altar in the heart of the 125-foot, spire-like repository, and grouped around him were the church dignitaries in their pontifical purple and more than 3,000 white-surpliced priests.

Every Man Had a Candle.

During the hour of adoration whe nthe blessed sacrament was exposed by a white-robed priest who mounted the rear of the altar and placed the Host in its monstrance, the gathering joined voices in chants of praise, led by the Master of ceremonies whose voice broke from two high towers, at the foot of the repository, crammed with loudspeakers.

After benediction of the sacrament came the solemn moment when the 80,000 were called upon to speak a renewal of baptismal vows by which in childhood they were sworn to "renouce the devil, his pomps and ceremonies" and keep forever faith in "God the father, in Jesus Christ, his only son, in the holy ghost and the church and in God on the altar and the Eucharist."

Lights Turned Out.

Then, every one of 10 huge blazing, illuminating towers, and every floodlight playing up the pillared corners of the white repository, snapped out.

The 80,000 candles flared up, and from the flickering sea of tiny red flames, all that told the eye of the presence of the numbers in the amphitheatre was their voices.

Alphonse Kollitsierk, 35-year-old Eskimo brought all the way from Chesterfield Inlet in Canada's North-West Territories to attend the Congress sat with Father Lionel Ducharme, misisonary priest who converted him to the Roman Catholic faith, among the group of ecclesiastics on the repository platform.

He took Communion with thousands of others who received the Sacrament from the hands of 250 priests who passed through the stand.

More than 100,000 hosts had been consecrated during the hour of adoration by 15 newly-ordained priests who celebrated Masses at altar beneath the repository platform.

The demonstration concluded after Archbishop William Forbes of Ottawa celebrated Pontifical High Mass at the main altar.

In a trembling voice, he said he had been touched "beyond words by your expressions of faith. From this will come a change in the life of our country. I know we must remember our weaknesses, but the strength you showed was an all-powerful manifestation of homage to Christ the King Who will guide us through present conflicts."

Britain Taking No Chances Of Causing War

LONDON, June 24 (C.P.). — Unmoved by angry demands for reprisals, Prime Minister Chamberlain to-day stood firm on his declaration Great Britain will not take "the risk" of plunging into war to protect British ships in territorial waters of Spain.

Facing calls by David Lloyd-George, Winston Churchill, Sir Archibald Sinclair, and Clement Attlee for positive action—including demands that airdromes on the Balearic Islands be bombarded and Spanish insurgent cruisers seized—the Prime Minister said "No!" in a stormy debate in the House of Commons last night.

British ships went into those waters at their own risk, he declared. Both he and Richard Butler, Foreign Under-Secretary, compared such ships with British volunteers in the Civil War, who had to take their chances.

Taking Role of Pirate.

Mr. Butler said a proposed blockade of Mallorca, in the Balearics, would place Britain in the role of pirate, since the warships would have to stop neutral vessels, and this would create international complications.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal Leader, took him up promptly:

"This is a very serious matter. Will he (Mr. Butler) explain to the House why searching neutral ships should provoke war when the machine-gunning of British ships does not?"

Mr. Butler continued: "We are being asked to indulge in an obvious wrong under international law which might land us in more serious and dangerous results."

Winston Churchill declared no other great naval Power would have tolerated such attacks on its shipping, and asserted nothing could do more harm to Britain than seeking to condone the bombings.

Insulting To Flag.

"There is no country in the world," he said, "which has a greater interest in preventing air blockade or air bombing of neutral ships." He accused the government of accepting tactics which not only insulted the flag but would redound against Britain in the event of war.

If the insurgents persisted in their attacks, Mr. Churchill believed there would be nothing left but to threaten to seize one or several of their warships on the high seas.

"I do not believe that would bring all Europe into a general war," he affirmed.

Mr. Attlee and Mr. Lloyd George made similar demands, Mr. Attlee being particularly insistent that action should be taken in the Balearics.

If, as Mr. Churchill said, the attacking aircraft were to be considered belonging to insurgent General Franco, then there could be no complications with any other power.

Suggestions Rejected.

But Mr. Chamberlain rejected all these suggestions. Bombing of Mallorca would be the way to start a new European war, he said.

Britain's aim had been, and was, to prevent the civil war from spreading outside Spain.

Recalling the warning given to British shipping companies that their craft would be protected only on the high seas, he added that many shipowners had increased the number of their ships, and raised the pay of their crews, for the sake of higher freight rates.

"Is it plain," he asked, "that this country should go to war or take action which may very conceivably involve us in war in order to give protection to people like these men who have gone in for the purpose of making profits this way?"

Young Man Feared Burned To Death

MARLBANK, Ont., June 24—(CP)—Thomas York, 26, was believed burned to death in a fire here early to-day which destroyed the house of his father, R. York. Marlbank is 25 miles northeast of Belleville. Police were searching the ruins of the house for the body.

Thomas York came home about 2 a.m., and between 3 and 4 a.m. the fire was discovered. R. York, owner of the house, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward York, fled in their night attire. Residents said they believe the young man smoked a cigarette in bed and fell asleep, causing the fire.

Dr. M. B. Dales, Tweed coroner, and Constable C. Hughes of Tweed, were here investigating the fire.

We Are Feeling Happy

The Examiner admits quite candidly that it is feeling proud today regarding the accomplishment of two of its carrier boys. They have won an international trophy and it is the first time it has come to Canada. It comes about this way: The Circulation Managers of the continent are in session at Quebec city, and one of the features is a contest in salesmanship, the participants being carrier boys from newspapers all over the continent. One of the boys takes the role of the lady of the house, while the other lad comes and tries to interest the prospect to the point where he is told he can start leaving the paper. The boys are carefully trained in the manner of address, in the way to politely and sincerely present their arguments.

In order to enter the finals at Quebec the Peterborough boys, Lloyd Williamson, 15, and Arthur Roode, 11, had to first win the Ontario championship, which they attended to in Toronto, and after that they were faced with the problem of gathering up the Dominion championship. And that they did. After that they were eligible to meet the boys from United States who had been going through the same process of elimination, and finally it settled down to the last contest between lads from Peterborough and the team from the Toledo News-Bee.

It was only a few weeks ago when nine or ten of our carrier boys were in this office one evening trying for a place on the team. That is how Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson got their chance to enter the contest. Arthur Roode is but 11 and he is the one who demonstrated how selling should be done. He is not a large salesman, but he appeared to be very much in earnest; he spoke plainly and he never at any time hesitated or showed that he was at a loss for a word. When the marks were considered he was placed first in salesmanship, but he seemed such a little fellow, yet sturdy and full to the top with the matter in hand, and he had something which was indeed hard to resist. Lloyd Williamson is different; he talks readily and also without text. It did seem that the Examiner had a good team, but the idea of winning the international trophy in salesmanship was something which appeared to be—well at least a formidable undertaking.

But these two Peterborough lads from the Examiner carrier staff have done it. It may not be an elaborate phrase to use, but we admit this office is tickled pink. We hope the rest of the folk in the city feel the same about it.

No Results Apparent

Many folk have felt that the opening of the maskinonge season in this district ten days earlier than usual was a mistake from the viewpoint of conservation. It is now fairly clear that the change is not justified even as an agency for promoting tourist traffic and extending the summer season.

There has been no rush of tourists into this section of Ontario as a result of the earlier start in maskinonge fishing—in fact the influx this week has perhaps been smaller than was the case during the same period a year ago. After all that is not surprising for our friends from the south have to pay a substantial license fee if they want to fish in Ontario waters and as the bass season does not start until July 1, most American fishermen have probably come to the conclusion that there is no profit in a visit to Ontario until both species of game fish may be taken.

Opening the lunge season earlier has exposed the bass to the danger of being hooked and killed by maskinonge fishers; it has given our own anglers a longer season in which to take the rapidly disappearing lunge, and it has almost completely failed to accomplish what was claimed for it by its advocates that it would bring about a June rush of tourists into the province.

Just One Reason

On Wednesday evening it was rather hot in New York, but 80,000 people gathered in the Yankee Stadium to watch Joe Louis and Max Schmeling fight. The Louis gentleman comes from Detroit and the Schmeling personage from Germany with the good wishes of Hitler upon him. Early reports indicate there were gate receipts of one million dollars and it is stated that one-quarter of this amount becomes the property of Joseph Louis. The crowd paid its million dollars and saw a performance which actually lasted 2 minutes and 4 seconds. Of course participants in such a battle have to train and spend money, but when the public sat down to see the final show they were looking at the exit signs in about the length of time it takes a person to get properly adjusted in a seat.

There are few world events which draw the interest of that performance in New York. There were 39 of the American states represented in the press box; there were three writers from Canada, eight from England, four from Japan, five from France, eight from Germany, three from Poland, two each from Mexico and Sweden, and one each from Jugoslavia, Hungary and South Africa. There were 100 special telegraph wires attached to the press reservations.

And why such interest? Was it because people are so in love with the science of boxing and wished to show their active interest in supporting what they term the manly art of self defence? No—not for a minute.

It was known in advance that the men who would meet in that New York ring were sluggers of the killer type. There was something in the situation which reverted to the primitive instinct of battling until there was neither strength nor desire to battle any more; when one of the participants would make motions readily equivalent of the act of crying "Enough."

Whether we like it or not there is that instinct deep set in a good many people which will cause them to hasten to the place where strong men are locked in combat; they will stand in a ring and make no effort to interfere. We may be a fine people today, but there is no other explanation for that million-dollar crowd in New York—it was due to what they call the killer instinct.

What The People Wanted

Ishbel Ross of the New York Herald Tribune addressed a banquet meeting of the Canadian Women's Press Club in Winnipeg, and discussed a point which is as interesting to readers of newspapers as it is to newspaper people. Just this—why is there so much sensational material published?

Instead of laboring the point from the angle of theory Miss Ross took a concrete case; something which had happened to the New York Herald Tribune which is a great newspaper and not given to sensationalism. At the time the Lindbergh kidnapping was the story of the day it was known there were no new developments. Newspaper people were aware of that and so were police, and the Herald Tribune was content to cover the story by inserting nothing more than a five-line box item saying there were no new developments. What happened. Miss Ross explained it this way:

"We did this for a week but we simply couldn't keep it up. The paper was flooded with calls, letters and protests. Our readers insisted on getting all the facts."

Other and lesser papers in New York at the time were turning their writing staffs and photographers loose on that story. They were not writing news because there was no news, but they were indulging in speculation; they were telling yesterday's story again today in different words; they were interviewing people who lived in the district but who knew nothing at all of the case. The idea was to fill pages with kidnapping material and each hour turn out another extra which met tremendous street sales. There was definitely a market right at the door for what was plainly over-writing and much rubbish. But that was what the people wanted and that is what they got.

Snoring Goes Scientific

The world appears to be growing more and more scientific. Things which used to be taken for granted are now studiously attacked; we want to know the reason for this and the purpose of that; the idea of accepting things and asking no questions seems to have departed.

As a sample of this changed outlook we take the simple and quite old business of snoring. People have snored for a long time, and there were families and communities which produced great snores. But no person thought anything about it. If action were taken it would assume the form of throwing a boot at the door or causing the person who snored to turn over on the other side.

Today it is different. We have been reading about the experiments which have been conducted and of the explanation offered by Miss Margaret McEachern. In order to measure the extent of a snore they used an audiometer and the units of measurement are known as decibles. What a decible is we are not certain but the first part of the word leads one to believe it is ten of something or other.

But to get down to something definite. We learn that when a person is snoring the machine registers 40 decibles, and reducing that again to something more readily understood it is stated that equals the amount of noise in the average office or the racket produced by an automobile. What sort or condition of an automobile is meant is not stated, but we suspect it means one running with the cut-out open.

We learn too that one out of eight persons snores regularly, which would be 12½ per cent. of the population, and also that nearly all persons snore occasionally. That of course makes one feel better and places the world on a feeling of equality. Just what application one can make of this sort of knowledge we do not know. It is recommended that chronic snorers should consult the family physician who in turn may turn them over to the family surgeon for treatment. There is a sort of tranquil atmosphere produced by the long, well-developed snore; it indicates deep sleep and a measure of repose which admits no argument. Whether one should disturb that by carving section from the individual is something we hesitate to recommend.

Go Where It's Safer

The heat wave has had the usual effect of driving hundreds of people to seek coolness by plunging into the water somewhere and as a result there is swimming everywhere in the city and district where river or lake offers an opportunity for bathers.

Unfortunately much of this swimming is being done in places where the conditions are far from safe for inexpert swimmers, where there is no supervision, no apparatus for life saving, and where freedom from accidents is a matter of good luck. Many of our young people, thanks to the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., are good swimmers and are able to take care of themselves but there are many others who are inexperienced novices and in addition numerous children who know nothing about the art of swimming and they are to be found splashing around in places where it would not be difficult for them to get into danger.

Inverlea Park, the city's bathing beach, is now open for the season and there the conditions are about as safe as could be expected. There is a life guard on duty and facilities have been provided for rescuing bathers who may find themselves in difficulties and the civic beach offers the best opportunity to be found here for safe bathing.

Under the circumstances the parents of young children who have not learned to swim should see to it that they do their bathing at Inverlea, rather than expose themselves to the danger that exists at many other unsupervised swimming places. Until children become expert they should not be allowed to take chances.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The prize for the week goes to the radio commentator who characterized the Louis-Schmeling fight as the triumph of democracy over Nazism.

There is one good thing anyway about a heat wave. It offers a logical excuse for printing pictures of pretty girls in sketchy bathing costumes.

A story comes from Toronto about a hit-and-run motor launch. Surely the thing is not spreading from the highway to the waterway.

In the face of the fact the Senate has granted 88 divorces this session who will dare to say the Upper Chamber hasn't any work to do.

A Toronto man has been distributing match boxes on which he has had printed his application for a job. It is a good idea even if the folk who have positions to offer generally carry lighters.

British car makers are alarmed at the way in which the cheaper German car is selling in their market, which seems to indicate that patriotism is not sufficient in itself to offset a bargain price.

Cleveland negroes nearly started a riot in celebration of the Louis victory. That of course is the kind of thing that made many folk hope before the recent fight that the Detroit fighter would run into a k. o. punch.

A man of 39 years chinned the bar in the Y.M. gymnasium at Worcester, Mass., 29 times and then died from overexertion. We are certain enough no physical director ever urged such violent exercise.

Hamilton man surrendered himself in Sudbury for stealing a car in Hamilton, saying he would rather be locked up than drive over some of Northern Ontario's roads. The Tourist Bureau is not likely to use the incident in its next bulletin.

More Toronto pupils will pass entrance without trying the examinations than in any previous year. Pleasant enough, but there used to be a fair amount of big feeling in looking over the names in the village paper and being able to identify your own.

PUZZLED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Jake wrote in today, six pages held the things he'd say, a funny hand has Jake; I've read it through three times by now, and it puts wrinkles in my brow, I fear there's some mistakes.

¶ Jake's got a cottage on the bay, a place I'd like quite well to stay, I think he asked me there; but reading slow just like he'd trace, it seems that he has sold the place, it called for too much care.

¶ And on page two I thought Jake said, that he was coming here instead, if we had any room; when next I read it said that Jake, was planning boat trips on the lake, and leaving pretty soon.

¶ Then Jake said something of his son, some noble deed that he had done, he'd got a medal too; and then it looked like on the farm, they'd metal shingles for the barn, the boy had nailed a few.

¶ When I get letters sent from Jake, I know for sure how long 'twill take, to get them figured out; he gets things twisted bad at times, I have to read and read his lines, to learn what they're about.

¶ Jake doesn't often write I know, perhaps it's best that such is so, I'm puzzled with each one; if Jake would write each week to me, it's very plain for one to see—that I'd get nothing done.

This Debate Came To A Stop

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. MACKENZIE King: I say immediately that at no time did I discuss either with the hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Woodsworth) or the hon. member for Winnipeg North (Mr. Heaps) at Laurier House any matter referring to the program of politics in this house.

Mr. BENNETT: The hon. gentleman says in his letter that he discussed it with them. I am going to read it presently. I said, "at Laurier House," because that is my understanding of what the hon. member said. But if it was not at Laurier House, it was somewhere else.

Mr. MACKENZIE King: I never discussed with these gentlemen at Laurier House any matter that related to a political program in this house.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Withdraw!

Mr. BENNETT: Just one moment. I have said I accept at once the right hon. gentleman's word on that point, but I am going to read about the discussion with these hon. gentlemen.

The government of the present Prime Minister did not secure a majority of the votes in the election of 1925. It did not secure a majority of the seats in the election of 1925. It held on to office, though nine ministers were defeated, including the Prime Minister himself, and when the house met on January 7, 1926, the Prime Minister was not in his place. He had been defeated; he had no seat in this house, and the house was led by the right hon. gentleman, the present Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe). The question whether or not the then government would remain in office depended entirely upon the attitude of mind of a very few people. In fact, in one division the majority was one; in another the majority was two, and the majorities ran in and out. The present hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Woodsworth) was then in this house, as was also the present hon. member for Winnipeg North (Mr. Heaps). At page 560 of Hansard—

Mr. SLAGHT: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order.

Mr. SPENCE: That is all you ever do.

Mr. SLAGHT: The retort of the hon. member for Parkdale (Mr. Spence) is refreshing.

Some hon. MEMBER: State the point of order.

Mr. SLAGHT: Mr. Chairman, the point of order is this. As I understand it, we are discussing the estimates of the Department of Labour, and what on earth have they to do with the topic which the right hon. gentleman is at present pursuing?

Mr. ROWE (Dufferin-Simcoe): You do not like it.

Mr. SLAGHT: Yes, I like it, if the hon. gentleman wants to meet me on the hustings or anywhere else to discuss it.

Mr. ROWE (Dufferin-Simcoe): I have met you before.

Mr. FRASER: Worse for you, that time.

Mr. SLAGHT: It does seem to me, Mr. Chairman, that it is a woeful waste of time to be discussing this matter on these estimates. There may be a place and time at which the situation the right hon. gentleman has introduced may be discussed, but I submit this is not the time, and that he is entirely out of order.

The CHAIRMAN: On the point of order raised by the hon. member for Parry Sound (Mr. Slaght), I am of the opinion that the point of order is well taken. This debate has gone a very considerable distance and occupied a very long time. I think the discussion of the correspondence on the file which the right hon. gentleman has introduced is perfectly in order, also the discussion of the affairs at Kingston; but when the discussion goes back to 1925 and 1926 and to what happened in this chamber with reference to the elections of 1925 and 1926, I must rule the discussion out of order.

Mr. BENNETT: Well, Mr. Chairman, the reason I discussed these matters is this. It is correct and right to refer to facts as showing that inferences drawn are unwarranted; and the statement made by the Prime Minister that I was a conspirator I am going to negative by showing that if I am, I was following his example—only his was much more so. I have the Hudson Bay Railway story. He said: "The length of the millage depends on the number of members we get."

I am going to proceed by way of illustration. In argument one has the right to use illustrations. If I am charged with being a conspirator in 1935 and can show, by documents in Hansard and letters, that in 1925 and 1926, the right hon. the Prime Minister—well, if I cannot do that I shall have to accept your ruling, Mr. Chairman, but I certainly think I have a right to refer to the matters that were mentioned by the Prime Minister of this country in an endeavour to blacken my character by showing that at least what I did was not anything comparable—

The CHAIRMAN: Order. If the right hon. gentleman will permit me, I call the attention of the committee, in case it has been forgotten, that we are on an item in the estimates of the Department of Labour for the administration of the Employment Offices Coordination Act, and I would ask hon. members to confine their remarks from now on to labour matters under the Department of Labour. I have already ruled on the point of order raised by the hon. member for Parry Sound, and I am still of the opinion that my ruling is correct, and that for the last ten minutes, shall I say, the right hon. leader of the opposition has been out of order.

Mr. BENNETT: I bow to your ruling, Mr. Chairman.

DOES SHE NEED IT?

(The Argonaut)

A BILL has just passed Congress and been signed by the President to grant a five thousand dollar a year pension to Mrs. Harrison, the widow of President Harrison. What we should like to know is whether she is in need of the money or not. If she is, then the pension bill was justified. If she is not in need then the pension bill was not justified.

• Would Our Farmers Limit Output?

(By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

DOES THE Canadian farmer need or want fixed prices for his product? Let us take wheat as an example. Should the government guarantee us a dollar a bushel for our wheat crop? Should we be guaranteed ten cents a pound for our hogs, or a staple price for our milk, butter or eggs? If there is any need for a minimum wage for labor, then why not a minimum price for a pound of butter?

Mr. Denton Massey, representing a Toronto riding in the House of Commons, is apparently very much interested in the farmer's problems. Speaking in the House recently, he referred to the diversified products of the Canadian farm. He said: "We are wheat farmers, dairy farmers, fruit farmers, potato farmers, vegetable growers, and truck gardeners, and all the rest. I am seized with the feeling that the position of agriculture in this Dominion is of such vital importance to the Dominion as a whole that every assistance possible should be given to the farmer, both in the production and in the distribution of his product at fair and equitable market prices."

How can we secure fair prices without a guarantee that prices will not go below a certain fair point; and if that "fair and guaranteed price" were attractive to the producer it is certain that he would increase the volume of production in that particular line. For instance if hog growers were guaranteed a price sufficiently attractive, they would immediately raise more hogs. Not only that, but if the price were set at the same figure the whole year round, then most of the hogs would come on the market in the Fall, at a time when the market is normally overloaded.

Last Fall there was a mild shortage of butter in storage in Canada and prices during the winter months ruled high. The first of June storage figures showed a substantial increase over those of last year, and prices are sagging to a level where the profits are not overly great. Only a small portion of our present production would have to be exported to raise butter prices to a profitable level once more. The problem is not a difficult one right now—but what guarantee would we be willing to give that butter production would not be increased to a point where the exportable surplus would become burdensome? So it is with every other line of agricultural produce.

STABLE FARM prices. How the farmer longs for them; but we know that stable farm prices in Denmark and other countries that have tried the experiment mean regulation of the amount of goods produced. For instance, the Danish farmer who wants to finish ten hogs for market or whatever number of hogs he wishes to produce must first secure a permit, and permits are limited. Would the Canadian farmer be willing to limit his production? Collectively, would he be willing to guarantee a certain volume of product in those months when he now goes light on production and curtailed marketing in these months when he now overcrowds the market?

Prospects right now are for a good harvest on the American continent at least. It is quite likely that this will mean an increase in the production of live stock and their products, with a strong possibility of lower prices. There is a feeling, too, that to a large extent armament manufacture is responsible for a good part of the better prices prevailing on the British market at least. Should the armament race ever cease, prices of Canadian farm produce would no doubt become drastically lower. Would controlled marketing at fixed prices tide us over these hard places?

In Ontario we have a Milk Control Board, that seems to be working out well. With no material change on the export markets or no sensational increase in the flow to market, hog prices have been fluctuating of late. Could a marketing board prevent those fluctuations? The decline of fifty cents per hundred cost the Canadian hog producer something like fifty thousand dollars in that one week. Personally, we had a pen of hogs ready but held them over. Result: two heavies, on which we were cut a dollar each, but the advance netted us something like six dollars. Those two heavies: Well, they are the hogs the packers tell us cause the Britisher to avoid our bacon. Just the same, right there is the answer to the question as to why Canadian bacon is of such uneven weight.

• There's No Place Like Home

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

THE COUNTESS of Egmont, Calgary born and bred, is in London with the Earl, who is also a product of the West. The young Earl unexpectedly succeeded his late father, who unexpectedly succeeded to the estate in England. He went over there to look after family affairs but he does not expect to stay or to take his seat in the House of Lords. For the Countess this was her first visit. "I am proud to be in England," she said, "but I don't think anybody can ever beat Calgary, our home town."

The Countess was not taking a crack at London. It was merely her way of saying that although Old London is a bit of all right for a holiday, there's no place like home. We would not think much of the individual who was not a booster for his or her native area. Other places are nice to visit and tourists have good times in London, New York or Timbuctoo, but they are nearly always glad to get back to the old home town.

The remarks of the Countess of Egmont express the true Empire spirit. It is that spirit which made the British Empire what it is—thinking your own stamping ground is just the best place on earth, which also means that you will make the best of your opportunities there and help it contribute its bit to the whole. Her ladyship's observation is the right answer to those Londoners who think people who live outside London, or who worse still, live in another land, are to be pitied.

After all, nearly 40,000,000 people in the British Isles live outside London, and are just as happy, if not happier, than those who reside within it.

THEIR PERSONAL VIEWS

(Ottawa Journal)

"I TOLD Mr. Hepburn I would sign no cheque to satisfy even a judgment of the Imperial Privy Council in the case of the Beauharnois contract, because I believed the contract was improperly made."

So testified Stewart Lyon, exchairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, before a legislative committee.

In other words, Mr. Lyon would decide that his private opinion should over-rule a judgment of the highest courts.

Premier Hepburn thought Mr. Lyon was quite right.

"The Prime Minister," Mr. Lyon continued, "said that if any sheriff's order was made to execute any such judgment, the sheriff would cease to be an employee of the province before he reached the Hydro offices."

It is illuminating of the temper of the Reds and the Hitlers.

If law and the courts do not suit them, they will use any means in their power to defy and over-ride law and the courts.

Their personal views must rule. To blazes with the laws and courts of their country. They know best.

A FOXY IRISHMAN

AN IRISHMAN took a contract to dig a public well. When he had dug about 25 feet down, he came one morning and found it caved in—filled nearly to the top.

Pat looked cautiously around and saw that no one was near; then took off his coat and hat and hung them on the windlass, crawled into some bushes and awaited events. In a short time, some citizens discovered that the well had caved in, and seeing pat's hat and coat on the windlass, they supposed he was at the bottom of the excavation.

Only a few hours of brisk digging cleared the loose earth from the well. Just as the eager citizens had reached the bottom and were wondering where the body was, Pat came walking out of the bushes, and goodnaturedly thanked them for relieving him of a tedious job.

PULPIT SALARIES

(Brantford Expositor)

THE PROBLEM of preachers salaries, with its varied and numerous ramifications, is one that has long engaged church conferences, but it still remains acute. Until it is solved, the existing weakness of pastoral system will continue. A clergyman, regardless of the church in which he ministers, cannot be expected to give adequate leadership, administrative or spiritual, if he feels that expression of his convictions may have some bearing on his own social and economic security. In short as long as a pastor feels that he has to coax his congregation into paying him enough for a sparse livelihood, he cannot be a pastor in the real meaning of the word.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THE LAW of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple.

The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes.

The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring for ever; the judgements of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.—Psalms xix, 7-9.

And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us.

And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yes, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it.

But they, when they were departed spread abroad his fame in all that country.

As they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil. And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Israel.—Matt. ix, 27-33.

MAKE YOUR WILL

(Detroit News)

IF YOU ARE going on a week-end trip and are going to drive carelessly, put your affairs in order. Do you know that your chances of getting into a smash, Mr. Reckless Driver, are predicable just as a matter of mathematics. There are tables that make out a bad case against you.

Here are some figures that were tabulated for 1936: In that year the don't-care drivers who were exceeding the speed limit caused 116,780 accidents in which 7,410 persons were killed and 153,050 were injured.

If, after having the risks called to your attention, you remain one of the smart ones who will take a chance on anything; who like to boast they made an average of 60 miles an hour the whole trip; who race the hills on the wrong side of the road, and cut in and out of traffic to gain split seconds, make your will, get your affairs in order before you start.

Business Has a Heart

And business needs a heart. Your bloodstream would not be a great deal of use to you if it just found its own slow way to your various members. No more does your business grow strong and healthy by just letting information, goods and services leak out to the people who can use them. Business needs a heart to accelerate the stream of distribution and the return of profits . . . and it has one . . . newspaper advertising. With newspaper advertising you can supply the power and set the rhythm your business needs to grow healthy. And you can arrange a circulation to suit your needs too. Whether you want thorough coverage of a whole community or an entire continent, you can depend on the medium that everybody reads—the daily newspaper.

CANADIAN DAILY NEWSPAPERS

Job Insurance Is Urged By C.M.A. Head

HALIFAX, June 24—(CP)—Unemployment insurance was suggested by Dr. T. H. Leggett of Ottawa today as a means by which the State might dischanrge its "public responsibility" for medical services and hospital care of "the class in the lower income brackets."

"Any unavoidable gap in the working span of the citizen owing to illness may be filled through unemployment insurance on the plan of prepayment for the requirements of living," the Past President of the Canadian Medical Association said in his valedictory address to the society. He retired from his post last night when he was succeeded by Dr. K. A. Mackenzie of Halifax.

"The cost of illness should be included in the above. They are comparatively easy of administration by means of deductions of these items at the source. Our Workmen's Compensation Acts have pointed the way in this regard, and the worker thus joins in the contributory plan of repayment for his medical services, which he can command with the preservation of his self respect, knowing he has earned and paid for them himself."

Dr. Leggett saw two means by which the State could discharge this responsibility: "Either by paying for these services direct-State medicine—or by assuming responsibility for earning power for the worker sufficient to pay for these things himself."

But direct payment by the State for these medical services was "unwholesome, undermines the self respect in the individual, encouraging him to demand from the State more and more of the things he should supply for himself."

The Ottawa physician saw that the suggested condition "could undoubtedly be realized, based upon a Dominion-Provincial relationship, with the powers and responsibilities of each Government clearly defined."

County Tax Rate Is Increased .953 Mills—$114,502.15 Needed

Peterborough county's tax rate for this year is 10.768 mills as compared with 9.815 mills in 1937, an increaseof slightly less than one mill, exactly .953 mills. And the amount of money to be collected from the county taxpayers is $114,502.15. The county council's budget was passed by the finance committee Thursday night. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND THE Long Branch lads will be a-swingin' the long branches here tonight—or gutted sticks, if ya prefer that lacrosse term for the war weapons these huskies wave around. Anyway, this squad from up past Toronto tackles the Petes at nine o'clock in the George St. Arena in an O. L. A. senior "B" game. And let's have it on time this time. Dunno much about the Long Branchers, but they will no doubt give the locals a busy evening, else they wouldn't be grouped with 'em. Frank Randle's crew should be at full strength but for Shorty Reid, who got homesick and returned to Orrillia. After seeing the Terriers play here! Joe Meyette, who has a job in Brighton, will probably be in goal for the Petes this eve to end a fine net showing with the locals. Game ought to draw a good crowd.

* * * * * *

PERSONALLY, we know of 17,462 things we'd sooner do than play lacrosse when it's hotter than a hula-hula's heels. One of them is eating bricks of ice cream, another is lying in a tub of iced water, a third is sitting on a cushion under a tree while six lovely wenches swing fans—and so on. But one of the best things is to sit outdoors of an evening and watch a couple of dozen other guys tearing around like mad in a lacrosse match. We really enjoy that kind of fun. If the Long Branch boys and the Petes can don sweaters and pads and come to a quick boil—well, we're sure we can watch them with gobs of gusto.

* * * * * *

SPEAKING of warm sports, the heat will be on at Riverside Park on the morrow at three bongs of the gong. When Kingston Ponies play the Petes in a ball game. The third-place Ponies will be smarting like a sunburn when they recall that last lacing they took at the hands of the locals here, and the Murphy men will probably be ungentlemanly enough to rub it in at every opp. However, fans can figure on a lot closer contest this time, as the Kingstons now have three hurlers ready to chuck, Ed Pollar, Tony Paczkowski, and Yammy Jamieson. Can't say at the moment who"ll start on the slab for Peterborough, probably Kitchen or McNally. Ought to be a real ball game and don't say we didnt warn you. First place is at stake for our gang.

* * * * * *

LEFTY McNally still swings in the canary's perch when it comes to C. O. B. L. pitching. He has two wins and no losses. Jack Turner of Oshawa is right behind with two wins and one reverse. Jamieson pitched one game and copped it—and we haven't heard of him since.Maybe Yammy has retired or possibly the abbreviated righthander of the Ponies was shoved into a bat bag by mistake and is still there. Biddle won a game and lost one, while Pollar and Paczkowski have each been beaten twice, Pollar also winning a tussle. Russ Kitchen won anl lost for the Petes, while Whitehill was beaten in his only start this season. Jakafby hasn't hurled a '38 loop tilt yet. Wouldn't be surprised to see McNally cop the Central Loop hurling honors.

DOWN IN Port Hope last p.m. a pickup pack of Petes copped a 15-2 win over the Ontarios in an exhibition seven-inning struggle. Locals got 12 hits to five and had two errors to six. Len Wakely started for the Hopers, followed by a gee named Dolly, and Tommy Pointer the last frame. Joe Jakafby hurled an inning for the Petes but strained his leg and retired. And who should take over but Bob Doll, third-sacker—and doggone if he didn't blank the homesters the rest of the route! With a roundhouse hook, a fast ball and nice change of pace. Versatile lad, eh? Earl McNabb of the juniors made a good fist of it catching, as several of the seniors took a day off and didn't make the trip. Bun Kingdon led the local attack with four neat bingles. Lots of hits for everyone and some walks and errors tossed in to pile up the score.

A GIRL'S softball game is slated for tonight (Friday) at the Bowl when Westclox and Keene tangle. It'll be the first fixture of the second half of the Girls' Softball League schedule. Tuesday sees Lindsay and Keene mix here in—what we suppose—is that disputed tilt of this week which was not staged. Second half will be drawn up after Tuesday's tilt. If Keene win, we understand, they'll playoff with Westclox. If Lindsay win, a round-robin series is possible while the Westclox lasses vacation for two weeks after July 1st. This is the way we get it this a.m., at least.

EXECUTIVE of the men's City Softball League held a huddle last p.m. with most of the discussion centred around the interpretation of ground rules. Been a lot of argument over that point but the referees now have been given definite instructions and should have less trouble. Prexy Bob Simmons was in the chair while executive members, including Dave Leether, Max Glover and Fred Scates were on deck. Also team managers and Umpire Herb Payne. The schedule will run till the last few days of July and then the four-in-seven playoff serial between top two teams commences. Some of the boys were winding up to shoot off at the mouth for another hour or so on inconsequentials when the meeting upped and adjourned.

A BATCH of ambitions young lyacrossers swing into action here next week with the opening of the City Midget Lacrosse Loop. Sarts Monday at the George St. Arena. Service clubs here have thoughtfully aided the kids, with sweaters, etc. Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Rotary, Lions and Y's Men's. A committee of Fred Shaw, Laurie Mitchell and Fred Cripps, will look after the boys, with Coach Rowan Chute the contact man. Chute knows every kid's name and age and has done a lot in coaching 'em so far this season. A lot of credit goes to the Petes' Club for sponsoring the game among the kids—aided by the local service clubs. There'll be a wealth of gutted-stick stars here within a few years, we feel sure. Schedule is listed elsewhere, and youse boys can always borrow your mom's scissors for a minute, what?

Had Good Night

NEW YORK, June 24 (A.P.). — Max Schmeling, who suffered back injuries in his losing heavyweight championship fight against Joe Louis, passed a good night, it was reported to-day at the Polyclinic Hospital.

McNally or Kitchen Slated For Mound

Lefty McNally or Russ Kitchen will do the flinging for the Petes here tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon when they clash with Kingston Ponies at three o'clock in Riverside Park in a C.O.B.L. game. It will be the second appearance of the Ponies in Peterborough this season, and Bob Elliott's gang will still be smarting when they recall that 11-0 pasting the Petes handed them on this diamond last time. However, tomorrow's tussle should be a much better game as the Kingstons have the material and should start to really click anytime. Probably Paczkowski or Pollar will pitch for the Ponies, and it may develop into a real hurlers' duel. Ought to draw a good crowd of fans, if the weather is right.

Manager Eddie Murphy expects to be back in the Pete's lineup and the team ought to be at full strength. A victory for the locals this tilt will give them undisputed possession of first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing, but a loss will shove them down into second place behind Oshawa, while Kingston will be snapping at their heels. It's a tight race and every game is quite important, and fans are seeing some first-rate senior baseball. Tomorrow's game should be no exception, and the old Kingston-Peterborough rivalry will be apparent.

Agreement Extended

BRUSSELS, June 24 (AP)—Representatives of the international steel cartel extended their agreement and quotas to Dec. 31, 1940, today. Present prices are to be maintained "with readjustments rendered necessary by circumstances." At a delegates' meeting in 1933 it was decided to retain the agreement for five years on the basis of production during the first six months of 1932.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Gene Tunney and Tommy Farr furnished a laugh at the Louis-Schmeling scrap....Gene was dashing into the ring to be presented....They collided and Tommy was almost knocked out....If Max gets a return bout with Louis, so should King Levinsky. . He lasted a minute or so longer than Max, didn't he?....Eddie Mead, who worked in Louis' corner and Eddie Walker, who tried to help Schmeling, are manager and eastern representative of Henry Armstrong.

Gene Tunney will do the talking when San Francisco interests bid for a heavyweight scrap there next spring....Now that the big fight is over, Joe Louis and the wife may make an announcement soon.

Whizzer White, the football star, who turned down a $15,000 offer to play pro football to go to Oxford, is "hashing" in a fraternity house at Boulder, Colo.

Al Schacht, the baseball comedian, is telling it around the south that he was born and raised on a farm which stood on the space now occupied by left field in the Yankee Stadium. . . Now, Al! . . They had to call out the reserves to maintain traffic on W. 49th Street yesterday when Joe Louis dropped into Jimmy Braddock's spot to pay his respects.

It may be Louis vs. Baer in September, but there may be hitches ....General Phelan of the Boxing Commission didn't like the razzberries the fans poured into Maxie Wednesday night .... And what Baer saw there in the ring is making him wonder whether he shouldn't have "stood in California" or something.... Mike Jacobs thinks the bout is a natural and will do around $500,000 and is more than willing to take a chance on Chicago if New York turns him down.

IMPERIAL OIL Announces

NEW IMPROVEMENT IN GASOLINE QUALITY!

Protected by Canadian Patent #357976

● From Imperial Oil Limited refineries comes an improvement in gasoline quality so important that it is protected by a patent issued by the Canadian Government. Esso and 3-Star now contain an exclusive solvent which dissolves gum and fights carbon. Instead of drying and baking into hard sticky deposits that in a short time rob the engine of power, carbon and gum are dissolved and blown out through the engine exhaust.

The Canadian Government, in granting this patent, has recognized that this new solvent when added to gasoline, gives it new, useful and improved characteristics. No one can duplicate the new formula of Esso and 3-Star. No other gasoline can duplicate the performance of these improved motor fuels.

You have the word of Canada's leading petroleum organization that Esso and 3-Star are unexcelled motor fuels.

You Have Two Choices of Performance

ESSO The highest quality motor fuel Imperial Oil has ever made, containing a sufficient amount of tetraethyl lead to eliminate "knock" and "ping" and to give smooth power and cool running. Now Esso also contains the new Imperial solvent to keep your engine free of gum and carbon.

3-STAR This famous gasoline has long been recognized by motorists as a regular priced gasoline of exceptional quality. Now it contains the exclusive gum-absorbing solvent. It means more power, a cleaner engine, than ever.

YANKS REGAIN SECOND PLACE, BUMP HADLEY HURLS 8-6 WIN

Reds' Pitcher Hangs Up 8th Straight Win

NEW YORK, June 24 (CP)—Those experts who gave Connie Mack's Athletics the slightest consideration this spring decided early and unanimously that as a pitcher Lynn (Line-Drive) Nelson was a good ex-wrestler.

They figured that a fellow who won only four games and lost nine for an earned run average just short of telephone number proportions last season would do much better entertaining the folks in the Hinterland with toeholds and airplane spins than boring 'em with his "boom boom" balls at Shibe Park.

In fact, Mr. Mack thought so little of him that he didn't give him a starting assignment until May 8, but that Sunday he whipped the Tigers in 10 innings.

There isn't a more consistent working elbower in the business this season than the husky right-hander from Kansas City. He's started 10 games, and has finished every one.

In those 10 starts, he's won eight, seven of them in a row, lost one and tied one, and has an earned-run average just more than three-per-game. Yesterday he tangled with St. Louis Browns and pitched a four-hitter for a 7-1 decision.

Way up at the head of the race, meantime, there was a change in the standings as the Yankees, coming up with a new starting pitcher in old Bump Hadley, nipped the Indians 8-6 to regain second place from Boston Red Sox. This win shaved the Tribe's pace-setting margin to 3½ games.

The Giants' National League lead also was cut a full game when they went down 8-5 before Cincinnati. Although they clubbed Johnny (Double No Hit) Vander Meer out for the first time in six starts, the kid had enough lead to emerge with his eighth win in a row, chopping the Giants' loop edge to 1½ games.

Babe Phelps drove in six runs and Tot Pressnell pitched a six-hitter to hand Brooklyn Dodgers an 8-1 win over Pittsburg Pirates. The Cardinals topped the Bees 2-1. The Cubs and Phillies were rained out.

Dutch Leonard's eight-hit flinging was enough for the Senators to trample Chicago White Sox, 12-9.

Newark Sets New Mark For Straight Wins

TORONTO, June 24 — (CP). — That "big inning" idea of New York Yankees is being copied with excellent results by the Yanks' Newark farm of the International League.

The Bears staged another of their uprisings last night as they clubbed down Syracuse Chiefs, 11-9, for their 14th straight victory. That consecutive run set an all-time Newark record, as it bettered the string of 13 put together by the 1926 Bears.

Trailing 5-2 going into the third inning, the Bears sent six runs over the plate to take the lead. Bears hit three Syracuse pitchers for 16 hits with clouting Charley Keller getting three of them, including a homer ,to run his hitting streak through 15 games. Nick Witek, Newark shortstop, also hit for the circuit.

The Bears, however, failed to gain any ground on the Buffalo Bisons, who remained nine games behind the league leaders by trimming Rochester, 3-2. A tenth-inning homer by Eddie Boland with Art Jacobs aboard gave the Bisons their fifth consecutive win and moved them six games in front of the third-place Jersey City Giants.

Old Pat Malone stopped the Giants with six hits to gain a 6-3 victory for the revamped Baltimore Orioles. Gene Corbett, former Winnipeg professional, slammed a homer for the Orioles.

Toronto Leafs and Montreal Royals had an off day, their scheduled game having been moved back to make a double-header.

Knox Seniors Win Church Loop Game

Knox Seniors of the Church Softball League defeated Murray St. 16-14, last night at the Oval to move into the semi-final round, meeting Mark St. on Monday, the winner then entering finals against the Majors. Last night's tilt was a free-hitting one with loose play and Knox led throughout. Both teams had big third innings. Wilson, Murray St. hurler, had an off-night and walked nine, though fanning 10. A. Wedlock on the other mound was hit hard, too. McKinley led the Knox attack with a homer and two singles, while Watson and W. Wedlock had two blows apiece. Johnston, F. Spencely and Chambers hit homers for the Baptists, the former player hitting well. F. Spencely pulled a circus catch. The teams:

Der Schlager Hanging On The Ropes

Max Schmeling didn't have time to hitch up his trunks when the bell rang for the first round of his fight with Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world. In 2 minutes, 4 seconds, the Brown Bomber redeemed his terrific beating at Schmeling's hands two years ago by hammering Schmeling into insensibility. The fight took place in jammed and packed Yankee Stadium, New York, and was over before the fans had settled into their chairs.

Blow May End Ring Career Of Schmeling

NEW YORK, June 24—(AP)—Max Schmeling is in a hospital across the street from Madison Square Garden—the same one in which Ernie Schaaf died after a clubbing by Primo Carnera— and with the passing of the German as an active threat to the heavyweight title the fight game abruptly has hit a short of "dead-centre."

Two days ago, before Max walked into a crushing first-round defeat by Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium and received the spinal injury which probably has closed his big-time career, the boxing business was booming better than Wall Street in the lush days.

Now, suddenly, the bubble has burst. Louis stands alone, with no opponent in sight except Max Baer, a man once whipped brutally by the tall young negro.

Promoter Mike Jacobs is negotiating for another Louis-Baer fight, either in September here, or next summer in San Francisco. But Mike doesn't have his heart in it, and Baer is willing to face the music again only because of the money involved.

Maxie made a pitiful showing the other time he was exposed to the Louis blasts. Since then he has done nothing more notable than get married, croon to his first-born and split two decisions with Tommy Farr. It will be extremely difficult to drum up big interest in another Louis-Baer scrap.

Louis is back in Chicago today, starting to enjoy a long loaf. He and his wife are thinking seriously of making a boat trip all the way to Europe next month, though passing up Germany as a point of interest.

St. John's Juniors Tie Up Playoffs

St. John's tied up the Church Softball League junior playoff series at two games each last night by copping a 9-3 win over All Saints at Central. Deciding game will be next Tuesday at Central. Smart pitching last night by Ed Copperthwaite stopped All Saints. Aside from the third frame when Hill homered with two on, he had them handcuffed. Gibson started for All Saints and was relieved by McDougall in the fourth. Craig homered to score two runs in the second heat. It was a neat fray till the last inning when four walks, an error and three hits gave the winners five runs. Coleman had three hits for St. John's with L. Clark having two. Hill and Clark did some nice fielding. The teams:

Kawartha Crees Beat Iroquois

Kawartha Crees captured a 4-2 win from Iroquois Wednesday night, taking the mixed doubles, both women's events and one of the men's doubles. The two Iroquois points came from the racquets of Jack Kirkwood, who trimmed Rolly Hull in two stiff sets, 6-3, 10-8, and J. H. Bell and C. Crowe, whose lobbing and net game were a bit too much for Al Drynan and John Donaldson. The latter two went down before their veteran opponents, 6-4, 6-1.

Margaret Jackson chalked up a fine victory over the steady-stroking Elinor Stacey, 6-1, 6-2. Miss Jackson was never in danger and played clever tennis to win her match with comparative ease. Anne Davis and Nan Boorman also finished off their opponents quickly by scores of 6-0, 6-3. They played against Ruth McKee and Kay Lawrence.

Second men's doubles and the mixed were three-set affairs. The first of these went to Don Hull and Jack Patterson over Bob Maybee and Bert Blanchard, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. It was rather a slow contest, but the tennis was good in spots. In Mixed doubles, Anna McKenzie and Art King engaged Muriel Donaldson and V. S. Foster in a stout struggle, from which they finally emerged on the long end of 8-6, 2-6, and 6-4 scores. Miss Donaldson was stroking well and Miss McKenzie was effective at the net, but it was left to King and Foster to provide most of the heavy firing.

Matches listed for tomorrow (Saturday) are: South Group: Peterborough A at Quaker, Port Hope at Kawartha Hurons, North Group: Kawartha Iroquois at Lindsay, Kawartha Crees at Peterborough B.

Motorists Win From The Leafs

Motorists of the City Softball League defeated Maple Leafs of the South-end Circuit, 14-10, at the Bowl last night in an exhibition game before a fair crowd of fans. It was a free-hitting game, with average fielding shown. Fleming fanned eight of the Leafs while walking four, and Butcher on the losers' slab struck out four but issued seven free tickets. Both hurlers were hit freely most of the route.

Leafs pulled off two double plays, while catches by Weir, Playford, Kitchen, Corbett, and Giardino were fielding features. Kearns hit a homer and double and Montgomery got a double and two singles. Walsh led the hitters with four singles, as Weir and Starr got three each. For the Leafs, Holden had a double and three singles, Ashmore a homer and two singles, and Butcher a four-bagger and a double. The teams:

Long Branch Here In Lacrosse Tilt

Long Branch lacrossers play the Petes here tonight (Friday at nine o'clock in the George Street arena in an O.L.A. senior "B" scheduled fixture. It will be the first meeting of the year between these two teams, and not much is known of the Long Branch squad. Being in the nature of a Toronto suburb, the Branch bunch will likely have some of the New Toronto players who showed here last year, and possibly also a few Mimico gutted-stick players. The fact that they are in a senior "B" grouping would indicate that the Long Branch outfit are no soft set-ups, and they are liable to meet the Petes with a surprise here this evening. At anyrate, it should be a good battle.

Coach Frank Randle's gang ought to be at full strength for this fracas, except for Shorty Reid, who returned to Orillia, where he played junior lacrosse a year ago. Red Creighton is not expected back in goal for a week or so, and Joe Meyette—who has obtained work in Brighton—will in all likelihood remain here to play goal this evening. Worthy, Whitton, Crowe, Dundas, King, Magee, Westonfelt and the rest will be on deck. Another big crowd of fans should be on hand, weather permitting, and will no doubt see a lively lacrosse tussle all the way through.

County Council Refuses Grant For Sheep Barn

The County Council's Finance Committee declined yesterday to contribute a $2,400 sheep barn to the Peterborough Exhibition, and passed the grants to agricultural societies in the same amounts as last year: Peterborough Exhibition $500, Norwood Fair $300, Lakefield Fair $250, Galway Fair at Kinmount $150, and Apsley Fair $150.

Other grants were also unchanged —Apsley Red Cross Hospital $200, East Peterborough Women's Institute $25, Peterborough Cheesemakers' Association $25, and School Fairs $100.

The resolution granting assistance to the agricultural societies was moved by Reeve Anderson, seconded by Reeve Milby. An amendment by Reeves Gifford and Mann proposing to invite directors of the Peterborough Exhibition to explain Friday morning details of their building program and other details was supported only by Deputy-Reeves Harry Reid, Otonabee, and Harry Fowler of Smith.

Mr. Gifford said the directors of the Exhibition, many of them farmers, spent a great deal of time and effort in trying to promote its success. The Board has full possession of the park, and it now in a position to plan permanent improvements with greater confidence.

Reeve McColl of Asphodel said some of the sheep displayed at the Peterborough Exhibition had to be shown in open pens at Norwood.

"What are the Norwood directors going to say if they hear we have given $2,400 for a new sheep barn in Peterborough?" Mr. McColl asked.

Reeve J. R. Thompson, Norwood, said the small fair should be looked after as well as the Peterborough Exhibition, because district exhibitors were largely interested in the smaller fairs.

"Is Reeve Gifford representing the Peterborough Fair Board or the county?" Reeve Milby inquired.

Mr. Gifford replied that naturally his first concern was about the county, but he said he was impressed with the good work the Exhibition directors were doing, and if any of the members of the Council were not sure about the plans of the Board, it would be an easy matter to have several of the directors meet the Council again on Friday morning.

"I'll vote an increase of $200 to the Exhibition right now if they'll take down that fence," one councillor said, and another suggested that the Board could make up most of the increase they expected from the Council if they would open up the western area of the park for automobiles.

Lakefield Deputation.

The deputation from Lakefield Fair Board petitioning for a grant was composed of Albert Darling, George Mullen, Howard Beavis, and William Hawthorne.

Mr. Beavis said the Lakefield directors have reduced their mortgage to $250 and they have $125 in the bank. They built a horse barn last year, and their pens are of recent construction. He said the directors hoped to wipe out their remaining debt of about $125 this year.

Aiding Cheese Men.

If the grant to cheesemakers could be made through the Peterborough Exhibition early next year it would be an asset to the dairy products section of the Exhibition instead of the Belleville Cheese Show, Mr. Anderson said, and his idea will probably be submitted to the Exhibition Board early next year before the 1939 prize-list is printed.

Tory Amendment Beaten 136 to 53.

The Conservative amendment was defeated by 136 to 53 with all conservatives, C. C. F. and Social Credit members Miss MacPhail and Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon. Kootenay East) supporting it. Mr. Leader did not vote in that division.

Conservatives called for a division on the main motion adopting the budget and this was carried by 135 to 52, Mr. Leader voting with the opposition and the two independent members A. W. Neill, Comox-Alberni, and J. S. Taylor, nanaimo, supporting the government. Mr. Stevens voted with the opposition.

There were several notable absentees, one on account of illness and the others for no stated reason. Finance Minister Dunning, who presented the budget June 16, was taken ill in the house and remained at home. G. G. McGeer (Lib. Vancouver-Burrard), who had made a last minute plea for managed currency and greater provision for the unemployed, was not in the house at division time. Mr. Lawson was absent for the vote.

Tax Free List Amended

Feature of the debate which opened on the budget resolutions, after the main motion carried, was the amendment moved by Revenue Minister Ilsley, who stepped into the breach left by Mr. Dunning's illness, adding to the materials exempted from sales tax as an aid to the building industry.

Structural steel when used exclusively for the framework and support of buildings and bridges will be added to the some 40 major commodities used in building to be exempt from the eight per cent sales tax.

Also, to meet the complaints from many quarters, the amendment made it plain the exemption would be allowed also on the articles and materials going into the manufacture of building materials included in the exempt list.

Highlight of the final hours of the budget debate was the attack upon the Canadian Bank of Commerce by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, (Lib. Melville) for the closing of a bank branch in his home town, and on all banks that may consider closing branches in Western Canada. This "added fuel to the flames in Alberta" Mr. Motherwell said.

Bank Head Denounced

The veteran former minister of agriculture bitterly denounced Sidney H. Logan, head of the Bank of Commerce and urged the government t oset up a board of bank commissioners "so that when a branch like this breaks out a snub and larist can be put on it."

Earlier in the day C. H. Cahan Con. St. Law.-St. George) warned the government not to sacrifice any trade arrangements with United Kingdom in facilitating a three-way trade agreement between that country, United States and Canada.

"I trust," Mr. Cahan said, "the government may not be deluded by the hallucination which the United States Secretary of State has sought to create in the minds of this government that by giving the United States a large share of our markets in the United Kingdom we will be promoting the cause of peace."

Strongest critic of the government was Dr. Fleming, who disclosed that in his "implicit faith in Liberal doctrines" he had assured the electors of Saskatchewan the budget would provide tariff reductions.

Stung by the remark he said had been made to him by a government Minister that "this Saskatchewan bunch was so and so and that he would not support the Wheat Board if we did not support the budget," Dr. Fleming said he would not be "coerced by any Ministerial threat whether it comes from Privy Councillor or Governor."

M. H. Gainey and John McIntosh, associate Commissioners, briefly stated that all the roads designated by the council were being improved by the Commission, and the work was going forward efficiently under the direction of A. E. Chalmers, county engineer.

Deputy-reeve Johnston, chairman of the road committee, thanked the Commission for their helpful co-operation. "We have bought some new machinery this year," Mr. Johnston said, and I think it was the 'best investment we could make. We were jollied about going down to Buffalo, but I haven't heard a word of criticism of the new power grader and mixer we bought and also the second hand wheel scraper. I believe everybody is well satisfied."

Mr. Johnston said a part time traffic officer for the suburban area roads might become necessary.

The council took an hour off Thursday afternoon to see the new grader operating on the River Road north of the city.

The roads committee decided to take no action for the present on the assumption of the boundary road between Emily and Ennismore townships.

H. B. Rye Present

As local agent for the MacPherson creosoted wood culvert made by the Canada Creosote Company, H. B. Rye called on the council Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by W. Bond, representative of the company. The long life of these culverts, their strength and general utility, as well as the fact that the government subsidy is granted on their purchase, were some of the features mentioned.

The road committee requested the Department of Highways to assume the two Bobcageon bridges.

Don Plunkett was appointed county representative on the Havelock High School board as successor of the late Frank Breckenridge.

A resolution by Reeves Clark and Shearer expresed the council's condolence to the family of the late Mr. Breckenridge, a former Warden of the county, who died at his farm home in Belmont since the January sessions of the council.

Send Back the Bill

"What's the committee going to do with the bill from the Peterborough Board of Education for the cost of a student from the Curve Lake reserve." Miss Batten asked the finance committee yesterday.

Reeve A. B. Mann said that obviously Smith township was not responsible, Miss Batten quoted V. M. Eastwood, Indian Agent, as saying the Government would not assume it, so Mr. Mann and his Deputy-reeve Harry Fowler moved that the account be returned to the Board to collect it as best they can.

John M. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mason Ward, McClennan street, was ordained into the Baptist ministry in Claremont Baptist Church on Wednesday evening. The service was held in connection with the Whitby-Lindsay association gathering.

Rev. Mr. Ward is now pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church at Fenelon Falls. He was brought up in Murray Street Baptist Church here, and was a teacher in the Sunday School and president of the Young People's Society for a number of years.

The ordination service at Claremont was impressive and was widely attended. The charge to the church was made by Professor M. L. Orchard of McMaster University where Rev. Mr. Ward, the candidate, received his education into the Christian ministry.

The charge to the candidate was given by Rev. G. V. Crofoot of Oshawa, pastor of the Baptist Church there. The welcome to the Baptist ministry was extended by Rev. Mr. Augustine, pastor of Claremont Baptist Church where the service of ordination was held.

The ordaining prayer was made by Rev. C. P. Reed of Lindsay Baptist Church where the service of ordination was held.

The ordination sermon was preached by the candidate's pastor, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Bouquets of roses were presented to the wife and mother of the candidate by the women of the Claremont congregation, who also presented large white roses to the candidate.

Attending the service from Peterborough were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mason Ward, parents of the candidate; his wife; Fred Ward, a student at McMaster University and now acting pastor of the Baptist Church in Sherbrooke, Que.; Rev. R. D. Wright, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Church; and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Illegal Possession Costs Man $102.50

Illegal possesion of liquor proved expensive this morning for George Mack of Havelock who pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court. He was fined $100 and $2.50 costs, with an alternative of three months in jail.

Mack told the magistrate that he had a wife and two children.

"Are you suggesting that I should let you off on that account?" asked Magistrate Langley.

"Unfortunately for you," he continued, "the law does not allow me to do anything of the kind. When the sale of liquor was legalized again and this new act was framed, the magistrates were given no latitude because it was intended that the penalties for violation of the law should be rigidly enforced. If you had half a dozen wives and 50 children I could not let you off."

Inspector J. F. Reid said that Mack who was arrested Thursday by Sergeant W. E. Wigg on George street had been in possession of wine and had caused an annoyance to people in several stores before he was taken into custody.

Bad Shipment Of Potatoes Made To Canada

Ontario's entire potato and tomato crops are threatened by a shipment of potatoes from the United States. Any farmer or merchant who has purchased new potatoes from Virginia shipments during the past week stands to lose a great deal of money, a report to the Agricultural Office here reveals.

During the past week 46 carloads of new potatoes have arrived in Toronto from Virginia. They are carried inspection certificates as U.S. grade 1 or grade 2, yet many of these cars, upon inspection in Canada, revealed bacterial soft rot affecting from twenty-five to sixty-five per cent. of the loads.

Already much of the stock has been shipped to practically every city and town in Ontario, and undoubtedly Peterborough has received her share of them: "I do not wish to appear as an alarmist as to what may happen to the Ontario potato crop as a result of the distribution of these diseased potatoes into the commercial growing districts and to growers of tomatoes, but according to plant pathologists and bacteriologists at the O.A.C. at Guelph and references to publications from the Dominion of Canada and the U.S. Departments of Agriculture, gardeners and tomato and potato growers are advised to prevent any of these diseased potatoes or peelings from them being thrown carelessly around gardens or yards or into composts which may be used for spreading on the land as fertilizer even for next year's crop as infection may be spread to the soil and become active in future crops." So declared J. T. Cassin, potato fieldman for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, describing the necessity of destroying all diseased potatoes from the crop.

Disease Is Severe.

Tubers which may appear perfectly healthy may be contaminated by being in contact with other tubers that have been severely affected, so severe is the disease. As a primary disease it may be found in early immature crop, particularly when badly bruised or skinned potatoes are loaded while hot or wet and shipped with poor ventilation. As a secondary rot it may follow other diseases or injuries, especially late blight, tuber rot, blackleg, Fusarium tuber rot, leak, brown rot, scald, freezing or mechanical injury. Bags or barrels should be disinfected before using them again for vegetables.

The Department is asking for the co-operation of vegetable distributors in assisting in the destruction of as many as possible of these infected Virginia potatoes by burning, boiling or burying them deep in the ground. In co-operation with the Dominion and Ontario Departments of Agriculture and the Ontario Agricultural College, the Toronto Department of Health is ordering the complete destruction of these diseased cull potatoes.

The marketing of these potatoes has become a problem for the inspectors as it is almost impossible to discard all the infected tubers because several days after regrading further developments result in the regraded lots, and as shipments have been made into practically every town in Ontario nearly all merchants have them for sale. Distributors and consumers are asked by the Department to prevent as far as possible the spreading of these diseases.

A REEVE'S LOGIC.

Here's a syllogism by Reeve Gifford, a brief and passing discursion in the county council's discussion of a grant to the Cheesemakers' Associations—agriculture is the backbone of the nation; dairying is the backbone of agriculture; therefore, dairying is the backbone of the nation. And as logicians might say, Mr. Gifford's minor premise assumes too much.

THE USUAL FINE

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness a farmer was fined $10 and costs in police court this morning. Reasonable Garbage Collection Charge Sought By County From City of Peterborough

Court House Tax Collection Costs As Much As If 50 Homes In Victoria Park.

The city's charge for the collection of five cans of garbage at the Court House, a frontage tax, amounts to as much as if fifty houses occupied Victoria Park and the Court House, Miss Jennie Batten, clerk and treasurer, told the Finance Committee of the County Council on Thursday afternoon.

E. A. Peck, K.C., county solicitor, explained that no property was exempt from this tax. However, it was felt that because the city has the use of the park, some consideration should be made the county for garbage collection for the reason that only five cans are picked up by the garbage collectors.

A motion by Reeves Gifford and Mann appointed Warden McDonald and Reeves Milby and Seeney to interview a committee of the City Council for the purpose of ascertaining whether some arrangement could be made with the city for a reasonable garbage collection charge.

Inspections by Juries.

"It's the High Court Judges who go after it in a big way," Miss Batten commented in regard to redundancy of Grand Jury inspections of public buildings.

Warden McDonald had written the Government about what he said was an unnecessary expense. Inspections were made in June, December, and February. However, at the recent session of the County Court, Judge Smoke advised the Grand Jury that re-inspection was not necessary, and their duties were concluded in one day.

Share Bill With City.

The Finance Committee recommended that the county pay half the cost of the recent reception of the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir. The amount reported by the City Council was $198, and Reeves Anderson and Gifford moved that the county pay the city half that sum.

No action was taken on the request of Louis Fry, superintendent, and Mrs. Fry, matron, of the House of Refuge, for increases in salaries.

A bill for $344.38 from the Department of Highways for road construction several years ago was ordered to be paid on Deputy-Reeve Johnston's motion, seconded by Reeve Mann.

Local Chess Men Play Strong Game

Two Peterborough chess players, who have been competing in the international correspondence chess match, between 100 carefully selected players in the United States and an equal number in Canada, have made an excellent showing, as has the Canadian team to date. Mr. George Snowden, in two well-contested games with a player in Iowa, succeeded in winning one and drawing the other. Mr. Snowden played the Zuketort opening in one game and his opponent played a French Defence in the other. Mr. Snowden came very near winning both his games.

Mr. H. B. Cowan won both his games from a player in Oklahoma. In one game Mr. Cowan trapped his opponent into attacking his queen, with the result that he succeeded in exchanging his queen for two rooks and later, resulting from this play, captured a bishop as well. With the advantage of this exchange he won decisively. The second game was interesting in that his opponent resigned, although the number and value of the pieces on both sides was virtually even, both having a queen, rook and bishop, as well as several pawns. Mr. Cowan's pieces, however, had such a command of the board that his opponent felt it useless to continue and therefore resigned.

The score to date in the international match is Canada 36½ points to the United States 15½ points. Both countries did their best to enter strong teams. The Canadian team included several former Canadian champions and the present champion, in both over-the-board play and by correspondence.

15 Days In Jail For Theft Of Socks

Fifteen days in jail was the penalty handed out by Magistrate Langley in police court this morning to Ian Haggitt who had a few days ago pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing half a dozen pairs of men's socks from Grafton and Company.

Haggitt had been remanded until today in order that the police might make some inquiries and Crown Attorney McElderry informed the court that the accused had no previous record, except that he had been deported from the United States.

Haggitt told the magistrate that his mother now lived in Detroit and he himself had resided there for four years until the authorities ordered him sent back to Canada.

St. Joseph's Hospital.

he said in regard to the theft of the socks" and I did not know what I was doing."

Heavy Demand For Drinks At School Picnic

Ten milk cans filled with ice cold lemonade disappeared down the throats of thirsty pupils Thursday when King Edward School held its annual picnic in the park and school grounds. Four hundred lemons were used for drinks, and added to this was 110 loaves of bread for sandwiches and sixty layer cakes.

Following the races each class was served lunch under the supervision of the school teachers, and the members of the Home and School Association headed by the president, Mrs. E. Hubel and the secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Gibson, kept circulating among the seated pupils with baskets of sandwiches, and large pitchers of cold lemonade. Mrs. J. O. Fife presided at the supply booth and Mrs. Blaby directed the task of feeding the mothers who attended the picnic.

In the first round Anderson downed Blackwell 11 to 6, Killingbeck nosed out Brown by 5 to 4; and Sanderson swamped Lawson 18 to 12. Red-Hot Tory Is Said Chosen For Victoria Post

LINDSAY, June 24—Appointment of a "red hot Tory" to the position of Game Overseer brought severe censure on the heads of the executive of Victoria and Haliburton Liberal Association at the annual meeting Thursday.

The executive was charged with being lax in securing appointments for political stalwarts and the statement was made that no Liberal votes could be secured in the North as a result of the Game Overseer's appointment by the Government.

Dissension in the ranks of the delegates was evidenced in heated fashion when the appointment of Alfred Hodgson, former Lindsay policeman, to the position of Game Overseer for the riding was brought up during the election of officers. Leo Houlihan, Lindsay, condemned the executive for allowing the man to receive the appointment. He asserted it had split the Liberal ranks, "and if we went to the polls now we would be sure of defeat." He charged Hodgson was a "red hot Tory."

A delegate from Haliburton County declared the Hodgson appointment had "astounded" the Liberals in that part of the riding. Mr. Houlihan came into the picture again with the assertion that Hodgson had to leave the Lindsay police force, and that he was not a fit man for the Game Overseer's job, no matter whether he was Liberal or Conservative.

This latter statement was refuted by Chief of Police R. H. Lawler, who told the press that Constable Hodgson was a "thoroughly efficient officer, and it was with regret that the town council accepted his resignation.

President J. A. McLaughlin told the meeting that the executive of the association had interviewed the Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries and endeavored to have a Liberal appointed to the oversea's position, but that their efforts had not borne fruit.

Mr. McLaughlin was re-elected President for his fourth successive term. Other officers chosen were: Vice-President, W. L. Moncrief, Omemee; Secretary, Allan Lacey, Lindsay; Treasurer, William Graham, Fenelon Falls.

Cricket Notes

The Peterborough Cricket Club will play Lindsay in Lindsay tomorrow, Saturday, June 25. Meet at the Paragon at 1.45.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We could start off this paragraph with "I told you so" or "Just as I expected," but that would sound as if we were trying to appear smart. Our records show that yearly at the Lindsay ladies' tournament our club makes up more than half of the entry, and this year proved no exception. Not only did our ladies make up about three-quarters of the entry, but walked off with 100 per cent. of the prizes. The winners:

First—Peterborough: Mrs. A. Heckman, Mrs. L. Bearne, Mrs. J. Coursey, Mrs. H. Staunton, skip. (Electric kitchen clocks.)

Second—Peterborough: Mrs. H. Russell, Mrs. H. McIlmoyle, Mrs. J. Arnold, Mrs. W. Zeihr, skip. (Verandah chairs.)

Third—Peterborough: Mrs. L. Riley, Mrs. S. Kingdon, Mrs. W. Greenslade, Mrs. L. Deyman, skip. (Bed lamps.)

Fourth—Peterborough: Miss L. Allen, Mrs. W. Oke, Mrs. W. Henry, Mrs. H. Graham, skip. (Crystal salad services.)

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the rinks playing shorthanded: "If a rink plays with three men against a rink with four men, the short-handed rink will pay five points' handicap in addition to any further penalties." This should clear the air. The above rule was printed in this column on the evening of June 15.

We notice that not many of the boys are playing their club singles. Better get busy, boys.

Here's one for the book: In the Chesler-Howden game last night, Chesler wins 19-17 and yet he only scores 5 ends out of 18 ends. A couple of big sixes back to back helped a lot.

With the bowling greens in good condition and the promise of fine weather, we should have a bumper crowd out at our week-end tournament for men. The draw will be at 7.30 p.m., and the fee is 25 cents.

Thomas H. Allen Is Honored At School Picnic

A presentation to Thomas H. Allen, popular member of the teaching staff at Prince of Wales School, who is resigning to visit England featured the picnic supper at the annual school outing held Thursday afternoon. Mrs. P. Black, president of the Home and School Association made the presentation and expressed regret at Mr. Allen's departure and extended the best wishes of the gathering, composed of the teaching staff and members of the association.

Extreme heat forced postponement of the softball games and pushed the lemonade consumption to a new high. The 600 children attending disposed of 90 gallons of the tasty ice cold lemonade and made short work of enough cakes and sandwiches to keep a regiment in food for a week. Every pupil received an ice cream cone free. The school grounds were decorated with flags and the parents found comfort on the east side of the school where benches and chairs had been placed.

Social convenors in charge of the picnic were Mrs. W. Constable and Mrs. W. Hurrell and assistants were Mrs. S. Harrison, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. Wishart and their respective committees. During the afternoon a booth was operated on the grounds in charge of Mrs. F. Frape, Mrs. Metheral and Mrs. Gardner.

Races were run off under the able direction of P. D. Windrim, vice-principal, and G. S. Mattice, principal was official recorder and distributed the prizes.

Kingston Soccer Club Plays Here

Final preparations have been made by the local soccer club for the visit of the Kingston Maple Leafs for the exhibition tilt on King Edward Park.

The official kick-off will take place at 3.30, and after the game the C.C.F. executive will entertain the visitors. Thomas Foster will be the referee.

On Saturday afternoon at Deloro, the Brinton Athletic Club will be the guests of the Deloro aggregation in a league game. The kick-off is scheduled for 5.45.

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Entranced by the southwest country, and in love with a footloose Texan, Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star, has just decided to purchase an Arizona ranch and forsake her film career. A few days at the ranch of the wealthy Mexican Montoya family, which extended its hospitality to Ellen and Bill after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm, had given both the young actress and the Texan a new viewpoint on life. At Nogales, where Bill had driven Ellen to return to Hollywood, she makes her new decision and asks him to manage the ranch she plans to buy. He accepts but is hesitant to speak of his love for her because of his position and her wealth. They find the type of ranch their desire in the vast Durango property, 6,000 neglected acres in a beautiful Arizona setting. Back in Nogales to buy the Durango ranch, Bill is disappointed when Ellen tells him she is dining with Felix Montoya, son of their recent host. At a night club where Bill dines alone, an attractive entertainer urges him to dance with her. He is chagrined when Ellen, who happens to be there with Felix, sees them dancing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 22

BILL WENT to bed that night feeling like a fool, and promising himself he would resign his job tomorrow morning and go back to Texas. Sleep, however, worked its miracle again and the morning found him comparatively sane. Dressing, he was able to grin wryly at himself in the mirror. Nevertheless he dreaded meeting Ellen Dale.

He was out in the patio at seven o'clock to get a breath of air before breakfast and he ambled over to the waterfall and pool. It was still a trifle dark in the patio, the sun not having topped the mountains yet, but a morning light added glints of silver to the stream whose plunging song was so much a part of living here. Bill watched the beauty of it for a long moment, staring up at the great boulder. All at once a strange noise broke his reverie.

"SQUON-N-N-NK! SQUONK-squonk-squank!"

The bullfrog was croaking.

"El Conquistador!" he cried. Then seeing Bill, "Good morning, sir."

"Morning. Out early, isn't he?"

They chatted a moment, and Bill drifted around the pool to look for the great bullfrog, finally discovering him flattened on a rock. Bill backed away lest he disturb the old patriarch.

The frog's noise awoke Ellen Dale also. It was so strange a sound that she could not identify it, especially in the fog of wakening. Her shade was up and she looked out. There stood Bill Baron.

"I must get up," she told herself at once, forgetting entirely the noise that had awakened her. She doused her face with cold water and in a moment discovered that she was feeling fine. She knew that she had only to touch a button at her side and a maid would come. But she didn't need a maid, or want one.

Not at all sure what to expect today, she dressed in outdoor clothes which she had purchased. These included a red mannish shirt, a jacket made from an Indian-woven serape of blue and red and black designs, and some genuine "levis" of denim pants such as cowboys wear. On her head she wore a red bandana tied peasant fashion, revealing just enough of her blond curls.

"Hello! Good morning!" Bill greeted her, rising. "I have just ordered. Will you join me?"

She slipped into the chair he held for her, without a word, but smiling prettily. In that moment Mr. William Baron knew that his stern intentions were all shot to pieces again. He had been promising himself to be strictly businesslike with Ellen Dale hereafter, but when Ellen turned the full power of her ingenue's smile——"

The six or eight early diners all were talking, and one elderly lady leaned over to address Ellen.

"Did you hear the frog, my dear? He must be very eccentric. He was croaking positively at daybreak!"

"Oh!" cried Ellen. "Was that—was that El Conquistador?"

"Yes! Isn't his voice terrible? He——"

Ellen heard no more. She looked instantly at Bill, and turned so gloriously pink that even Bill noticed it.

"Youre a little flushed, Ellen," he said, solicitously. "Do you feel well? Or did you over-do yesterday? Sometimes, a change to that altitude is a little taxing at first."

"No, thank you. I'm quite all right. In fact I feel especially fine. Don't you just love it here? The crisp mountain air, dry and invigorating? I'm starving."

Neither mentioned the little episode on the dance floor at El Tecolote last night. (Nor was it every mentioned between them, in all the remainder of their lives.) A hotel clerk came to her table then and gave her four telegrams. They were all from Sid Bromberg, demanding to know where she was, when she would return to Hollywood, what her plans were. One was to the hotel manager himself, making similar demands.

Ellen dimpled sweetly, showing Bill the yellow sheets.

"Answer him, please," she instructed the clerk, "saying that I have gone. Gone to—Australia. Or somewhere."

"Yes, miss," the clerk bowed away, smiling.

She had been at the hotel under her real name—Ellen Daggs. So far only she and Bill and the clerks knew she was Ellen Dale. She liked to stay incognito; it kept pests away. But it was too much to hope for, really.

When Bill had gone to look up their lawyer to complete inspection of the Durango land deeds, Ellen walked downtown. She came out of a small department store, and two young men saw her. They stared, and talked, not rudely but with interest. She was used to such things at home, but she hadn't experienced it before down in the border country.

"Pardon me," one of the young men said, approaching her, "but I'm a newspaper man. The Phoenix Evening Gazette, ma'am. Aren't you Ellen Dale?"

She couldn't say no. Her face was on every screen in America, from time to time. Even now it was plastered on a billboard down the street, six feet high. Ellen Dale in "Sweet Sixteen." She just smiled at him wanly, and waited.

The interview was pleasant enough. The other young fellow was a Nogales Herald man. A correspondent and a reporter walking about town. She hadn't a chance. Graciously, she walked with them two blocks to Herald office, where the staff quit work ostensibly to watch a photographer pose Ellen, really to enjoy her fresh beauty. Not many movie folk get to Nogales.

When she went back to her hotel room, Felix Montoya wanted her to go riding, but at that moment the salesman arrived with the sedan Bill had ordered. It was so pretty that she was quite excited about it, and when she gave the salesman a check in full, he almost made a nuisance of himself thanking her and offering to show her how to drive. As an extra touch, genuine cow horns had been mounted for a radiator ornament.

She took Felix out for a 20-mile spin, but she did not answer his inquiry about the smart "cattle brand" brand on her car, the DD on cowhide. She didn't know herself, really, but she pretended it was a secret. She wanted to ask Bill.

She left Felix then, pretending a headache, and spent the remainder of the day in her room studying a book of architect's plans and impatiently waiting for Bill to call. Felix sent flowers to her room, but discreetly did not annoy her. At 5 p.m. a maid came with a note from him, apologizing and saying he had to return to Sonora that afternoon, and hoping to see her again soon.

About 5:30 her telephone rang.

"A party is waiting to see you in the lobby, Miss Daggs," the hotel clerk said. "Shall I ask him to wait, or would you prefer—"

For no good reason—save that she had been wanting it so — she jumped to the conclusion that it was Bill.

"Tell him to wait by all means, please."

She had taken off her outdoor clothes and had been lounging in negligee. Now she dressed rapidly singing a little and fluttering around like a high school girl with her first dance date. When she was done she was lovely in a blue, frilly thing.

She cut across a corner of the patio because it was closer—throwing a quick kiss at El Conquistador enroute—and entered the great lobby of her hotel. At once her caller came to greet her, beaming expansively. Her heart sank a little; it was not Bill. He was holding a newspaper.

"Miss Dale!" he boomed, "Nogales welcomes you! I am pleased to make your acquaintance. My name is Oscar Parker, and I'm president of the chamber of commerce here. The directors voted this afternoon to honor you with a big banquet day after tomorrow night! Will that be O.K.?"

Turn "Nerves" Into Vivacity and Charm

Sally carries a chip on her shoulder—and Bill thinks he's had enough!

But Sally isn't naturally disagreeable. Her trouble is "nerves." Just wondering whether Bill goes out with other girls put her on edge. When he made a joking remark, she flew into a tantrum.

Sally doesn't know that the same sensitiveness that makes her lose her temper could make her a fascinating companion.

Using modern ways of getting the most out of relaxation, fresh air and summer sunbathing would steady her nerves.

And with an emotional outlet in some inexpensive hobby, like photography or tap dancing, she could easily be one of the most charming girls in town.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been in love with a girl for seven years, ever since we were in college together. She wants to marry me, but gives as her excuse for not doing so now that she must support her mother and father because her brother and sister refuse to contribute to the maintenance of a home for their parents. They insist that they need the money they make for themselves and that it is her job to take care of the old people. Now I am able to support her, but unable to support her family. Shall I continue to wait for her? She can give no hope of being relieved of the burden as long as the parents live. STEVE.

Answer:

You must find the answer to this problem in your own heart. It is not one that you can solve with your head. It all depends upon how much you love the girl and how much she is a part of your life. Maybe the girl is worth waiting for Maybe you will get some break that will enable you to make enough money to support her parents.

Maybe your girl will develop enough backbone to force by law her selfish brother and sister to contribute to their father's and mother's maintenance, since they will not do it by principle. Maybe you will just go on waiting until love and desire perish of sheer boredom. You never can tell.

Anyway, no one can deny that the man who is in love with a girl who is the family goat is in a most unhappy predicament. For he has either to give her up or else be sacrificed to her, and neither one is a pleasant thing to contemplate. If he wearies of the waiting that maketh the heart sick with its hope deferred and marries some other woman, he is likely to regret it and go through life mourning his first love. But if he marries the girl who has a family complex, he always runs a poor second to mother and father and sisters and brothers, and is literally sold into slavery to them. And that is not an alluring prospect for any man to consider.

Novelists and dramatists do not sing the saga of blighted love that is wrecked on domestic finances, yet surely there is no tragedy more complete or bitterer than that of lovers who are kept apart by old people and younger brothers and sisters whom they have to support. And this tragedy befalls women oftener than it does men, and it is made the bitterer because those who cause it seldom make any effort to alleviate it.

How often do we see parents quit work as soon as the eldest daughter is old enough to get a job and thereafter sit down on the do-nothing stool and let her support them. How often do we see mothers and fathers take the money that such a girl earns to spend on their younger children and give them the good times and advantages she never had.

How often do we see boys and girls take the hard earnings of their sister without a word of thanks. How often do we see them marry before they are able to support a family and bring their husbands or wives back for sister to take care of. Apparently it never occurs to any of them, once a sister has bowed her neck to the burden, to do anything to help lift it, or that she is entitled to any life and happiness of her own.

Of all the mean and dastardly acts in the world, none equals the selfishness with which families pass the buck to one member and wish on him or her all the responsibilities and duties that belong to them all, and that, shared among them, would be light and hurt none, instead of crushing the one who is forced to bear them alone. No doubt the family martyr is an angel, but the man or woman who marries him or her has to share in the martyrdom.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I married when we were in our teens and felt that $10 a week and love were enough to live on. We are still in love and have three fine children, but when we see other kids of our age having a good time, while we are tied down with babies and have to stay at home while they are out dancing, and can't even afford a movie because the money has to go for milk and baby doctors' bills, we can't help being envious of them. We still have our love, but both of us agree that we made a mistake in marrying so early and that we would have been so much better off in every way if we could have had these last few years free. Marriage isn't the pretty day dream girls and boys imagine it. It means responsibilities and cares greater than youngsters should have to shoulder.

HELEN.

Answer:

I commend this letter from one who has tried it to all the adolescent boys and girls who think that their calf love is the real thing and that they can't wait to be grown up to get married. Marriage isn't the picnic that children think it is. It is hard work and responsibility. It isn't freedom. It is slavery. It isn't a petting party. It is sacrificing one's own desires and tastes and inclinations for some one else. And not one youngster in ten thousand is capable of meeting all those requirements willingly and gladly.

Besides that nature has ordained that all young creatures must have their playtime, whether they be puppies or men and women, and if boys and girls marry before they have had this they regret it. No matter how much they may think they are in love, they still want to play around with other girls and boys; they still want to dance; they still want to have good times; they still want to flirt a bit, and they are still envious of other youngsters who have had sense enough not to have tied themselves down with husbands and wives and babies.

Marriage is a sober responsibility for adults. It is not a pastime for children.

DOROTHY DIX.

So Youth Insisted On Making His Will

Sudbury, Ont., June 24

WHEN YOUNG William O'Lackey was taken from the water after diving onto hidden rocks Monday night, he apparently anticipated his death as he insisted on making a will, it was disclosed today.

"I want to make some disposal of my property," the 22-year-old youth told his friend, Clifford Fielding, as he was removed from the water.

Though his injuries were not considered serious at the time, he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he made a will. He died two days later.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

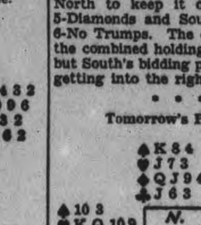
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NEVER? ALMOST NEVER

IT IS HARD to conceive of a strong hand with which you should not at some stage show a fit with your partner's major suit if you have four cards of it. "Never" is a word which practically never should be used in bridge, but this comes close to being one case.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

At one table in a duplicate tournament the final bid on this deal reached 6-No Trumps because South failed at any opportunity to show a fit for his partner's suit. Because of his action the hand was set three tricks for a bottom score.

When North opened the bidding with 1-Spade, South bid 2-Diamonds and North then bid 2-Hearts. South's next response was 4-No Trumps. North felt he could not pass this but was in a quandary as to just what his partner's holdings were. If South could not assist spades or hearts, could not bid clubs or rebid the diamonds, he evidently held three cards in each of the majors and could not support four-card suits, had only four diamonds and three clubs, but plenty of honor strength. North to keep it open then bid 5-Diamonds and South jumped to 6-No Trumps. The correct bid on the combined holdings is 4-Spades, but South's bidding prevented their getting into the right contract.

What is South's best play for 3-No Trumps, South having opened with 1-Diamond and West having doubled. The opening lead was the club 8?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"No," said Mr. Punch to Knarf and Hanid, "there wasn't a single window or door in that house on the moon. It was just all towers and steeples. I didn't see how the cow, Susie, or I, were going to be able to get inside. Naturally, we both stopped at once. We wondered what we ought to do next."

"And what did you decide?" Hanid asked anxiously. "I hope you discovered some way."

"Of course they did," Knarf put in. "Mr. Punch is very smart. He thinks of everything."

"Thank you, Knarf," Mr. Punch answered, smiling at the shadow boy. "It's very nice of you to think I'm smart. As a matter of fact—well, I was pretty smart as it turned out. All at once I saw a little ways in front of us what appeared to be a pool of silvery water. I was quite sure it wasn't silver. But it shone and sparkled just as though it might have been. So I went ahead and looked at it. Sure enough it wasn't a pool of water at all."

"It was a pool of moonbeams."

"What was it then?" the shadows exclaimed in surprise.

Pool of Moonbeams.

"It was a pool of moonbeams — real moonbeams. I was delighted. I dipped in my hand and drew out a handful. Do you know what they looked like?"

"What did they look like?"

"They looked like little rings. I knew what to do instantly. I put the rings together, one in the other, until I had a long chain. I twirled the chain round and round in the air over my head. Then I let it go. It went flying straight up to the top of the house. And the very next moment it caught on to the top of the highest steeple and held fast. It made a fine, wide, smooth path, leading right up to the top of the house. And I put my arm around Susie's neck and we both walked up it. It didn't take us long to get inside the house after that."

Mr. Punch paused and puffed at his pipe.

"Inside the house," Hanid said.

"But how did you get inside the house?" Knarf cried. "You said there weren't any doors or windows."

"There weren't. Oh, I see I have to tell you the rest of the story don't I?"

For Saturday, June 25.

According to the leading astral influences, this day may be one of indulgence and extravagance, with some peculiar entanglements of a social as well as business character. Indulgence may lead to a harrying debt or complication. There is need for discretion also in private activities of a social nature.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very lively and pleasant year in which there may be a rather perilous outlay of funds, either in merrymaking or in some alluring speculative enterprise, possibly sport or athletics.

A child born on this day may be lively, pleasure-seeking, popular and given to indulgence and extravagance in a showy and expansive manner.

Duty Of Everyone To Make Sacrifice J. J. Duffus, M.P., Tells Members Of House Of Commons

The following is a portion of the speech delivered in the House of Commons this week by J. J. Duffus, M.P. for Peterborough, during the debate on the budget:

Mr. J. J. Duffus (Peterborough West): "If I may judge from press reports and from personal observations, it is quite apparent that the budget has been exceptionally well received and likewise well sustained. It is a budget of a Minister of Finance who for two years has been trying to find a way out of an almost insurmountable economic muddle. Having regard to the crop failures of last year and the drought in western Canada with the resultant relief costs, and considering the reduced transportation revenue, he has admirably accomplished his task. As usual, the budget was presented with implicit confidence by a great statesman who has the courage of his convictions and the determination to keep faith with the people to whom he is responsible.

"I am fully aware that changes cannot be effected without disadvantage to some special interests. Governments cannot move far without incurring disfavor in some quarters. In framing a policy in the interests of our farmers, our industrialists, our workers and the great masses of the consuming public, it is only reasonable to assume that some will be adversely affected in certain respects.

"However, I am convinced, in these difficult times, when it is the duty of everyone to make sacrifices on behalf of the Canadian citizens, that, when necessary, our industrialists will loyally co-operate with the Minister of Finance and with the tariff advisory board in adjusting their problems in a manner that will bring about satisfaction to a marked degree, especially since every manufacturing interest in Canada has enjoyed two years of almost unprecedented prosperity, having contributed to the national wealth the largest amount since 1929. I am one who believes that due consideration should be given to our manufacturing industries to enable them to obtain reasonable profits, to pay fair wages to their employees and to make possible the establishing of satisfactory prices to the consuming public, and that commodity prices should be based always on a study and appreciation of the purchasing power of the masses in order that they may be able to maintain and enjoy a decent standard of living to which they are justly entitled.

"Let us not overlook the fact that for years our citizens have been burdened down with an almost intolerable load of taxation. We have administered relief to an extent which almost suggests that the time is fast approaching when we shall have to consider a relief program for the taxpayers of this country if a sit-down strike by them is to be averted. Permit me to say that there is a prudential limit to all spending policies and that the country cannot bear indefinitely an increasing burden. Every million dollars added to the huge debt of Canada overshadows and obscures the wonderful prospect of prosperity and happiness that this land once possessed. It is most essential that a policy of pay-as-you-go and if you cannot pay don't go, be maintained.

"The Minister of Finance has still a very difficult and trying task ahead of him, one that might well challenge even the biggest statesman. Let us assist him to accomplish it. Bitter criticism at this time cannot help. It may hinder. Whatever degree of wisdom may mark a minister's judgment can only be lessened by partisan nagging, squabbling and bitter criticism. Creating in the minds of the people loopholes of imperfection will get us nowhere, whereas working in a spirit of confidence and co-operation will greatly assist.

"Judicious economies are imperative during periods of economic storm and distress. Great progressive private organizations in many countries have shown no lack of courage in this regard, and they are seemingly emerging successfully, notwithstanding the great burden of taxation, increased as it has been by almost every unit of government. Co-operation by the various governments in the field of expenditure in order to eliminate overlapping and duplication would effect much needed economies. Adequate control and a gradual reduction of relief expenditure amounting approximately to $100,000,000 annually must be implemented on a satisfactory basis. Canadians generally are praying to get off relief.

"The United Kingdom trade agreement, which was presented to the Dominion Parliament in 1937, assured Canadian farm products a free entry into the British market. In 1935 the total trade of Canada was $1,389,000,000, and in 1936 it was $1,663,000,000. In 1937 it reached a total of $1,934,000,000, or an increase of 39 per cent. over 1935. The favorable visible balance of trade for the calendar year 1937 enabled Canada for the first time since 1921 to regain her position as the fourth exporting nation of the world, the figures amounting to $1,125,000,000. I quote the words of the right hon. leader of the Opposition (Mr. Bennett) as reported at page 34 of Hansard of this year:

"'I should like to say how much I rejoice, as do those who are associated with me, in the gratifying progress of this country during the last twelve month.'

"The year 1937 in every respect was Canada's banner year of hog production. The average quality was better than ever before. The quantity was much larger than in any year except during the war. What is most important is that Canada has at the present time more firmly entrenched herself as the source of supply of bacon for the British market than at any previous time.

"The United States provides a market for more than one-third of our exportable products, exclusive of gold and the tourist trade. Canada's business with the United States in 1935 amounted to $671,000,000 and in 1936, to $775,000,000; whereas in 1937 in reached the unparalleled sum of $961,000,000. Had the United States-Canada treaty been in effect during the past twenty-seven years, on the basis of the great increase in the trade of the Dominion during the past year with that country, Canada might have doubled her population during that period. Anything like trade hostilities between two great neighboring nations would be, and indeed has been, regrettable and mutually injurious.

"According to the statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, 245,000 head of cattle were exported to the United States in 1937, as against 199,000 in 1935, an increase of 23.1 per cent. in number and 58.8 per cent. in value. The exports of dairy cattle to the United States in 1937, and in 1936 as well, were 7,000 head each year, but the value in 1937 was $425,000 as compared with $352,000 in 1936, or an increase of 7.8 per cent. Incidentally, from January 1 of this year to the end of April, 11,069 head of cattle weighing 700 pounds or over were shipped to the United Kingdom as compared with 688 head in the corresponding year, 1937.

"Exports of hay to the United States in 1937 amounted to 144,000 tons valued at $1,069,000, whereas in 1936 shipments were 70,500 tons valued at only $540,000. These items are approximate.

"The encouragement of the tourist trade with the United States by every legitimate means is of national economic beenfit. It is of inestimable value in strengthening and increasing the friendship that exists between the two great nations on the North American continent. Uncle Sam's tourist dollar is the thing that Canadians should make a bid for, and we could obtain these tourist dollars by courtesy, fair treatment and judicious advertising, which would mean an increase in trade and the infusion of new money into the Dominion. It therefore behooves us as good Canadians to hold out to them the hand of fellowship, to give them a welcome and to make them feel at home. Our visitors of today may be our neighbors of tomorrow.

"Canada is now one of the leading mining countries of the world. Minerals constitute one of the most important resources of the Dominion. The progress is amazing, as shown by the 1937 output of $456,000,000, the largest production on record, and an increase of about 26.2 per cent. over 1936. In the same year $137,000,000 was paid out in salaries and wages. Another remarkable feature is that in 1936 over $81,113,000 was distributed in dividends. In 1937 the distribution of dividends increased to over $105,000,000, an increase of 29 per cent., all of which creates buying power for other commodities and thereby adding to employment. The budget provision of 1936 for the assistance of new mines, by which they were given three years to get under way before the corporation tax was collected, has been a substantial inducement to the establishment of new mines and mills.

"The Liberal government has taken consistent steps towards reducing the cost of the implements and instruments of production. Prices of farm products and manufactured goods were on a par in 1937 for the first time in many years. Emphatically we must not retard production, thereby increasing unemployment and affecting income and making progress impossible. Fundamentally industry is our way out. We have to depend in large measure upon the wealth which industry creates and the employment which it provides to bring prosperity to both our workers and employers.

"It is, however, conceivable, even admitting the increasing importance of secondary industry in this country, that we cannot cure the plight of agriculture through the medium of a high tariff. While it is most essential that we do nothing detrimentally to affect industry, either large or small, it is just as important that we give increased and effective attention and encouragement to those engaged in agriculture, for the obvious reason that farm incomes are inadequate.

"In the interest of the public welfare, referring specially to public health, all governmnts have placed rather formidable obligations on the live stock and dairy farmer. To begin with, we notify him, then exhort him, and finally force him, indirectly at least, to have his hergs tuberculin tested, and demand the destruction of diseased animals and subsequent reactors. It is true he receives some compensation, but not commensurate with the loss he sustains. Subsequently he was called upon to follow the same procedure in respect to Bang's disease, with the same expensive results; and we are now asking him to have his herds blood tested. While not disputing the necessity of this procedure in the interest of the consuming public, I believe the expense is beyond the farmer's ability to pay, and he is entitled to greater consideration in this regard.

"Admitting and appreciating to the full all that this government has done towards the expansion of the marketing of agricultural products, as evidenced by the statistics I have submitted, I maintain that still greater expansion of markets is not only necessary but imperative. Improvement in quality, grading, packing and shipping facilities of all agricultural products, and the determination to guide them aright into the hands of the consumer, wherever he may be, is equally imperative, and a measure towards greater profit in Canada's basic industry.

"In my concluding remarks on this all-important subject of agriculture I desire not only to recommend but to urge the Minister of Finance and the government to give consideration to a measure by means of which a farmer with ample security could borrow sufficient money at four per cent. per annum to refund and consolidate his debts and purchase his immediate requirements. I cannot conceive of anything that would do more to stimulate the building trade, manufacturing, employment, transportation and national revenue."

Two Armed Thugs Beat Up Motorist

TORONTO, June 24—(CP)—Howard Manning, Toronto, was beaten and robbed by two armed men near here early today. Manning said a young woman, whom he met for the first time last night, induced him to drive along a certain route in north-east Toronto.

When the automobile stopped at a crossing, two men jumped to the side of the car, dragged Manning out and beat him up and robbed him of $28.

They left him bleeding on the ground. The girl drove off with them.

Fur-Bearing Animals On Fish Diet

Foxes, raccoons, minks and other four-footed animals are integral parts of fur farming, one of Canada's native industries. But more and more fish are also playing a part as breeders find them valuable in the diet of their animals. Foxes are in the great majority in the fur farming trade and the TOP picture shows some of them running at large on one of the country extensive farms. LOWER LEFT illustrates supper time, as one of the members of the fox colony sniffs at his fare, consisting probably in part of fish. LOWER RIGHT shows E. H. Cudmore, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., holding a tame silver fox.

Deputy Fire Chief Is Suspended

VANCOUVER, June 24—(CP). — The unemployed rioting of last Sunday resulted indirectly yesterday in suspension from office of Assistant Fire Chief J. H. De Graves.

Fire Chief Archie McDiarmid handed De Graves his letter of suspension and the assistant chief went immediately to the office of Mayor G. C. Miller. The mayor called a special session of the city council for to-day.

Chief McDiarmid said in his letter to De Graves that he took action "because you failed to notify me of an unsual occurrence on the morning of June 19, 1938, at 5.45 a.m., when you responded with Fire Department apparatus to Woodward's department store, nor did you subsequently notify me of reports arising from response of the apparatus."

The fire equipment from No. 2 hall was called to the downtown department store after unemployed broke all ground-floor windows in the building during rioting which followed eviction of 500 men from the central post office and civic art gallery.

Subsequently, city police officers reported firemen had made insulting remarks about the part officers were playing in eviction of the jobless men from the buildings they occupied for a month.

Presentation Is Made Rev. Craik

At the Strawberry Tea held by the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James United Church Thursday evening, the Men's Brotherhood surprised their leader, Rev. F. W. Craik, with a presentation of a fountain pen, and an address which read as follows:

Dear Mr. Craik: The poet has said "What is so rare as a day in June, and we of the Brotherhood are happy to enjoy with you an even rarer event, your birthday. From Sunday to Sunday you have been the means of linking us with the Greathearts of the past in all their many faceted reflections of Christ, and in humble appreciation we tender our gifts of a fountain pen to assist you in your daily writings.

We hope the pen will be as compelling as the stylus that wrote St. Paul's Epistles and the goose quill that admonished Susannah Wesley's son John, and that we ourselves will understand more clearly just how much preparation has gone into even an extempore clerical address. We close with kindest birthday greetings for this and many anniversaries to come, and remain. Fraternally yours, The Brotherhood of St. James United Church, Matt Drysdale, President, Ben Kerr, Secretary.

The president introduced Mr. Craik to the large assembly, and after the secretary had read the address, Roy Moynes presented to Mr. Craik the lovely gift.

Dixon—Fife

The following wedding which took place in Toronto recently will be of interest locally. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Fife of Otonabee, and has many friends and relatives in the city and vicinity. Out of town guests at the wedding included Miss Eva Fife, Stewart street, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Jas. Easson, Keene, who is an aunt.

Castlefield Baptist church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Norma Irene Fife, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fife, of Sharon, became the bride of Harold Collier Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon, Toronto. Rev. C. V. Farmer officiated. The wedding music was played by F. J. Foster, and George Dixon, father of the groom, sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white point d'esprit over taffeta, with fingertip veil, and carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Clayton Hurlburt, sister of the groom, was the brides only attendant and was attired in pale green point d'esprit over taffeta with small off-the-face hat. She carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas and yellow roses.

Ernest Dixon, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Edmund Fife and Ross Lugsdin.

At the reception which followed the bride's mother received wearing navy and white accessories, and a corsage of Butterfly roses. The groom's mother wore black sheer trimmed with white, and a corsage of white roses.

The couple left on a motor trip to the Adirondacks, the bride travelling in a delphinium blue dress with matching hat, gray coat and accessories. On their return they will live in Toronto.

Printed suits are high in favor for summer wear. Joan Bennett, screen star, wears this youthful two-piece in bright red and white print.

The skirt has an all-around knife-pleated treatment and the fingertip jacket is single-breasted, with bright red buttons matched by a leather belt. A gilet of white pique also buttons in red.

Two white carnations are pinned to Miss Bennett's shoulder, her hat is white pique with tiny red and blue leather stars and a bow of red grosgrain.

Senator Fallis Marks Birthday

OTTAWA, June 24 (CP).—Birthday congratulations to Senator Iva Fallis, the second woman to be named to the Upper House, were extended by both Government and Opposition Leaders, in the Senate Thursday on her fifty-fifth birthday.

The desk of the Conservative woman Senator from Peterborough, who was appointed in 1935, was adorned with two large baskets of roses.

Senator Cairine Wilson, the Liberal woman representative, was appointed in 1930.

Government Leader Dandurand said that since Senator Fallis entered the House, fellow members had enjoyed the essential feminine qualities, charm and kindliness which she possessed. They also appreciated her public service.

"I will not attempt to compete with the Government Leader in the sphere of gallantry for he is in a class by himself," remarked Conservative Leader Meighen. All members of the Chamber appreciated the modesty, friendliness and charm of Senator Fallis.

Parents Should Encourage Children In Studies

(By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D., Cleveland College.)

YOU AND I can learn much from the successes of others, especially as we know something of their struggles leading to the victories. A mother writes:

Dear Dr. Myers: I hope that my children's school history might bring encouragement to parents whose children get poor grades, and also brighten the child's life. Our two older children, a girl and her younger brother, were like the nine-year-old boy and his older sister mentioned in your article: she a splendid student and he always average or below. We never led him to believe that we were satisfied with his grades, but we did bring to light his good points and praised him for the things he did accomplish. Worthy praise to children is what wages and salary are to the grown-up.

"Often, too, co-operation with the child's teacher to help him with the things he does not quite grasp, will bring a big improvement in only a short time. This should be done with the first sign of discouragement, not let go from week to week and month to month until the child is utterly bewildered. Down in the fourth grade our boy came home at noon one day saying that he wasn't going back to school. Everything was wrong; teacher wasn't any good either. So, as soon as lunch was over, I went back to school with him and asked the teacher if she knew what the trouble was. A few minutes of her time to explain an arithmetic problem straightened things out for him.

"All through their school life sister had the excellent grades, younger brother the popularity and school honors other than scholastic. Now they are grown to young womanhood and young manhood, each fine in his or her own way. She still is book-minded and he hand-minded.

Not All Alike.

"What an uninteresting and futile world this would be if all were alike! And what human wants a parrot or rubber stamp for offspring? We can be thankful when each child shows individuality. I know a brilliant artist who admits he was the prize dumb-bell in grade school; I know a fine young musician whose mother was completely discouraged about his school work. So it seems that we should help each child to find himself." Isn't that a fine contribution?

I wish every one of us parents and teachers could make as one of our mottos "Celebrate successes in the child." And we parents might well also celebrate successes in each other. My wife says the best thing I have written is a little pamphlet entitled, "Education of Young Children Through Celebrating Their Successes." It may be had by sending 5 cents to the superintendent of public documents, Washington, D.C. I really got the ideas in it from the way she won the co-operation of our children. But that is not the reason she says it is BEST.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

Having rediscovered both yellow and green split peas I pass on an old-time recipe that makes a fine big-family supper dish.

St. Patrick's Frankfurters.

Cover one pound dried split peas (green or yellow— the yellow are supposed to have the best flavor), three small onions chopped rather finely, 1 chopped or grated carrot, one-quarter of a bay leaf (do not be generous with this spice or it will drown the flavor of the other ingredients), 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper with 6 cups of water, and simmer very slowly in heavy pot for 2 hours. Add more water if necessary. When tender, the consistency should be about as heavy as mashed potatoes—so you will see it must be watched or protected with asbestos mat to keep from burning. Add one pound of frankfurters, and boil from 10 to 12 minutes longer.

The cooking time is lessened if the beans are soaked in the water in which they are cooked, overnight.

Leave out the frankfurters, add twice as much water, and you have the best pea soup possible.

Costume For Travel Wear Is Practical

Here is a traveling ensemble that may be just the answer for the girl who is leaving her worries and work behind, at least for two weeks, and is pleasure-bound, to resort, country or the city. To say it is smart hardly seems enough, but suppose we let it go at that to avoid the sugary superlatives that are not too easily believed. The silk sheer dress this model is wearing is in a luggage tan. It has a flattering, draped neckline and a matching reversible coat that is lined with polka dot silk crepe. The coat has tuxedo revers and, of course a boutonniere to match. Completing the ensemble is a gold-stitched pique hat that is trimmed with black. As can be seen, the hat has a high crown and an upward swing.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The characteristic of genuine heroism is persistency. All men have wandering impulses, fits and starts of generosity. But, when you have resolved to be great, abide by yourself, and do not weakly try to reconcile yourself with the world. The heroic cannot be common, nor the common heroic.—From "Great Thoughts."

Dear Friends:

So many of us would like to be heroic in some way, but the thing that holds us back is that we try to be "all things to all men." We want to play with the players, work with the workers, travel with the travellers, stay at home with the home birds, and we end up like a jack of all trades, master of none.

And so, if you have set a standard for yourself, and are hurt by the criticism of your friends, if loneliness overwhelms you, and lack of understanding deters you from your purpose, remember that the great or heroic are always lonely, always misunderstood, but the result is worth all you suffer.

If there is anything you want from life, you must use persistency, else you will not go very far. Anyone who has achieved any worthwhile thing had to be persistent, they had to practice and keep at it. They could not go at it by fits and starts to get success.

And I'll venture to say without fear of contradiction, that the biggest failures come from lack of persisting until they succeeded. Even in prayer, this lack keeps many prayers from being answered. It's like getting a bottle of medicine from your doctor and taking a few doses, then saying the darned thing did you no good.

But if you had finished the bottle, you would have seen the benefit. And so with your hopes and dreams, keep at them, don't let yourself be discouraged, nor turned from them. Don't keep trying to please everyone, but abide by your desire, think it, take it to bed with you, rise up with it in the morning, and it cannot fail to come to you.

I think I told you about this parable of our Lord before, but it will bear repeating as it fits right here. You remember this man had visitors who had come to see him from a far country, and found he hadn't enough bread to give them something to eat after their long journey?

So, just as you or I would do, he went to his neighbor to borrow some. But his neighbor had gone to bed, so had his wife and children and he said, no, he wasn't coming down to lend bread, let them wait till morning. But the man importuned him the more, that is he persisted in asking him to lend the bread, and at last, not because he loved his neighbor, but because of his persistence, he came down and gave to him what he asked.

Why do you think our Lord told us that parable? Just because He knew we started off all right, but we did not keep at it. Even when we pray we do not keep at it enough so that our prayers are answered. Any Mother knows that the persistent one gets his desires more often than the one who is easily put off.

Then, why not try persistence in your own life. If you learn music you must keep on and on, no matter how wearisome it is, but—one day you are truly a musician. So, if failure has been dogging you, just look back and see if you did not give up too soon, or maybe go at the thing by fits and starts.

You'll never make a go of anything that way. God Himself knows how I have had to persist in the face of ill health, heartbreak, disappointments, criticism, but it has been worth it. At least I am not a failure, and have had many of my desires fulfilled.

It isn't easy, but failure isn't easy either. Look at all the things you must put up with when you fail, when you haven't the stamina to stay with a thing. So, keep on with it, use persistence, and you cannot help but win. It's the law of nature. Your Friend,

ROBERTA.

Mary Moore Inquiry Column

Question—Now that the lilac season is here, we often have the disappointment of having a choice bouquet of these blooms wilt in a few hours. Here is a remedy to prolong their lives. All woody branches, i.e. lilacs, roses, etc. should have the portion of the stalk immersed in water literally crushed, a hammer does a good job. This allows a great deal more water through to the flowers and often doubles their lives. Hoping this may be of value in your department. Mrs. S. U.

Answer—Thank you for the suggestion—for one I profited by it immediately by crushing the steams of some mock orange blossoms. Write when we can be of help to you.

Question—Would you kindly print for me in your cookery page the recipes of a thin chocolate wafer. I mean cut after cooked. It said on your page spread thin as paper then sprinkle with broken walnuts. You printed that recipe some time ago. I cut it out and mislaid it. I would be very grateful if you could reprint it again as I am very anvious to make some. Many thanks, Mrs. L.H.

ANSWER Thank you for your letter.

This recipe is patterned after English Lace Wafers, and I think it is what you want.

Chocolate Walnut Wafers

One-half cup strained honey, ½-cup butter or good shortening, 1 cup sifted flour, 2-3 cup sugar, 1½ tablespoons Fry's breakfast cocoa, ½ cup finely chopped walnuts. Heat the honey to boiling and allow the butter to melt in it, then add the remaining ingredients sifted together, and stir until smooth and well blended. Spread wafer thin on cookie sheet, sprinkle evenly with the finely chopped walnuts, and bake at 350 or until cookie mixture bubbles up well. If baked for any less than about 15 minutes the cookies will be chewy rather than crisp. Remove pan from oven, cut cookies into the desired shapes (these roll over handle of wooden spoon if desired), or lift diagonal corners to make them meet—when they cool in this shape they will retain it. If they get too crisp while you are still working shaping them return to oven and they will melt a little again. Hoping this is the recipe you want and that we can help you again.

QUESTION: Having been a devoted follower of your page for years I am coming with a request for Rhubarb Relish. There is brown sugar, onions, and rhubarb, but what amounts or how long to cook I just don't know—it appeared in your columns last year and I think I put it away carefully but haven't found it yet.

After I copy the recipes I want to keep my sister-in-law sends your page to Kenya Colony, B.E.A. to a sister and she prints them in a church monthly so you see your good work reaches the far corners. Thanking you, (Mrs.) J. D. G.

ANSWER: Such a delightful news item! It would be fun to hear from your sister-in-law's sister, if she could send some of the recipes that are native to Kenya Colony and that we could adapt to our Canadian cookery.

Rhubarb Relish

Six pounds chopped unpeeled rhubarb, 3 pounds brown sugar, 1 pound onions finely chopped, juice and grated rind of 2 oranges (1 lb. raisins chopped fine and ½-pound pecans or walnuts are optional but very desirable). Add the grated orange rind to the chopped rhubarb, and add the sugar and fruits if used, and onions. Cook over low heat for one hour stirring frequently—five minutes before it is done add nuts, then pour into sterile jam jars and seal.

We hope this is the recipe you want and that we can help you again.

QUESTION: I want to sincerely thank you for your kind and enlightening answers to my enquiries. The variety of jellied salads you gave exceeded all expectations and your recipe for cheese sauce and the care of the Frigidaire are, I assure you, greatly appreciated.

I have an enormous scrapbook just filled with your menus and recipes. This book I prize most highly, because the directions are so easy to follow and the results so reliable and tasty.

Many thanks to the lady O.M.D. who sent in her recipe for Half-Hour Pudding. It is encouraging for the business woma nto receive such helpful suggestions. This business woman often postpones supper for an hour or more in order to enjoy those tempting menus of yours, and they are certainly worth waiting for.

May I offer my congratulations for the splendid and helpful information your cookery page has been giving to those in less fortunate circumstances than ourselves.—Kay M.

ANSWER: Thank you for such a pleasant and thoughtful letter. I will be glad to hear from you when I can help you again.

Sultana Cake (for Ma.)

Seven-eighths cup butter (or butter mixed with good shortening), 2-3 cup sugar, 4 unbeaten eggs, ¼ cup blanched almonds, 2¾ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup Sultanas, 1 cup seeded raisins cut in halves, (1-3 cup orange or lemon or citron peel is optional), 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon orange extract, 1 teaspoon vanilla, Cream the butter very well, and sift in the sugar slowly while creaming.

Add 1 egg and beat 5 minutes. Add a second egg and again beat 5 minutes, repeating the process with the third and fourth eggs, then stir in the almonds, which should be blanched, cut in halves or quarters and mixed with ¾ cup of the required flour. Mix the raisins and fruit peel (if used) with the orange juice and add these alternately with the remaining flour which has been sifted with the baking powder. Add flavorings and bake in two large or three small paper-lined and buttered loaf pans. Temperature should be 275 deg. Fahr. and time is one hour—cover cakes with brown paper if they begin to brown before 40 minutes has passed. To make this into a genuine Dundee cake add the fruit peels for sure, and garnish top of cake before baking with sliced citron peel, sliced maraschino cherries, candied pineapple and nut halves. When cool put in airtight tin and it will keep for weeks.

We hope you both like the recipes and that you, Sonny will write again and give me a chance to prove to you that I do answer all the letters readers send to me.

A Costume for Sitting in the Sand

Culotte skirt opened and closed with slide fastener, worn with teddy skirt in batik print. A costume for sitting in the sand and playing. Looking Back
On This Date

Fred Williams

The 24th of June has a dual significance for two very different sections of the population of Canada. It is St. Jean Baptiste Day and a public holiday in Quebec, as well as cause for celebration wherever French Canadians reside. It is also the feast of St. John the Evangelist and the greatest day in the calendar of Freemasonry. This June 24 has a very especial significance for Freemasons, because this year, 1938, is the bi-centenary of the founding of the craft in Canada. It was in June (presumably the 24th), 1738, that Major Erasmus J. Phillips organized the first Freemasons' lodge at Annapolis Royal, in the old Fort Anne.

This bi-centennial is to be made occasion for great observances in Nova Scotia, with repercussions throughout the Dominion. The Masonic Sun tells that on July 10, a special service of thanksgiving is to be held in historic St. Paul's, Halifax, in which the first Masonic service in Canada was held, June 24, 1751. The special preacher will be the Very Rev. (Brother) Canon H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto. On July 11 a monument to mark the grave of Major Phillips will be unveiled in St. Paul's cemetery, and July 12 the celebrants, who will include brethren from England, Scotland, Ireland, the United States and all Canada, will travel to Annapolis via Windsor and Grand Pre, A colorful ceremony at Fort Anne will include the dedication of a plaque in the foundation place of the order in Canada, and there is every indication that it will be for another century a landmark in the story of Masonry in the Dominion.

There will follow visits to Saint John as the guests of the grand lodge of New Brunswick, July 13-14, and to Charlottetown, July 15. Then to Montreal and on to Toronto for the meeting of the grand lodge of Canada, July 18-21, and, after a visit to Niagara Falls, an itinerary right through to the Pacific coast.

For once, the brethren will face west from the time they leave Halifax until they turn back at Victoria. But this violation of the rule, that the Mason always faces toward the light, will be pardoned under the unique circumstances of this bi-centennial year.

June 24 is also, of course, the day of the discovery of Canada by John Cabot, from Bristol, in 1497, and of the arrival of Champlain and DesMonts at the Saint John in 1604. Really a remarkable day in our history!

Style Whimsies

Braid on accessories is predicted for fall wear, including gloves, bags, shoes, neckwear, and blouses.

Charming evening dresses have been developed in linen and lace for mid-summer wear.

The dirndl corselet is shown in cotton pastels laced up the front with matching grosgrain ribbon. A small pocket stitched in the wide part at front makes it convenient for the girls who wear pocketless dirndls.

So suitable for every day wear is the two-piece frock consisting of a dark dotted cotton skirt with jacket blouse of natural cotton-and-linen hopsacking.

The black chiffon shirtwaist dress, with all-round pleated skirt, so popular last summer, again is one of the favored selections for town and country wear.

Cotton print bra-halters are on display among the many tricky beach clothes.

These are the new hose shades that you see other women wearing—maybe—and wish you knew what to ask for when you go to buy: Radiance—a beige with a rose cast, harmonizes with muted colors and evening shades; amberose — bright amber, good with blues, white and bright prints; cedar—lively sun tan, for white, pastels, sports, as well as town navy and black; bisquette—a pale, neutral beige, for mustards, blues, neutrals and black.

There is a great demand for pantie girdles for summer wear—particularly suitable for the sports-loving girl.

An entirely new departure from the all-white bag are prints in linens, challis types and rayons. Many have composition frames and chain handles; others merely tie at the top like a large printed handkerchief.

Rarer Than Hen's Teeth

Rarer than hen's teeth, according to agriculturists and breeders, is the birth of a foal to a mule, which is classed as a hybrid animal. But here is Sandstorm, dark bay mule owned by William H. Mobley, of Hartsville,, with the baby to which she gave birth. The little fellow has been named Kickapoo.

No Wonder You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-tonic, vitamin B1. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Sold by every grocer.

Awarded $500 Damages

TORONTO, June 24 (CP). — For personal injuries in a scuffle with hotel detectives, W. H. Powell, third-year law student, was last night awarded $500 damages against the Canadian Pacific Railway and William Moriarty, 37, chief house detective of the Royal York Hotel.

An Assize Court jury took three hours to determine the result of the case, in which 135-pound Powell claimed 235-pound Moriarty had knocked out one tooth and broken two others, among other injuries.

County Refuses To Give Grant To Children's Aid

Dissociation from the Peterborough Children's Aid Society may be the course the county may have to follow, Reeve W. A. Anderson stated in finance committe of the county council Thursday when a request from the Society for a grant of $250 was turned down on a motion by Deputy-reeve Johnston, North Monaghan, seconded by Reeve McColl, Asphodel.

The request was made on behalf of the Society by Miss Rachel Young, superintendent, and E. B. Fowler.

Mr. Anderson said the Society was costing the county nearly $400 a month, and the trend was upward, but the House of Refuge cost the county $3,400 a year. He believed that the care of children was easy compared with looking after old people.

Miss Young said on Wednesday there were thirty-three wards of the Society whose maintenance was chargeable to the county.

At the prescribed allowance of 75 cents a day, the total amount the county could have been called upon to provide for that one month was $767.25, but the Society saved the county $372.25. The actual bill for the month was $395.

"We are asking for a grant of $250 because we are continually in the red,' Miss Young said. She discussed the circumstances of some of the wards who have come into the Society's care.

Mr. Fowler introduced Miss Young to the council, and said that if the members who were associated with the Society could recommend any concrete proposals for economy in its affairs he would be glad to support them. Reeve Anderson remarked that salaries at the Shelter seemed too high.

On a motion by Reeves Gifford and Seeney, Reeves Anderson and Brown and E. B. Fowler, members of the finance committee of the Society, were requested to consider its financing and report at the September meeting of the Society.

What Some Counties Pay

From the government report for the year 1936-7, Miss Young quoted comparative statistics of the cost of Childrens Aid services in some of the counties of the province.

Victoria, with a population of 30,803, pays $10,719.64; House of Refuge, $12,240; hospitalization, $13,606.

Hastings, population, 56,494; Children's Aid, $17,677.20; hospitalization, $19,959; House of Refuge, $14,807.

Prescott-Russell—Population, 42,785; Children's Aid, $16,611; hospitalization, $38,668; House of Refuge, $12,940.

Renfrew—51,537 population; Children's Aid, $10,172; hospitalization, $34,565; House of Refuge, $8,567.

Leeds-Grenville — 46,928 population; Children's Aid, $23,541.12; hospitalization, $13,928; House of Refuge, $6,817.

Frontenac — Population, 43,146; hospitalization, $8,974; House of Refuge, $2,765.

Peterborough—Population, 43,478; Children's Aid, $6,065.56; hospitalization, $9,102; House of Refuge, $5,854.

Three of those counties, not including Peterborough, also provide additional grants ranging from $265 to $694.

OBITUARY

MRS. AUDREY HOPE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, June 24. — A sad gloom was cast over the village on Saturday when word was received of the death of Mrs. Audrey Hope, who passed away at Cobourg General Hospital. The deceased was 31 years of age, and had been in ill-health since early winter. Mrs. Hope was the only daughter of H. S. Chapple of Greece, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Chapple. She was born in Toronto, where she resided until about five years ago, when she came with her parents to reside east of Centreton. Three years ago she married Eric Hope, who still survives her. They moved this spring to a farm west of Centreton to reside with James Hope and family.

Mrs. Hope was of a very quiet disposition, and was a loving wife and mother. She also was a dutiful daughter, having cared most tenderly for her invalid mother who predeceased her about four years ago.

The funeral service was held in Centreton United Church on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. W. W. Bromwich officiating ,assisted by Rev. T. A. Nind of St. John's Church.

Left to mourn the loss are her husband and two daughters, little Mary and a small infant daughter of six days, and her father, H. S. Chapple, and stepmother of Greece, N.Y., and two brothers, Clifford Chapple of Toronto and Leigh Chapple of Centreton.

The pall-bearers were three cousins of the deceased, Harry Richardson, Arthur Richardson, Keith Halstead, and Henry Honeywell, Percy Fraser, and Harold McAuley.

Royal Visit Has Been Postponed

Buckingham Palace made the following official announcement:

"In view of the bereavement of Her Majesty the Queen, the President of the French Republic has enquired whether it would be more agreeable to Their Majesties to postpone their visit to Paris until July 19-July 22.

"Their Majesties, deeply appreciating the motives underlying M. Lebrun's suggestion, have gladly accepted it."

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson gave a very nice address, especially emphasizing his regrets that Mr. and Mrs. Cleland were soon to leave for his new field at Athens.

Rev. Mr. Cleland acted as chairman, and so another anniversary of this church, built by those who have long since passed on to their reward but who like so many other of the pioneers of Canada, felt the need of a "kirk" as the cornerstone of their community, as passes into history.

Lasswade Picnic Is Huge Success

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LASSWADE, June 24.—St. Paul's Anglican Church held its annual picnic on the Methuen grounds on Tuesday, and, favored with ideal weather and a big crowd, proved a gratifying success. Dinner and supper were served in the open in the fine maple tree grove and a softball game, besides, a variety of sports, afforded a full afternoon's entertainment. The canteen was well patronized, also the sale of work booth under the auspices of the W.A. An interesting interlude between the games was the presentation to the Rev. C. A. G. Spence by the W. A. of St. Paul's, of an autograph quilt containing 175 names, together with a purse of money and an address, "in appreciation of the many years of unselfish service he had given them." Miss Thelma Buell read the addess, and Mrs. McKee made the presentation, which Mr. Spence feelingly acknowledged in a short address, which was responded to by hearty cheers led by Rev. F. C. McMulkin.

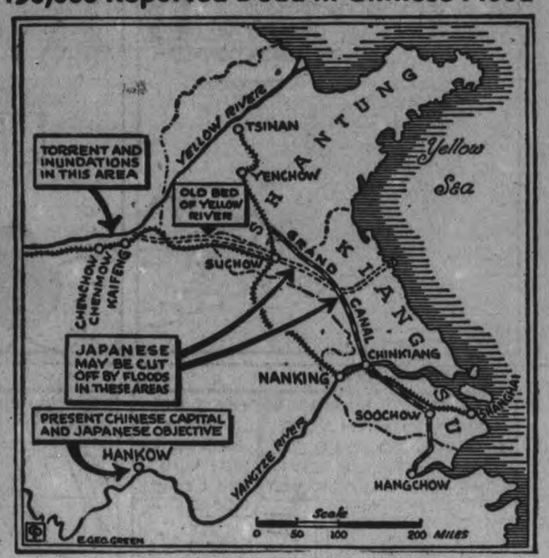
150,000 Reported Dead in Chinese Flood



One of the worst disasters in China's long chain of disasters is feared as the Yellow river swirls over hundreds of square miles of Honan province, taking a huge death toll, estimated by Japanese military engineers at 150,000. Heavy rains, coupled with deliberate destruction of the dikes by Japanese artillery fire and by Chinese themselves to impede the invader, are listed as causes of the great flood. The Japanese army itself is said to have suffered severely from the flood. One dispatch from Chinese sources said 5,000 Japanese soldiers were drowned and 7,000 more trapped.

Police Foil Holdup At Dufferin

Suspect Is Seized As Finger Man For Two Gunmen

TORONTO, June 25—An attempt to hold up the Dufferin Race-Track plant and rob the office safe of thousands of dollars was nipped in the bud yesterday by Toronto police, who arrested an ex-convict on a vagrancy charge and launched an intensive search for two notorious men, gunmen both, who were seen at the track earlier in the day.

With information in their possession that a daring attempt would be made to rob the general office under the main grand stand, either by day or at night, the authorities assigned extra detectives, plainclothesmen and uniformed constables to special duty at the half-mile track. They mingled with the 7,000 persons who attended the races yesterday and the perspiring fans went about the business of making bets, ignorant of the fact that the underworld was planning a sensational crime.

Believe Bloodshed Avoided.

Dufferin Park officials were silent about the whole affair, but there is no doubt in the minds of the police that had not one of the key figures been arrested the holdup would have been attempted, with bloodshed likely to result.

The man arrested on the vagrancy charge is 25 years old and has already served a sentence for theft. He was taken into custody by Detective-Sergeant Nelson Silverthorn and was locked up in Ossington Avenue Police Station. He will appear in Police Court Saturday and the Crown will ask for a week's remand.

Police are confident they will get the two gunmen. A citizen took the license number of the car in which they drove away from the race track and gave it to the police. They are well known to the police and both have served time in Kingston Penitentiary.

The man arrested at the track is said by police to have given information to the gunmen concerning the location of the race track safe.

Layout Spotted.

At 10.30 a.m. yesterday the two brothers drove up to the track and met a sister of the man arrested on the vagrancy charge. They asked her where they could find her brother. She told them he was somewhere around the track. Perhaps the men became suspicious, for they drove away shortly after. Detectives believe they came to the track for the purpose of sizing up the layout.

Less Hell-Fire

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP).—Dr. J. Ray Van Meter, Philadelphia psychiartrist, urges Lutheran Church workers to "preach less hell-fire to their Sunday School classes." Speaking at the closing session of the annual National Lutheran Inner Mission Conference, Dr. Van Meter said last night that Sunday school teachers should present the Bible in a manner understandable to the child's mind.

"Quite often children are brought to me after they have been terribly frightened by stories of hell and punishment they were told in Sunday school," he said.

Huge Still Located In The Basement Of Old Brewery

London, June 25.

ONE OF THE largest plants for illicit manufacture of moonshine liquor ever uncovered in Western Ontario is reported to have been found Friday by a raiding squad of R. C. M. P. and Provincial officers in the cellars under the "Old Brewery" at New Hamburg.

Fred Langenegger, Swiss, chief cheesemaker at a factory now operating in the old brewery building, was lodged in Stratford jail.

Election Bill's Expense Clause Dropped

OTTAWA, June 25 (CP)—Legislation to enact the major recommendation of the royal commission on penitentiaries, calling for a commission to control Canada's penal system, will probably provide the feature debate during the final week of the parliamentary session.

Yesterday the House quickly disposed of the few budget resolutions dealing with taxation changes and plunged through the elections and franchise bill which re-vamps legislation dealing with the machinery of elections. The most voluminous bill of the session, almost all its sections were adopted.

Another elections measure dealing with reforms of electoral practices particularly with reference to expenditures by candidates will be dropped.

All parties seem to be in agreement that prorogation may be reached by next Thursday although something may happen to upset these plans. Members have not yet seen the penitentiaries bill which may be controversial.

Senate Still Has Bill.

There is also the possibility that the senate, which is still struggling with the transport commission bill in committee, will hold up prorogation. Last year a similar bill originated in the senate and was killed there. This year the transport bill originated in and passed the House of Commons but is having a stormy time with the members of the upper house.

There was no acrimonious debate over the budget resolutions which were dealt with by a chamber in which there were seldom more than 50 members.

Revenue Minister Ilsley acted in place of the ailing Finance Minister Dunning who collapsed Wednesday from heat and overwork but is expected back in his place next week.

Opposition Leader Bennett provided the greater part of the criticism. He objected that the measures to be adopted did not go far enough in recovering income tax from those who set up corporations in other countries to avoid taxation.

Mr. Bennett also objected to the retroactive clause in the amendment which permits deductions from income tax returns of amounts paid by corporations as lump contributions to pension schemes for their employees.

This amendment permits corporations to deduct one-tenth of such lump sum payments each year for 10 years from the date of the initial payment. Thus, if a corporation made a contribution nine years ago it would be able to deduct one-tenth of the amount of the initial contribution next year, but if the first contribution was made 10 years ago there could be no deduction.

Mr. Bennett thought this an un-

Police nabbed 18 men in the largest raid on alleged gamblers seen in this city in a number of years shortly after midnight, Friday. Six city police and Provincial Officer Lloyd McClure forced entry to upstairs rooms at 416½ George street, claimed to have found the money, dice, cards, poker chips seen at LEFT. England's 11 Ends Innings In 494 Runs

LONDON, June 25 (CP Cable).—Batting steadily, Australia had compiled 194 runs for three wickets at the tea interval in the second cricket Test match at Lord's today. England's innings, concluded shortly before the lunch interval, netted 494 runs.

LONDON, June 25—(CP Cable).—England was dismissed to-day for a total of 494 runs in the second cricket test match with Australia. Walter Hammond carried his score from 210 to 240 when he was clean bowled by E. L. McCormick, and Leslie Ames was ninth out after making 83.

Australia went to the wickets for a brief period before lunch, scoring 25 runs without loss. W. A. Brown and J. H. Fingleton were the opening batsmen, the former making 15 of the total at the interval.

Although Hammond's total was 11 short of his highest score made against the Aussies at Sydney in the 1928-29 series, it was a record for English batsmen in Anglo-Australian tests in England. Edward Paynter, who made 99 runs yesterday, held the honor with his 216 not out, made in the initial test at Nottingham early in the month.

The English captain batted six hours without giving a chance, hitting 32 fours. Ames added 33 runs to his overnight score when caught by McCormick off L. O. Fleetwood-Smith. He hit 10 boundaries.

Gates of the famous Lord's enclosure were closed some time before the start with a capacity crowd of more than 30,000 present. It was announced the injury to A. G. Chipperfield's hand was not as serious as first thought. The veteran Australian was believed to have broken a finger in stopping a hot return from Hammond yesterday.

Colin Campbell Is Asked To Return Tory Credentials – But Will Keep Them

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 25.

NOW THAT he's got his credentials as delegate-at-large to the National Conservative convention at Ottawa, Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works in the Ontario Liberal Government, is going to keep his various official insignia and have the whole thing just "as a sample of another Conservative error."

Mr. Campbell was in the Soo today and he displayed his credentials quite proudly. Last night he received a letter from Conservative convention headquarters in Toronto asking for their return, but he figures that they're worth keeping and will notify John R. MacNicol to that effect. Anyway, he's having so much fun with it he likes it.

Mr. Campbell explains that the Parliamentary Guide lists him as a Conservative and so started the comedy of errors. A couple of lines of type belonging to Thomas Church's biography got mixed up with Mr. Campbell's. The Guide lists Mr. Campbell's address as 104 Chatsworth Drive, Toronto, Mr. Church's home.

Viscount Cecil Has Resigned In Protest Against Bombing

Chief Government Whip Will No Longer Consider Himself Supporter Of Chamberlain

LONDON, June 25 (CP-Havas).—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, who 11 years ago resigned from the government because of the poor progress made in disarmament, today resigned the government whip in protest to Prime Minister Chamberlain's "indefensible" attitude towards the bombing of British ships in Spanish waters.

Resigning the government Whip means Lord Cecil will no longer consider himself to support the government in the House of Lords. Similar action, also on account of the government's Spanish policy, was taken in the House of Commons a few weeks ago by the Duchess of Atholl.

The noted champion of the League of Nations sent the following letter to the Earl of Lucan, chief government whip in the Upper Chamber:

"In spite of the fact that for some time I have felt unable to vote for the Prime Minister's measures, you have been good enough to continue to send me the government whip. I am much obliged, but after the Prime Minister's speech about the bombing of British ships by the insurgents in Spain, I feel bound to ask you to stop doing so in the future.

"It is not because I wish to take either side in the Spanish war that I feel that Mr. Chamberlain's attitude is indefensible. The ships bombed were acting lawfully in pursuit of their trade. They had on board only such goods as they were entitled to carry under orders given them by the British government.

"The attacks made were not accidental but deliberate, and even after the ships were holed insurgent planes machine-gunned them with the object of killing or disabling the crew.

57 Ships Attacked

"Some 57 ships have been attacked and many British subjects have been killed. It is admitted by the prime minister that the attacks were illegal—that, in fact, the British subjects killed were murdered.

"Yet the prime minister declines to take any action, economic or military, to protect British lives and

Wheat Values Failed To Hold

WINNIPEG, June 25 — (CP). — Bulls, active in pushing Winnipeg wheat futures up as much as 24 cents earlier this month, were in hiding this week, and values slipped lower. Definite market trend appeared uncertain pending developments in Western Canada's wheat crop situation.

Dealings were erratic and dull in the past six sessions largely because no dominating influence appeared to stir action. Prices closed Friday 1⅞ to 1¼ cents lower than a week ago, July at $1.05⅝, October 85⅝, November 84⅜ and December 82¾ to ⅞ cents.

United States and Argentine weakness apparently handcuffed buyers, while higher security markets, need of moisture in Northern Alberta and Northern Saskatchewan, and reports of black rust spread in the United States Northwest discouraged profit-taking. Rust spores were reported found in Manitoba.

Chicago slumped on hedging sales of new Winter wheat. Liverpool firmed on short-covering despite slackening in buying power by overseas interests.

Canadian export sales were near the 750,000 bushel mark, chiefly old crop supplies including durums. The previous week export sales exceeded 1,000,000 bushels.

President Plans To Take Hand State Politics

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—President Roosevelt, declaring a right to intervene in Democratic primaries, gave virtual notice today he was prepared to fight personally for election of a United States Congress favorable to his policies.

In his 12th "fireside chat" by radio to the nation last night, the President made it plain that he would not hesitate to speak out when he thought a contest between a "Liberal" and a "Conservative" warranted.

"As President of the United States I am not asking the voters of the country to vote for Democrats next November as opposed to Republicans or members of any ather party," he said. "Nor am I, as President, taking part in Democratic primaries.

"As the head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely Liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles, or involving a clear misuse of my own name."

Besides touching on politics, he reviewed the legislation enacted by the last Congress and asked for the co-operation of capital and labor in maintaining wages and in replacing Federal "pump priming" outlays with private spending.

Farm Hand Faces Charge Of Murder

GUELPH, Ont., June 25—(CP)—Wilfred Goll, 22, of Carlsrithe, was formally charged today with the murder of William Copeland, 75, of R.R. No. 2, Harriston, who died at Listowel, June 16.

Goll was arraigned this morning, following the cancelling of an inquest which was to have been held at Listowel last night.

Copeland, a farmer near Harrison, employed Goll at one time.

A tentative date for a preliminary hearing was set at July 26 by magistrate Watt after discussion with Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns.

Goll was arrested a week ago, and was held here on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

Bombing Of Italian Cities Threatened By Spain If Air Raids Continue

Barcelona's Patience With Air Raids By Italian Planes In Insurgent Service Has Reached Limit—Il Duce Warns Franco

PARIS, June 25 (AP).—The Spanish government was reported today to have threatened to bomb Italian cities if insurgent warplanes continued raids on government towns behind the front lines.

Informed circles disclosed that the Spanish ambassador to France had informed foreign Minister Georges Bonnet several days ago that Barcelona's patience with raids by Italian planes in the insurgent service had reached its limit.

The Spanish ambassador to Great Britain, who saw Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, yesterday, was understood to have presented a similar note.

At the same time reports reached Paris that Premier Mussolini had warned insurgent General Franco to be more cautious in his use of aviation, particularly along the Mediterranean coast.

Abandon Policy

The Spanish ambassador is said to have told Bonnet flatly that Barcelona would be forced to abandon her policy of non-retaliation and take severe reprisals not only against insurgent Spanish cities, but against "more distant objectives."

Although it was understood the ambassador did not specify Italian cities, frequent charges that Italian squadrons from the Balearic Islands were raiding the eastern Spanish coast left no doubt that "more distant objectives" referred to Italy.

(The Italians have an air base at Palma, Mallorca, 150 miles east of the Spanish coast. Many of the planes raiding the coast have been identified as Italian models and have attacked from the direction of the island. Mallorca has been controlled by the Spanish Insurgents since early in the war.)

Both France and Great Britain were said to have been warned that retaliatory raids would start immediately unless they could bring pressure on Franco to put a quick end to the attacks that have caused the deaths of thousands of civilians.

Most Serious Threat

The French government was understood to feel that the Spanish government's threat was one of the most serious developments of the civil war and, in co-operation with Britain, to be speeding plans to send a neutral commission into Spain in an effort to halt bombing of civilian populations.

William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to France, informed Bonnet yesterday of America's decision not to join in the commission. A foreign office spokesman said the Washington reply was sympathetic, but reaffirmed the United States' traditional policy of non-entanglement in European affairs.

Bonnet was said to have cautioned Barcelona of the grave dangers of a European war should her threat be carried out, and to have urged the Spanish government to reconsider its position.

(The nearest large Italian city to Spain is Genoa, about 400 miles from the provisional Spanish capital. Fast bombing planes could be over Italian territory within two hours after leaving Spain.)

18 Arrested In Police Raid On Club

A squad of seven police, headed by Sergeant John Thompson, made a swift and successful raid upon the premises of the George Street Athletic Club, 416½ George Street, at 12.30 o'clock this morning, seized cards, dice, and money found on two tables and arrested eighteen men.

The police party also confiscated the entire furnishings of the clubrooms, chesterfields, chairs, two radios, a soft drink container, a pool table and other furniture, and the whole layout was taken in a truck to the police station, with the result that the court-room this morning resembled an auction sale parlor.

The raiding party, with Sergeant Thompson in command, was composed of Constables John Naples, John Stevenson, Archie Menzies, John Rogers and Percy Sexsmith of the city police force, and Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure.

They succeeded in making their way up the stairs unnoticed and assembled outside the club-rooms. Then two doors were kicked in simultaneously and the police were inside before the inmates had any inkling that there was trouble brewing. According to the police, there was money and dice on one table and money, cards and poker chips on another when the raiders broke in. Some of the money was scattered on the floor as the party entered.

One man was said to have been asleep at a front window, as if he had been on watch there and had dropped off at his post.

Leo Fontaine was taken in charge as the proprietor of the place, and the others will be charged later as "found-ins."

Plead Guilty.

Leo Fontaine and Frank Thompson were charged in police court with having allowed the premises at 416½ George street to be operated as a disorderly house and they were each fined $50 and $3.25 costs. Two other men who pleaded guilty to being found-in were fined $10 and $3.25 each.

Thompson told the court that the place had a provincial charter and that the police had seized the furniture without having the right to do so.

"That has nothing to do with this particular case" Magistrate Langley replied. "That is a matter between you and the police."

Charges against other found-ins will be heard next week.

Pasteurization Of Milk Is Compulsory On October 1

TORONTO, June 25 (CP)—Pasteurization of the milk suppy in all cities, towns and adjoining suburban areas becomes compulsory on Oct. 1, as a result of an order-in-council approved by the Hepburn government Friday under the terms of new milk pasteurization legislation passed at the last session of the assembly.

Furthermore pasteurization of milk supply throughout the entire province becomes compulsory by Dec. 31. In the meantime the department of health will conduct an intensive educational program in those sections of the province where milk pasteurization is not provided by local laws.

The order provides for compulsory pasteurization by Oct. 1 in 27 cities, 144 towns, 17 villages adjoining towns or cities and 55 townships adjoining urban centres. In many of these communities—practically all the cities—pasteurization is already enforced by local bylaw. There are, in the province, only 27 towns and 10 villages of more than 1,000 population where no supply of pasteurized milk is available.

Conservative Back Benchers Very Uneasy In London

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, June 25—(CP Cable).—The Conservative back benches are stirring uneasily. Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, a strong anti-Communist, is battling with Chancellor Hitler by telegram. Captain Archibald Ramsay is to introduce a bill in the House of Commons forbidding aliens, under penalty of three months' imprisonment and deportation, publishing anything blasphemous or participating in any anti-Christian movement.

On the flanks Duncan Sandys, Winston Churchill's son-in-law, is openly dissatisfied with the Government's failure to prevent the bombing of British ships in Spanish waters.

Commander Locker-Lampson has tackled Herr Hitler before. Last week he wired the Chancellor, inviting him, if he must bully people, "to choose somebody bigger than himself." To-day he sent a long telegram addressed, "Herr Hitler, Government Offices, Berlin," regretting that no reply had been received to his previous request that the German Ambassador in London receive a deputation to protest against what is happening in Germany.

The Second Wire.

"As one Aryan to another," today's telegram continues, may I lament this omission. Meanwhile please drop all thought of colonies so long as you attack your own minorities and pray stop calling me Communist and everyone who opposes your divine rule.

"For it was German money which sent the Communist Lenin in a closed coach to Bolshevist Russia. It is the same money which pays for poison propaganda in Palestine and anarchy in Jamaica. Your great crime is that you stole away the liberty of your land, but freedom will unlock the agencies of stronger force and fear. Unity will beat were uniformity in the end."

At Cambridge Commander Locker-Lampson won the Prince Consort's prize for German. He sent to-day's message in English.

Sharp Advances Are Made In Many Stocks

TORONTO, June 25.—(CP)—The stock market had more genuine support this week from trade statistics than in several months from that source and the result was recorded in sharp advances in the Canadian industrial and base metal shares.

Industrials advanced in every one of the five full sessions this week on the Toronto exchange and the agregate index gain was 7.33, bringing the standing up to 114.26, the highest level since late in 1937.

Base metal stocks posted wide advances on the stimulus of a strong upward movement in metal prices in London and New York. The index for the group registered an advance of 6.23 in the week.

The buoyant industrial market was in step with Wall Street where the main bullish factor was the modest pick up in business.

On the Toronto market the steel, paper, building, food, oil and distillery stocks were well to the front with healthy margins of gains over losses.

An advance of $8 for building products to $58 suggested the high expectations built on the Federal Government's tax sale exemptions on building materials.

Big Oils Strong

After weeks of declines the big oils turned strong. International Petroleum is up $2 in the week, Imperial $1 and British American 75 cents. Steels were the bell-wethers. National Steel Car advanced $4, Steel of Canada $3, Canadian Car $1.10, Dominion Steel "B" $2.50 and the bridge issues $1 to $2 each. Walkers Common, Ford A, Brazilian, Consolidate Paper, Abitibi Pfd. and Montreal Power stepped along on good volume.

In the base metals International Nickel held a gain of $5.75, Consolidate Smelters had about the same advance and Hudson B firmed $2.25. Noranda, off $1, was the only weak spot.

Gold shares registered a net decline of 3.57 in the exchange index and represented in this reverse were $2 to $3 losse for Lake Shore, McIntyre and Dome and $1 for Hollinger.

The recent official announcement from Washington that no monetary charges were being considered at this time was evidently the sources of the weakness for many traders had been looking for further dollar devaluation and an advance of the gold price.

Western oils posted their widest gains in several weeks and the index was boosted 3.15 to 35.27.

Double Malted Milk Replaces Water As Market Goes Over Million Mark

PROSPERITY has again struck brokers. They are drinking double chocolate malted milk shakes once more.

For months and months past it has been the easiest thing in the world to tell a stock salesman. All you had to do was to ask him how his business was. He had two retorts. In mild terms they were that business was rotten and that President Roosevelt was not Santa Claus.

At their offices the only thing they had to quench their thirst was water. A week or so ago soft drinks began to appear, not every day to be sure, but often enough to hint that times were improving. For the past three days at Biggar and Crawford's chocolate malted shakes—and double malted at that—have been proudly displayed and drunk by clerks. Stock sales are above the million mark.

Becoming homesick, he returned yesterday to Kitchener to see his wife and month-old baby and then decided to give himself up.

Arraigned in court he pleaded guilty to attempted false pretences and to escaping custody, elected trial by the Magistrate, and was remanded to July 7 for sentence.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 25 (C.P.). — Buyers, discouraged by rains in the United States northwest and forecast of showers in Western Canada, to-day watched Winnipeg wheat futures move lower in listless dealings to close 1¾ to ¼ cent off, July $1.05¾; October 85⅝b, November 84⅜e, and December 82¾ to ! cents.

Futures opened firm in sympathy with unexpected strength at Liverpool and higher stocks. But lack of support and light offerings carried the July option more than a cent lower by mid-session.

Despite old crop export sales estimated at more than 200,000 bushels Winnipeg July weakened to show the biggest loss.

Chicago rallied in the final minutes to close unchanged to ¼c higher. Liverpool moved ahead ¼d to ½d on short covering encouraged by moisture needs in Northern sections of Western Canada. Buenos Aires pushed up ⅝c-½c.

Persistent upturns of Liverpool wheat quotations as well as bulges in the New York stock market failed to count as much of a stimulus to Chicago values. Liverpool advances were attributed to absence of offerings from Argentina and Australia and to belief abroad that the weather in North America was conducive to black rust damage. Liverpool closed ¼c-⅜c higher, ignoring for the fourth successive day setbacks this side of the Atlantic.

Cash wheat spreads for red springs closed unchanged at Winipeg, but several orders for Durums improved spreads ½ to 1 cent. Export support in barley and oats kept Winnipeg coarse grain futures steady. Flax was neglected.

Jewelled Gold Ring Bearing 20 Words Presented To Cardinal By Premier

QUEBEC, June 25 (CP)—At least 60,000 Roman Catholics, many coming hundreds of miles from far eastern and western Canada and the United States turned out Thursday on the Plains of Abraham for open-air pontifical high mass and general communion.

A jewelled gold ring, Premier Duplessis presented last night to Cardinal Villeneuve bears a 20-word inscription visible only under a magnifying class.

Week-end visitors coming to the ancient capital for the closing ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress will arrive by automobile and almost 100 excursion trains, arriving Saturday at 10-minute intervals.

More than 500,000 flags, banners and streamers have been strung along Quebec streets and about 75,000 electric lights, specially installed throughout the city for the congress, blaze from sunset to sunrise. The amount of power the lights will consume has not yet been estimated.

The 125-foot repository, stretching up from the plains of Abraham, under floodlights at night is visible 20 miles away.

City schools closed two weeks earlier than usual to permit time for their conversion into living quarters for hundreds of congress delegates.

In Praise of Famous Names

The manufacturer of any good product, who advertises it consistently in the daily newspapers can, in the course of time, make his product famous.

Everybody knows and uses products whose names are famous because of the vision, faith, courage and enterprise of the owners of them.

They were not famous in the beginning, but the owners proceeded to make them "household words" by means of persistent advertising in daily newspapers. The goodwill value of these names is fabulous; so much so, indeed, that one or more of the plants in which these products are manufactured could be destroyed with less loss to the owner than the loss of the trade name.

You, too, can build sales and goodwill for your products and services by advertising in the Canadian daily newspapers.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by Thornton Purkis.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

WHAT DO I KNOW ABOUT THE BIBLE?

JESUS said unto His disciples: I have many things to say unto you but ye cannot bear them now. —St. John 16:12.

The Lord Jesus, the Incarnate Word, finds it impossible to teach His apostles all He would like to. He is hindered by their prejudice. They had been drilled in certain narrow ideas of God and the Christ Himself could not pierce the barrier. This also has been the experience of Christian teachers in practically every age, especially when it comes to teaching about the Bible.

It is important to remember that the Bible is not only a Divine but a human Book. God is speaking through human experience, striving to reveal Himself to man according as he is able to bear it. "We have this treasure in earthern vessels" and the earthen vessels have their limitations.

As a race we are an unimaginative people. We are practical above all things. We have been trained in the literalism of the written Word. Many a man has given up his belief in the Bible and in God because of his early training in the literal accuracy of the Book. Undoubtedly it is true that "the letter killeth." We must not forget that the Jew is essentially an imaginative man. The Old Testament contains masterpieces of story telling. Can you see the dramatic force of a famous revelation: "Joseph said unto his brethren; I am Joseph. Is my father yet alive?" Or: "David wept and said: O, my son Absalom, by son, my son Absalom, would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son." Another soldier and great Captain heard at his club of the death of his only son in the Boer War. Lord Roberts, amid tense silence, calmly walked out to tell his wife.

Modern scholarship and close study of the Holy Scriptures has given us a truth which, if properly gripped, will help us to break free from the slavery of literalism. It is the principle of progressive revelation, "here a little, there a little, line upon line, precept upon precept" was God's way of revealing Himself to mankind through the Jew.

Why, the Jew? Because he, of all the peoples of the world, had a genius for religion. The Greek was cleverer and more attractive, but his very lighteness hindered him from thinking deeply about God and moral problems. Undoubtedly Greek philosophers, like Socrates and Plato, believed in a Supreme Being, but the thought only remained with the intellectuals, the ordinary people were unaffected and untouched. The ordinary Jew had a faculty for thinking about God and striving to answer the moral problems that faced him. The great prophets were ordinary men, men of the people—a herdman, a shepherd, a small farmer. Few of them were intellectuals. These prophets drew and attracted the common people, who were deeply interested in religious questions. Think of the multitudes that flocked to hear John the Baptist.

A Jew, living probably two thousand five hundred years ago, uttered the passionate cry: "My soul is athirst for God, yea, even for the living God; when shall I come to appear before the presence of God?" Do these words strike a responsive note in your heart? Then you will understand why God reveals Himself to such a race and will reveal Himself to you if your soul trembles with the same desire. Surely you see the inspiration of the Book?

Progressive revelation is the master key for the interpretation of the Old Testament. It will unlock problem after problem. The Hebrew came out of Egypt a barbarian—"a Syrian ready to perish" is his own confession. Yet deeply imbedded in his heart is the thought of God; this faculty of seeing the unseen.

A beautiful rose is the result of modern horticultural development. It has sprung from the wild hedge rose. Its roots lie in the wildnerness soil. But the careful, wise training, pruning, cultivating of the wild rose results in the beautiful rose, whose loveliness charms you. Progressive development.

The Hebrew race, coming out of Egypt, was essentially barbarian, wild, uncultured bond slaves. But God implanted in the Hebrew heart the desire to know Him. To the Hebrew of the Exodus Jehovah was their tribal God; their personal possession. Their Moabite cousins had their own gods. But Jehovah cared for His own people whom He had brought out of Egypt with a strong arm and a mighty Hand. They were under His special care. Slowly, gradually, through trouble, fiery persecution and dark days and a thousand years of training they came to believe that Jehovah was the One, Living, Loving God, the Father of all mankind and the Creator of the Universe.

Dr. Deissmann, a famous German scholar, to whom the Christian world is deeply indebted, sums up the Holy Scripture somewhat in this way: "The Jewish people in the Old Testament were taught, slowly, gradually, that there is only One Living God. "Hear, O Israel, the Lord Thy God is One Lord." That is the Unity of the Godhead. Through Jesus Christ God teaches and reveals the great truth of the Unity of Mankind. "Ye are all one Man in Christ Jesus." Slowly, painfully, bitterly, some of us are learning this truth. Gal. 3, 28.

The Lord Jesus truly says to us: I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

Reduce Rail Rates For Crude Oil

OTTAWA, June 25—(CP).—Possibility of Ontario and Quebec gasoline refineries agreeing to the movement by rail of a guaranteed volume of crude oil from Alberta's Turner Valley was seen here today.

If volume sufficiently large could be guaranteed, the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway would be prepared to reduce rates sufficiently to permit the movement eastward on an economic basis.

C. E. Jefferson, C. P. R. freight traffic manager; R. W. Long, C.P.R. general freight traffic manager; J. J. Frawley, counsel for the Alberta Attorney-General's Department, and Frank Prendergast, assistant to the president of Imperial Oil Company, conferred here yesterday.

Eucharistic Congress Sidelights

QUEBEC, June 25 (CP).—Electricity used to supply thousands of decorative lights installed throughout Quebec City specially for the Eucharistic Congress, would be sufficient to drive six of Quebec's streetcars 1,000 miles each.

Statues of St. John the Evangelist, St. Thomas Aquinas, St. Pascal Baylon and Blessed P. J. Edmard, founder of the St. Sacrament Order of priests, are mounted on the four sides of the tall repository on the Plains of Abraham.

A 10-foot step-ladder was brought into play Thursday night to carry the Blessed Sacrament from the Tabernacle in the repository's altar to the huge gold monstrance atop it when the Sacrament was exposed at the Plains of Abraham.

More than 30 men, women and children were overcome by intense heat during Pontifical High Mass celebrated Thursday. They received first aid at special stations just beyond the amphitheatre on the Plains.

A National Message

The law was given to Israel during the forty years in the wilderness. Never did nation spend forty more profitable years. It is certain that law was in Israel during the period of the Judges. It is certain that the law was in Israel before the time of David.

It is certain that the law was administered by Solomon and David, and subsequent to their reigns. Then came the rupture of the kingdom and eventually the return of the Jews to Palestine, when the law was re-established. To them came our Lord. He gave the manifesto of the kingdom and of His Own administration of it in the sermon on the mount. He ratified the law as to "every jot and tittle until all be fulfilled."

Israel also departed from the Lord by vesting the ultimate authority in the people. This dethroned the Lord as the one and only Lawgiver. But Israel was re-established in Britain ,and with her the law. We find that King Alfred was quite clear that the law was based on the Divinely revealed law, and in giving his dooms, or "Alfred's Code" we find him starting with an almost literal transcription of the "Decalogue.

Inasmuch as British-Israel is being called upon by the nations to take over more and more of the rule of the earth; inasmuch as British common law is being chosen by the nations; and inasmuch as the rule of the earth is foretold for her, it is a necessary qualification that she shall be instructed in the law.

This we may learn by reading from Genesis as an introduction to the setting up of the kingdom in Exodus, of the worship of the kingdom in Leviticus, of the national organization in Numbers, and of the constitutional law in Deuteronomy.

Since this common law, or law of the Lord governs the wellbeing of both the individual and the nation, their health, prosperity and finally the presence of our Lord amongst us, no wonder that David sang of it:

"The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul.

The testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple.

Cathedral Musings

It is not until the first glimpses of illumination dawn that one begins to perceive the spiritual causes that underly this natural world. It is then that all things begin to take on a new significance. It is only then that one begins to see God reflected in His works and every bush becomes a burning bush from which He speaks. Nothing is so great, nothing so small but that it reflects and speaks of God. Everything, from the stars in the heavens to the humblest blade of grass, shows forth the majesty and love of the Creator. And the soul of man, speaking within himself, proclaims that it is a part of all and that all is a part of it, eternal, having no beginning and no end.

The master is not understood by his disciples or by the world, for he perceives truth spiritually, by reason of his unity with the spiritual world. These things are not understood by this world for there is no common language, no basis of comparison. Those who, by reason of their spiritual "infancy", can only be taught and that imperfectly, by the use of symbols adapted to their understanding, are often the enemies of the truth they seek to serve, for they are unable to perceive the truth behind the symbol. Hence, they often say that the symbol, is not a symbol, but is itself the truth.

This may be so fo rthem in their present stage of understanding, yet it is not so for those who have gone farther. It is said that in the ancient mysteries, the priest showed to the candidate, symbols of God that became more and more abstruse as he was advanced. Then, when he came to the last and highest stage, he was shown a coffer or ark. This was opened with much reverence—and contained nothing! The meaning, of course, is that God is beyond all symbols, beyond all definition, all human conception. He can be experienced, He can be sought and found and realized within the heart. But the experience, the finding and the realization are beyond and outside all human expression, all human language. They can only be shared by those who have likewise known them.

Better For Health

MILAN, June 25—(AP).—Premier Mussolini's Popolo D'Italia answered Italians' complaints over coarse bread today with the assertion it was better for health and manly vigor. The new bread made—by government order—with flour containing 20 per cent corn flour or other substitutes because of Italy's diminished wheat crop and self-sufficiency program was compared by the newspaper to the bread the world-conquering ancient Romans ate.

The Golden Text

Sharing Service With Living Christ

"BRASS TOCKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 26 is Mark 16: 1-8, 14-16, 19, 20, the Golden Text being verse 20, "And they went forth and preached everywhere, th Lord working with them.")

THE RESURRECTION of Jesus Christ from the dead is the most meaningful incident in all history and the fundamental teaching of the Christian religion, exceeding all others in its significance and its influence upon the thought and life of the human race. "If Christ hath not been raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ have perished." In other words, the hopes of two worlds are dependent on this sublime truth.

The Empty Tomb.

Those devoted women who came to the tomb, "very early in the morning, the first day of the week," bearing spices with which they intended to embalm the dead body of their Lord, were motivated by undying love attended by a dead faith and a dead hope. Their faith and their hope had become matters of the past tense. All Jesus' disciples could say was, "We hoped that it was he that should redeem Israel." Their only expectation was that of finding the corpse of a loved one. But the glad news, "He is risen....He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him," changed the picture completely. Here are present and future tenses again for their religion and with these, faith and hope were born again in their hearts. This is what the empty tomb did for Jesus' disciples when they realized that instead of a corpse to embalm, they had a living Saviour to serve in newness of life.

The Angel Message.

"Entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side arrayed in a white robe; and they were amazed. And he said unto them, Be not amazed; ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; he is risen; he is not here; behold the place where they laid him." And they beheld not only an empty grave, but an empty chrysalis—like shell of grave clothes lying undisturbed in their original position in the form of his body. Beholding this brought their faith and hope to life again. "They saw and believed!"

It is natural that Mark, who got from Peter the facts of his gospel, should be the one to pass on the message the angel gave for the special comfort of Peter, who denied Christ: "Go tell his disciples and Peter, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him, as he said unto you." If Judas, the betrayer, had not already closed the door of hope by suicide, might the message not have read, "And Peter and Judas?" Truly there are no hopeless cases with Jesus! His forgiving love and saving grace are all inclusive. "Whosoever will, may come."

The Work-Sharing Saviour.

For 40 days he appeared from time to time among his disciples until he had re-established their faith in him as their living divine Saviour. And then as he parted from them in his ascension he blessed them and commissioned them to evangelize the world, pledging them his continuing presence through the ages. "And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them."

Famous Picture Sermon Subject

The celebrated picture, "The Last Supper," by Leonardo Da Vinci, will be the subject of the address in St. Andrew's Church Sunday night. This great painter was born in the Flosentine district in Italy, in the year 1452. Verrocchio, a teacher, recognized his talent and gave him instruction, but the pupil far outstripped the master in fame. His first picture, "The Baptism of Jesus," was designed for the monks of Vallambrosa. It was executed when he was 18 years of age, and gave great satisfaction to his patrons. Afterwards the young man was taken up by Lonenza, the magnificent, who taught him many things.

Leonardo Da Vinci combined minute accuracy with fire and life. He was the first artist to understand the value of light and shade, and the fine art of perspective. He employed these discoveries for the first time upon his masterpiece. "The Last Supper." This work was undertaken for the refectory of the Convent Church in Milan. The picture was painted on the walls of the convent. Flaking and scaling soon set in, and mildew, it looked at once time as if one of the greatest works of artistic genius would be lost. In the 18th century, however, attempts at restoration were begun and eventually Cavaliere Cavenghi secured it to the wall and touched it up with great tenderness and skill. It has become for all Christendom the typical representation of the last supper of our Lord.

A reproduction of the picture, kindly loaned by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, will be shown in the church.

Sharing Service With the Living Christ — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 16:1-8, 14-16, 19, 20

Early in the morning of the first Easter, three women came to the tomb of Jesus, bearing spices with which they expected to embalm a corpse.

But they found the tomb open and empty, except for an angel, who said, "Be not amazed, ye seek Jesus, he is risen, he is not here....Go, tell his disciples and Peter."

Mary Magdalene was first to behold the risen Saviour. Afterward he appeared to the other disciples and commissioned them to go into all the world and make disciples for him.

Forty days after his resurrection he took his disciples to the Mount of Olives, and, blessing them, was received up into heaven.

A Significant Greeting

Lord Tweedsmuir, representative of His Majesty in Canada, was in New Haven, Conn., having been asked to go there and receive an honorary degree from Yale University. On the same day there was honor conferred upon Walter Disney, the originator of the animated duck and mouse life which one sees in the movies. As was fitting on such an occasion the speeches were well worded and brief. Of Disney the cartoonist it was said "he labored like a mountain and brought forth a mouse." To Lord Tweedsmuir the message was: "He may have received greater honors from his own country, but we give him all we have and with it our hearts." Those two short messages were well spoken.

When Lord Tweedsmuir was in New Haven, Conn., he was indeed in the section of United States where things in general had their beginning. Canadians have always felt that in the New England States there was and is the most substantial section of public opinion. We find it interesting to read in U. S. publications of the manner of the reception accorded to the visitor from Canada. It is recorded that "whereas the applause for Mr. Disney was delighted and prolonged, that for Lord Tweedsmuir was accompanied by a spontaneous rising of the audience, which stood until it had finished its tribute to the little Scotsman of whom Professor Phelps said: 'It is the simple truth to say that no man in public life today is more beloved or more envied.'"

That reception has a deep significance for the Canadian people. It is not merely a kindly gesture from a neighboring country, but coming as it does from the atmosphere of New England where in past years the decision was born to part way with the British people, it epitomizes the fact that these verging paths are once more running parallel even if separated. And that, considering the troubled scenes in the world as we know it today merits acknowledgement.

The Old View Lives

Word from Lindsay says there has been something like a split in the ranks of the Liberals over the appointment of a Game Warden for the county. The pleasing feature of such splits is that they generally heal quickly. This one is reported to have come because the Game Warden appointed is a Conservative, and no doubt the Liberals found it difficult enough to understand why such an appointment should be made when there was a Liberal government in office in Ontario.

That feeling is not confined to Victoria County, and the folk there have no monopoly on the claim that a political party in power should remember its followers and supporters when there are appointments to be made.

According to the theory of things the county will be best served by having a Game Warden who knows his business, who knows how to enforce law carefully and wisely, who is entirely honest and who will grant no favors. If the game laws are in the hands of such an individual it makes no difference actually whether he is Liberal or Conservative. The first consideration is that he should be a good officer.

That we said was the theory of good service, but it is not the view of many of the people. We dare say most of the Liberals in Victoria would say a Liberal should have been given the office, and if the Conservatives had been in power then a Conservative should have had the appointment. That feeling is an old fellow and has been with us a long time and it is difficult to make him move out.

So it is that while Victoria may have a thoroughly good Game Warden there will be those who will hold he should not have been appointed because he is not a Liberal. Our view is that politics should play no part in such an appointment, but we are well aware there are many who think otherwise.

At Least It's Confusing

A dispute over a line fence in St. Catharines led to the death of Mr. and Mrs. John Seabright; that was in June of 1936. A good many things have happened since to William Munchuk, the man accused of using an axe on that occasion. A brief summary shows:

In September of 1936 he was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years.

The Crown indicted Munchuk for the murder of Mrs. Seabright in March of 1937 and he was sentenced to death.

The Ontario Appeal Court directed a new trial and this was sustained by the Supreme Court of Canada.

In March of 1938 Munchuk was again tried and convicted of murder, but the execution of the sentence was delayed pending an appeal to Ontario Appeal Court which upheld the verdict.

The defence took the case to the Supreme Court and the majority opinion was that the last hearing was a mistrial and reduced the verdict from murder to manslaughter with a sentence of life imprisonment attached.

A legal gentleman in the city affirms there has been nothing irregular in the course, but admitted it was rather unusual and protracted. The lay mind agrees with the admission that the case has been unusual. The element of provocation appears to have been the dividing point between murder and manslaughter, but the evidence in all hearings would have been the same. It becomes somewhat confusing to find that a man can be convicted of manslaughter and then of murder and later on of manslaughter. If there had been no appeal it is likely the death sentence would have been carried out.

We Are Inclined To Agree

The St. Thomas Times-Journal raises a fine point in connection with the ordination of a lad of eight years by some religious sect in United States. He appeared to have a gift for preaching and for that reason he was officially recognized at an early age.

But this lad married a couple at Cleveland on Saturday last, and it is on that account the St. Thomas paper comments:

> "We cannot understand how a law which does not recognize marriage between minors will permit a minor to perform the ceremony. It doesn't say much of some people's conception of the sanctity of marriage."

There may be some adequate answer to the point raised by the Times-Journal, but at the moment we do not know it.

Likewise we feel disposed to be in complete agreement with the Niagara Falls Review in its contention that a railway locomotive ought to be recognized as having the right-of-way at a level crossing.

The Review refers to a case which was started at Montreal in 1936, where the owner of a car brought action against the C.N.R. because his vehicle had been struck by an engine. It was shown the whistle was blowing at the time and the bell was ringing. The man who brought action lost his case and the Review does not see what other verdict could have been returned. Neither do we.

The Old Question Again

Notice has gone forward from headquarters of the C.N.R. that there will be a shut-down in their shops at various points for ten days or so, and also that when work is resumed there will be a lay-off of 25 per cent. in all classes. The number of men affected is: St. Malo 105, Montreal 562, Stratford 209, Leaside 73, London 175. The official announcement says the lay-offs are temporary, but admits there is not sufficient business in sight to keep on a full staff.

A report from Stratford indicates an effort to do something about it. A meeting of the City Council and Board of Trade decided to send a deputation to Ottawa to see if the lay-off could be prevented. The big shop at Stratford where locomotives are repaired is the chief source of employment in the city and one can well understand and appreciate the desire of the City Council and Board of Trade to do all in their power to keep the men employed.

This of course brings back that old question as to whether the C.N.R. is to be regarded as an institution which shall provide as much work as possible or whether it is to be operated as a business enterprise in an effort to pay its way. The official statement says the lay-off was made because there was not the business in sight to warrant the employment of a full staff, and yet naturally enough the people in Stratford want the staff maintained so the citizens will not be unemployed. It will be noticed that the deputation intends to head for Ottawa to interview the Dominion cabinet, and not the management of the C.N.R.

One is not inclined to blame the people of Stratford in the least for the steps they are taking; they are out fighting for their own town and no one is going to deny them the right of doing that. But at the same time it does not answer that old question: Is the C.N.R. expected to employ more men than it needs to carry on operations? And if it is to be operated on that basis then how can the management be blamed if the financial showing of the road does not improve?

Not a Fair Suggestion

The report of the commission which inquired into the operation of penal institutions in Canada will cost the country $88,000. It has not received the amount of attention which was anticipated. A reader of the Examiner has forwarded a small clipping in which some paper was speaking of the report, and underlined were these words:

> "Apparently there was too much going on under cover at Kingston. It is true that deputations used to get taken through there, but those trips were supervised and there was much which was not shown."

The exact truth of that statement we do not know. It would take a long time to go thoroughly over a penitentiary such as exists at Kingston; it would take up the time of some of the officials for hours, and it would be unreasonable to have parties going through there on the same basis as they might be shown through some industrial establishment.

The suggestion that there was a desire to cover up certain features at the Kingston penitentiary does not stand up under scrutiny. Several years ago the editor of this paper was given permission by the then Minister of Justice to go through the penitentiary. When application was made at the office of the Warden there was no question of what could be seen or visited and what could not. The instructions from Ottawa to the warden were plain—anything or everything inside the four walls. At that time some of the papers were carrying stories telling of the "holes" in which prisoners were kept, and much was being said of the cell in which a prisoner from United States was being detained under close confinement. Much had been said of the lash and the paddle. Following a question by the warden the wish was expressed to see all these things, and there was not the least hesitation. When it came time to see the "hole" about which so much had been said it was plain that those who were writing and speaking about the place were not at all familiar with the situation; they had never seen it. The cell where the U. S. prisoner was being kept and about which so much had been said was empty at the time because he was out in the open for forty minutes' exercise. His cell was twice the size of those in the block house; it was directly across from large windows; it had running water and for discomfort was not to be compared to cells in average police stations throughout the country.

It might be interesting but at the moment it is not necessary to deal at length with what one saw in the penitentiary. But there was no inclination or desire to cover up anything or to refuse to show a newspaper reporter anything inside the four walls. After spending hours at it the warden asked if there was anything he could do to make the survey as complete as possible. For that reason we do not consider it fair to make the suggestion that the bad spots were concealed from visitors or that there was anything which the visitor with proper credentials could not see.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Heavy rains check the advance of the Japanese armies, and they produce the same effect on Sunday School picnics.

Three Toronto folk were made violently ill by a pie that was purchased at the door. That evidently was not the kind that mother used to make.

Chancellor Hitler will probably be of the opinion that Joe Louis used some kind of bomb on Herr Schmeling the other night.

Six Hawaiian women were disappointed because they found no ice or snow in Canada. They should have been here last January.

Rather a sage remark is this coming from a Peterborough business man: "There is nothing a man will believe quicker than something which he wants to believe.

Nine million dollars is the revenue from one year's operation of the cigarette tax in New York. The folk in that city must be trying to smoke themselves back to prosperity.

Sidney E. Smith is mentioned as a possibility for the Conservative leadership probably on the ground that he carried the solid Smith vote he would have a nice start toward power.

Bringing on the vote on the budget debate in so short a time was nice work. A long debate would have been evidence of futility because it was known in advance that the final vote would have been the same no matter when taken.

People in Germany sat up by their radio machines until 3 in the morning to hear that Schmeling had gone down in 2 minutes and 4 seconds. That seems to prove one of our pet contentions, that no good purpose is ever served by hanging around until 3 in the morning.

Barbara Hutton the heiress to some $30,000,000, is having a split with her titled husband. It's one thing to split with a wife, but in these hard days it's a tough problem to split with that amount of hard cash.

EVER HEAR IT?

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When heat gets at the ninety mark, and cools but little after dark, my temper's apt to fray; and people I meet on the street, who make remarks about the heat, should weigh well what they say.

¶ I went and talked with one fat man, who sat beside a spinning fan, he weighs two eighty-two; and all he did was mop his brow, and then he asked me if some how—it's hot enough for you?

¶ I met a man who works outdoors, and has to hasten with his chores, his work seems never through; he stopped a bit as I went by, and chanted too the summer cry—this hot enough for you?

¶ I met the postman on his walk, he passed me half way down the block, of bundles he'd a few; he did not stop but plodded on, but sang a verse from out that song—this hot enough for you?

¶ I met the man who brings the bread, and he was mopping off his head, looked hot enough to stew; he had to hurry on his way, but paused there long enough to say—this hot enough for you

¶ So thus I know the summer theme, on chanting it the folk are keen, I know it off by heart; when I go down the streets today, I known just what the folk will say—before they ever start.

The Tariff Has Another Airing

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. M. J. COLDWELL: As I listened to the first half of the minister's speech I realized that it was an apology for the announcement which was to follow, the announcement of a policy of doing nothing; this conclusion was irresistible. My mind went back to those days when I listened to the Minister of Finance as a crusader for something approaching free trade.

Mr. DUNNING: He still is.

Mr. COLDWELL: Then it is very carefully concealed in this budget.

Mr. DUNNING: Universal free trade would be an admirable thing.

Mr. COLDWELL: But in those days, I would point out, it was not only universal free trade, because in common with many of us in western Canada, the hon. gentleman was preaching free trade as on economic and social philosophy.

Mr. DUNNING: Not for Canada alone, never.

Mr. COLDWELL: Then I greatly misunderstood the minister, as many thousands did.

Mr. DUNNING: The hon. gentleman certainly did. He cannot quote a single speech of that kind emanating from me.

Mr. COLDWELL: That was the interpretation we placed upon the minister's speeches in those days. If not the Minister of Finance, then to the left of him sits the Minister of Mines and Resources (Mr. Crerar). I remember repeating many of the arguments he used in the elections in the old days in the province of Saskatchewan from the platforms of the Progressive party of which he was at that time the leader.

Mr. CRERAR: Is that an argument for free trade?

Mr. COLDWELL: No; but I remember the arguments which were used by the minister at that time in favour of free trade.

Mr. CRERAR: As a matter of fact my hon. friend, in many admirable speeches he made then, never argued for free trade.

Mr. COLDWELL: I repeated many of the arguments of the minister, and I thought at that time I was arguing for free trade, but I find that I was probably in error. And of course I can remember the hon. member for Melville (Mr. Motherwell), who was regarded as a convinced free trader in those days. Yet to-day we have the Minister of Finance repeating with even greater emphasis what he said last year.

Mr. DUNNING: Two years ago.

Mr. COLDWELL: I quote:

It is even more true, in the world to-day, that unilateral tariff reductions will not get the wider export markets which our products need and which the government is securing for them.

How, then does this policy differ from that of the right hon. the leader of the opposition (Mr. Bennett), who declared in 1930 that he would make the tariff work for Canada? He merely put the same thought more dramatically when he said, "I will blast my way into the markets of the world." The Minister of Finance went on to say:

The United States is not prepared to reduce its tariffs except by way of trade agreements, and the United Kingdom is now pursuing a similar policy.

Then he concludes that unilateral action by Canada is out of the question and that bilateral trade agreements form the policy of the government.

Mr. DUNNING: What would my hon. friend suggest should be done when two customers who take eighty per cent of all we have still definitely have that policy?

Mr. COLDWELL: That was also true in 1930.

Mr. DUNNING: Oh,no.

Mr. COLDWELL: Oh, yes.

Mr. DUNNING: Britain was free trade in 1930.

Mr. COLDWELL: Britain was free trade in 1930 only to a certain extent.

Mr. DUNNING: Entirely.

Mr. COLDWELL: And she was rapidly going in the direction of a very low tariff, because the British tariff to-day is not comparable with the high tariff which we have in Canada at the present time.

Mr. STEWART: And she was taking our products.

Mr. COLDWELL: Yes. I am reminded that she was taking our products. But the point I make is this: How does this policy differ from the brick-for-brick policy which I am sure I heard the Minister of Finance denounce in western Canada some years ago.

Mr. DUNNING: Hear, hear.

Mr. COLDWELL: Well, to-day we are told that we cannot take off a brick unless the United States takes off a brick; and if on the other hand the United States puts a brick on we, too, by the same argument, should put a brick on. That would be a bilateral agreement to the fullest extent.

Mr. DUNNING: You are saying that, not I.

A LISTENING TOUR

(Winnipeg Tribune)

PRIME MINISTER Mackenzie King it is announced at Ottwa, is considering making a speaking tour of Western Canada this Summer, probably in July.

It is an excellent idea. Mr. King has not been in the West for several years, and the people of the four provinces will be glad to hear what he has to say.

From the standpoint of Canada's best interests however, and for Mr. King's own advantage, it may be suggested that he make it more of a listening tour than a speaking campaign. The West has a good deal to tell Mr. King.

As Peterborough Was In the Year 1896

FROM A COPY of The Examiner of March 21, 1896, brought into this office by a friend of the paper, it is possible to get a fascinating glimpse of the Peterborough of the middle 90's.

Perhaps the keynote is supplied by a small display add printed on page 1 of the issue which states that Henry Best who incidentally became mayor of Peterborough a few years afterwards was selling Pratt's Astral Lamp Oil "the best oil in the world". In other words Peterborough had not blossomed forth into the Electric city and in many homes in the community coal oil lamps were still being used.

The front page news of that particular number was not very heavy. There was a story from Ottawa to the effect that a motion on the part of Sir Charles Tupper to take Mondays and Thursdays for government business had caused such an onslaught from the opposition that it was withdrawn and then Sir Richard Cartwright opened fire on the head of the government for making use of a private telegram.

There was more political news on Page 1 and it told how the young Liberals of the province at the Ontario Federation of Liberal Clubs had passed resolutions of confidence in the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and in Sir Oliver Mowat.

Foreign news was very scarce, although the Examiner of that date did record the fact that an anti-Parnellite had been elected in a by-election in Louth, Ireland, and that the flour millers in the northwest section of the United States had succeeded in effecting a combine.

STRONG FOR LAURIER.

The editorial page contained but one article and it was a column-long editorial in which the virtues of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier were pictured at length and with a total lack of reserve and the Liberal leader was described as a man "standing before the people of Canada without fear and without reproach."

Turning to the local pages inside the death was reported of John Hall, Sr., of Smith township, father of Richard Hall at the venerable age of 90 years.

The biggest news story told of the terrible blizzard which had completely blocked the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway lines the day before.

As a sample of what took place the fact is recorded that the afternoon train from the East over the C. P. R. did not reach Peterborough until 1.15 o'clock on the following morning and could not go any further and the passengers were fed on their arrival by Station Agent Bamford who supplied them with a hundred loaves of bread and enough butter and cheese to go with the staff of life. Travellers from all over the country were stranded here until the tracks could be cleared and The Examiner mentions that 200 people, storm bound, had been furnished with breakfast at the Oriental Hotel that morning.

PROMINENT VISITOR.

Among the prominent folk who were forced to accept Peterborough's hospitality because of the storm were W. F. MacLean, M.P. editor of the Toronto World, Stewart Lyon of the Globe, afterward to become Hydro Commissioner in Ontario, and E. E. Shepherd owner of the Toronto Saturday Night.

There were many curlers among the storm-bound visitors and for their benefit the Peterborough curlers arranged a series of friendly matches.

In the News Nuggets column, forerunner of the Main Street of today, was mentioned the fact that the town treasurer had been furnished with a large standing desk "of beautiful finish" by J. D. Craig and that a vagrant who had been making a habit of begging around the Grand Trunk Station had been sent to jail for two months.

A number of local people had just installed telephones and due publicity was given to their enterprise by The Examiner. Among the progressive folk who had adopted this modern form of communication were E. A. Peck, Mayor William Yelland, Rev. Dr. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's church, A. A. Haskill, Dr. Robinson and Rev. E. V. Stevenson.

A news item told the citizens of the circulation by W. H. Bradburn of a subscription list for a high class concert to be given shortly featuring a bevy of Toronto artists.

A CORRECT DEBATE.

And another — of considerable length — described an entertainment at George Street Methodist Church in which the principal feature was a debate on the subject—Resolved that married life is preferable to single. The affirmative was taken by S. R. Armstrong veteran city clerk and by the late F. H. Dobbin but the judges considered discretion to be the better part of valor and declined to give a decision. One of the visitors at that entertainment was W. T. R. Preston, who many years afterward figured in a sensational libel action in which Sir Arthur Currie was the plaintiff.

The advertisements were perhaps as interesting as the news stories, particularly because of the fact that a very few of the business houses whose display advertising appeared in that particular issue are to be found in the columns of today's Examiner. In fact about the only firms which had publicity in that paper of 42 years ago that are in business here now were C. B. Routley, Schneider's jewelery store, J. J. Turner and Sons and D. Belleghem, along with the Robert Fair and Richard Hall stores now operating under different ownership.

Sir William Mulock Won Election

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

A MENTION of pheasants to Sir William Mulock, reminds him of a political yarn.

"This goes back to one of my earliest political campaigns in North York," he smiled. "The Tories had a man scrutineering me who was cute and industrious and a bit unpredictable. We met on election day at a polling place where he had two icy cold bottles of ale. One was opened and he was sipping it. The other was unopened but he soon asked me to drink it. I declined, but not because I dislike ale. It was beady, cold, and enticing, but I resisted the temptation because it would have been illegal to take a drink in that place.

"Well, 25 years passed. There was another campaign and this man was taking an active part in it. The night before election I met him and he invited me to his house to see his pheasants. They were beautiful pheasants and after I had admired them we went inside and had a drink. He was a little too enthusiastic about his pheasants because he delayed me and I had an important speaking engagement that night.

"As I was about to speak this man rose and demanded the right to put a question. 'Only one question,' the chairman warned, 'just one'.

"'Very well', said the questioner, 'but first I want to know if John Ayres, president of the Temperance Society, is in the hall'. Mr. Ayres was and stood up.

"'Now, Mr. Mulock, I put this question and I want a straight answer. Are you or are you not a total abstainer?'

"'I can well understand that question,' I said, 'because this gentleman and I have had drinks together. There was the time 25 years ago when he offered me an attractive bottle of ale in a polling place but I did not take it, although I'm sure my friend enjoyed his bottle. Later I was at his home, seeing his pheasants, and we had a glass of whiskey together. That was the last drink I ever had in all my life'.

"There was disorder in the hall at once. My friend insisted on another question to bring out the fact that this was just an hour before, not 25 years before as some people thought. But the chairman had ruled one question and only one question. I won the election."

BEGGARS EARNINGS

(James Finan, in the Forum)

DOES BEGGING pay? Emphatically it does. The professional beggar's "take," in authenticated cases, has reached $50 a day.

A twenty-two-year-old beggar, arrested for scratching the arm of a restaurant hostess when she refused to let him solicit from table to table, wa found to own a home in Riverside, R. I., and a $6,800 bank balance. He claimed that the income from begging in the Eastern seaboard cities had dropped during the recession, from $65 to $12 or even $10 per day.

Fifty thousand dollars per day is the estimated haul by beggars in New York City alone. Most of this is picked up by individuals, operating on their own. But signs of syndicated management appear.

A man in the Bronx, arrested recently, turned out to be a panhandling overlord. Each morning he delivered his beggars to "work" in his car. He called for them at night and collected their money; then he lodged and fed them and plied them with cheap liquor to keep up their morale.

I CAN'T SLEEP.

(Deader's Digest)

SOPHIE KERR, novelist: "I found my recipe in The Lives of a Bengal Lancer. It is simply to draw twenty even breaths, then on the twenty-first hold the breath as long as possible. By the time I have done this three times I am drowsy."

Harrison Cady, artist: "I place my hands back of my head, relax, and contemplate something which represents great quiet and tranquility—such as a drowsy midsummer noon, while I lie on a grassy slope beneath a shade tree and see a blue pool in the distance."

Kitty Carlisle, musical comedy star: "I sing old songs to myself. It's difficult to remember the lyrics of songs you haven't sung for a long time, and in trying to recall the words I drop off to sleep."

Major Anthony Fiala, explorer: "On my trip through Brazil with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, I learned my best lesson: When I go to bet it's solely for the purpose of sleeping. If I cannot sleep, I get up and exercise until I am tired."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

IN THAT hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

All things are delivered to me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see.—Luke x, 21-23.

And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kindom of God.

Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.— Mark x, 13-16.

BUT THE MOB GOES FREE

(Buffalo Courier-Express)

THIS WAS a dispatch from Berlin: "The highest Nazi party quarters, it was revealed authoritatively today, have given orders that violence in the campaign against Jews must cease."

So far as the German government is concerned, that is one way of speaking a regret which it does not feel. But it evidently wishes to preserve face with the outside world. If, however, it had been really concerned because of the most recent renewal of mob persecutions, there would have been no strange absence of official attempt to control the outbreak.

The mob was permitted to have its way. Having had its way, the Nazi authorities say that violence must cease. Government sincerity can be expressed by punishment of mob leaders.

MANY NEGLECT

(Fraternal Society's Leaflet)

MOST PEOPLE will say, "I do believe in insurance," but a careful analysis of our business shows more than 90 per cent. of those applying for a policy do not have a dollar of insurance. Most of the others carry from $1,000 to $2,000 and rarely more. After funeral expenses have been paid, after the doctors' and hospital accounts have been settled what is left for herself and her family? Believing in insurance is not enough, good intentions do not mean much until put into action. Lamenting over the fate which has overtaken someone does not meet our problems. We have our individual as well as collective responsibilities, and if we measure up we will retain our self-respect as well as make life brighter for those who may be depending on us for support.

NO PIKER AS PROMISED

(Windsor Star)

NO PIKER IS John H. Blackmore, Social Credit leader in the House of Commons, and chief organizer of the Socred campaign in Ontario.

Speaking at St. Thomas Mr. Blackmore told of dividends of $40 per month to be paid out of Socred theories.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta used to talk of dividends of $ 25 per month, but after three years in office he has not paid dividends of ever a nickel. Lately he has tried to welsh on the promise, saying that he never actually said the dividends would be paid.

But a little thing like that does not worry Mr. Blackmore. He promises $40 per month. The only reason we can think of for Mr. Blackmore not saying $50 per month, is that he probably thought of 50 and subtracted 10 for good luck.

Bid Destroyed When Dealers Get Together

WINDSOR, Ont., June 25—(CP)—Because he "smelled a rat" when several scrap-iron dealers made low bids for discarded street rails at a meeting here yesterday, W. H. Furlong K.C., chairman of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway Board, destroyed the bids, he said in a statement today.

"I told them they were a bunch of thieves, Furlong said, noting he had heard of what he believed to be a scheme to "gang up" on the railway.

Dealers from several points, including London, Chatham, Toronto, and Windsor, answered an advertisement for bids on purchase of the rails, Furlong said. He contended that a spokesman at a secret meeting advised dealers to keep their bids low and the spokesman would bid a little higher to obtain the rails.

Furlong said his informant, who was present at the meeting, had been told, along with others, that those who bid low would be "taken care of."

The rails were taken from the Windsor-Tecumseh division of the railway, a nine-mile run which has been replaced with buses. Buses are intended to take over the entire transportation system over a period of a year or more, according to Furlong's plans.

Furlong said the bids were as low as $4 a ton whereas the scrap steel market calls for a top price of $16 a ton.

Transoceanic Clippers Of Tomorrow

In the near future such airplanes as these may span the Atlantic and Pacific oceans should the hopes of Pan-American Airways be realized. Plans for the above three airplanes were submitted to the airways in response to invitations for bids for the design and construction of a fleet of giant Transoceanic airplanes capable of carrying 100 passengers, five tons of baggage and a crew of 16 with a non-stop range of 5,000 miles and speeds ranging from 200 to 300 miles an hour. At TOP is the candidate of the Simorsky Company; CENTRE, the entry of the Boeing Company, of Seattle, Wash.; LOWER the design submitted by Consolidated Aircraft Company, San Diego, Cal. All three are said to be capable of meeting specifications set by Pan-American.

Grenfell Mission Bale Is Packed

Several members of the Grenfell Association met at Grafton's Store this week to pack the annual bale for Harrington Harbor on the Canadian Labrador. Eight boxes were filled with a splendid assortment of new and used clothing, bedding and other articles. Included in the shipment were 7 quilts made by various church societies, a bolt of flannelette, about 7 pounds of new knitting wool, and some 200 garments, besides 25 new pairs of men's heavy wool socks. There was one carton of old silk stockings, which are invaluable in the making of the beautiful rugs for which the workers on the Labrador are famous. Contributions of stockings or any old silk underwear may be given to any member of the Association and will be greatly appreciated, as there cannot be too many. The A. Wander Company, through the kindness of Charles Shaw, made the fine donation of 24 one-pound tins of Ovaltine, which will be hailed with delight at the hospital. An interesting contribution was a large package of scrapbooks and other toys made by the little children at the Church Vacation School which was held last summer in George Street Church.

The Association is greatly indebted to Mr. Hughes of Grafton & Company, who for many years has offered the use of a large room upstairs as a depot for contributions and a packing room, and who is unfailing in his courteous assistance to the ladies in their work.

Nixon Answers Critics Of Game Warden

TORONTO, June 25.—Hon. Harry C. Nixon yesterday issued the following statement in regard to recent criticism by the Victoria and Haliburton Liberal Association of the appointment of Alfred Hodgson of Lindsay as a game overseer:

"This morning's press report of the annual meeting of the Victoria and Haliburton Liberal Association features criticism of the appointment of Alfred Hodgson as game overseer, and the following reported statement of the President is particularly surprising:

"President J. A. McLaughlin told the meeting that the Executive of the association had interviewed the Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries and endeavored to have a Liberal appointed to the overseer's position, but that their efforts had not borne fruit.'

"'As a matter of fact, Mr. McLaughlin wrote to Mr. Taylor on March 23 this letter:

"Dear Mr. Taylor: I have great pleasure in passing on the recommendation of my committee in Victoria and Haliburton for the appointment of Alfred Hodgson of Lindsay as a Game Warden, succeeding Mr. Windsor.

"'Mr. Hodgson has had police experience, and has also worked with Mr. Windsor for some years.

"Yours sincerely,

"'J. A. McLaughlin,' and few days later called on me personally to make certain the appointment would go through.

"Hodgson has proved to be a splendid officer, and no one need apologize for his appointment. I have head nothing but the highest commendation of his work."

60,000 Children Tak Part In A Special Service

QUEBEC, June 25 (CP). — Milling thousands from all parts of Canada thronged the streets of old Quebec for the closing sessions today and to-morrow of the National Eucharistic Congress, ranked as one of the greatest events in the history of this city, cradle of a continet.

The visitors, young and old, men and women alike, were drawn to the city, passing beneath Quebec's arched, stone gates, with the one purpose of kneeling in adoration at the foot of the altar and receiving Holy Communion. Thousands filled the city's 50 churches early to-day and during the morning more than 3,000 Masses were celebrated by the archbishops, bishops and priests attending the five-day congress cloing to-morrow.

Congress officials expected the city's normal population of 150,000 would be doubled to-day and to-morrow.

For the closing procession to-morrow afternoon, more than 75,000 priests, men and boys will walk along a three-mile route from the storied Basilica of Quebec to the Plains of Abraham.

There at the foot of a cross-peaked repository in the centre of an arena of 100,000 seats, prayers will be recited for the triumph of Catholic action in Canada, cessation of unemployment, temperance, social justice between employers and employees, and for the triumph of the social and economic doctrine of the church.

Address by the Pope.

The procession, winding along a tree-bordered route under 12 arches representing the ecclesiastical provinces of Canada, will follow delivery at one o'clock of an address by Pope Pius XI from the Vatican broadcasting station.

Last night's services in the churches followed a youth demonstration on the Plains of Abraham in the afternoon when more than 60,000 children in multi-colored uniforms attended a dramatization of the Mass by the French playwright and author, Henri Gheon.

The parade of the children, in uniforms of blue, white, red and convent dresses of black, took more than 90 minutes to pass a given spot. Black-robed teaching brothers and nuns in flowing black veils led the children, in their grey, red-sashed uniforms with loose, knee-high trousers.

Cardinal Villeneuve, Papal Legate during the congress, visited yesterday the parishes of the city and last night he toured outlying parishes and villages, including the Huron Indian village of Lorette, north of the city, where he received a delegation of Indian braves in the small, white-washed church on the reserve. The Indians wore their picturesque tribal dress with flowing feather headpieces.

Woman Threw Peace Note At Car As King Returned From Visit To Fleet

WEYMOUTH, England, June 25.—(CP Cable)—A woman last night threw a stone-filled glove containing a peace note at the King's car as His Majesty drove to the railway station here after his visit to the home fleet.

The glove hit the bonnet of the royal car and fell to the roadway where it was picked up by police. The note asked an interview with His Majesty and his signature to a peace petition.

It was thrown by Mrs. Helen Willard, a Weymouth mother of two children, who said: "No harm was intended. I wanted to present my letter to the King when he arrived at the railway station on Monday but they would not let me."

A policeman said it was "a most minor incident and I doubt if His Majesty noticed it at all.'

The woman was not held.

George Shea Is Elected Head Of Police Chiefs

EDMONTON, June 24 (C.P.). — Importance of freedom of speech and of the press was stressed and pleas for a United Canada were voiced here last night at a banquet tendered the Dominion's Chief Constables by the City of Edmonton.

"Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are the hall-marks of democracy," said Chief G. M. Donald of Saskatoon, one of the speakers at the formal conclusion of the three-day Chief Constables' Association's convention.

Chief Constable E. Goodman of Hamilton and Jon Blue, secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, both stressed necessity of maintaining the Dominion's unity and "bulwarking the weakness of Confederation.

Premier Aberhart, replying to a toast to the Province, emphasized importance of loyalty in police work as in other walks of life. The Premier said conditions of distress have undermined the morals of many economic sufferers, and loyalty and self-respect also have suffered.

At the closing business session yesterday George Shea of Montreal, chief investigator of the Canadian National Railways, was elected president of the association for the coming year, and Windsor, Ont., was chosen as locale of the 1939 convention.

"BE GENEROUS IN YOUR PRAISE"

SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

● "Have you ever watched an experienced trainer teaching a dog new tricks, or breaking him of bad habits? If you have, you'll remember that the moment the dog showed the slightest improvement, the trainer patted and praised him. Animal trainers have been using that technique for centuries and making a great success with it."

● "Why, I wonder, don't we use the same brand of common sense when trying to change people, that we use when trying to change dogs? Why don't we praise, instead of condemning? Condemnation only discourages and embitters people."

● "The world is full of happy, successful men and women who owe their success to the fact that somebody believed in them—and told them so. A little praise at the right moment can change the whole course of a person's life by inspiring self-confidence and the will to keep on trying."

JOE LOUIS DENIES RUMORS HE IS RETIRING FROM THE RING

Not Thinking Of Quitting Says Bomber

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP).—Joe Louis said that any reports he was planning to retire from his position as world's heavyweight boxing champion "just ain't so."

The 24-year-old negro heavyweight king, arriving Friday from New York, asked, "Why should I retire?" when queried about reports he might quit after one more bout, which may see Max Baer as his opponent.

"I'm the undisputed heavyweight champion now because I evened up that knockout by Max Schmeling two years ago," Louis said. "But I'm not thinking of quitting either now or after another fight. I'm young, and there'll be lots of guys to fight."

Louis said, "That's fine," when told improvement was noted in the condition of Schmeling, in a New York hospital with a back injury incurred during the title bout Wednesday night. Louis paid tribute to the German as a "brave fighter."

"I consider Baer is always a dangerous fighter," said Louis of the man he once knocked out. "You never can tell when a punch may fly at you when you're in the ring with Max."

Louis, appearing as unblemished and serene as a collegian returning home for vacation, spent the day reading and playing a phonograph. He plans to spend a few days with his mother in Detroit before leaving on a European trip with his wife and managers, July 6.

Westclox Lasses Beat Keene 15-2

Westclox girls took a 15-2 softball victory over Keene last night at the Bowl before a fair crowd of rooters. Thora Stalter started for Keene and gave way in the third to B. McDowell. Between them they were nicked for 13 hits, while striking out two and walking none. The fielding on both sides was fair.

G. Mortimer led the winners at bat with a double and two singles, while M. Hawthorne hit a two-bagger and single, and M. Allison got a homer. For Keene, H. Nelson, G. Nelson, B. McDowell, T. Mills and M. Belle were the only ones to hit safely. Fieding features were turned in by R. Wood, T. Mills, H. Nelson, M. Hawthorne, A. Sturgeon and M. Allison. No he's not thumbing a ride. Directing traffic on the baselines for Brooklyn Dodgers is his job, and here he is hard at work. NEW YORK, June 25 (AP). — Sports writers began to smell the well-known rat when Robert Taylor, the movie star, was spotted in a delegation of Californians trying to talk Mike Jacobs into staging a heavyweight championship fight in San Francisco next year...Particularly since Taylor's next picture will be built around a fight story...The Westerners are taking it seriously and guaranteed Mike a million potatoes to stage the show.

Unusual stories: The Yankees (who own Newark) selling a ball player (Bob Seeds) to the hated Giants...Chicago sports writers say Windy City fans have about given up on the Cubs this year...Note to sports editors: Mike Jacobs will have Max Baer signed to a three-year contract by nightfall and that means a Louis-Baer joust in September if Louis isn't scared off by the high income tax rate.

The uniform Babe Ruth uses to coach the Dodgers had to be made to order...Norman St. Denis, who publicized the Ross-Armstrong and Louis-Schmeling fight for Mike Jacobs, didn't get to see either because of poor train connections... Colonel Ruppert is beginning to worry a whole lot about the way the Yanks are going.

Early arrivals at Ebbets Field these days are getting a great kick out of watching Babe Ruth slug that baseball...He's fat and 40-odd but still can do tricks with a bat...He's lost at least two balls with drives over the palings every day since he joined the club.

African Nazis have taken control of German Schools in Johannesburg.

VanderMeer And Lombardi

When someone mentions Cincinnati Reds, current sensations of the National League, it's hard to know just who to talk about. There's Goodman, McCormick, Derringer, Manager McKecknie and others playing a big part in the Reds' rush, but no one could forget the pair ABOVE. They're valuable in a pitching and batting way, more than just a little. On the left is Johnny Vandermear, no hit pitcher de luxe, of whom just about everything has been said that needs saying. With him is his battery mate, Big Horn Ernie Lombardi, who caught both Johnny's classic efforts, as well as other great games for Cincy. Ernie wields a powerful bat at the plate in addition to handling the catching chores in capable fashion.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

JAVA JOE WAS sipping iced coffee through a straw when we saw him last e'en, "Hi, you fight excerpt," he yodels, "you pick 'em like I renounce English words! I have a modern wager of two slugs on Joe Loose to knock off Mac Smelling in six runs. And danged if he don't do it in the first run with that kiddy punch. They say Smelling is still in the hostel with a bone in his back fractioned. And yelling about fowl, which is the height of absorbity as Joe Loose never pulled a fowl yet in the fight aroma. Not even a blow below the belch. And kiddy punches are illegible in New York anyways. I will bet a slug or two that Der Furore in Germany is disrumpled over the result, and Mac had better be careful or he'll wind up like Barren Von Crumb in a consultation camp." Yeah, we had trouble following it, too.

ONTARIO Athletic Commission sends us a letter reminding us of what it does for sports. Depends for finances on a tax on pro sports, and gets not a red cent from the Government. Nor a pink nickel, either. This body encourages such Secondary Schools Sports as hockey, rugby, basketball and gym contests. And at the summer camp at Lake Couchiching, such games as tennis, baseball, swimming and boating. In the past three years, the O. A. C. has passed on $16,082.50 to 39 amateur sports organizations in this province. Not counting minor grants and trophies, etc. They claim Ontario is 25 years in advance of the rest of Canada and the world in fostering minor amateur sport. Mighty good stuff that. Officers include P. J. Mulqueen, Lionel Conacher, J. P. Fitzgerald, E. A. Lyn, E. S. Farr and W. A. Fry.

WHILE 400 OR SO fans perspired in the stands last eve here, two crazy lacrosse squads battled their sweaty heads off on a dirt floor under the electric lights. Completely screwy, but they act as happy as normal people, so we should kick. The Petes took an 11-3 O. L. A. senior "B" victory over Long Branch, and likewise toted home sundry bruises. The boys from Long Branch are a bunch of wood-choppers and they certainly don't believe in sparing the rod. Nearly spoiled several of the locals, but eventually the pugnacious Petes got around to doing a bit of smearing, also. Quite a rough jamboree in spots with 14 penalties, evenly divided. Jerry Creighton and Legge mixed it up in a fight near the finish.

* * * * * *

THE PETES earned the win but had to work hard. Had the visitors paid more attention to scoring instead of checking so hard and often, the count would have been much closer. They made it a real fight till out in the third stanza. Red Creighton returned to goal and looked good. Chute, Dundas, Dallin and Crowe all played consistent lacrosse. Several of the Long Branchers, especially Hainey (15), sparkled in spots. Wouldn't be surprised but the locals will get a rough passage when they play that team away from home. The local lacrossers are off for Brampton tonight. Can those lads take it when Old Sol is pouring it on! We held the position of manager of the lacrossers here one time—well, it WAS kinda temporory—but we will never, never be caught playing the game in hot weather. Nor will one of our sons ever do it—nossuh, you reduce too doggone fast.

WITH TWO OUT and the score tied in the ninth at 12-all, the Mark St. Catcher dropped the ball when a player was trapped in a rundown and so George St. Juveniles won the first of the Church Loop softball finals yester p.m. They clash again Tuesday at the Oval. All Saints Bantams broke two adding machines and a scorer's heart when they trounced St. James, 39-20, in the first of their finals. New machines and a brand new scorer will be on hand Monday when they mix in the next one at King Edward school. Knox and Mark St. Seniors meet in a semi-final Monday at the Oval, while All Saints and St. John's Juniors play their fifth and deciding playoff tilt Tuesday at Central.

WESTCLOX femmes started their second half softball schedule with a 15-2 smirk over Keene last e'en atthe Bowl. They got swelegant pitching from Barb Blade and a lot of hefty hitting in two stanzas. Two twirlers toiled like Trojans in the heat for Keene but 'twas in vain. Ab Delahaye' damsels are flying high these days and, if they don't soften up on their vacation—or are they used to that now?—they should cop both halves and the loop title once more. However, the second half may see a few shakeups in the other three teams and plenty of competition. May we suggest that the umps in this loop, and in the men's circuit, move around and get a closer view of some of the plays? Sure, it's warm and sometimes you can spot a play across the diamond—but after all the arbiters are being paid for their chore. We've heard some squawks on this point.

OMEMEE and Westclox men have a City Softball League struggle at the Bowl tonight. Next tilt will be Monday when Westclox and Motorists meet at the Bowl, this being the first fixture of the third section of the schedule—and runs till around the end of July. Schedule should be drawn up about Monday. The male softballers are dishing up some nifty scraps and are drawing bigger crowds at the Ashburnham saucer than they did at Central a year ago. With a few more nickels dropping into the chapeau, Diamond doesn't suit them just as well but it's not bad and they're getting used to ground rules to make up for the lack of space to park homers. It's a right good layout, but naturally the men clubbers conk the apple quite a bit further than the gals. They (the men) have more muscle and less curves!

QUINTE SCRIBE intimates we had the wrong Bud Clancy in mind when we mentioned recently he was playing pro ball in Southern States now. The writer-umpire from down Belleville way claims the ex-Ponies' pitcher is up around Sudbury, flinging 'em in the Northern Ontario loop. And isn't going any too well, either, despite his 60 smackers a week per seven days labor. This is terrible, but Bud's hard work when ... Kingston—at a slightly smaller salary—must have hardened him up for his northern job. He was a good C. O. B. L. slabsmen several seasons back, but we know that the Ponies are still in debt from that period.

George St. Wins Over Mark St.

George St. Juveniles of the Church Softball League last night copped a 13-12 nod over Mark St. at Central in the first of the finals. An error by the catcher in a rundown with the score tied at 12-all probably cost Mark St. the decision. Next game will be Tuesday at the Oval. It was a fine scrap last night, with fair pitching and hard hitting in spots. Parnall had a triple and two singles for the winners, with L. Routley, Bedford and Willshaw getting two apiece. Manbeck, Agnew, Eason and Davis had three each for Mark St. Agnew's included a triple and double. Routley struck out two and walked two, while Eason in five frames fanned seven and issued nine walks. He was relieved by Davis, who fanned five and walked two. The teams:

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We don't know the answer but it seems that our boys are either getting too much bowling or the weather is too hot, as only ten rinks turned out last night. This was the smallest weekend tournament we ever had.

Second—J. Baird, R. Payne, B. Chesler, L. Loftus (skip)—water sets.

Greyhounds Lose To The Pirates

Pirates walked away with a 16-5 win over Greyhounds last night at the Exhibition Grounds in a Junior City Baseball League encounter. It was a fair game, despite the big score and the hot spell. O'Toole twirled neat ball to hold the losers in check. McDonald and Hewie pulled off nice running catches. Hewie and Bennett led the victors' attack, and Wildman hit well. O'Toole fanned nine and gave one free ticket while Smythe had four strike-outs and walked three. The teams:

Protest Meeting

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., June 25.—(CP)—A resolution asking the Ontario Government cancel the sale of beer and wine in the province or put the question before the people in a referendum was carried at an Eastern Ontario "protest picnic" held by the Ontario Temperance Federation here today. Only 100 persons attended.

Rev. A. J. Irwin of Toronto, general secretary of the Federation, said the protest picnics were being held in an effort to take the liquor problem out of politics.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, I suppose the customers will be looking for me to say something about the Schmeling-Louis fisticuffs the other night and what I gotta say will be about as short as the bout itself, which was so brief I no sooner get myself seated on a soft patch of Walter Stocker's grass in Confederation Sq. all ready to listen to Tony Johnston's open air broadcast when they called the whole thing off owing to Schmeling being in a horizontal position.

As for the affair itself it looks like that one right hook to the kidney about spoiled the show. That sock left the German paralized and helpless. If it hadn't of landed the scrap might have been a wow, who can tell.

Anyway I aint going to join in the chorus what is hailing Mister Louis as the greatest heavyweight champ of them all. To me he's the same Mister Louis what went 15 rounds with Mister Tommy Farr and took a lot of time to win a bunch of other bouts against opposition that was just a pushover and I aint going to change because one fluky punch—that is fluky so far its effect was concerned — made his toughest opponent a defenseless target. The Detroit bomber may be the best of the present crop but that don't make him the best in the history of the game. In fact if it had been him on the receiving end of that kidney punch the other night, the papers would be calling him a bum to-day and arguing he was only a 2nd rate champ at the best.

Locally Mac, they aint been a great deal to get excited about. Our senior ball club has been winning a couple of exhibition games without having to exert theirselfs a great deal in the progress, knocking off the Toronto Webbers and the Port Hope intermediates and meanwhile Oshawa has took a coupla games from the Kingston Ponies and clumb up on even terms with our lads while the Limestone entry is in the hole.

The Orillia Terriers was here the other nite to show the local fans why they been getting the big write-ups in the papers and they showed them all right when they wanted to turn it on. They was satisfied to stay on about even terms with the home talent the 1st half but when they opened up in the third period the crowd saw their class both offensively and on the defence. They run in goals until Mister Meyette was dizzy and in front of their own nets they tightened up so effectively the Petes got hardly a shot on the Orillia citadel during the whole 15 minutes. It was a neat exhibition. Our own gang give all they had and played some nice lacrosse against the leading team in Ontario.

Big leagues ain't changed much, Mac, since my last. My American League choice the Yanks aint been doing so well by theirselfs on their present road trip and they certainly didn't do their cause much good when they dropped 3 to Cleveland. The Boston Red Sox too has slumped off a little. Still the race is as close as the weather has been all week and anybody what counts the Yanks out yet is just slaphappy.

Meanwhile the Giants which as the customers may remember is my National League selection is still out in front although they been finding the going tough, especially against them Cincinnati Reds which don't look natural up there threatening to take the leadership.

Well, Mac, its too hot to pound this old typewriter any more this week so let's drift.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

Detroit Bests Yankees 12-8 In Slugfest

NEW YORK, June 25.—American League managers better get out their shootin' irons. Mickey Cochrane's Tiger is on the prowl at last, full of red meat and ripping things apart.

Those 'Oom Boom" boys, Roundhouse Rudy York and hammering Hank Greenberg, and the always dependable Charley Gehringer, have hooked up with something new in the way of a batting punch in Chat Laabs—and there isn't a fence in the loop safe from their cannon shots.

Relying almost exclusively on this clouting quartete, Iron Mike's Detroiters have surged up out of sixth place and into the first division. They've won 13 of the last 20 games. Four of these wins have come in a row, the latest a 12-8 knock-down drag-out brawl with the Yankees yesterday.

All in all, the Tigers have connected with 149 runs and 218 hits in their 20-game drive for an average of slightly more than seven tallies and 10-base blows a game. As evidence that their pitchers would never gladden the heart of a Bill Terry, the statistics show that their opposition in this stretch scored 116 runs, or just under six a game.

Click for 28 Homers.

They've walloped 28 homers in their drive, 10 of them by Roundhouse Rudy, seven by Big Hank, and four each by Laabs and Strong-silent Charley. This quartet has driven in a total of 88 runs and has scored 85, in the 20-game run.

Take yesterday. Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon each parked one out of the lot. The Hank took a hand in the proceedings, clouted one with two aboard and another with one mate on base and drove in a total of five runs. His two-round-trippers tied him with York and Jimmy Foxx at 20-all in the big league home-run derby.

Foxx's bat was quieted yesterday by Rookie Johnny Humphries, who set Boston Red Sox down with a half dozen hits, and pitched the Indians to a 7-6 decision. This victory, coupled with the Yank's defeat, left the Tribe with a 4½-game lead in the American League race.

The Athletics-Chicago White Sox tilt was rained out, and the Senators-St. Louis Browns' engagement was re-scheduled for a double-header Sunday.

Over in the National League, the Giants remained just 1½ games in front of the rude Reds from Cincinnati. Bill Terry's outfit topped the Cubs 5-3. The Reds downed the Phillies 6-4.

Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons hurled a nine-hitter and led Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-2 decision over St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates-Boston Bees game was set back to Sunday.

LOCAL LACROSSERS BEAT LONG BRANCH IN RUGGED CONTEST

Petes Cop 11-3 Victory Here In League Game

In a rough O.L.A. senior "B" fixture here last night, the Petes pulled an 11-3 victory over Long Branch before about 400 fans. The visitors turned in a rugged, hard-checking game and both squads were inclined to lay on the wood in the sweltering heat. One fist fight marked the struggle and several others threatened, the visitors drawing half of the 14 penalties.

The score was 1-1 in the first quarter, 4-1 at halftime for the Petes, and 8 to 2 for the locals going into the fourth frame. They earned the nod on superior play but had to hustle all the time and were checked closely, especially in around the visitors' net. Both sides found the going tough in the heat and missed passes, but it was an interesting lacrosse match all the way. The visitors held the game up, being late arriving.

Red in Goal

Red Creighton returned to play goal for the Petes and looked good in the home cage again. His defence helped considerably with neat checking in every quarter. There was little to choose between the two home front lines, all working hard. Crowe, Chute, Dundas and Dallin looked about the best of the gang last night. Brown, Hainey, Sheaffer and Block stood out for the losers.

The teams:

Long Branch Goal, Clark; defence, Brown and Granger; centre, Sheaffer; wings, McNabb and Hainey; rover, Legge; alternates, Hunt, Cox, Block, Sears, Windorf, Gray and Harrison.

Petes: Goal, R. Creighton; defence, J. Creighton and Westonfelt; centre, Worthy; wings, Magee and E. Creighton; rover, Crowe; alternates, Chute, Sloan, Dundas, Dallin, Whitton, King and Pammett.

Newark Meets First Defeat Without Seeds

TORONTO, June 25 (CP). — Bob Seeds, the man who carried the punch that might have prolonged the winning streak of the Newark Bears, was wearing the uniform of New York Giants today while his teammates licked the wounds suffered in their first International League defeat in more than two weeks.

While Seeds, who is nicknamed "Suitcase" because he's always being shifted to another club, was celebrating his return to the major leagues, the Bears finally lost to Syracuse Chiefs, 3-2, in 18 innings last night, to end their 14-game winning streak.

The bat that belted out 28 homers and drove in 94 runs in 59 games was sadly missed in the Bears' lineup. The Bears made only nine hits in the longest game of the season, and they went down to defeat when Al Glossop doubled and Lloyd Richards sent him home with a single in the 18th.

Jack Haley pitched 17 innings for the Bears, giving up only 10 hits, but he was yanked for a pinch-hitter in the last inning and the Chiefs got to Relief Hurler Nick Strincevich for the winning hits after two were out.

The second-place Buffalo Bisons couldn't gain any ground on the league-leaders, as they lost to Rochester Red Wings, 10-9 in 10 innings.

The third-place Jersey City Giants also took a licking, losing their second in a row to Baltimore Orioles, 7-6. The fourth game of the night saw Montreal Royals snap out of a five-game losing spell by defeating Toronto 3-0 behind Bob Porter's eight-hit pitching.

Model House Moves Apace Kiwanis Reports

The foundation of the Kiwanis club's model home has now been dug and squared and water lines are being laid, according to an announcement by Harold Scott at the weekly meeting of the club Friday.

Tenders have been let for carpenter work to Vivian Lancaster and for plumbing to Fred Goodfellow, he said. Already the forms for pouring cement are being erected. Tickets will be on sale at the scene of work on Prince street for persons who inspect the construction and want to become members of the Home Owners' association with the added inducement of becoming proud owner of the new home should their ticket be drawn.

An additional prize of $25 is being offered by the club to the salesman selling the lucky ticket in the draw. Display cards have been painted advertising stores where Kiwanis tickets are on sale. The whole project is moving at top speed now with every Kiwanian exerting himself to the utmost in its support.

Charles Shaw was guest speaker at today's luncheon, speaking on industrial standards. The day of large profits is gone and industrialists must have a genuine product to sell if they are to survive, he said. He cited cooperation with scientific men as an essential of success in industry today. "The day of the duds is passing fast," he said.

The entire club will hold their annual All Kiwanis Night at Bethel church on Monday evening. A strawberry social is the feature of the evening, complete with a full dinner and entertainment program. Members are taking their ladies and the Lindsay club will be on hand. A softball game between two Peterborough girls' teams will be one portion of the entertainment.

Bethany Branch Hears Report

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, June 25. — The members of the Bethany Branch, Women's Institute, met at the home of Mrs. Alvah Thorndyke, Glengarry Road, on Wednesday evening. In the unavoidable absence of the president, Mrs. (Rev.) Holden presided. A letter in answer to a note sent in a parcel when the bale was received and opened in Alameda was read and discussed. Decision arrived at before sending help solicited, that the secretary write the minister in charge there, for information regarding this particular home. A report of the quilt convenor requested 10 more blocks be made for the next meeting. The next meeting, in charge of Group 2 will be held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Reynolds.

The first number on the program for the evening was a beautifully rendered duet, "The Londonderry Air," by Mesdames Bigelow and Fallis, which was very much appreciated. Delegates attending the district annual gave reports. The morning session report was given by Mrs. Payne, and Mrs. S. Armstrong then gave the afternoon session report. These two ladies received the unanimous thanks of the meeting for their splendid work in obtaining such full summaries of what took place at the Bailieboro district convention.

An invitation to meet at Bethany for the coming yearly district meeting was accepted, also a contest prepared by Mrs. Thorndyke naming leaves of flavoring plants growing now in her garden. Thirty-one samples were submitted for the contest. Mrs. H. H. Ryley had the largest number of correct answers—12 in all.

The hostess then served a delicious lunch prepared by the group in orange. Ladies present included Mrs. Kyle, Mrs. Jarvis, Miss Thompson, Mrs. Fallis, Mrs. Bigelow, Mrs. Holden, Miss Washington, Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Thorndyke, Mrs. Carscadden, Mrs. Ryley, and Mrs. Foster, a guest.

Jap Embassy Denies American Slapped

SHANGHAI, June 25—(AP). — A Japanese Embassy spokesman declared today a Japanese military investigation at Nanking had found no proof that a Japanese sentry slapped Dr. J. C. Thompson, an American.

Dr. Thompson's complaint that he was struck by a sentry caused United States Consul John Allison to protest Wednesday to Japanese authorities.

The spokesman said an investigation showed the sentry searched Dr. Thompson "in a quiet, routine manner."

He said the sentry had the right to do this, since Nanking was under military occupation "with no distinction between Chinese and foreigners" as far as military policing was concerned.

Privy Council Allows Sifton Appeal

LONDON, June 25—(CP Cable).—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to-day allowed the appeal of Miss Elizabeth Sifton in a case from the Ontario Courts arising from construction of the words "continue to reside in Canada" in her father's will.

Their Lordships ruled that the judgment of Mr. Justice Middleton of February 18, 1937, as varied by the Ontario Court of Appeal, should be set aside, except as it dealt with costs of hearing the motion and the appeal.

Mr. Justice Middleton had held that the clause in the will of Miss Sifton's father, Clifford Winfield Burrows Sifton, expressed his desire that his daughter should make Canada her real home and the centre of her interests, which was incompatible with the idea that Miss Sifton might spend 11 months of any year outside Canada.

Clause Is Void.

To-day's judgment of the Privy Council held that a declaration should be made that the clause in the will, which directs payments to the appellant only so long as she continues to reside in Canada, is void for uncertainty.

Their Lordships remarked that none of the judges of the Ontario Court of Appeal had attempted to define precisely and distinctly the events which constitute ceasing, on the part of the appellant, to reside in Canada.

"Had they attempted they must, in their lordship's judgment, have failed, because they would have been attempting the impossible," the judgment declared.

"No one can suppose that the testator intended either that his daughter should never leave Canada or that, so long as she maintained residence in Canada, she might spend the whole of her time abroad."

The appeal was heard May 20 and 23 by Lords Thankerton and Romer and Sir Lancelot Sanderson.

The testator, who died June 13, 1928, directed that his brothers, as executors of the will, pay to his daughter out of the income of his estate a sum sufficient to maintain her suitably until she was 40 years old and after that pay her the whole income of the state. He (Sifton) said in his will "the payments to my daughter shall be made only so long as she shall continue to reside in Canada.

Student Abroad

In the original judgment, Mr. Justice Middleton noted that Miss Sifton, as undergraduate in honors in modern languages at the University of Toronto, availed herself of an option to take the third year of her course by extensive travel in foreign countries. She went abroad with a suitable chaperon and spent from October, 1934 to September, 1936, in European countries. She returned to Canada and established residence in Montreal.

Mr. Justice Middleton said Miss Sifton now desired to go abroad annually for the next two or three years for the purpose of study with the intention of returning to Canada for at least one month each year. Executors raised question whether or not by such absences from Canada she would forfeit her right to income from the estate. They suggested she should not be absent from Canada for more than two months in any year.

Riot Follows Unemployed Eviction In Vancouver

Forcible eviction of Vancouver's unemployed from the post-office and city art gallery resulted in bitter fighting between police and members of the unemployed who had seized the buildings in an effort to attract attention to their plight. During the riot that followed the eviction, $80,000 worth of damage was done as the fleeing unemployed hurled bricks through large plate glass windows of neighboring department stores. A deputation of the unemployed are shown, TOP, as they conferred with Premier Pattullo over their plight. During the rioting police were forced to use tear gas and batons to subdue the rioters. One of the injured is shown, lower LEFT, while Steve Brodie, leader of the unemployed, is seen, CENTRE, on the ground, with an R.C.M.P. sergeant giving him an opportunity to submit peacefully. This group, lower RIGHT, are feeling the effect of the tear gas barrage as they tenderly wipe their eyes.

Hutton Fails To Settle Family Strife

LONDON, June 25 (AP).—A banker and a lawyer beat an early morning path to the guarded home of Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow today.

With a magistrate's order standing between the Woolworth heiress and the Danish noble she married, the former Barbara Hutton received Sir John Milbanke, head of the trust which controls part of her fortune. The solicitor, William Mitchell, also arrived at Winfield House in Regent's Park on the heels of the milkman—at 8 a.m.

Sir John's visit caused watchers to wonder if the countess were not considering disposal of part of her five-and-10-cent store millions.

At the same time Prince Frederick of Hohenzollern, a grandson of the former Kaiser of Germany, told the Associated Press a "crank" letter which he received about the time Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow "took precautions" to protect herself and baby had no connection with the case. He said Scotland Yard was investigating the letter, but that it was one of a number which he has received since going to work in a London banking house a few months ago.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow presumably remained in Paris, far from a reconciliation with his wife of three years in the dispute over the future of their son, Lance. If he comes to England he will be required to appear before the magistrate who issued papers to the Countess on now-extraditable allegations.

The Countess awaited news from her father, Franklyn Hutton, who spent most of yesterday in Paris with the count.

Only chubby little Lance appeared oblivious to the commotion which has upset the routine of Winfield House. Guarded by detectives and nurses, he played alone while the pros and cons of the "squabble" over his education— whether he should go to school in the count's native Denmark or in England as the countess desires—were debated.

Both his parents are Danish. The countess renounced her United States citizenship last December to take the nationality of her husband.

Since Lance was born in London "within his majesty's dominion and allegiance" he is considered a British subject under British law. By his Danish parentage, however, he is both Danish and British until 22 years of age, when he could lose his British nationality by a declaration of allegiance to Denmark.

Heat Wave Has Ruined Business In Finnish Bath Establishments

Toronto, June 25.

TORONTO'S current heat wave has ruined business in Finish bath establishments, but the philosophical operators are not unhappy. The lull gives them more chances to loll in their overheated steam rooms and gently brush themselves with oak leaves.

Customers who crowd the baths during the winter months wilt at the thought of summertime use of the 122-degree perspiration parlors.

But not the operator, William Jalonen, 34-year-old partner in Toronto's oldest Finnish bath, said he takes a steam bath "at least two or three times a day."

On his vacation he goes to his partner's summer home at Parry Sound where they have built a private bath.

The hot-weather bathers practise in a big way the cure of taking a hair from the tail of the dog that bites you. If it is hot outside, they argue, they take a super-hot steam bath and shiver in the hottest mixture of heat-and-humidity that Canada's weatherman can dish up.

A portly reporter tested the theory with success. He lost nearly five pounds — probably temporarily — and emerged from the bathouse to sunbaked streets pulling his coat tightly around him.

Zoo Animals Enjoy This Hot Weather

TORONTO, June 25 — (CP). — William Croft, Toronto alderman, whose penchant is criticizing virtually every civic expenditure, came up today with a heat-wave blast at conditions at Riverdale Zoo.

Croft toured the city-owned zoo in 85-degree weather and complained the animals looked even less comfortable than he felt. He suggested the council members be arrested "and charged with cruelty to animals."

It was only a few weeks ago that the alderman complained Toronto was over-feeding the lions. The result was Croft's fellow-aldermen chuckled today and decided there was probably nothing to worry about at the Zoo.

"Those animals coming from hot countries enjoy this weather and the Polar bears and other animals have a bountiful supply of really cold and pure water," said Mayor Ralph Day.

Health Run Down Housework A Burden

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and miserable, but is it any wonder that when they are run down in health they become nervous and irritable, weak and worn-out, and the lightest household duties seem a drag and a burden?

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills are a remedy that all nervous, tired-out, weary women should take to help them back to the blessing of good health, and when this is done their household duties will be a pleasure instead of a burden.

MRS. A. K. MCLEAN, Pleasantfield, N.S., writes:—"A short time ago I was in a badly run down and nervous condition. I got so that my housework became a burden to me. I started taking Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, and now I feel like a different person, and again am able to do all my own housework.

Hereafter I shall always recommend H. & N. Pills to my friends."

Medical Inspection Is Needed In Schools, Says Speaker

Durham Ratepayers Meet At Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 27.—"This is the most largely attended gathering of this Association in my experience," stated President Russell E. Osborne, of Newcastle, welcoming the delegates to the annual meeting of the Durham County School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association which was held in the town hall, Millbrook, on Thursday.

In his opening address the chairman stressed the object of the association "to secure equal advantages for the children of rural and urban schools," and among other things mentioned the need of medical inspection for the schools of the county, "which we can have if we keep on asking for it."

The financial report showed a nice balance on hand, the figures, prepared by the secretary-treasurer, S. E. Werry, of Hampton, including total receipts of $61.79; expenditures of $30.27; and balance in the bank of $31.52. The counties council grant of $25 for the year 1937 had not been received, and Messrs. Pascoe and Annis were appointed to look into the matter, and see if the money could not yet be secured, since assurance was given that it had been voted at a council meeting.

The chair appointed the following nominating committee: Mrs. F. W. Bowen, Mrs. Charles Whyte, Herb Scott, L. H. Winslow, and Mr. Werry, who later on brought in the following slate of officers, which was unanimously adopted for 1938-39.

President, E. F. Russel Osborne, Newcastle; vice-presidents, W. J. S. Rickard, Bowmanville; and A. Coulter, Millbrook; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. R. Cooper, Orono.

Directors: Darlington, Mrs. C. Whyte, C. Smith; Hope, Alex Carruthers, Mrs. W. E. Lewis; Clarke, Mrs. F. W. Bowen, and H. Scott; Cartwright, Earl Dorrell, Mrs. W. Marlow; Cavan, Mrs. R. S. Staples, L. H. Winslow; Manvers, Mrs. C. Stokes, Charlie McNeil; Bowmanville, Mrs. J. W. Jewel., D. F. Purdy; Port Hope, H. Jordan, C. Buchanan; Millbrook, Dr. J. W. Wright, Miss Pearl Burnham.

Continue Series

After discussion, and mention of the fact that a contestant from Durham county, Raymond Gilmour, of Clarke township, had to his credit a continuous series of successes in his own school, county, district, and finally in the province at the O.E.A. convention at Toronto last Easter, it was decided to continue the public speaking competition again this fall, the committee to meet in good time and make all necessary arrangements. Raymond received a set of the Books of Knowledge, valued at sixty dolairs, as his prize, and has been giving his talk before the Rotary Club at Bowmanville, the Durham Old Boys' Association, Toronto, and other organizations, several times since he won the provincial honors.

Mrs. W. E. Lewis, of Welcome, the official county delegate to the O.E.A., gave a most comprehensive report of the various sessions, and was warmly congratulated on the manner in which she covered the entire convention. The matter of the Association interesting itself in procuring a county library, which could be passed round to the various schools in Durham, saving them expense since books are now such a necessary part of the new course of study, was an idea advancad for consideration. Also, as there was a large number of lady delegates present on Thursday, the fact was stressed that women may now be members of public school boards, if their husbands are ratepayers who have an assessment of over $400.

M. A. Campbell, general secretary of the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, J. W. Trissler, of Toronto, Field Secretary of O.E.A., who in an informative address, took up the ideal in view "to take the burden of taxation off the individual ratepayer, and put more on the provincial government."

On motion of Winslow-Annis, the thanks of the Association were extended to the retiring secretary-treasurer, S. E. Werry, for his very efficient services during his extended term of office, the delegates confirming this with prolonged applause.

On motion of Bowen-Pascoe, it was decided to submit a resolution to the Department at Toronto, asking for medical inspection in the schools.

The next place of meeting, for the fall gathering when the finals in the county public school speaking competition will be held, was left with the executive, and after the chairman had extended the thanks of the gathering to the various speakers for their help in the program, the meeting adjourned.

Bathing Beauties Come Forth With Hot Weather

Canadian Legion Notes

The monthly meeting on Monday last was very slimly attended, probably due to the heat wave. We were shown an attractive and interesting film and the evening was a great success from various points of view.

At the members' picnic last week end a larger number registered than was expected considering the many other attractions, and it was the general opinion that it would not be the last.

There has been a large number of registrations for the members and families picnic on Saturday, July 9, and we must impress on all members that it is imperative that they register not later than Tuesday, July 5, so the entertainment committee can make arrangements for transportation to the picnic grounds. There is good safe bathing facilities for even the smallest children, and first-aid officers will be present on the ground. Registration can be made with R. Mitchell, 'phone 141.

The horseshoe pitching course is now in operation, and several games have been played and some first-class pitchers have been unearthed.

If you want to find a cool spot during this hot spell pay a visit to the card room at the Legion Hall and you will find it the coolest place in the city.

All members of the entertainment committee are hereby notified that there will be a meeting of that committee on Thursday next, June 30, at 7.30 p.m., in the Legion Hall, and it is imperative that all should be present as there is important matters to be considered. Plans To Drive Wolf Team Down Broadway

MONTREAL, June 25— (CP) — Timber wolves up Gogama way in Ontario's northern sector and their cousins in Saskatchewan had best be on their guard—unless, of course, they want a taste of the bright lights and teeming traffic of Manhattan.

Towering Joe Laflamme — the man who's going to "drive a team of timber wolves down Broadway again"—was ready today for the hunt he hopes will net him seven of the animals between now and November.

"I did it before," says the 225-pound former Montreal policeman proudly. "I had a fine team of nine wolves and we exhibited at Madison Square Garden in 1926. When I mushed them down Broadway, thousands of people stood in the streets and cheered."

Laflamme said he'll probably obtain some of his new team in the same manner he got the old one—trap the animals in specially padded beaver traps. He already knows of two wolves he expects to get in Saskatchewan.

Not Catch Them Himself.

"But business will prevent me from catching them myself," adds Joe, who breezed into town to make arrangements for a spot in the Boston and New York Sportsman's winter show.

Laflamme said he sold three of his old team for $75 a head to a movie concern in 1928. In the last year he had the team, he obtained an all winter's job hauling provisions into the bush camps near Gogama because the lake ice in the vicinity was too thin to support horses.

Canvas harness was required for the team, Joe said.

"A wolf would chew a set of leather harness to shreds," he declared. "One wolf I used as a lead would take a three-quarter-inch rope in his mouth, and without any exertion or strain on a muscle, would cut it in two."

He said he never had any particular difficulty training the wolves.

Minute Message:

"Ye must be born again! All hope of self-reformation was destroyed, and man was sent back to God for new life on the ground of being already dead in Trespasses and in Sins. Christianity has no other than the same fundamental message to deliver to every man. When its preachers speak any other language the gospel falls below its mission, and misleads its hearers."—Joseph Parker, D.D.

FICTION AND FEATURES

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Entranced by the southwest country, and in love with a footloose Texan, Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star, has just decided to purchase an Arizona ranch and forsake her film career. A few days at the ranch of the wealthy Mexican Montoya family, which extended its hospitality to Ellen and Bill after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane duringa storm, had given both the young actress and the Texan a new viewpoint on life. At Nogales, where Bill had driven Ellen to return to Hollywood, she makes her new decision and asks him to manage the ranch she plans to buy. He accepts but is hesitant to speak of his love for her because of his position and her wealth. They find the type of ranch they desire in the vast Durango property, 6,000 neglected acres in a beautiful Arizona setting. Back in Nogales to buy the Durango ranch, Bill is disappointed when Ellen tells him she is dining with Felix Montoya, son of their recent host. At a night club where Bill dines alone, an attractive entertainer urged him to dance with her. He is chagrined when Ellen, who happens to be there with Felix, sees them dancing. A newspaper reported recognizes Ellen, obtains an interview, and few hours later the Hollywood star is asked by the mayor of the city to attend a banquet in her honor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

Ellen told Bill about the chamber of commerce banquet, when he came to the hotel at 6 p.m.

"I couldn't think of any way out of it, on the spur of the moment," she said. "But out here I want to be just another citizen, not a screen queen."

Bill considered it.

"Well, I know what you mean, Ellen. But these people are to be your people now. Your neighbors Nogales is your town. They're proud of you, for coming here. If you let them, they'll all love you. That's precious."

"Yes."

"The most terrible loneliness in the world is to be unappreciated, to be left strictly alone. You'll need some friends if you are going to live on an Arizona ranch. And that reminds me, Miss Dale, I need a check for $30,000."

"Whew! Just like that! Well, all right, mister. And about the other —I—I think you'd make somebody a swell big brother, William Baron!"

It suddenly dawned on Bill that he could kiss her then.

Moreover, he wanted to, very much. He had been wanting to for a long time. He liked her in blue. This frilly thing she wore now was almost heart-rending to him; made her cut and cuddly and—oh glory, what was he thinking!

He forced his thoughts back to business channels.

"Yeah. Well, I have an option on the Durango place until tomorrow noon. As your business manager out here, I recommend you buy it. They don't know it's for a movie actress, or the price probably would be $75,000."

She went to the clerk and returned with a blank check. She made it out to Bill himself—"Thirty thousand and 00/100 dollars"—as simply as if it were a tip for a bellhop. Bill took it and stared.

"I'm going to abscond," he announced. "I could."

He still stared at it. It created mixed emotions in him It was a distinct compliment to him he realized, but it was a powerful symbol too. The fact that she could write it was a barrier between them. He couldn't even write one for $500, and he was seven years older. A moment ago he had some ideas about kissing her, knowing he'd marry her then if he possibly could. But a peon can't marry a caballera; he just could not be pointed to as a "kept" man. He cursed a little under his breath, a rare release for Bill Baron.

Of course the Nogales Hearld put the news of Ellen's presence on the telegraph wires. And of course the agent who sold Bill the Durango ranch learned that it was for Ellen, which made more news. And of course the eastern radio commentators took it up and ballyhooed it. And of course the Broadway columnists whispered loud innuendoes about a "border romance with a big-hatted Arizonian with whom the screen beauty is seen constantly of late." And of course the Herald reporter wanted to do a "feature story" about her for a syndicate and for a movie magazine. And of course Sid Bromberg in Hollywood had a fit, telephoning her and telegraphing her to come on "home", offering her marriage, a contract at double salary, a fine new home, a diamond bracelet, everything his money could buy.

All the next day and most of the following, she scarcely had time to breath. Determined to be gracious if it killed her, she succeeded admriably in captivating the heart of every person she contacted in Nogales. Booming Sam Parker, president of the chamber of commerce, swore she was a pip, a princess, a queen (Mrs. Parker had to issue an ultimatum to keep Sam under control). The Herald editor tried twice to date her, and succeeded in taking her to lunch.

The First Presbyterian church of Nogales asked her to lecture at Christian Endeavor on "The Morals of Hollywood," which she did, surprising the extraordinarily large audience by telling them that Hollywood was a pretty good town whose few sinners made undue noise. Felix Montoya sent her a pair of silver filigree ear pendants from deep in Chihuahua. And she laid the cornerstone of a new Nogales school building—an honor which heretofore it had been assumed would fall to the governor of Arizona.

The chamber of comerce banquet went off in grand style. Ellen made a speech and sang two songs, whereupon 25 or 30 more men fell in love with her. They had to delegate a special sedan to carry all the flowers given her back to her hotel—and then haul them, at her instructions, to the local hospital for the charity cases.

Bill had been away most of these busy days. He personally went with the surveyors who checked the boundaries of the old Durango ranch. He contacted four Mexican families, investigated them thoroughly, and moved them bodily into tents out on the new estate, directing them to work immediately with the contractor he hired to erect their own homes. They would be the nucleus of servants and cowboys who would man the new Dale-Durango.

"Build substantial cottages for them back in this canyon," he directed the contractor. "They'll be away from the main house, but make them attractive even so."

The canyon was a small one, not half a mile from the main house site. It was a picturesque place of rocks and scrub oak. The contractor said he would make the cottages of rock too, to blend with the scenery.

Bill took Ellen home from the chamber of commerce banquet. They were both tired, but beaming.

"Well, mister," Ellen began when they were alone at last, in the hotel patio, "how am I doing?"

He grinned. "You're picking up the western lingo. How am I doing' is an Arizona-ism, Ellen."

"All right, but how am I? You wanted me to make friends."

"You're making them. Too many, maybe. All the men there were in love with you tonight."

"You were there."

"I didn't make any exceptions, did I? I've been in love with you for weeks, however. That's commonplace now."

She smiled, somewhat sadly—and sighed.

If ever she could get Bill Baron to take her seriously again—to stop bantering and teasing, to stop being so businesslike—

She wanted to lean her head on his chest and love him, really! And have him for her own! But he was so stand-offish sometimes; shy of her because she was a movie actress and had money.

"Would it help if I gave away every bit of money I own, Bill?"

"Hunh"

"I mean—" She hadn't quite intended to speak her thoughts like that. She blushed. After all you can't throw yourself at a man. "I mean—shouldn't I start a bank account here that you can check on? With the business coming up, and all, it might be a convenience."

"Yes. Yes, it would. You can put me under bond, as I said before, and I'll report what's being done every day or so. You can keep a close supervision."

She didn't want to keep close supervision on business matters. She wanted to make a home somewhere.

She was thinking of the welcome Nogales had given her. It was delightful, in retrospect. Three women at the Presbyterian church, kindly, neighborly souls, had talked with her after the lecture she gave there and invited her to call at their homes, just like any other average person. And—come to think of it—during all the welcoming lately, not one person had asked her for any-This was a small border town, whose people didn't have a famous person adopt them every day. They were honored, thrilled, made happy by her graciousness to them. Not selfish and grasping. These Arizonians wanted to take her in—not to fleece her, but to make her one of them.

She went to bed realizing she hoped that would happen more than anything else in the word.

DOROTHY DIX

Regulate Your Conduct by Your Principles Rather than by the Temperature When You Hie Away for the Summer Months, and You Won't Be Sorry

GIRLS, here are a few rules for your Summer Vacation that, faithfully followed, will save you a pain in the neck and perhaps a damaged reputation and a broken heart

Don't do anything in July that you wouldn't do in December. Regulate your conduct by your principles and not by the temperature. Don't let your morals and your manners melt down with your collars. You have no idea how attractive a little clinging crispness is in the dog days and how it would set you apart from the feminine herd.

When you travel, travel light. Don't go laden down with bags and packages. The woman who clutters up the aisles of the train with her belongings is anathema to all of her fellow passengers and advertises the fact that this is her first trip.

Don't be prissy and prudish, but don't pick up the acquaintance of strange men on trains and boats. The kind-hearted gentleman who insists on lending you a book to read on the train, or buying you a drink in the diner, or taking you riding when there is a stopover may be actuated by the noblest altruistic motives, or he may have the most nefarious designs upon you. You never can tell. Summer is the open season for wolves in sheep's clothing and when they are most on the prowl.

Be courteous and cordial to all the new women acquaintances you make, but don't establish any sudden intimacy with them and let down your back hair with them and tell them the story of your life and all your secrets. We start most of the scandals about ourselves by babbling of our indiscretions to other babblers.

Be nice to the old ladies of the rocking-chair brigade, for your good name lies in their hands. Besides, a lot of them have eligible sons who come up for weekends, and it won't do you any harm to have Mama boom your stock and tell Tom, Dick or Harry what a very nice girl you are. You might not believe it, but their mothers' size-up of girls carries a lot of weight with men.

Be yourself. Act natural. Don't pretend to be a multi-millionairess who has come to a simple Summer resort because she is so tired of Newport and Europe. Don't overdress and then talk about your having brought along only plain, inexpensive little things, and that you left your matched pearls and diamonds in Papa's safe because really they were a burden to take care of.

Don't pose as being sophisticated and world-weary and disillusioned with everything when you are goggle-eyed with excitement and wonder over your first little fling in the world. There is nothing so attractive in a young girl as her enthusiasm over every new pleasure, and it makes all of us want to help her to have a good time. Besides, looking like a clothes horse is a dead giveaway that you are one of the women who are all dressed up and have nowhere to go.

Avoid the photographer with the candid camera as your would the evil one himself, for he will get you if you don't watch out, and the picture of you taken at a rowdy picnic with your head on some man's chest and his arms around you that seemed so funny at the time won't strike your fiance as humorous when he sees it.

Don't take Summer love seriously. Don't believe anything that a man says to you on a moonlight night, with the violin sobbing in the distance and the whole world bathed in romance. He doesn't mean a word of it. He is just playing up to the scenery and he expects you to take it that way and enjoy the little sentimental interlude and forget it.

And, for Heaven's sake, don't overdo romance and elope with some Summer lad you never saw before and about whom you know nothing. Just remember that Summer addles the brain and melts down our resistance and makes us do fool things that we would never dream of doing when cold weather has sort of solidified our senses.

Never wish yourself off on some one as a Summer visitor. Wait not only until you are asked, but until you are urged to go to a friend's house. The telegraph, the telephone, the radio and the United States mail are still functioning and there is no trouble in any one who wants you letting you know it.

When you go visiting, take along everything you are going to need. There are no such pests as borrowers. And keep out of your hostess' kitchen and away from her electric iron. Fall in with every plan that is made for you and appear to be enjoying yourself, whether you are or not. Stay at home if you are on a diet or if you don't like children, or can't play golf or bridge, or if you can't swim.

And finally, beloved, don't flirt with your hostess' husband or son, or take her daughter's best beau away from her. That isn't cricket. Try these rules for your vacation, and happy landing.

DON'T TRUST THEM

NON-VULNERABLE opponents are none too trustworthy. They are in a position to take risks of considerable degree in order to try to fool you into mis-guessing the true situation. It doesn't pay to base your own plans and activities too much on information their bids seem to give.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

When South bid 1-Diamond here, West doubled. North put in a bid of 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, North 3-Diamonds and South 3-No Trumps.

That same contract was reached in various ways at all tables of a duplicate game and was easily made at all except one. At this table, when the club 8 was led, South decided that for his double West held possibly four hearts and at least three spades to the queen.

The first club trick was won with the 9 and the diamonds A and K cashed. When West showed out on the second round of diamonds South, reading West for the spade Q, led the spade J, but to his surprise East captured the trick. Having no clubs, he switched to a heart and South, completely in the dark then as to West's holdings, ducked. West won and ran his remaining clubs. If South had disregarded the double and played in the normal way, he would have made the contract.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"I got inside the moon-house through the chimney," Mr. Punch went on, smiling over at Knarf and Hanid, the shadow children with the turned-about names. It was a very strange story he was telling them: How Susie, the cow, had jumped up to the moon just because a cat had started playing a fiddle. Mr. Punch, you see, had been sitting on Susie's back when she jumped. So he got up to the moon, too.

"Yes," Mr. Punch went on, "I slid down the chimney. Susie slid right after me. For a few minutes it was pretty dark. Then all at once we both dropped into a large room. A man with a bald head was sitting in a chair reading a book. He looked up when we dropped down to the floor. 'Hullo,' he said. 'Where are you from?' 'We're from the earth,'

"I suppose your friend is a cow."

I answered, getting up. I helped Susie to her feet and brushed her off. 'O-ho,' said the man. 'I suppose your friend is a cow. Is she the cow who's supposed to jump over the moon?'

"'She is,' I answered.

"'Well,' said the man, 'I'm glad you've decided to pay me a visit. I'm all out of milk.'

"'Susie can give plenty of milk,' I said.

No Place For It.

"'I'm the man-in-the-moon. I'm very fond of milk. Only—well, to tell you the truth, I never have any place to keep it in.'

"Ah," said Mr. Punch, "I had an idea. 'Come.' I said to the man-in-the-moon, 'let us go outside.' So he took us outside through a special door. When we reached the garde I pointed up at the sky where a the stars were shining. 'There,' said to him. 'There's just the pla for you to keep the milk."

"He looked up. 'Why,' he ex claimed in surprise, 'that's the dip per.'

"He reached for it, but he cou not reach it. So he asked for mi anyway. So I finally gave him quart of it. And what do you sup pose he did? He couldn't get th dipper down to it, so he got it int the dipper. He just threw it int the sky."

"O-oh."

"And it streaked all over the sky You can see it there yet. Th call it the Milky Way."

"And is that how the Milky Wa first came about?" the two shadow asked Mr. Punch.

He nodded his head and smiled "That's how I always say it cam about. Of course, there may b other ways. But I don't kno anything about them at all."

Costume Is Ideal For The Traveler

For Traveling on vacation by plane, train or motor, you must be smartly dressed. Just any old dud won't do. With modern conditions as they are, you should arrive spick and span as you start. And here is a secret of the well-dressed traveler: wear something dark—black, brown, navy, whichever is most becoming. "Dark" doesn't mean heavy, of course. If you are journey in a hot zone, select one of the triple-sheer fabrics—silk or rayon—that do not crease or show soil. A dress and jacket are perfect. Look at the one above. You will love it. It is in rayon, the dress semi-tailored, collarless and buttons in front.

Williamina Hall Evening Bride

A lovely wedding was solemnized Friday evening at 7 o'clock in All Saints' Church, Rev. J. D. Paterson officiating, when Williamina (Wilma), daughter of Mrs. E. G. Kelly and the late Wm. W. Hall, 615 Chamberlain Street, became the bride of George Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Jay, 258 Aylmer Street.

A profusion of pink peonies, Sweet Williams and daisies were used to decorate the church, and the wedding music throughout the ceremony was played by Mrs. W. A. Logan.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Harry Butler, the bride was charmingly gowned in turquoise blue sheer worn with white accessories, and carried a bridal bouquet of pale pink roses and baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Miss Sybil Hall, was bridesmaid, and wore pale pink sheer with white accessories. Her bouquet was of pale pink roses and blue cornflowers. Mr. Albert Jay, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Hooper's Palm Room, where dinner was served to about forty guests.

Mrs. Kelly, mother of the bride, received in a gown of white sheer and wore a corsage of sweet peas and roses. Mrs. Jay, mother of the groom, received with her, wearing navy and white, with corsage of sweet peas.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a pink sheer dress with white accessories, and white coat. On their return the couple will live on Romaine Street.

Woman Is In Line As C.C.F. Leader

VANCOUVER, June 25—(CP)—Possibility British Columbia might soon have the first woman party leader in the British Empire was advanced today by Co-operative Commonwealth Federation spokesmen as the British Columbia branch completed plans for its annual three-day convention opening July 1.

These spokesmen said naming of Mrs. Dorothy Steaves, member for North Vancouver, as leader of the C. C. F. group of seven in the provincial legislature might be a compromise selection. The said she might be chosen if difficulty were found in deciding between the other two outstanding condidates — Dr. Lyle Telford and Harold Winch, both representing Vancouver-East in the legislature.

Mrs. Steaves, 43-year-old, was born in Holland, of Dutch and English extraction. She graduated from Leiden University in that country, and during the Great War worked as a legal advisor to the Netherlands government.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

The games were in charge of Rev. J. M. Young, and at the tea hour refreshments, including a treat of ice-cream, were served.

Those present included: Eunice Ronald, Merle, Isabel, Wilfred and Jessie Moncrief, Betty Eggleston, Joyce Deyell, George, Russell, Ethel Mae, Esther, and Grace Johnston, Lily, Ruby and Emily Kerr, Mrs. Robert Irwin and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. S. Tully, Mrs. M. Moncrief, and Mrs. Vincent Millen.

Jeanne Harvey Weds Eric Westbye

A profusion of daisies, blue delphiniums, peonies and ferns were the lovely decorations used at Murray Street Baptist Church, where the marriage was solemnized at 2 o'clock this afternoon (Saturday) of Jeanne Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Sherbrooke street, to Eric Orrman, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Westbye, Dennistoun Avenue, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiating.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Arthur Collison, and during the signing of the register Miss Olga Westbye sang "Beloved, It Is Morn."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was lovely in a gown of pale pink embroidered net with full, bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil of pale pink net fell in graceful folds from a Juliet cap of forget-me-nots, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Misses Marion and Viola Harvey, sisters of the bride, frocked in matching gowns of turquoise net, made with many tucks, puffed sleeves, and tiny bolero jackets. They were wide-brimmed leghorn hats trimmed with blue bows, and carried bouquets of pink roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Allan Heideman was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Philip Amys and Mr. Max Comstock.

A reception following the ceremony was held at Walkerfield House, where the bride's mother received in a gown of hyacinth blue marquisette with hat of dubonnet, and corsage of red roses and valley lilies. The groom's mother received with her, wearing turquoise blue triple sheer with hat of navy mohair and a corsage of sweet peas and valley lilies.

For travelling the bride wore a grey suit with midnight blue accessories. On their return the couple will live in Peterborough.

$45,000 A DAY!

FORTY-FIVE thousan' dollars is a good deal of money, yet Canadians spend more than that every day, six days a week, 52 weeks a year in the purchase of their local daily newspapers.

This voluntary expenditure of approximately $14,000,000 a year for daily newspapers is convincing evidence of the essential service they perform.

No other media can present such conclusive proof of reader interest and coverage.

Ferguson Urges Canada To Back Britain

TORONTO, June 25.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Canadian High Commissioner to London, issued a veiled warning to the United States last night that if world peace were to be established, Great Britain would have to get a little more co-operation from the United States, as well as from Canada, in carrying on as she has in the past.

Although the former Premier of Ontario made no direct criticism of United States foreign policy, he did not hesitate to tell delegates to the nineteenth annual National Convention of the American Pulp and Paper Mill Superintendents' Association that Great Britain was today carrying the burden of establishing justice and freedom as the basis of civilization.

Urges Peace Bloc

"I have long, long waited for co-operation for peace," he declared. "And I'm by no means proud of the part Canada has been playing; I'm rather ashamed of her recent policies," he said.

Benefits of Imperial relations between Britain and Canada, he said, were all one-sided, with Canada side-stepping her responsibilities. "If Canada is to maintain her present role, how long can she remain an integral part of the Empire" he asked.

Appealing for a combination of the world's free democracies—France, Britain and the United States—that would say to the rest of the world: "You will behave yourselves," Mr Ferguson contended if the English-speaking nations stood together, "we'd hear no more of war."

"The danger today is born of greedy avarice on the part of semi-civilized peoples who follow the old, barbarous doctrine of might is right,'" he said.

Mr. Ferguson said he was greatly pleased with the attitude of Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

"No country in the world can be neutral in these days when distance means nothing," he asserted.

"We can't make progress in this country, and neither can you," he told his American audience, "until peace is established. How are we going to do it? By a co-ordinated effort for peace by all democracies, or by leaving the task to a group of them?"

Griffith, at present Reeve of Belmont and Methuen Township. There are four children: Edith, Winnifred, and Warden, at home, and Mrs. Fred Rutherford of Belmont.

fair discrimination and argued the exemption should either go back to the start of the income tax or begin from the present. Mr. Ilsley did not agree.

Eliminate Loan Shark

A debate on small loan companies occupied the hour for private bills with W. A. Tucker (Lib. Rosthern) who urged the government to promote co-operative credit unions as a means of "eliminating the loan shark."

The debate arose over a bill to amend the charter of the industrial loan and financial loan and finance corporation but no progress was made. Thomas Vien (Lib. Outremont) who sponsored the bill, was the second speaker and he was still on his feet when the hour expired.

John R. MacNicol (Con. Toronto-Davenport) objected to continuation of the practice, provided for in the elections act, to have polling divisions under control of supporters of the political party in power.

Mr. MacNicol charged that "many injustices have been done in Ontario and perhaps elsewhere" because only the party in power is represented in polling booths at general elections.

He suggested that the party in power and the one which ran second to it in the last election be represented at all polling booths.

All the principal states of the United States now followe dthe two-party system, he said. The reason was that there could be no collusion in connection with ballot stuffing, ballot switching or impersonation. Canada was the only country retaining the system of one-party control of polling division.

"Where both the deputy returning officer and the clerk are of the one political party many injustices have been done in Ontario and perhaps elsewhere," Mr. MacNicol said. "It is not necessary to mention the scores of instances. It will be done again until the two officers within the poll are of different political parties."

Pensions Minister Power, piloting the Bill through the House, promised consideration of the Toronto Conservative's suggestion and the section was allowed to stand.

A number of Social Credit and C.C.F. members objected strongly to that section of the Bill which bars from the vote those who are inmates of provincially maintained indigents for the poor. Further consideration will be given these and other sections to which objection was raised.

The question of staggered polling hours aroused considerable debate. It was proposed to fix different hours in the various time sections, so that the closing hours would be nearly equal.

Thomas Reid (Lib. New Westminster) would retain the old system of having the polls open from eight to eight o'clock local time, but objections came from other quarters that this method enabled publication of returns in the East while the vote was still being polled in the West. The section was held over for later decision.

Would Allow Proceedings Against Crown

SASKATOON, June 25—(CP). — The law society of Saskatchewan in convention here passed a resolution urging the Dominion parliament and the provincial legislature to enact remedial legislation permitting institution of proceedings in the ordinary courts of the province against the crown as though the crown was a private person.

The resolution adopted yesterday asked for such rights for "the subject" in all matters whether concerned with contracts or with civil wrongs resulting outside of contracts.

"The need for reform is growing greater," said W. M. Hall, K.C., of Saskatoon. "Every day the crown is going into some new realm of business and competing with the subject in private business. The crown is building highways, maintaining them, operates a province-wide system of telephones, an over-extending public utility system, the power commission, owns and operates hundreds of motor vehicles, carried on business by commissions and boards —all of them operating under the immunity from ordinary judicial process."

"Practicing lawyers everywhere have found how difficult it is to explain to a client that the crown is privileged and immune from ordinary judicial process. The doctrine illustrated by the maxim "the King can do no wrong," is, in fact, incomprehensible to the average layman," he said.

was given to Inspector Robert Anderson of Ossington Avenue Station and immediately a search was started for the three men. At 12:15 while track officials were preparing for another afternoon's sport, Detective Silverthorn met the alleged keyman as he entered the gates. At first he denied having been away from the track, but later admitted that he had been absent an hour and a half. He refused to say where he spent the time.

He was then questioned concerning the two men who had been looking for him, and he denied all knowledge of them. Silverthorn then took him into custody and he was quietly removed from the track and taken to the police station.

Mutuel Plant Guarded.

But the police took no chances. The entire mutuel plant, the one under the main grand stand and the one in the infield, as well as the general offices where the money is kept in a safe, were under constant supervision of dozens of detectives and plainclothesmen. They were ready for any trouble, but nothing happened. The popular oval conducted another day's racing and only a few officials and the police knew of the situation.

Money taken in at the mutuels is kept overnight in the office safe and two special duty guards are always stationed there on all-night duty. This guard has been reinforced. If the trio had in mind holding up the plant at night, it would have probably meant a gun fight between them and the guards. Knowing the type of men who were planning the crime, police believe they would have stopped at nothing to secure a rich haul.

Council Frowns On Special Tax For Gas Stations

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25. — A verbal report of the views of the legal committee in the matter of the town signing an agreement with the Deparament of Highways was given at a special meeting of the council on Thursday evening, when an engineer from the Department of Highways discussed the matter with members. The difficulty so far as council was concerned rested in the clause whereby the government levied a special tax on gasoline stations operating along the highway, and with two service stations being affected if the agreement was signed it was not the disposition of council to place this penalty on the two owners affected.

Councillor McColl made a motion that a by-law be presented at the next meeting together with resolutions outlining the suggestion for special consideration in the matter.

Among the suggestions was one to have the course of the highway re-routed by way of Canrobert Street so that it would not affect the service stations in question, but to this proposal Mayor Long offered the criticism that other merchants on the west side of the town would be opposed to such a move, and therefore that no such action should be taken.

Application for the use of one of the streets by the Garage Operators' Association who are conducting a safety lane here on July 4 and 5 was granted.

House Of Commons Member Asked To Reveal Source Of Gun-Shortage

Revealed Knowledge Of Matters Covered By The Official Secret Act Asked To Tell Source Of Information

LONDON, June 27 (CP Cable).—A grim menace from the Official Secrets Act hung over a startled House of Commons today. It was Duncan Sandys, son-in-law of Winston Churchill, who raised the issue. And Mr. Sandys told a story which promises a sensational sequel.

Mr. Sandys recently had questions to ask in the House with regard to an alleged shortage of anti-aircraft guns and instruments. In this connection, Mr. Sandys sent Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, some figures on the shortage to which he had referred. Except for a formal acknowledgment from the Minister, Mr. Sandys received no reply.

On Thursday—Mr. Sandys told the astonished House—he received a letter from Sir Donald Somervell, Attorney-General, asking him to call. Sir Donald Somervell told Mr. Sandys that in the opinion of the War Office he had revealed a knowledge of matters covered by the Official Secrets Act and asked Mr. Sandys to reveal his source of information.

Sir Donald said Mr. Sandys was under legal obligation to do so. Mr. Sandys inquired what would be the consequences if he refused. The Attorney-General read Clause VI. of the Official Secrets Act. (This requires any person, under a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment, to reveal any information in his power relating to an offence or suspected offence).

Consulted Speaker

Mr. Sandys requested Sir Donald not to press for an immediate reply while he took advice. The member then consulted the speaker of the House of Commons. Captain E. A. Fitzroy, and asked the speaker's permission to raise the question in the house. On being informed of this, Mr. Sandys continued, Sir Donald said "I had been under a misapprehension if I had thought

Japan Is Warned To Stay Off Hainan Island

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Great Britain and France have warned Japan to stay off Hainan Island, off the south China coast, and will act to support each other in case "complications" arise, the government informed the House of Commons today.

Richard Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, made the announcement.

Hainan, Chinese territory, is separated by the 150-mile-wide Gulf of Tonking from French Indo-China and commands the eastern aproaches to that colony.

Answering a question as to whether the British government would support France in regard to the security of Indo-China, Mr. Butler replied;

French government q-Rpeh.- yeobus

"His Majesty's government and the French government, through their ambassadors at Tokyo, have made clear to the Japanese forces and government that they would regard any occupation of Hainan by the Japanese forces as calculated to give rise to undersirable complications.

"Should any complications unfortunately arise, His Majesty's government and the French government would no doubt afford each other such support as appears warranted by the circumstances."

Oddfellows Honor Dead

A highlight of the annual decoration day service of the Oddfellows held Sunday afternoon at Little Lake Cemetery was the placing of a beautiful floral tribute shaped in the lodge emblem, the triple link on a cross to honor the memory of departed members from lodges outside of the city of Peterborough. In (2) Stanley Gillespie and Alderman Bob Cotton are shown placing the tribute. Both are members of outside lodges. The parade which included about 200 members from the two lodges, Otonabee and Peterborough, are shown in (1) passing down George Street headed by the Salvation Army Band. In (3) one of the groups is shown decorating one of the nine grave sections, and George Hall is in the act of placing a lovely bouquet in a container. Principals in the impressive service are shown in (4) from Left to Right: the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, pastor at Knox United Church, who preached the sermon in the cemetery; James Price, general chairman of the decoration day committee; Richard Ford, P.D.D.G.M., and acting Noble Grand, who had charge of the Lodge service, and at the Extreme Right is Joseph Lancashire, chaplain for the service. Two British Ships Fired, Several Seamen Killed By Spanish Aerial Raiders

Lying In Ports Of Valencia And Alicante Ships Are Attacked In Air Raid German-Made Planes Are Used

VALENCIA, Spain, June 27 (AP).—Bombs from aerial raiders today smashed and fired two British ships in the ports of Valencia and Alicante.

Several seamen were killed or wounded.

The first victim of the attacks was the freighter Arlon in the harbor at Valencia. She was set afire and a Rumanian member of the crew killed.

A short time later a bomb crashed on the steamship Farnham in the port of Alicante, killing or wounded an undermined number.

The Arlon was reported sinking opposite Nazaret Beach, a mile from the port of Valencia, where she was towed after the bombing. A British officer aboard was said to be wounded.

Three bombs from six Junkers (German made) planes set the Farnham afire. The planes dropped 40 bombs on the port.

Government pursuit planes gave chase and anti-aircraft guns replied to the raid with heavy fire. One government plane had to abandon the fight because of the danger of being hit by shore batteries, but the others drove the junkers away.

Arm Merchant Vessels.

LONDON, June 27——(AP) Questioners in the House of Commons, aroused by the bombing of two more British ships in Spanish ports, tol day urged that merchant ships trading to Spain be armed with anti-aircraft guns.

Prime Minister Chamberlain replied that "a good many difficulties" stood in the way of such a move. Answering a question by Philip Noel Baker, Labor, he said "further consideration of the suggestion has revealed additional difficulties."

Asked if the government would suggest to the Spanish non-intevention committee that merchantmen be supplied with machine-guns to defend themselves against low flying attackers, Mr. Chamberlain explained that had been considered but added:

"I am informed that fitting of merchant vessels with anti-aircraft equipment would require structural alterations."

From the conservative side of the house, Sir Walter Smiles suggested anti-aircraft guns require "only very light equipment."

Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition: "May we gather by the Prime Minister's answer that it is impossible to fit anti-aircraft guns to British merchant ships now or at any time and so British merchant ships cannot be defended against aircraft in event of war?"

Mr. Chamberlain: "That's not what I said. I did not say it is impossible. I said it could not be done effectively without structural alterations."

Queen's Mother Laid To Rest

GLAMIS, Scotland, June 27—(AP)—The Countess of Strathmore, mother of Queen Elizabeth, was buried today in a Rhododenron-lined grave on the estate of Glamis Castle, storied home of the Strathmore family.

The bereaved queen walked part of the way from the castle to the burial plot, but the rain became so heavy that she, her father and other members of the family took a motor car for the remainder of the distance.

The King, however, walked the full distance, about a mile, bareheaded.

All Glamis village was in mourning for the 76-year-old countess, who died in London Thursday with the King and Queen at her bedside. Blinds were drawn across the windows. Every man and woman wore black.

Queen Mary and other members of the royal family attended a memorial service in London at St. Martin's-In-the-Fields.

England Drops Early Wickets

LONDON, June 27 (C.P. Cable).—Playing between showers near the end of the day, England lost two valuable wickets for 39 runs in its second innings against Australia at Lord's to-day. The antipodeans' first innings had netted 422 in reply to their opponents' total of 494.

LONDON, June 27 (C.P.). — Australia's innings in the second cricket test match at Lord's was concluded to-day with a total of 422 runs, giving England a lead of 72 runs. Play was curtained for some time by rain that fell in the early afternoon.

In the long battle for runs that started shortly before lunch on Saturday W. A. Brown, one of the opening batsmen, defied England's bowlers until the end finishing with 206 not out for his first double-century against England.

Pope Pius Prays For Unity Of Canadian Nation

QUEBEC, June 27—(CP)—A new, inspiring page in the tradition-steeped history of this ancient Capital was written Sunday by 300,000 Roman Catholics in one of the greatest religious demonstrations ever held in Canada.

From the four corners of the Dominion, and from the New England States, the thousands of Catholics gathered this afternoon, several hours after they heard Pope Pius XI broadcast from Rome a prayer for understanding and unity among the people of Canada, for the closing ceremony of the countrys first national Eucharistic Congress.

In Hallowed Ground.

The closing procession from Quebec Basilica, along the three-mile, brilliantly decorated route to the Plains of Abraham, once a field of bitter battle, and now hallowed ground from which arose prayers of praise to the Prince of Peace, was an unforgettable sight.

A hundred thousand priests, men and boys, many with lighted candles in their hands, prayed and sang the solemn chants of the Church as they walked, eight abreast, under the 12 arches representing Canada's Ecclesiastical Provinces, between narrow sidewalks lined with spectators, standing four and five deep on either side.

Standing under a burning sun the 200,000 on the sidewalks watched the procession move slowly from the old Basilica, shell-scarred during the siege of Quebec by the British in 1759, to the big repository on the Plains of Abraham, where the papal legate, Cardinal Villeneuve, celebrated Benediction. The Holy Eucharist which he carried from the church to the plains was placed in a seven-foot monstrance on the flower-banked altar.

Cardinal Carries Host.

The Cardinal, walking under a white silk canopy carried by six gloved men and holding before him the Sacred Host in a golden monstrance, left the Basilica, Mother Church of the Catholic Temples of Canada and the United States, two hours after the procession started at three o'clock.

The bells in more than 50 city churches rang 10 minutes before the long, impressive procession started. At exactly 3 o'clock the Bascilica bells tolled and the head of the procession moved off.

Spectators not only jammed the sidewalks along Fabrique, St. John, St. Foy, Des Braves Avenue and St. Louis Road, but hundreds of others had taken up positions in the windows of stores, houses and grandstands erected along the flag and bunting-decorated route.

Some carried portable seats; others sat on the curbstones. Crowds also thronged the slopes of the city walls at St. Johns Gate in the heart of the city, once a limit of the town founded more than three centuries ago by Samuel de Champlain, who brought mission-

Black Squirrels In Little Lake Cemetery Steal the Dinners of Several Workmen

A WORKMAN at the Little Lake Cemetery and a black squirrel joined hands last week in a criminal act that forced another workman at the grounds to work throughout an entire day without any lunch.

The workman who was victimized was a new employee, and was advised by the squirrel's right hand man, to leave his lunch box open in the shade of a tree so that the moisture of the lunch might be conserved. Alas when he returned at noon he found that the squirrel had raided the open box and consumed everything except the thermos bottle and the paper wrappings. Two days later the man spotted six lunch boxes huddled near the base of a large tree, and with the memory of the trick rankling in his mind, walked quietly over and opened all six. The first squirrel to arrive must have sent a clarion call for aid to the army of nut chewers in the cemetery for when the noon hour arrived and the laborers hurried to their lunch boxes, they found to their sorrow that the tin boxes, like Mother Hubbard's cupboard of old wear bare, not even a crust remaining, and the lone workman wearing an innocent look and a hidden grin munched his dinner with peace in his heart.

County Council Is Most Critical When Superintendent Fails To Put Woman In House of Refuge

Orders Are Orders In Spite Of Marital Intentions Of John Deremo, Mr. Fry Finds

The marital intentions of the more or less uxorious John Deremo again engaged briefly but rather sharply the county council in its closing sessions Saturday afternoon. Earlier in the week it was asserted that Mr. Deremo had "kidnapped" his housekeeper, Hattie Williams who is said to be an old age pensioner, from the House of Refuge, west of Lakefield, bringing her back to his temporarily neglected household in Douro township. Instructions were issued to Louis Fry, superintendent of the House of Refuge, to have Miss Williams returned forthwith to the institution.

The council's insistence was not actuated by any strong desire to have her remain there as an inmate. They simply required that her leave-taking should be official and orderly, and not according to the notions and plans of John Deremo. But, when Mr. Fry called on him to gather up Miss Williams and take her back to the County Home, Deremo said he was getting a marriage license, arranging for benefit of clergy, and all the proprieties would be immediately observed. The ceremony would have taken place on Saturday but for a restriction of three days' delay before the knot would be tied. So, Mr. Fry went back to the Home, probably feeling relieved of a situation that had already caused him more irritation than he had encountered in many a month.

But, it turned out at the council meeting Saturday afternoon that orders are orders, and apparently Mr. Fry hadn't read the Message to Garcia or its counterpart in the rule of the Mounties. With broad sarcasm Warden McDonald remarked: "Probably, the council should invite Mr. Fry to come down and tell us what we should do. It looks as if we've got the tail wagging the dog," which perhaps had no reference to the canine colony favored by Mr. Deremo, according to information from Reeve Coughlin of Douro that Deremo still has seven or eight dogs in his establishment.

Stratford Man Is Having Hard Time Protecting His Cherries

Stratford, Ont., June 27.

A RESIDENT HERE whose proudest possession is a cherry tree is having a difficult time with cherry-eating robins. He has tried wire netting, and burning charcoal; then when a scarecrow failed to frighten them away, he sat there himself. All failed. Now he has a set of bells rigged up with a boy ringing them. It has had some success.

Gunman Slain In Battle With Troopers

JOLIET, Ill., June 27 — (AP) — State Policeman Joseph Gromann reported today one kidnapper-gunman had been slain in a cornfield near Deselm and his companion wounded in a 20-minute gun battle with officers.

Gromann identified the dead man as Ray Leach, age and address not learned immediately, and the wounded man as James Biekke, 24, of Indianapolis.

Illinois and Indiana authorities had been searching for the desperadoes since Sunday night. In a few hours the fugitives had critically wounded an Indiana state trooper, kidnapped two Indiana deputy sheriffs, engaged in three gunfights with Illinois officers and abducted an Illinois farmer and his small son.

Gromann, of La Salle, said his squad sighted and pursued the fugitives' car near Deselm.

The desperadoes' car became mired in mud, Gromann said, and they abandoned it to hunt refuge in a cornfield.

Gromann said he and his two companions pursued the men across the field, firing several times, and drove them into the range of another posse of officers. The second squad brought the gunmen down, Cromann said.

Gromann said that in the mired car they found James Novy, 38, and his four-year-old son, who had been abducted by the gunmen near Wilmington even as a force of some 100 officers searched for them.

A bullet proof vest was also found in the car, Gromann said.

Hunt For Gold Is Nearing An End

HALIFAX, June 27—(CP)—Treasure hunters on Plum Island, 20 miles from this Nova Scotia capital, expected today that within a few days they would reach the end of their search—gold hidden by the 17th century buccaneer, Captain Edward Swede, or an empty cavern.

The searchers, led by James P. Nolan, were within three feet of the cave discovered by a diamond drill last February. They prepared for another dynamite blast which would admit them to what they believe is the treasure store of the pirate who terrorized the West Indies two centuries ago.

The story of the gold is that about 1669 Captain Swede was on his way to Sweden with ches of doubloons when he was in danger of being intercepted by British men-of-war. He ran into Shad Bay, on the south shore, and buried the treasure on the island, the story says.

But the British captured him and an English judge sentenced him to hang. Before his execution his wife was allowed to visit him and he told her the secret of the cache.

Slays Wife And Sons

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 27—(AP).—Joseph Krason, proprietor of a north-end bakery, killed his wife and two sons in their home to-day, Medical Examiner H. R. Deluca said, and then took his own life by gas in a fit of insanity.

Cooler Weather Causes Drop In Death Toll

TORONTO, June 27 (CP)—Cool winds that dropped temperatures as much as 30 degrees in some parts of Canada halted abruptly weekend plans of hundreds of persons for motoring or swimming.

As a result of the week-end's toll of fatal accidents was but 14, six fewer than the year's high mark reached a week before. Nine were killed in other ways. Three persons died of injuries suffered in accidents several days before.

Six-year-old Shirley Hand of Toronto was killed at Unionville, just north of Toronto, when hurled from the window of an automobile driven by her father as it collided with a truck. At Mount Albert, in the same district, John McConvey of Toronto was killed in the collision of his car with a truck.

Injuries suffered when the car in which she was a passenger skidded on wet pavement proved fatal in hospital to Mrs. Herbert Mallory of Mallorytown, Ont. Her son was seriously injured as the machine capsized in a ditch.

Man's Neck Broken

Allan Karnes, 22, of South Walsingham township, Norfolk county was killed when his automobile hit a bridge and plunged over an embankment. His neck was broken by a door that flew open and struck him as he fell out.

A 70-year-old Indian, Abran Nelles Douglas of Echo Place, was killed at an intersection at Brantford, Ontario., Saturday night by a motortruck driven by Norman Loube of that city. He suffered a fractured skull and shock.

A fractured skull received Saturday resulted in the death of Leopold Brisson, 18, of Montreal, in hospital last night. He was a passenger in a car which left the Montreal-Lachute highway, crashing into a tree stump.

One of several injured in the same accident, Miss Theresa Theriault of St. Rose, Que., suffered fatal hurts in a car crash at the foot of a hill near Edmunston, N.B. Stella Zibloski, 18, died in hospital at Kenora, Ont., of injuries suffered Thursday when she jumped from a speeding automobile. The car's accelerator jammed and the girl became frightened.

Dies From Injuries

At Montreal Saturday Charles H. Tremblay, 25, died in hospital of injuries received 12 hours earlier when the car in which he was riding missed a curve and crashed into a fence.

Skunks Move In

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 27—(CP)—A colony of skunks has made its home underneath a home here and the residents are considering seriously the possibility of moving until the skunks do. Seven have been seen together at one time. Often there will be a skunk on the front doorstep, and the family has to wait until it decides to leave, before they can go in or out.

Breaking Up "Big Business" Recommended By Leaders

WASHINGTON, June 27 (A.P.)—General agreement that many large corporations ought to be broken into smaller ones, it was disclosed to-day, has developed in the conversations between groups of big businessmen and United States Government economists.

Prentiss L. Coonley, who left a New York brokerage firm to arrange the informal meetings, said they had produced almost unanimous acceptance of these principles:

1—"Bigness" isn't always efficient, and generally a consolidated business Colossus doesn't earn as much money as its units earned separately.

2—Business must find methods of taking care of dismissed employees more adequately.

3—Cutting prices doesn't always increase the volume of sales, because buyers wait in hope of further concessions.

These, Coonley said, were just a few of the things that brought no argument from either side. It's proof, he declared, that when presumably hostile men get to know each other, they are not nearly at such odds as they had imagined.

Three Being Held

SUDBURY, Ont., June 27.—(CP)—In their search for J. I. Glick, Sudbury fur dealers, and his confederates in a suspected illicit fur buying ring, police have arrested three men on charges of illegal possession of beaver and otter pelts. The three were brought here to-day.

Boston Is Noted For Fine Hockey League, Its Pork And Beans

Kitchener, June 27.

THE 1938 summer season of school boy howlers is well under way. The best here was an answer to the question of what is Boston noted for. The answer: "Boston is noted for its fine hockey league and for pork and beans. Porky Dumart plays there."

Veteran Fireman Killed In Fall

STRATFORD, Ont., June 27 (CP)—Veteran member of the Stratford Fire Department, William S. Reed, was killed today when he stepped from a moving car on No. 7 highway about three miles east of the city, and was thrown to the asphalt pavement.

Reed suffered a severe fracture of the skull and other injuries.

Reed, having the day off work, planned to make a trip to Toronto via a motor transport line. Having missed the transport in Stratford, he had hailed a ride from Maxwell Good.

It was estimated by Provincial Traffic Officer Charles Anderson the car was going about 25 miles an hour when the accident took place.

Britons Taking No Chances Build Underground Shelters

LONDON, June 27 (CP).—A new type of building boom, a boom with little outward evidence of activity, is sweeping the populous centres of Southeastern England. Britons are feverishly building underground, large and small abodes of refuge, grim precaution against the possibility of another war.

Mindful of the havoc wrought to life and property in Spain and China, the British people are fully cognizant of the vulnerability of their homeland to modern air attack. They fervently hope war will not come, but cautiously are taking no chances.

In the Metropolitan area of London, with its teeming millions, the subterranean building and other defensive preparations are most pronounced.

Building Shelters.

Entirely apart from government-inspired air-raid precautions measures, large employers of labor, the small businessman and householders in London are constructing shelters against the menace of bombs and poison gas. Most of these safeguards have been taken through individual enterprise, but the A.R.P. organizations and local authorities are also lending assistance to those unable to carry out the work themselves.

Special precautions have already been taken to protect Buckingham Palace against bombs and gas. In the event of an air-raid, members of the Royal Family could take refuge in special air-conditioned and reinforced rooms in the palace cellar.

Man Shoulders Log Which Contained Mother And 21 Rattlers

Adel, Ga., June 27.

ALBERT MUSIC grinned when fellow workmen shouted as he shouldered a hollow log. It sounded like some joke. But the shouting grew and Music dropped his burden. From one end curled a five-foot rattlesnake. Bystanders killed it. Then out crawled twenty-one small ones which the mother was shielding. They, too, were killed. Music's grin also died.

Seek Large Grants

WINNIPEG, June 27—(CP). — Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta Minister of Public Works, said grants totalling more than $1,000,000 for a large program of public works in Alberta will be sought from the Dominion Government. The minister passed through Winnipeg during the week-end, bound for the capital.

Big Agenda Awaits Final Week

Hope To Prorogue By End of Week Abandon Legislation

OTTAWA, June 27. — (CP).— With prorogation in sight toward the end of the week, the House of Commons will meet to-day to wrestle with a heavy program of legislation. Members expect to finish work by Friday or Saturday.

But before they reach that goal there is much to be done. The government's housing bill, the new electoral bill, the omnibus bill to amend the criminal code and expected legislation to place penitentiaries under a three-member commission all must be considered together with estimates.

To assure an early closing of the parliamentary session the government has dropped any idea of implementing the recommendations of Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, who conducted a Royal Commission probe of grain marketing. General legislation to govern small loan companies also is being abandoned.

Both the Senate and the Commons will start three daily sittings to-morrow, adding a morning session lasting about two hours.

Greater interest in the Senate lies in the report of the special railways committee which probed the railways problem for several weeks.

Hope To Break Deadlock.

A conference is to be held Wednesday between committee of Senate and House members in an attempt to break the deadlock between the two Houses over the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act.

An amendment passed by the Commons provided that the Act could be repealed in any province by action of the Dominion Cabinet. The Senate changed this to repeal it at the end of the year in all provinces but Alberta and Saskatchewan. The House has rejected the Senate amendment and the Upper House so far has insisted on its position. The conference may reach a compromise.

Members will leave Ottawa at the end of the week with possibility existing they will be called back late in the fall for the fourth session of the 18th Parliament if a Canadian-American trade treaty is negotiated.

The session, possibly starting in October, would be a regular one rather than a special session. A long adjournment probably would be taken over Christmas.

All possibility of a general election this fall seems to have disappeared. While there was talk of one early in the session there have been no developments to substantiate the rumors.

Revenue Minister Ilsley probably will pilot the Housing Bill through the Commons, substituting for Finance Minister Dunning, who suffered a slight heart attack last Wednesday. While he is making good progress, his physician, Dr. F. W. C. Mohr, said the last night he doubted Mr. Dunning would return to the House before prorogation.

Small Eskimo Lad Is Confirmed

QUEBEC, June 27.—(CP).— Little Simon Ayarwark, seven-year-old Eskimo lad was confirmed by Mgr. Arsene Turquetil, Vicar Apostolic of Hudson's Bay, in a ceremony in St. Sauveur Parish church here yesterday.

Young Ayarwark came all the way to Quebec from Chesterfield Inlet to be present at the National Eucharistic Congress with his father, Jean Ayarwrk, and another Eskimo, Alphonse Kollijerk.

It was feared ealier in the week the boy would not be able to come to Quebec for the Congress because of illness he contracted in Montreal. He recovered, however.

Fewer Pictures Be Seen At Tory Convention John MacNicol Rules

Ottawa, June 27.

THERE will be pictures of eight people—and no more—in the official program of the National Conservative Convention here July 5, 6 and 7, says John MacNicol, M.P. for Toronto-Davenport, and organizer.

The 1927 Winnipeg Convention program contained scores of photographs. But some who thought they should be in weren't. And some thought others in it shouldn't be there.

"So now we'll miss the grief," says Mr. MacNicol. "The pictures will be of the eight Conservative premiers since Confederation."

Pattullo Asks Transients Kept From B.C.

VICTORIA, June 27 — (CP) — Premier T. D. Pattullo said in a prepared statement on Saturday that he had advised the Dominion Government that "further transients must be prevented from coming to British Columbia."

The Premier's statement, issued as 400 Vancouver unemployed moved down Vancouver Island from Nanaimo to join 100 others already here, continued:

"Transients who are now here and who are unable to look after themselves, are doing injustice to bona fide residents of British Columbia, and I again advise them to accept the offer which was made by our Government for transportation back to the places from which they came.

Denies Responsibility.

'British Columbia does not accept responsibility to provide either keep or work for transients.

"While primary responsibility for unemployment relief rest with the Dominion, we accept responsibility for full co-operation with the Dominion in regard to bona fide British Columbia residents but we cannot undertake to provide for all and sundry who come here and are unable to look after themselves."

Colin Cameron, C. C. F. member of the British Columbia Legislature for Comox, interviewed the Premier.

A statement he issued after the meeting said he told the Premier that unless the Provincial Government changed its relief policy it would "eventually be obliged to use force."

Cameron's statement said he was 'apprehensive of the result of using force because of the tempers of the coal miners and loggers of Vancouver Island."

"Up to Pattullo."

The Relief Project Workers Union intended to bring 1,500 men here, if necessary, and he said he believed help from all parts of Vancouver Island as well as Victoria would 'keep the men from starving."

"But as soon as we have 1,500 here we are going to put the thing up to Pattullo," Campbell said. 'If he won't do anything and says the responsibility is not his, we are going to ask him for transportation to Ottawa."

Provisions have also been made for the safety of other members of the royal household.

The Bank of England and every metropolitan branch of that institution have also been provided with shelters, stores of gas masks and decontamination chambers. Warning sirens have also been installed and specially-trained members of the staff assigned to shepherd employees and customers in case of emergency.

Gas Masks Stored.

Experts are studying the feasibility of planned evacuation of a large percentage of the civilian population in the more thickly-settled areas. Millions of gas masks have been stored in central distribution depots. Special bags and respirators are being tested for the protection of infants and children. Safeguards are also being planned for livestock and poultry and large scale measures have already been announced regarding storage of emergency food supplies. Britain does not intend to be caught napping.

Circus Packs Up and Heads For Its Winter Quarters

SCRANTON, Pa., June 27 —(AP) —The traditional code of the sawdust ring—"The show must go on"—went into discard today as the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus packed up to move prematurely to winter quarters, its 1938 tour ended by a strike of 1,600 workers.

An agreement was signed Saturday night to return the show to Sarasota, Florida, by the circus's director, 34-year-old John Ringling North and Ralph Whitehead, head of the American Federation of Actors. The union had refused to accept a 25 per cent. cut of the contract wage scale which North said was necessary for the show to go on.

The big-top and other tents came down this afternoon as the canvas men and roustabouts went back to work, assured of contract wages until the equipment is stored for the season at Sarasota.

Soon after the agreement was signed, North was served with summonses requiring him to answer two suits started by the union charging him with violation of the three-year contract he signed with the union a year ago.

Whitehead told North he was "sorry to see the circus go back to winter quarters, because so many people would not have employment."

"I'm sorry, too," North said, "but I offered the union officials an opportunity to look over my books and see for themselves that we were not making money. But they refused."

Earlier Mayor Fred J. Heuster had ordered the show from the city because of the insanitary conditions existing at the grounds. The circus tour came to a halt in this anthracite city last Wednesday as the deadline North had fixed for the pay cut was reached.

Railway Workers Refuse Cut

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP)—Two thousand railway workers — including delegates representing 26,000 other railroad employees on 12 roads—were pledged today to strike rather than submit to a wage reduction.

At a meeting yesterday protesting a proposed 15 per cent wage cut, they adopted resolutions endorsing a strike if necessary to avert the reduction, and condemning railroad management and high salaries for executives.

"We are not in sympathy with this sort of mismanagement and certainly in no mood to donate to the railroads 15 per cent or any part of 15 per cent of our present inadequate wages," the strike resolution read. It was forwarded to the officers of the railway brotherhoods.

He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital here.

he had been threatening me with use of his powers of interrogation under the official secrets act."

The attorney general subsequently gave Mr. Sandsy his assurance there was no question of his using the power of interrogation under the official secrets act. But Mr. Sandys still was not satisfied and held that the issue raised an important question of parliamentary privilege.

"I submit," Mr. Sandys concluded, "that a situation has been created which is unsatisfactory and uncertain for all members of the house. I venture to ask you guidance, Mr. Speaker, and ask you what steps should be taken to clarify the interests of all concerned."

Sir Donald's Story.

Sir Donald, giving his story of the incident, said on Thursday Mr. Hore-Belisha told him that the communication he had received from Mr. Sandys showed that, in the opinion of the general staff, there had been an unauthorized disclosure of information on the part of someone, with a serious breach of the official secrets act.

The Attorney General was asked whether he would see Mr. Sandys and point out the legal position to him and ask him whether he was prepared to assist in tracing the disclosure by giving the source of his information.

Sir Donald saw Mr. Sandy and put the legal position to him. The member asked in what capacity Sir Donald was acting. He replied he was not threatening him with his powers under the Official Secrets Act. Whether these powers should be used had not been considered.

"I decided," the Attorney General added, "and it was my own decision without consulting anybody else, this was not a case in which these police powers of interrogation should be exercised."

Make Position Clear.

Speaker Fitzroy ruled that the importance of the issue demanded that the position of members under the official secrets act should be made clear.

"In my opinion the proper course is for the honorable gentleman (Sandys) to give notice of a motion in suitable terms, so that the house may fully discuss the question and decide what action, if any, it proposes to take," the speaker said.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's reply, to which Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, agreed, was that time to discuss the motion should be given. Mr. Sandys then gave notice of a motion calling for the appointment of a select committee to consider the incident together with the applicability of the official secrets act to members of the house in the discharge of their parliamentary duties.

At the conclusion of Australia's innings there was another shower, delaying England's return to the wickets.

No French Aid Given To Chiang Kai-Shek

TOKYO, June 27—(CP-Havas)—The recent anti-French campaign of the Japanese press yesterday was criticized sharply by Tokyo's diplomatic representative in Shanghai, Masayuki Tani, in a conference with Japanese newspapermen.

Tani, who recently returned from China, told his compatriots that during his stay he had never heard any talk of French aid to General Chiang Kai-Shek. The diplomat declared moreover he could not understand where such rumors arose.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 27 — (CP). — Winnipeg wheat futures sagged two cents to-day in listless trading with threat of rain in Western Canada the dominating influence. At the final bell quotations were 1¾ to 1 lower, July $1.05⅛, October 85⅞ to 86, November 85a, and December 83¼ to ⅛ cents.

Failure of Chicago to hold early advances of more than a cent and the rain forecasts discouraged buyers and only a few selling orders were required to push prices down from early gains of ¾ cent.

Steel Prices Are Reduced To 1928 Level

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP). — United States government monopoly investigators disclosed today, on the heels of a price slash by United States Steel Corporation, that "big steel" probably would be the first company hailed to public hearings.

They said they expected to start hearings in September. In the meantime, data will be gathered and preparations made for the most extensive inquiry of this generation into trusts, price-fixing and allied subjects.

It was learned that Edward R. Stettinius, youthful chairman of the steel corporation, had talked informally about steel prices to several of the new deal members and "trust-busters" within the last week.

Stettinius was reported to have conceded that prices of steel companies were fairly uniform, but to have denied collusion. He said that when United States Steel sets a price, its competitors frequently follow the example, and that when another company sets lower prices the others do likewise for competitive reasons.

Hope To Stimulate Demand

United States Steel announced yesterday a cut that returned steel prices to about the 1928 level. It was made, a company statement said, with the hope it would stimulate demand for steel products.

The price reductions were made by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, largest unit of United States Steel, and Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, a southern unit with headquarters in Birmingham.

A suggestion that the monopoly inquiry be aimed primarily at determining means of breaking up artificial price structures came from Senator Borah (Rep-Idaho), one of the 12 congressional and administrative members of the investigating board.

Borah said he considered price-fixing. Either by a single monopolistic concern or a group of large concerns within one industry, the "kernel of the nut" of the monopoly question.

Need New Approach

The Idahoan, who has campaigned for new anti-trust legislation for many years, said he thought a new approach to the problem must be taken.

One suggested "new approach," it was learned in another quarter, is a system of separate laws for different types of industry. This has the backing of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, another board member. Borah and Senator O'Mahoney (Dem-Wyoming), probably chairman of the group, have proposed a system of federal licensing of corporations as a means of enforcing anti-trust policies.

The monopoly investigating board will organize formally early next week.

Two Hundred Relatives Attend Annual Larmer Family Reunion

Presentation Made Arnold Larmer As Retiring President

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 27. — The large-well-shaded lawns surrounding the hospitable family homestead of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Larmer, Cavan were fittingly chosen as the gathering-place of the annual Larmer reunion this week, over two hundred guests being present from Ottawa, Montreal, Sudbury, Oshawa, Peterborough, Copper Cliff, Baltimore, Blackstock, Cameron, Millbrook, and other points of the surrounding countryside.

Races for the children, who were there in unusually large numbers; ball games for the adult guests, and only once in the year has this numerous family connection the opportunity of meeting and greeting its widely-separated members, filled the time happily, the fine weather which fortunately prevailed, being a much-appreciated feature of the reunion.

There was no formal program arranged, but brief addresses were made by the retiring president, Arnold Larmer, of Oshawa, and the vice-president, R. I. Fallis, of Millbrook, and explanatory remarks were given by the secretary-treasurer, Margaret Larmer, at whose home the gathering was held. The election of officers resulted in R. I. Fallis being promoted to the president's office, and Ernest Larmer, of Blackstock, taking his place as vice-president for the current year; the efficient secretary was unanimously re-elected.

The presentation of prizes was a pleasing feature of the afternoon, that for the oldest guest present going to J. D. Armstrong, Fourth Line, Cavan; for the oldest lady guest to Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, of Montreal; and for the youngest child in attendance two prizes were given, one to Verna, six-months' old baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Larmer, of Burketon, and to Arlene, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Rosevear, of Tyrone.

As a mark of appreciation for services faithfully rendered the retiring president was given a handsome silk belt, with silver mountings, and the secretary-treasurer a brooch; silver spoons have been gifts to the youngest child in previous years, but this year it was decided to change this to a case containing a silver knife and fork.

Tables for the abundant supper were laid to the west of the homestead, where there was plenty of lawn space, early summer blossoms adding to their attractiveness, and a bevy of young folk attended to the wants of the hungry guests.

Community singing and dancing, with music supplied by Mrs. Ted Larmer, and Mary Larmer, completed a most enjoyable occasion. Cecil Larmer, of Peterborough, who each year prints the invitations in artistic form, was warmly thanked for his important contribution to the annual reunion before the afternoon's program was brought to a conclusion.

Bird Chased Peddler

SALT LAKE CITY, June 27—(AP)—A tiny hummingbird with a lot of courage is guarding the front porch of the J. H. Jackson home. The bird built a nest atop a porch light-globe and is attempting to hatch two eggs. "She just sits there peaceful as can be until somebody starts to come up on the porch," said Mrs. Jackson. "Then she darts out at the visitor. Yesterday she chased a peddler clear out of the yard."

Romance Is Denied Single Men Controller Claims

WINDSOR, Ont., June 27—(CP)—Romance is denied the single man on relief in Ontario while other countries are offering bonuses for increased families, Controller George Bennett said at a Veteran's Forum meeting last night deploring present relief conditions, in Ontario.

Bennett charged that it was impossible for young girls to "remain decent on $12 a week salaries, while an entire family is being supported on her wages.

The controller declared the offer of a Windsor woman—Mrs. Annie Middleton—to sell the cornea of one of her eyes for $6,000, is "an indictment against our so-called civilization."

Mrs. Middleton, 40-year-old mother of five children, offered the cornea of her eye Wednesday to anyone who wished to buy it for $6,000. She said she was "fed-up" with being on relief and wishes to re-establish her family. So far she has received no offers.

Only communication she has received was from George Luther Middleton of Pickering Township, who asked in a letter if her husband was born in Yorkshire. Mrs. Middleton far from being discouraged at lack of offers, believes it will "take a little time for the news to get around."

The family including her husband, an unemployed baker, has been quartered in an abandoned dance hall over a garage.

Child Is Centre Of Controversy

TOO OLD AT FIFTY?

There are far too many men and women in the forties and fifties who think they're "beyond" enjoying work or play. What a mistake! Just when you're old enough to know how to enjoy yourself, to give up because sluggishness and general unfitness make you feel "not up to it"!

Take a look at wealthier people. Do they give in to middle-age? Not likely! They try to keep themselves in the pink of condition until advanced old age; bodies young, minds alert.

How do they manage it? Many by taking the waters at famous Spas. But I can't afford to go to Spas, you'll say. You don't have to, now. Similar benefits of Spa waters can come to you! The combination of the elements of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium in Fynnon Salt gives you remedial effect similar to that which wealthy people go miles to get from Spa waters. "Salts of the Earth" break up the painfully pronged Uric Acid crystals—aid in removing poisons from your body—help stimulate the liver to do its job thoroughly again.

Chinese To Make New Breaks In River Dikes

SHANGHAI, June 27—(AP). — Chinese were reported to-day from Hankow to be planning new breaks in Yellow River dikes to hamper the Japanese invaders.

With Japanese already forced by floods to withdraw their major forces east of Chengchow on the Lunghai Railway and to plan an attack from the west through the Shansi Province, General Chiang Kai-Shek's strategists were said to be contemplating cutting the dikes west of the city.

Anticipating letting loose a buffer of water such as flooded Honan Province, they were said to have constructed a loop railway from the Peiping-Hankow line at a point south of Chengchow to the Lunghai line near Loyang, their field headquarters.

It was expected a new flood would cover some of the Peiping-Hankow line south of Chengchow and make it useless.

Advices from missionaries at Chengchow said the Chinese strategists had paid each adult $1.77 and each child 71 cents in the vicinity of the dikes and then ordered them to evacuate before deliberately letting loose the Honan Province flood.

Refuse to Leave Areas.

Loss of life was reduced, but many refused to leave and remained in the flood-ravaged districts, in danger of starvation.

Chengchow had 120,000 flood refugees, and Chungmow 20,000.

But before resorting to a new flood Chinese were pressing the recapture of as many towns in Shansi Province as possible before the new Japanese offensive gets under way.

They claimed to have surprised Japanese garrisons in villages near Linfen, 60 miles north and east of the Yellow River, and forced the invaded to withdraw inside the walls of the city, leaving 200 dead.

In Shantung Province Japanese planes bombed inside the walls of Hwangshien, 70 miles west of Chefoo, and Japanese warships twice shelled Lungkow on the north coast of Shantung.

Masayuka Tani, Japanese "Minister-at-large" to China, flew to Tokyo. He said there was "no significance" to his trip.

Cambray Club Presents Play

(Examiner Correspondent)

JANETVILLE, June 25.—The annual Garden Party which was held at the Park on June 22nd under the auspices of the Sunday School of the United Church was an outstanding success.

The main attraction of the afternoon was a game of baseball between Mount Horeb and Janetville which ended in a win for the home team.

The supper tables made an attractive appearance with their floral decorations and appetizing viands. Later when all had been served the crowd assembled at the large C. O. F. Hall where the Dramatic Club of Cambray presented their most popular play "For Petes Sake."

Rev. M. A. Bury, Pastor of the United Church was chairman for the evening and in the first church intermission Rev. W. H. V. Walker pastor of the Presbyterian church was heard in a short address of a complimentary nature.

Harry Christian favored with a number of songs playing his own guitar accompaniment. The proceeds of the day were most encouraging, amounting to 135.00.

Crops Flattened By Heay Rain

A heavy rain which swept across the district Saturday afternoon flattened some wheat and oats but the damage was not extensive. An area extending southward from Baillieboro to Bewdley was said by farmers to have been subject to the heaviest downpour, and in Otonabee and Douro townships several fields of spring grains which had a heavy yield were flattened a little by the force of the rain.

Farmers report the moisture came at an opportune time for both grains and fruit, which had showed signs of drought after four days of near scorching heat. The strawberry crop which has been particularly good will be increased by the extra moisture while the raspberries will be adanced materially.

Seventy-five per cent. of the alfalfa and sweet clover in the district is cut and farmers claim the hay crop will fall below the average yield. Timothy is not so good as in other years, being held back by the coolness of the nights.

Spring grains are well advanced for this time of the year, and in all parts of the county, farmers are optimistic that the yield will be exceptionally good.

Driver Is Charged As Hit and Runner

Alfred Johnston, 19, of 229 McGill Street faced a charge of hit-and-run driving before Magistrate O. A. Langley K. C. in police court this morning.

The charge arose out of an accident on Park Street near Romaine Street on Saturday afternoon when it is alleged that Helen Payne nine-year-old daughter of Maxwell J. Payne, 89 Park Street was knocked down by a car driven by Johnston while she was crossing the street.

Johnston is said to have told the police that he saw the girl walk to the sidewalk after being hit and did not think she was hurt.

Afterward she was taken to the hospital suffering from head injuries and for some time a fracture of the skull was feared. Later it was ascertained she was not seriously hurt.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for Johnston and a plea of not guilty was entered.

There was a remand until Thursday, bail being fixed at $500.

Driver Escapes Death At Rouge River

"It is a miracle he is alive," doctors stated after an 18-ton transport truck, driven by Jack Thompson, of Toronto, plunged through guard-rail of the Rouge River bridge, 11 miles from Toronto, and hurtled 75 feet to the bank of the river. The wreckage of the huge transport is shown, INSET, with a view of the bridge from which it dropped. Thompson suffered severe fractures of the pelvis, an injured spine and head, but was conscious when extricated from the wreckage.

WHO OWNS CANADA'S BANKS?

Who are the owners and what do they do?

JIM BROWN, carpenter—your next-door neighbour—may be one of the supposed "Big Shots" who own the banks in Canada. He may own a couple of shares, or maybe only one.

Women, executors or trustees of estates, and retired people, comprise about 63 per cent. of the shareholders in one of Canada's banks, taken as an example.

Analysis of this particular bank, which may be regarded as typical, shows that women own nearly half of its shares. Farmers, merchants and professional men are the most numerous of the classes listed.

There are 260 occupations represented among the shareholders. They include:

Accountants, actors, barbers, bankers, bee-keepers, boat-builders, bricklayers, carpenters, cheesemakers, clergymen, dairymen, dentists, doctors, drovers, druggists, farmers, fishermen, forest rangers, funeral directors, grocers, insurance agents, jailers, journalists, linotypists, lobster buyers, miners, oil operators, plumbers, policemen, railway employees, ranchers, sailors, scalers, sheriffs, stenographers, stevedores, timber cruisers, tobacco farmers, trappers, and others.

These are among the folks who own the banks and so must be a part of that bogey with which some people seek to scare you—that fabled "international bankers' ring". They are mostly Canadians—your fellow-citizens—decent people like yourselves.

50,185 people hold the 1,445,000 chartered bank shares issued. Seventy out of every hundred shares are owned in Canada.

The average share-holding is 28.8 shares—but all through the lists of bank shareholders you will find hundreds who own from one to five shares.

There is no concentration of ownership and power in the hands of any small group. These shareholders annually elect directors. There are 172 directors of Canada's chartered banks. Their addresses dot the map of Canada from coast to coast. They are men of proven business ability; their own success has proved their judgment good; that judgment is always alert in safeguarding your money.

Their business experience reinforces the skill and training of the salaried bank executives in conserving the interests of the depositors, note-holders and shareholders.

Loans to bank directors, firms in which they are partners and loans for which they are guarantors, as of February 28th, 1938, did not exceed 1/100th part of the total loans made by the chartered banks. That is about the usual proportion. Monthly returns have to be made to the Government showing these borrowings.

No director may vote, or even be present at a meeting of the board when loans in which he has any interest are under discussion.

The law prevents a bank from doing certain things. A bank is prohibited from lending on mortgages, for loans must be of short term and quickly realizable.

A bank is forbidden to engage in trade. It must not buy, or lend against its own shares or the shares of any other chartered bank. No bank, bank director, or bank employee is allowed to hold shares in the Bank of Canada.

A bank must not let its name appear on certain prospectuses, nor may any of its staff represent insurance companies.

There are heavy penalties laid down for violation of any of these and other provisions of The Bank Act.

Your bank provides machinery for carrying out adequately the most widely varying, day-to-day transactions—financing farmer or factory, merchant or miner; simplifying business, facilitating the exchange of goods and services.

Canada's chartered banks are owned by your fellow-citizens, directed by men known as competent leaders of business and managed by able men risen from the ranks whose whole business life and experience has been in the bank.

They are at your service.

She's Tired of Relief

It is rather a strange story which comes from Windsor telling of a woman who is willing to sell one of her eyes for $6,000. There are cases she believes where grafting one of her good eyes would save vision for some other individual, but so far she admits there have been no offers of $6,000 for an eye.

The woman is Mrs. Annie Middleton, 40 years of age, and she came from Scotland some years ago. Her husband is a baker but he has been out of work and for three and a-half years they have been on relief. Mrs. Middleton explains she is tired and sick of living on relief, and believes that if she could secure $6,000 something could be done to put the family on a self-sustaining basis.

We hear plenty about families and people who scheme and plan to get on relief lists, and when they succeed it is difficult enough to dislodge them. But here is Mrs. Anne Middleton of Windsor, already on the relief list for three and a-half years and she is willing to part with the sight of an eye in order to get off. We do not regard the Windsor story as a freak, but rather as evidence that Mrs. Middleton at the moment can think of nothing more desirable than being able to pay her own way.

A Waste of Energy

Jean Lussier used to be a salesman in Springfield, Mass., and then it occurred to him it would be more interesting to ride over Niagara Falls inside a rubber ball. He built one six feet high and in 1928 over he went.

And now he is going to try it again, claiming he has built a larger ball, eight feet in diameter, and he has some sort of flaps built on the side which will spread out and act like a parachute when going over the Falls and they will tend to lessen the force of impact when the ball lands at the bottom.

Just where Mr. Lussier makes his living out of this sort of business is something we do not know, but it appears he must be putting in a lot of time and energy on something which amounts to very little. He demonstrated ten years ago it was possible to go over Niagara in a rubber ball, and we doubt whether the world was any richer for his demonstration.

If he could demonstrate how a man could wear a pair of trousers for a month without showing bags at the knees he would be doing something worth while.

Betting a Hat

How does the most of British Columbia's timber reach the East? Does it come by rail across the continent, or is it shipped by way of the Panama canal? The answer at the moment is that no person seems to know. That question came up during a discussion before the Senate Railway Committee. Transport Minister Howe was ready to place a small bet that 50 per cent. of it came by rail and Senator A. D. McRae was willing to buy the minister a new hat if his statement were correct.

Of course that's an old habit—betting a hat. Men have settled a good many election bets that way, but when a Grit minister and a Tory senator start betting hats there is a degree of risk involved. It might be the Tory man would select a hat which would look strange when placed upon the dome of the Minister of Transport; the hat which the Senator from B.C. might think was just the thing might be one which would cause people on the street to turn around and gaze and indulge in a mild guffaw as the minister walked down the street. When a man bets a hat he should stipulate that the winner be allowed to select the thing himself with the bill going to the loser.

Teaching For 43 Years

A story from Toronto tells about Miss Emily Smith cleaning out the desk of her school prior to retirement after teaching for 43 years. For the past 24 years she has been teaching in the same room, and always teaching the same class, the junior first pupils. Miss Smith got them when they were young; when they were through with the kindergarten they were passed to her.

Miss Smith could hardly be expected to remember all the children who had passed through her classes as there were about 3,000 of them. When it came to housecleaning her desk the teacher is reported as having been careful in securing a number of the pages which gave the names of many of the boys and girls with whom she had dealt. Many of these children are now parents themselves and their children are now attending the same school.

A person teaching so long in one school has probably never had much time or inclination to try and find if life were successful. But it is a fact that a good teacher in a junior grade has an opportunity to touch and guide the lives of children; has a chance which is probably denied to a good many other people. Miss Smith has had plastic and believing minds with which to work for children above all others are possessed of such equipment.

There are plenty of people grown to adult age today who would if they could pay tribute to the work and influence of some teacher, one who perhaps carried on in some remote corner but who understood her mission in life and appreciated fully the privilege and responsibility which was hers.

Some may read of Miss Emily Smith who taught for 43 years and who handled for 24 years first book students in one room and say "How monotonous!" Others will see in such work an opportunity for sincere service sufficient for a full life's work.

Mystery 100 Per Cent.

There are students of criminology who declare it is impossible to commit what they term the perfect murder. That is, one which will leave no possible clue pointing to the criminal.

That claim has been disputed, and if one has any interest whatever in mystery there was a case at or near Guelph within recent months which seems to qualify for honors in the mystery class.

In spring there was the body of a man found and it was evident he had been dead for several weeks. A pair of trousers was knotted around his neck and authorities were inclined to believe there had been foul play.

At that time there was not a thing to identify the dead man; nothing in his pockets and no marks on his clothing. Nor has it ever been established who he was. There have been no reports of a missing person answering his description.

To add to the mystery the announcement is now made as the result of the sitting of a coroner's jury that it is not known how he came to his death. So in the end it is the case of an unknown man having died from unknown causes. And that is the perfect mystery.

Should Be An Answer

A. B. Hyndman, M.P. for Carleton, made a frontal attack on the cost of commissions during the debate at Ottawa. He listed the amount which has been paid for commission recently, mentioning the following:

Textile commission	$180,000
Grain marketing	114,000
Penitentiaries	90,000
War veterans assistance	326,000
Coal commission	23,000
Lobster fishing	4,000
Dominion-provincial (to date)	68,000
Total	$815,000

Mr. Hyndman was inclined to be carefully critical of the allowances which some of the commissioners received. He found several of them were receiving in addition to salary, living allowance at the rate of $35 per day. The member for Carleton said he had made inquiries at the Chateau Laurier and he could get an excellent room with bath for $6 per day; he allowed $1 for breakfast, $2 for lunch and $3 for dinner and $2 per day for tips. The total of such expenditure would be $14 per day, and if one were so minded he could live in Ottawa for less than that.

Mr. Hyndman's point was that if he were drawing $35 per day for living allowance and could do very well on $14 per day at the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa, he would be able to put $21 per day in his pocket. We are inclined to believe that when a member of parliament raises a point like that in the House it is something which should be attended to. If there is an explanation then it ought to be given.

There is nothing mysterious about living expenses; it is a matter with which every family in the country has to contend, and it is also something about which every man and every housewife in the Dominion knows a great deal. It is quite different to dealing with the cost of a bridge or the expense of dredging a river, because most people know little or nothing about such matters. But they do know a good deal about the cost of living and when a commissioner draws a living allowance of $35 per day and the amount is openly challenged in the House as being too great, then the Government would be well advised to pay immediate attention to the issue. Our own belief is that the amount is greater than is necessary.

Where Millions Fail

Now and then there have been references in the newspapers to the married life of Count Haugwitz-Reventlow and Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions. Apart from anything which may have appeared dealing with the enormous wealth of the Countess there is actually something worth considering in the trouble which is now threatening to wreck this union.

There is a son in the family, a little chap who has hardly passed out of babyhood. The mother who lives in London desires that he shall be educated in England, and the father, who is Danish, wants the boy to be brought up in his country.

We have a way of appraising wealth and position, and it may be when it was announced that an heiress had married a Count then all would be well. There would be plenty of money, plenty of travel, plenty of everything that money could buy. The money is well invested and carefully administered so there is not the danger of it vanishing. One might say a family like that was insured from the start against ever being hard up or financially embarrassed.

The money is still in existence; there is plenty of it, but the lawyers of the two sides of the family are now in consultation. The wife and son are in London while the father and husband is on the continent. We hope not—but it looks like the making of a wreck.

There has never been any need of these people having to pull together; never have they had to sit down of a Saturday night and figure out how the expenses for the week were lining up with what the husband had been able to earn. They have never had to go down town and look in the store windows and see something they needed and then plan how long it would take to save enough to get it. Never have they felt that little touch of accomplishment when they have been able to add a few sticks of furniture to their possession. They had so much of everything that there was nothing about which they had to plan and nothing for which they had to sacrifice.

We believe it is harder for people like that to live happily than it is for those who have only a limited amount of financial support. When people have little they have to pull together and that keeps them together; the discipline of their circumstances is upon them always; when a child comes to the family then the parents know it is an added responsibility and together they start thinking in terms of the child's future.

In a union where the problem of finances has been entirely wiped out all the helpful family problems are wiped out at the same time. It is much easier to disagree because there is not so much about which they have to agree. Those millions of dollars which Barbara Hutton inherited have not been able to buy for her that one great thing—happiness.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are waiting for Premier Hepburn's report to the Legislature to get the official slant on the Louis-Schmeling fight.

Joe Louis who stopped a war with Germany in 2 minutes and 4 seconds, should be asked to do something about the situation in Spain.

Several farmers attending meetings at the O.A.C. in Guelph report having their pockets picked and perhaps that's a sign of returning prosperity.

One Liberal bolted on the budget vote but it is understood that Premier Mackenzie King has made a speedy recovery from the shock.

They're trying to gang up on Premier Aberhart in Alberta and that seems to be prima facie evidence that he is still strong in his own province.

The International Red Cross wants to stop the bombing of civilians from the air and we hope a copy of the resolution has been sent Tokyo.

Ontario is spoken of as a possible outlet for Alberta oil. It should be of Alberta coal too, but the trouble is we have not yet recognized the importance of using Canadian-produced fuel.

A Harvard expedition has found unmapped mountain peaks in the heart of Alaska and as far as we are concerned the members of the party are quite welcome to what they found.

New Brunswick Automobile Safety League will enrol a voluntary police force of 2,000 members to report dangerous driving practices. We would have trouble in Ontario getting that many with eyesight good enough to read the 1938 markers.

Peterborough County has come into possession of 2,665 acres of Crown lands in the townships of Dummer and Belmont, the purchase price being $3,000. When the project was first approached the price mentioned was between $7,000 and $8,000. When we have any purchasing to do it might be good policy to turn the matter over to the County Council.

PINK SEDAN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My pink sedan I know is old, it should be traded in or sold, at times it will not go; when other cars go tearing by, though I am travelling in high, my pink sedan seems slow.

¶ And when I'm doing the best I can, I know that some fast speeding man, will honk his horn at me; for he is stepping on the gas, and telling me he's going to pass, that's plain for me to see.

¶ And when I'm going off any place, I must allow two hours of grace, a cautious move of mine; I start off early in the day, and keep right on about my way, so I will be on time.

¶ And yet I like my pink sedan, it works well with my safety plan. I seldom have to toot; for when my car begins to run, folk far away can hear it come, and they begin to scoot.

¶ I know it rattles quite a lot, makes noises like it shouldn't ought, the gears have too much play; but people pause each time I come, and timid ones will start and run, I have the right-of-way.

¶ No traffic cop has bothered me, to swear I went at sixty-three, my record stays quite high; my pink sedan is full of flaws, and with it I can't break speed laws—no matter how I try.

Says Expenses Away Too High

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. A. B. HYNDMAN (Carleton): What about the cost of these commissions? First of all, there was the textile commission, which cost the country $180,000. That commission was headed by Mr. Justice Turgeon, who also conducted another inquiry. Apparently the government ran out of Liberal judges because Mr. Justice Turgeon was placed at the head of two commissions. He was appointed two years ago to investigate the textile industry and only the other day did we receive the report. Then there was the grain marketing commission. That cost the country $114,000, and all they did was to go over to the old country, for the purpose of obtaining a market for grain, and when they came back they found there was no wheat to sell. Then there was the penitentiaries commission which cost $90,000. They have brought in a report based on the evidence of convicts in the different penitentiaries, and they suggest that we should appoint another commission. The war veterans' assistance commission cost $326,000; the commission on coal, $23,000; the commission on lobster fishing, $4,000; and the national employment commission, $295,000. The dominion-provincial relations commission, from August 14 of last year to February 10 of this year had cost $68,800.

Looking at the answers put on Hansard to certain questions asked, I cannot understand how these commissioners spend the money and why there has not been some control by the government over some of these commissions. I find one commissioner with a living allowance of $233 a month, or $7.50 a day. He must have been starving himself according to some of the payments made to others. I find a lawyer with travelling expenses of $107.60. I suggest that, from the fees the lawyers received, their travelling expenses and living allowances, $107.60 is not very high compared with some of the other figures. I have investigated living expenses at the Chateau Laurier, and I find that I can get a really good room there with private bath for $6 a day. A good breakfast costs $1; a good lunch a la carte, $2; a good dinner, $3; and one can possibly get along, in the way of tips on $2 a day. That means $14, and yet some of the commissioners are allowed $35 a day for living expenses. In other words, as far as I can see, they are putting $21 into their pockets. Yes; we find a commissioner getting $35 a day, and yet the Minister of Labour can allow these workmen in Vancouver who are on relief only 75 cents a day. We find that one lawyer who is a K. C. is paid at the rate of $200 a day, while his assistant who is not a K.C. gets $50. But what strikes me as very peculiar is the living expenses. One lawyer gets $200 a day, and it costs him just twice as much as his assistant to live because he gets $20 a day for living expenses and his assistant receives $10. Why the difference? Is it on account of the "K.C.?" What does the "K" stand for? Does it stand for "Mackenzie King"?

The next commission is an interesting one. It has a chairman and two commissioners. I cannot understand why, if the chairman can live on $25 a day, and one of the commissioners can live on $15 a day, the other commissioner needs $35. Then we come to the two lawyers, two assistants. As I have remarked, the "K.C." must mean a tremendous lot, because each of the lawyers is paid at the rate of $150 a day, with travelling expenses.

I cannot understand these travelling expenses at all. Consider the case of another commission. The commissioner has a bill for travelling expenses of $17 a day; one lawyer receives in fees $27,000 odd; the other lawyers gets $32,000; but the living allowances to the lawyer in receipt of the lesser fee are $30 more than those to the other lawyer, and his travelling expenses are $476.19 more. Can anyone figure that out?

Here is another one. Travelling expenses are getting higher. For the life of me I cannot understand how these men travelled. Here is a commissioner who, according to this report, was travelling for thirty-nine days. For those thirty-nine days he received $2,825.69. That figures out at $72 a day for travelling expenses. If anyone can tell how he has been travelling, I should like to know. I have inquired at the railway station, and I understand that for about $72 to $75 I could go from here to British Columbia. It takes more than one day to go that far. Yet this commissioner is getting $72 a day for travelling expenses. One of the lawyers, a K.C., who got $200 a day, has travelling expenses of $983.69. His assistant was getting only $50 a day. Presumably he said to himself "I must make it up in travelling expenses", because his travelling expenses amount to $1,231.72. These are things I cannot understand and should like to have explained.

The last commission I want to mention is the national employment commission. Its cost ran very high In 1937 it cost this country $147,569.72, and in 1938 practically the same amount, namely, $147,926.94.

I wonder what the farmers in western and eastern Canada, the men and women who are out of employment, and the school teachers getting only $700 a year, think of all this.

A STRANGER TO TRUTH

(Linotype News)

WHEN THE newspaper world was 100 years younger, newspaper writers sometimes called a spade a spade in lilting and unrestrained phrases. As a case in point consider this cozy little item, which originally appeared in the New Orleans Picayune, June 28, 1837, the year that paper was established:

"He is without exception, the most notorious liar in all Mississippi. He lies out of every pore in his skin. Whether he be sleeping or walking, on foot or on horseback, at church or in the grog shop, talking with his neighbors or writing for the newspaper, a multitudinous swarm of lies, visible, palpable and tangible, are buzzing and settling around him, like flies around a horse in August."

• His Own Son Was A Criminal

St. Thomas Times-Journal

AS A MEMBER of the Chicago police force it is the duty of Ernest L. Keene to prevent crime and arrest criminals. He had a son, Harold, aged 23, whom he knew to be living a life of crime. Harold carried a gun which he did not hesitate to use in his "work," and the police traced the hand of Harold Keene in 26 robberies. Harold's wife knew her husband's movements and she informed the police where he was to be at a certain hour and date. Seven police officers were lying in wait for him. They told the father to keep out of the way. The seven policemen closed in on the youth, who reached for his gun. Before he could use it he was riddled with bullets. The police told his wife. "I expected it," she said. They telephoned his father. "The work is done," he commented, "as I knew it must be."

It was a tragic hour for the policeman-father. Being on the inside of things he could have given his son the tip to keep out of the way. As a policeman he knew his colleagues had their duty to do. He knew from experience the risks they ran from gunmen; many of them had been killed by young, ruthless rascals such as his son was. He did not want his son to kill any of his comrades. The boy had made his bed and must lie on it. If Harold matched gun against gun he must take his chance. It must have been an anguishing hour when the father knew Harold was walking into a police ambush. His son was only a heartbreak anyway. Even if it was best that the showdown must come it was a hard thing to let his own flesh and blood meet the inevitable fate of most gunmen.

Patrolman Ernest L. Keene matches in real life the legends of fathers who have sacrificed their sons. His moral bravery and sense of police duty deserve the utmost of praise—and sympathy.

• Can Do Without Midways

Kitchener Record

IF THE City Council has its ears to the ground, as the Board of Trade appears to have, it will pass favorably upon the request that in future midways be refused a licence to operate in this city. The Record believes that most citizens think the city would be better off without them.

Midways have been tolerated by the city officially and citizens individually of late because, as a rule, they have been tied up with some charitable enterprise. This made it difficult to refuse requests. The time has come for plain speaking. Charity and midways should not go hand in hand. They just do not mix.

All businesses must make money to exist but to continue they must offer deals that are advantageous to the buyer as well as the seller. We doubt if that is the average situation in regard to midways. Some of the component parts of a midway do come under the category while others, in some instances, do not appear to give the ordinary player that fair chance to which he is entitled. One gambling, for that is the plain description, likes a fair run for his money but he often questions whether he gets that.

Merchants claim that business invariably suffers following the visit of a midway, that payments are slower. In other words that proves the contention that many people patronizing a midway really cannot afford to spend their money there.

This spring Kitchener had a midway that was allowed to use a considerable portion of a paved street. True that street is not built upon but the fact remains that outsiders were given a public thoroughfare for a showground, an ideal situation from their standpoint. Private business on a public property is wrong in principle and this should not be repeated.

The Twin City can live very happily without midways and means should be found to finance charitable enterprises other than tying up with these organizations.

• Using the Whip On A Horse

Letter in Montreal Star

SIR,—Did "Animal Lover" ever study the breeds and different dispositions of horses in general? To abolish the whips is absolutely unthinkable. A good horseman does not drive without whip in hand, not necessarily for whipping but in case of a mistake it's in the hand with discretion to use it at the very moment, not some time after. It is needed to pass a point of danger or in a traffic jam. There is no need to be brutal. To talk to a horse and ask him for the best of his energy in a quick moment, to escape an accident where would one be? God only knows. Proper whipping should be done with a whip large enough to reach off and near shoulder points. Now the kind hearted individuals who give horses lumps of sugar with the bit in the mouth little know the damage they are doing. I know this column could not spare space for this explanation. Again a man may be a good salesman but no horseman. He is the company's business man; the horse is the second or third consideration. All companies should be particular to have a man at the head of their stable who knows his business. The company's horses of today are well able to do their work. It's pretty hard to find a horse in Montreal not fit to work. Drinking troughs on the streets today would be dangerous, because the average horse when done drinking backs up, and the average passing motorist does not know or think of the horse's habits. There's a lot to know in horsemanship. ANIMALS FRIEND.

• No Destitute Child Ever Refused

From the Barnardo Press Room

THE responsibility of providing proper and adequate food for growing children is so weighty that Dr. Barnardo's Homes make it the subject for special appeal at this time of the year.

Great as the task is of feeding the world's largest family, Dr. Barnardo's Homes know that it can be accomplished if the appeal reaches the ears of those who have the welfare of children at heart. Dr. Barnardo's Homes realise full well that those who give regular support to the work may have their opportunities for helping lessened during the summer months. Holidays come along, families leave home for the seaside or country and the interest of new surroundings and lack of usual routine and habit tend, perhaps, to overshadow the more serious aspect of life.

So the Homes choose this month of the year to send out a special Food Fund Appeal in celebration of the birthday of their Founder — the Father of Nobody's Children. Every year, at this time, special efforts are made to raise 400,000 half-crowns to pay for food.

By careful and economical management the Homes can provide one child with breakfast dinner and tea every day for a fortnight for 10s. Were four friends to join together as this child's host it would cost them just one half-crown apiece. Hence the half-crown Food Fund.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes are always open to any needy child. "No destitute Child Ever Refused Admission" is the watchword, and since the work began more than 121,500 children have been rescued from misery and homelessness and trained to become self-reliant citizens, an asset to their country and humanity. 30,900 children have been migrated to the British Dominions, where 98 per cent have made good.

Today, the Barnardo family exceeds 8,000 boys and girls, all of whom are being built up from tragic little fragments of humanity into strong, healthy and worthy boys and girls.

Will you join in this work of transformation by lending a hand in the great task of feeding the 8,000 and more children in this family circle? Gifts of one or more half-crowns may be sent to Dr. Barnardo's Homes, 18-26, Barnardo House, Stepney Causeway, London, E. 1., England. Cheques etc. should be crossed for safety.

MILKING CONTEST

(Windsor Star)

A BURLESQUE on one of the fine arts of farming recently took place in Washington, where several corpulent congressmen engaged in a milking contest. Reports are that after fifteen minutes of effort the legislators gave it up as a bad job and called it a draw.

Such was to be expected. Not everyone can milk a cow, and not all of those who can have the ability to do it properly. To those who have had no experience in extracting the lactic fluid from a female bovine, it may seem like a simple procedure. It is, for those who know how to do it, but it is not easy for the novice.

A Bit of Nonsense

PRECAUTION

"How many in your family, Madam?"

"Just my husband and 1."

"No children?"

"No."

"Any cats or dogs?"

"No, sir."

"Have you a radio?"

"No."

"Now, have you any musical instruments?"

"Indeed not. And why, may I ask, all the questions? Is the government taking a census?"

"No, madam. I'm not a census official. I'm just the man who intends to rent the house next door."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND SEEING the multitudes, he went up into a mountain; and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying....

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his saviour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matt. v, 1, 2, 13-16.

What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, and one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body, what doth it profit?

Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone.

Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: show me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.—James ii, 14-18.

To The Editor

RUSSIA REFUSES

Editor Examiner.

Sir: Russia refuses to agree to Britain's proposal to end the war in Spain. Italy had agreed to it. It involved paying the expenses of the combatants during evacuation. It is now quite clear that Britain and the fascist powers will have to come to some permanent agreement if Chamberlain's idea of avoiding a European war is to bear fruit. The fact is peace is no longer possible anywhere unless the peace-makers are prepared to insist upon it.

PERTINAX

U.S. RAIL SECURITIES

(Christian Science Monitor)

MOST STUDENTS of the situation apparently are coming to agree that many railroad securities, just as a matter of economic necessity, are going to have to "go through the wringer." The next session of Congress ought to provide a better bankruptcy procedure so that some real reorganizations can come out of the wringer. Reduction of fixed charges coupled with some reduction of labor costs, would seem to offer the greatest hope of some actual improvement in railway employment, as well as a means of remedying railroad ills all around.

UNUSUAL RECORD.

SINCE CONFEDERATION, a period of seventy-one years, there have been only seven men in the Ontario Legislature from the local riding: Hon. E. B. Wood, Hon. A. S. Hardy, T. H. Preston, W. S. Brewster, J. Ham, Hon. M. M. MacBride and Hon. W. G. Martin. Mr. Hardy's continuous term of twenty-six years is mainly responsible for this showing. It is also without parallel that four of the seven from the one constituency should have attained Cabinet rank, Mr. Hardy also achieving the additional honor of Premier.

KILLED HIS GIRL, REPRIEVED AND DIES WITHIN AN HOUR

Invalid and Nurse Engaged in Suicide Pact—He Failed

DOOMED TO HANG

London.—Sentenced to death nearly two years ago for the murder of his sweetheart in Epping Forest, reprieved a week later, released from Parkhurst prison recently—only to die within an hour.

That was the tragedy of 27-year-old Thomas Albert Clay, of Dagenham, who, too ill to work for 10 years, had entered into a suicide pact with the girl he loved.

He met Phyllis Brace, a 24-year-old nurse, of Papworth Everard, Cambridgeshire, when she was an employee and he a patient of the Papworth village settlement. They fell in love.

As his illness grew worse so their affection deepened. They would talk of marriage . . . but they knew they could never marry.

Death, they decided, was their only way out. They went to Epping Forest, where they took a number of tablets. These were not enough. Clay came to and found the girl he loved still alive. He took a razor out of his case. . . .

She died—Clay declared when charged with murder at the Old Bailey in September 1936—"because she was very much in love with me."

In a note left at her home she wrote: "It is not Tom's fault. . . . I will not let him bear any more pain and I cannot live without him."

Clay showed no emotion as Mr. Justice Greaves-Lord sentenced him to death. The jury recommended him to mercy.

George Lansbury, M.P., visited him in the prison hospital, saw that he had only a short while to live, and made representations.

The result was that Clay was released from Parkhurst prison and driven towards St. Andrew's hospital, Bow, E., to see his father, who has lain there for some months. But at Hammersmith he became too ill to complete the journey and was taken instead to Fulham hospital.

An ambulance was sent for Clay's father, but before he could reach the hospital his son had died—the son he had asked for day after day since the first hope of release.

"It was a tragedy that Clay could not have reached Bow to spend his last minutes with his people around him," said Mr. Lansbury.

MARINE GETS DIVORCE DOCTOR IS CITED

Plaintiff Is Awarded $125 Damages by English Judge

London.—A former corporal of marines was granted a decree nisi and £25 ($125) damages in the divorce court in a case in which a doctor was the co-respondent.

Mr. Justice Hodson summed up in the suit, brought by Frederick Charles French, of Wandsworth, against his wife, Elizabeth Augusta Maud French.

Mr. French petitioned for a decree, naming Dr. Cyril Robert Birnie in the petition.

Mrs. French did not defend the suit.

Dr. Birnie, who was said to hold an appointment at an Epsom hospital, pleaded that at the time he went through a ceremony of marriage with Mrs. French, he was unaware that she was married.

He later obtained a decree of nullity of marriage.

Mr. Justice Hodson said the question whether Dr. Birnie knew whether the woman was married or not had a bearing on the matter of damages.

The jury might regard Dr. Birnie as rather a weak young man who was infatuated with this woman.

Mr. French married in 1924 and had to go abroad in 1925. Mrs. French then made the acquaintance of the corespondent, who was in a different sphere of life.

DEAD FRIEND'S GHOST IS SEEN BY KEEPER

Groundsman Tells Strange Story After Walk Across Field

Bedford — George Pepall, head groundsman of Bedford school, was walking across the school field one day recently when he saw a strange apparition.

Mr. Pepall hurried towards it and was astonished to find that the "ghost" had the appearance of R. W. Rice, a master at the school, who had died a short while before.

This story is told by the headmaster of Bedford school, Humfrey Grose-Hodge, who says that Mr. Pepall had told him about the "ghost."

Mr. Rice and Mr. Pepall were great friends. Both had been Gloucestershire cricketers in their time, the former having recently opened the county innings with Dr. W. G. Grace. Mr. Pepall was a professional bowler for the county.

DAD DIDN'T BELIEVE HIS BABY'S WEIGHT

Chale, Isle of Wight — The 26-year-old wife of Sidney Butcher, of Chale, gave birth to a 15-pound son. The average weight is 7½ pounds.

The father, when told the baby's weight, refused to believe it, and it had to be weighed again in his presence before he was convinced.

Recently Mrs. Best, a miner's wife, of Conanby, Conisbrough, Yorkshire, gave birth to a 14-pound, 4-ounce girl. Last March a 19-pound, 2-ounce boy was born to Mrs. Carl Bailey, of Gastonia, North Carolina.

27-YEAR-OLD PLANE CRASHES IN ENGLAND

1911 Bleriot Machine Was Part of Historic Collection

Weybridge.—A 27-year-old airplane crashed at Brooklands airdrome.

It was a 1911 Bleriot monoplane, which now forms part of R. G. J. Nash's collection of historic flying machines, and Mr. Nash had taken it up for a flight.

At a height of 50 feet, the machine lost flying speed, corkscrewed, and then nose-dived to the ground. Mr. Nash, who lives at Esher, and is a well-known motor-racing driver, escaped with injuries to the chin. He was treated at Weybridge Cottage hospital, but was not detained.

An airdrome official said:

"Mr. Nash's feet were trapped in the wrecked undercarriage, and his chief concern was that the rescuers should not damage the machine too severely in getting him out.

"He insisted that, instead of cutting away the wreckage, they should take the damaged parts carefully to pieces. The damage was confined chiefly to the undercarriage and one wing."

Mr. Nash's "museum" hangar at Brooklands airdrome contains more than 60 old airplanes and motor cars.

FIREMEN REMOVED PIGEON FROM SPIRE

London.—For nearly an hour a crowd watched a pigeon trapped on the 300-foot spire of St. Mary Abbots church, Kensington, and it was not released until the fire brigade hoisted one of its tallest escapes.

While a fireman extricated the bird's foot from a crevice in the brickwork, traffic was held up. The crowd cheered as the pigeon flew away.

MUST GUARANTEE BENEFIT

London.—In future before members of the royal family give support to charity functions, the organizers will have to guarantee a minimum benefit.

Previously royal patronage was almost unconditional, the only stipulation being that the object of the charity was a worthy one. Sometimes, however, the expenses of a function almost swamped the receipts.

HONORING ROYAL BIRTHDAY

Though he was born on Dec. 14, 1895, his majesty, King George VI, of England, celebrates his birthday when the weather is suitable for a public holiday. On June 9, as a royal salute of 63 guns thundered from the Tower of London to proclaim the official event, the King reviewed his guardsmen who had rehearsed for two months for the precision movements essential to the display. He is shown amid the pomp and pageantry, followed by his two brothers, the Duke of Gloucester (LEFT) and the Duke of Kent.

PICKS HIS CELL LOCK WITH HIS SHOE-LACE

Young Fugitive Recaptured After Commandeering Two Cars

Maidstone.—A few minutes before he was to appear before the Maidstone magistrates, Frank Cole, aged 22, of Walmer, escaped from his cell.

Recaptured, he was brought before the magistrates accused of shop-breaking and taking away a car and he told them how he did it.

"I dangled my bootlace in a space between the cell door and the door frame," he said.

"I managed to hook the bootlace over the catch and pull it back.

"Then I reached through an iron grille for a bunch of keys, and unlocked two other doors. I got into a yard and climbed the two walls."

It was alleged that he then entered a motor car standing near the police station and drove to Ashford where he abandoned the car and commandeered another.

Cole was arrested on the promenade at Deal the same afternoon.

When he was taken to the cells at adjournment he was wearing handcuffs.

TO GET ANNUAL HOLIDAYS

London—All employees of the London Home Counties Electricity authority are to be granted annual and bank holidays with pay.

Nearly 90,000 Scottish mineworkers are to have holidays with half pay this year, and the question of full holiday pay in future years is being considered.

WOMAN SAVES DROWNING BOY

LITTLE GIRL SLICES CAKE WHEN PARENTS REMARRY

Father Happy as He Tears Up and Burns Old Divorce Decree

UNHAPPY APART

Liverpool — Wearing her best frock, 8-year-old Alma Hughes waited at home while her parents went to Formby register office to be married for the second time in 10 years.

Alma, the only guest at their wedding reception, cut the cake when they returned.

Before the bridegroom, 35-year-old Sergeant Richard Hughes, left his home at Seaforth a bulky envelope enclosing a legal document fell through the letter box.

It was a copy of the decree which in December 1933 made absolute his divorce from his wife, Mrs. Neta Agnes Hughes. Smiling, he tore it up and tossed it into the fire.

"I have learned many things from the misery I suffered through being parted from my husband and little girl," Mrs. Hughes said after the ceremony. "I am lucky to have a second chance of happiness, and our old wedding ring, which I am keeping as a mememto, will be a symbol of mistakes never to be repeated."

After an eight-weeks courtship Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were married first at Burton in 1928. In 1933, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Sergeant Hughes left for India. Eighteen months later Mrs. Hughes returned to England, and in 1936 her husband followed and started divorce proceedings.

He returned to India six months after the divorce had been made absolute. Never completely estranged, however, they wrote to each other regularly. When Sergeant Hughes returned to Seaforth last January he took Alma to see his wife, who was working in a factory at Rugby.

"A long talk revealed that during our 18 months' separation we had both been miserable," Sergeant Hughes said. "We could not do without each other, and realized the folly of remaining apart."

FISH PULLS ANGLER OUT OF HIS BOAT

Hook, Line and Sinker Taken By "Black Object"

Littlehampton, Eng. — Harry Frants, Sussex' most ardent angler up to the other day, has been caught by a fish. Dangling his line from a boat off the coast here, he felt a bite and struggled to land the fish but the fish pulled him overboard. He regained his boat but his hook, line and sinker had been taken by "an enormous black object" which rapidly disappeared.

GIRL ESCAPES CUSTODY

Southend.—Joan Mary Yates, aged 17, made a dash from a probation officer's car when she was being taken to St. Monica Home at Southend and escaped.

She was taken to court from the home and consented to go back when she heard that the alternative was to go to Holloway for a week.

PATRIARCH IS READY TO FIGHT FOR PATH

Has Used It Over 80 Years—New Owner Closes Right-of-Way

"Man and boy" Robert—he's 87—and other old men of the hamlet, have used a quarter-mile footpath from a farm to a road.

Now, they say, everyone is being turned back by employees of a nursery firm which has taken over the land.

A notice posted by the parish council declaring the path a right of way has been pulled down.

"The village is behind us older residents to a man to fight out this question to the end," said the patriarch.

"We may hold a meeting to decide whether it would be advisable for all the residents to walk the village rights of way."

HAD FOUR ESCAPES WITHIN 4 MINUTES

Southwold.—Four forms of death threatened a workman named R. Bonas, of Southwold, in four minutes and he escaped them all.

Employed on a steam pile-driver in the harbor, he had to climb on to the top of the boiler. While there a plug blew out and e was enveloped in scalding steam.

The force of the burst, however, blew him over the harbor wall into the river, where, suffering from concussion, he was in danger of drowning.

Next the tide swirled him between a heavy barge and the jetty wall and he would have been crushed by them if an engineer had not dived to his rescue and pulled him clear.

BELFAST MUNITIONS CACHE BLOWS UP AND BLINDS GIRL

Explosives and German Bullets Are Found After Blast

TWO MEN HELD

Belfast—Maimed and blinded by a mystery explosion in a house here, 24-year-old Miss Bridie Dolan of Durham St., Belfast, was operated on and given blood transfusions.

The explosion occurred in Leeson St., in a room which, according to the police, contained large quantities of explosives belonging to the illegal Irish Republican army.

Mrs. Josephine Brady, aged 29, occupant of the house, was also injured.

Both were taken to Royal Victoria hospital.

Mrs. Brady's husband, Michael, and a step-brother, Joseph Boyle, have been detained under the Civil Authorities Special Powers Act.

Sir Charles Wickham, inspector-general of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, issued a statement. After describing the explosion, the statement adds:

"An examination by the police of the house resulted in the following Irish Republican army arms, and other articles, being found: One .455 Colt revolver; two .450 Webley revolvers; two .380 revolvers.

A box containing four eight-bore cartridges; 57 rounds .455 revolver ammunition; five rounds .303 German rifle ammunition; five rounds automatic pistol ammunition; one round .38 ammunition; 20 rounds .22 ammunition; 30 detonators.

There were also in the house, according to the statement: Three pieces of fuse with detonators attached; four thermite bombs; about 40 sticks of gelignite; three one-gallon bottles sulphuric acid (constituent of nitro-glycerine); literature relating to the I.R.A.; drill books, maps, etc.

The material seized, the statement says, was found in the room in which the women were injured—part in a basket, part on the floor, and some concealed under the flooring.

BOY, 16, FINDS WOMAN STRANGLED NEAR CAMP

Former Hotel Worker Was Beaten About Her Face

Folkestone—Known as "Blondie" to her associates, among whom were soldiers encamped outside the town, a girl whose body was discovered strangled and beaten about the face, near a local beauty spot, was identified as Mrs. Phyllis Butcher, 22.

She was variously known in Folkestone as Spires and Minter, and was separated from her husband.

It was a 16-year-old boy, Kenneth George Andrews, of Folkestone, who stumbled across her body between Sugar-Loaf Hill and Caesar's Camp, a few miles outside Folkestone.

Chief Constable Beasley said that the girl's scarf was tied tightly round her neck.

Mrs. Butcher was employed last holiday season at a Folkestone hotel as a daily cleaner. A waiter who knew her slightly while she worked there said: "I saw Mrs. Spires walking with a man in Folkestone. He was fair, of medium height, and appeared to be about her own age."

MARRIED 36 YEARS DIVORCES COLONEL

London—Married 36 years ago and the mother of six children, Mrs. Alice Maud Mary Roberts, formerly Rutherford, of Roland House, South Kensington, was granted a decree nisi against her husband, Colonel Norman Rutherford, on grounds of cruelty.

It was her second attempt to divorce her husband who, at the Old Bailey in 1919, was found guilty but insane on a charge of murdering Major M. C. Seton, Australian Medical corps, in Holland Park, W., and was for some years detained in Broadmoor.

COLONEL PAYS $1,500 FOR LIBELLING NURSE

Northampton.—An officer who was stated to have slandered a 21-year-old nurse was the defendant in an action for slander and libel which was settled at Northamptonshire assizes.

He was Lieut.-Colonel James Williams, of The Lodge, Emberton, Bucks, on whose behalf an apology was made in court to the nurse, Miss Mary Catherine Busby, of Northampton. Damages were agreed at £300 ($1,500).

A. C. Vaughan, for Miss Busby, said that she was engaged through a bureau to nurse Colonel William's wife.

When the slander arose she had just returned to the colonel's house about 11.30 p.m. with her fiance.

The colonel left no doubt of what he thought of her moral character. Had the matter stopped there, Mr. Vaughan said, one might have put it down to a choleric colonel who was a little distraught by his wife's illness. But the matter did not stop there.

Colonel Williams got into touch with two nursing bureaus and made allegations against Miss Busby, suggesting that her behavior in a car with her fiance was immoral, and attacking her qualifications as a nurse. He further suggested that she had taken things from the house.

W. A. Fearnley Whittingstall said that Colonel Williams had been given information regarding Miss Busby's qualifications which had proved to be false. Colonel Williams regretted that any action taken by him on that false information should have resulted in injury to her.

REPAIR WORK STARTS AS BIG SPIRE CRACKS

If Gravel Bed Dries Salisbury Cathedral Collapses, Say Experts

Salisbury—Work has begun to repair the famous tower and spire of Salisbury cathedral, in order to make them safe. The job will take 18 months.

The spire, rising 404 feet, is the highest in England. It has been causing anxiety ever since the great gale of 1930, when a large crack appeared in one of the spiral staircases of the tower.

The dean and chapter have authorized W. A. Forsyth, consulting engineer of London, to put work in hand to redistribute the colossal weight which is now directly over the pillars only seven feet in diameter. At present the weight—6,000 tons—is resting on the archways between the pillars and it has a tendency to thrust the pillars outwards.

Brick corbels will be built at the base of the spire into the four corners of the top of the tower, and will take the weight off the centre of the walls and transfer it to the corners.

Four spiral staircases, one at each corner of the tower, will be bricked in to give rigidity to the corners, and a stainless steel band around the base of the spire will add additional strength.

The cathedral was built in a waterlogged meadow, and is perfectly safe as long as the gravel foundation remains waterlogged. Should the gravel dry the whole of the building would collapse.

London.—The Gretna Green "husband" of Nina Pierson, ex-Ziegfeld Follies girl, Mr. Percy St. George Kirke, 27-year-old Scottish landowner, has sought refuge from romance in a remote village in Buckinghamshire.

After flying to Gretna for a midnight anvil ceremony, Mr. Kirke is now doubtful about the legality of the marriage, because complications have arisen over the bride's divorce papers. Miss Pierson, who is the former wife of Paul Leviton, French millionaire, is now in Copenhagen.

CASHIER DENIES STRANGLING MAN LURED TO LONELY SPOT

"He Hanged Himself," Screams Blonde Admitting Ruse

POLICE DUBIOUS

Nancy, Eastern France — Four hours after he had been lured to a rendezvous in a lonely country lane by a fake telephone call from the woman he loved, 38-year-old Albert Latouche, handsome garage owner, was found strangled on the roadside near Nancy. One hand rested on the running-board of his car.

The woman, blonde-haired vivacious Mme. Charlotte Etienne, is the cashier in a restaurant run by Latouche's wife.

"I did not strangle him. He hanged himself." she screamed when police held her for questioning.

"I admit I faked the telephone call to get him to meet me. I pretended I was a stranger and wanted a car to fetch me to hospital.

"He was furious when he drove out and found it was me. We made it up and went to have dinner.

"Afterwards he stopped the car in a desolate spot. He threatened me—tried to kiss me. I struggled free.

"Then he seized a leather strap, put it round his neck, attached it to the door-handle of the car and flung himself out. Terrified, I pulled the strap away, but he fell dead on the roadway."

The police, however, has been unable to find the leather strap.

It has also been established that Latouche telephoned that he would be late home, adding: "I am in terrible difficulties."

FIJI NATIVE SUICIDES OVER MINOR CHARGE

Goes Against Religion Rather Than Face Ridicule, Disgrace

Suva, Fiji Island.—Suicide among native Fijians is rare, since self-destruction is against their religion, but a native arrested by a constable at Vesisio recently proved the exception to the rule.

Arrested on a minor charge, with his sister, the native apparently was so overcome by the disgrace that he chose suicide rather than face the ridicule of his fellows.

He escaped from the officer and disappeared in dense bush.

Pursuing him, the officer came on his dead body dangling from a tree by a piece of bright red tapa cloth.

FRANCE TO MAKE COINS FROM ZINC

Paris—The French sou—the five-centime coin—which was threatened with extinction owing to the diminished value of the franc, has been saved. At present the coin, which is worth only two-fifteenths of a cent and is made of nickel and copper, costs seven cents to manufacture.

"Journal Officiel" announces that zinc is, in future, partially to replace the other metals in the manufacture of the "sou," and also of the 10 and 25-centime pieces.

The new coins will contain not more than 20 per cent. of zinc and will be of the same design as those at preesnt in use.

CHURCH TAKES STEPS TO END WITCHCRAFT

Vatican Hopes to Eliminate 'Abominable Crimes' Among Peruvian Indians

Rome. — The Roman Catholic church has launched a drive from Rome to eliminate witchcraft among the Peruvian Indians.

"Abominable crimes" stemming from the "evil influence of native witch-doctors" were laid directly to savage sorcerers by the Fides News Service, which disseminates Catholic information.

Harrowing tales of unbelievable savagery come out of the Peruvian Andes, the article said, as a result of the activities of four types of witch doctors.

The "Brujo curandero" whom the simple folk venerate as almost divine, the article said, "sometimes effects really remarkable cures with herbs." Another type inoculates all people in a village with a potion he has concocted out of leaves, bark and bones.

A third "under guise of friendship" induces his patients to drink a deadly potion and is sometimes killed by vengeful friends. Another type, Fides said, chews tobacco and then undergoes weird hallucinations which he claims are visions.

"The Peruvian government," the article said, "has taken decided steps to cut down witchcraft but it is likely to be a long time before this form ofo superstition is finally eradicated."

From 1931 to 1933, it was alleged, the accused destroyed no fewer than 600,000 mulberry trees.

PETES DROP 9-7 DECISION TO BRAMPTON IN ROUGH GAME.

Both Teams Lay On The Hickory In Rough Contest On Saturday

Teams Battle Hard From Netminder Out

Brampton took a 9-7 O.L.A. senior "B" scheduled fixture from the Petes on Saturday night in Brampton in one of the roughest games of the season. Only half a dozen penalties were handed out by Referee Len Smith of Toronto, but everything went in a wild and wooly contest, both teams laying into it from start to finish with slashing, boarding, tripping and all the works to keep the fans roaring.

Peterborough took an early 3-0 lead but saw it dwindle to a 4-3 edge in the first quarter. The teams played to a 2-all draw in the next heat, while Brampton took a 4-0 margin in their big third stanza. The Petes fought back gamely in the final frame and had a 1-0 scoring edge at the finish. It was anyone's game all the way with little or nothing to choose between the opponents on the night's play.

All the Petes looked good in this encounter, despite their loss, getting good goaltending and defence work, while the forwards toiled their heads off in every quarter. The scrappy homesters also turned in a bangup performance from the goal out. There were no outstanding stars, all the players playing excellent lacrosse of the rugged variety. The Petes were without Westonfelt and Dallin.

Crowe scored the first goal early, with King getting two in a row aided by Dundas and Magee. Hazil tallied for the homesters, followed by E. Harris and then Clevely. King counted from Dundas to end the first frame. In the second, King scored from Sloan and Pammett counted alone for the Petes, while Clevely and Harris got goals for Brampton on assists from Hazil and Stapleton. Brampton had it their way in the third with four in a row without a comeback. Clevely scored from Dodds, E. Harris tallied alone. Hazil got one from Dodds, and Forest took Clarke's passto counter. The only score of the torrid windup heat saw Crowe stickhandle his way in close near the end of the period to give the goalie no chance. Penalties drawn included Worthy, E. Creighton, Chute, Clarke, Mitchell and Teasdale. Teams:

Petes: Goal, R. Creighton; defence, J. Creighton and Miller; centre, Crowe; wings, Worthy and E. Creighton; rover, Dundas alternates, Bowen, King, Whitton, Chute, Sloan, Magee and Pammett.

Brampton: Goal, H. Harris; defence, Stapleton and E. Harris; centre, Dodds; wings, Hazil and Clevely; rover, Wilson; alternates, Arthurs, Clarke, Teasdale, Nixon, Lynn, Mitchell, Burrows and Payne.

Referee—Len Smith of Toronto.

Leaves Local Team

JOE MEYETTE

One of the Petes' two lacrosse goalies, who has been lost to the locals recently owing to his removal to Brighton for work. Meyette had turned in several sparkling displays in the home net here early this season while Red Creighton was out with injuries.

Dalton is 18, and following a workout in Cleveland under the critical eye of Oscar Vitt, was tendered a contract.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We are just wondering how big an entry we will have for the annual Tip-Top Tailor competition to be held on Dominion Day, Friday, July 1. In 1934 and 1937 we had the biggest entry ever, that of 24 rinks. This year, how many?

The only stipulation in this contest is that each entry must be a schedule rink or of schedule calibre. No other entries will be accepted. Play will commence at 1.30 p.m.—three 14-end games on the 2-1-0-system, with the play-offs (if any) coming after the third game in the evening. The fee is $2.00 per rink.

The Tip-Top Tailors Cup and four pairs of white flannels, donated by Ken Sloane, will go to the winners and two other sets of prizes will be given to those taking second and third places. Skips will be helping a whole lot if they will make their entries early to the secretary of the games committee. This will enable them to draw up plans and will greatly assist the greens committee. Thank you.

The ladies will also come in for their share on the holiday—they will have a tournament at 2 p.m., draw from the board, and a fee of 25 cents will be charged. Good prizes will be provided. On Wednesday of this week we will have a mixed tournament at 7.30 p.m.—15 cents fee and a draw from the board. Two weeks ago we had 24 rinks out.

"Is it possible for a regular schedule rink to score 9 points in one end?" We will give our opinion in to-morrow night's paper.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

GUESS THE PETES' ballsters don't live right. At anyrate, they can't get a decent break in the weather for home games this semester. Here the strumberry patches were burning up for over a week and the farmers were alternately praying and cussing for rain—but nary a drop. Whilst everyone sweltered and said: "Is it hot enough for you?" But just as soon as the locals have a home game, a few minutes before it is due to start, down came the rain. And how it came down! But the Petes and Ponies took the field at Riverside Park Saturday and Umpire Ken Colling started the struggle. It was raining cats and dogs, but when the Petes got a lead, it began sending down hippos and elephants. So ye umps finally called the whole thing off—and the game will have to be replayed at a later and dryer date.

* * * * * * *

THE PETES pounded Pollar for five runs in the first frame and had two guys on base in the second when the contest was halted. Yep, that 5-0 lead looked like it might grow and the Ponies were lucky the rain interferred. Some 500 fans were on deck, too. Gunner Whitehill was named starting twirler for the Petes and it was a tough break for him—with that lead to work on—having to hit for cover from the downpour. Pollar appears to be a cousin to our squad. Bob Elliott was writing a civil exam, so Joe Daley showed up as manager for the day. The 62-year-old veteran was as talkative as ever, and his players were looking for trouble. Well, they got it in basehits!

* * * * * * *

WITH ONE OUT in the first, Webber singled but Whitehill made a fine stab at Handford's liner and doubled Webber off first. In the Petes' half, Calladine was safe on Handford's error. Clark forced him and Murphy singled. Both scored on Doll's double to left. The latter tallied when Burton singled. Whatley walked and he and Burton scored on Deadey's drive to left, which got away from Bennett. Cadd flied out and Whitehill fanned. A walk and three files finished the Ponies in the second, but, with one out for the Petes, Clark was hit by a pitched ball and Murphy got his second hit—and then the game was called. Tough on those locals who had hits. Burton got a nice running catch in short left. The Petes are slated to play in Oshawa on Wednesday and then entertain the GM-men here Friday, July 1st.

JUNIOR CITY Ball Loop has a game tonight at 6.15 in the Grounds d'Exhibish, Tigers tangling with the Greyhounds. And Wednesday sees the last fixture of the first half when Pirates play St. Peter's there. Some good diamond squabbles by the boys in this circuit. Bill Prindible wants us to say thanks to the senior club, to Walter Hodson and to George Hewitt for donations of baseballs to this loop. The players are operating on a shoe-string which is worn thinner than a nighthawk hubby's alibi, but they are having a heck of a fine time playing their favorite game and improving right along. Fans are invited to see these tussles, no admission being charged.

LACROSSE GAME and practice tonight, the seniors working out at nine o'clock after the midgets open their schedule at 7.15 or so. Lions meet the Y's Men's squad in a midget melee at the George St. arena, and next one will be Friday betwixt Kinsmen and Rotarians. Schedule runs till the middle of August, followed by playoffs. Someone left a note on our desk saying the Brown Bombers would play any junior—don't they mean midget?—lacrosse team a challenge match, including the gang coached by Ira Dundas. We gather the Bombers are local lads who operate independently. Anyway, they say to send the acceptance to us. By the way, George Scott and Frank Randle have joined forces as co-managers of the senior "B" Petes' team.

* * * * * * *

THE BOUNCING Brampton boys again knocked off the Petes in an O.L.A. senior "B" scrap Saturday night in Brampton, the locals getting the sour side of a 9-7 score. The roughest and most exciting game of the current season, both the Peterborough and Brampton gang admitted afterward. The Petes were minus a regular or two and their 3-0 lead in the first frame faded gradually before a tough team. A squad that played lethal lacrosse and made ya like it. The Petes fought back and it was a roaring, roisterous rough-house before the finish. Referee Len Smith of Toronto, no doubt figuring "they can't hurt me," let everything go. It is really only the first loss for the locals this year, the first that counts. Owen Sound will be here next Friday p.m., while the Petes are in Long Branch this Wednesday.

* * * * * * *

THIRD SECTION oft he men's City Softball League schedule is run in tonight elsewhere. Starts this eve at seven in the Bowl with Westclox playing Motorists. The boys will wind it up the end of July and start their playoffs. Quite a flock of transfers were passed by the O.S.A. the other day, some of those affecting Central Ontario being: A. Tonn, Toronto to Oshawa; Jim Drummond, Toronto to Oshawa; Tom Millar, Kingston to Belleville; Jimmy Newson, Peterborough to Guelph; Lorne Bateman, Point Anne to Peterborough; Carm Cooke, Belleville to Trenton; Earl Gray, Sudbury to Trenton; Gord Derry, St. Kitts to Trenton; while Johnny Bawden, Belleville pitcher, was refused a move to Point Anne.

* * * * * * *

HERB RALPH'S YOUNG PETES made the trip to Oshawa on Saturday but didn't get started in their Junior Lakeshore Ball Loop fixture. Due to rain. So now it seems both the locals and Oshawa have made useless trips to each town this season. Hence they've decided to fix it up by the Young Petes playing a doubleheader in the Motor City on July 9th, and Oshawa playing in a twin bill here July 16th. At two and four o'clock, for one admission price. Meantime, the locals have one more home game with Bowmanville before the loop playoffs, and that'll be this Wednesday p.m. at 6.30 in Riverside Park. Lefty Slemon is slated to pitch against Bob Todd of the homesters, and Herb expects to see a complete reversal in form in the Rubbertown gang's play. They'll have to get in there in a hurry this time or their chances of a crack at a playoff berth are shot like a spy at sunrise.

Niagara Takes Welland 7-1 In Senior Ball

TORONTO, June 27—(CP)— The "schoolboy" and the "schoolmaster" certainly don't need any post graduate work, the way things look now.

Frank (Schoolboy) Mussell, a Pennsylvania import, allowed only Brights took Welland Pascoes 7-1 in a Niagara district senior league baseball game. Earl (Schoolmaster) Craig of Stratford Nationals turned in a two-hit performance as London seniors were beaten for the first time this year in the Inter-county League. The score for Stratford was 9-1.

The Londoners, after six straight victories, found Craig had too much stuff to master. But Lefty Coleman, who deserted Stratford to return to the London team he played with last season, was no mystery to Nationals. They combed Coleman and Cas McDougall, his successor, for 15 hits.

The Brights collected 13 safeties off Hugh Bradden, who went the route for Pascoes. Stan Lipka, who paced Brights attack at bat with a triple and two singles, was the only man to get an extra-base blow off Bradden.

Sailors Blank Alliance.

In another Niagara District game, Port Colborne Sailors blanked Merriton Alliance 10-0 as Smokey Comy pitched seven-hit ball for the Ports. The Merriton team contributed to its own downfall with eight errors.

In a Hamilton and District senior contest Caledonia relegated Hamilton Eastwoods to the cellar with a 6-2 victory. Both Simms of Caledonia and Porter of Eastwoods only allowed six hits, but Caledonia grouped theirs for three runs in the second and three in the eighth. Eastwoods scored singles in the sixth and ninth.

Moody Comeback Thrills Crowd

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27—(AP)—Defenseless for 30 desperate minutes, Helen Wills Moody staged a valorous comeback on Wimbledons centre court Saturday and marched triumphantly into the quarter-final round of the all-England tennis championships.

Unable to hold her first three service games and trailing 1-5, Queen Helen, in her own calm, cold fashion, suddenly took command of play in her fourth round match with Mrs. Bobbie Heine Miller, blistered the South African star's backhand with hard spinning drives and won out at 8-6, 6-4.

This was the feature of an exciting day which saw these developments

1. Infuriated Roderich Menzel, gigantic third-seeded Czech, march off the court and default his match with Scottish Don MacPhail because of an ankle injury.

2. Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, who became a father a few hours previously, defeated Gene Mako of California in five sets.

3. Kho Sin Kie, eighth seeded Chinese, outstroked and exhausted, suffer elimination at the hands of the Czech, Frantisek Cejnar.

4. Joan Saunders, formerly of Calgary, and Valerie Scott of Great Britain, defeated the favored Dorothy Bundy and Helen Jacobs of the United States, 6-2, 8-6, in the second round of the womens doubles.

Senior Activities.

The Y.W.C.A. senior gymnasium swim and splash party was greatly enjoyed Friday evening. The pool was filled to overflowing with a jolly bunch of swimmers. Contests and stunts, finishing with an exhibition of fancy swimming and floating by members of the Silver Finettes made an attractive program.

The slow race was won by Ruth Dalliday and Wenda Jacquith; the dash by Peggy Lawless. Mrs. James Forbes led the "follow the leader" stunt. Refreshments were served in the Green room. The senior prize for selling the most Pageant tickets was presented to Edna Foster. Announcement was made of the opening of Camp Inglestane June 30th. The first Outdoor Club Picnic to Chemong will be held next Tuesday for business girls.

Two swimming records for this season are held by Wilma Sisson who on her fourth lesson swam breast and back stroke across the pool and Eleanor Shirley who swam around the pool, breast and back stroke on her sixth lesson.

Soccer Notes

Deloro notified the executive board last Tuesday night that they would not play here on Tuesday night. There will be no game.

There will be no meeting tonight but the board is requested to meet at Capitol Theatre at 6.45 and be the guests of the Brinton club executive.

Up On 'Biscuit

"One man's meat is another man's poison," or the reverse, might very well be quoted 'neath this picture of Georgie Woolf, outstanding jockey from Cardston, Alberta, now riding on American tracks. When Red Pollard broke an arm before the Santa Anita handicap, Woolf stepped in and rode Seabiscuit, and now Georgie is scheduled to ride last years handicap champion again in the $50,000 Massachusettes Handicap at Suffolk Downs, June 29, Red this time having suffered a broken leg.

Five Cincinnati Reds Picked For Service With All-Stars

Nationals To Try Youth Movement To Regain Honors

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP)—Cincinnati fans who turn out for the Inter-League all-star game at Redland field a week from Wednesday, will see a lot of familiar figures in new roles. For the Reds are leading the National League's Youth Movement in an effort to end the rival circuit's string of victories in the mid-summer classic.

Five Cincinnati players were chosen by vote of the eight National League managers for places on the squad of 23 men, announced today. In addition, Bill Terry of the New York Giants, who will manage the team, picked Will McKechnie, Cincinnati manager, as one of his coaches.

Four From Giants.

The rest of the squad, including four each from the Giants and the Chicago Cubs and three each from Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, follow the same lines.

In contrast to the American League squad, featuring the same veteran sluggers who have won four of the five previous clashes, the National features newcomers. Only 10 of the 23 players have appeared in all-star contests and only the Cubs hardy perennial, catcher Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, has been in all of them.

The American Leaguers offer two players, Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees and Charley Gehringer second baseman, who have played in every game as well as lefty Gomez of the Yanks, who has pitched four times and was a member of the squad the other year. Twelve others have seen all-star service and another, Hank Greenburg, was an idle member of the 1937 squad.

Cincinnati's delegation is topped by the "double no-hit" mound star, Johnny Vander Meer. It also includes Paul Derriger, veteran pitcher, catcher Ernie Lombardi, First baseman Frank McCormick and outfielder Ival Goodman.

Plan Hop To Alaska

SEATTLE, June 27—(AP)— The eyes of the United States Navy, 44 giant flying boats which flew nonstop from San Diego to Seattle in the greatest mass flight in naval history, were groomed today for flights over Puget Sound and as far north as Alaska. Three others of the 48 planes which hopped from SanDiego Saturday were forced down by minor trouble. Another plane was forced to return to San Diego with a damaged wing float.

The Winnah!

It didn't matter whether Joe Louis or Max Schmeling was returned the victor in their short-lived title bout, but the certain winner was Mike Jacobs, promoter of the extravaganza and controller of most of the saleable boxing material available. He reaped a handsome profit from the thousands who crowded their way into Yankee Stadium, but Uncle Mike doesn't seem particularly impressed here. He's that way.

Cricket Notes

The local clubs are having tough luck with the weather. The week before last Whitaker's went to Toronto, had fifteen minutes' play, and were then rained out. On Saturday the Peterborough Club went to Lindsay to play a return match with the club there, and the game had to be abandoned without a ball being bowled. Soon after arrival, the rain ceased temporarily, wickets were pitched, and the players got into uniform, but it started again, and all idea of playing had to be given up.

The club has a busy schedule ahead of them. On Dominion Day, Friday, July 1, they meet St. Edmunds (Toronto) at Nicholls Oval, and on the following day go to Toronto to play West Indians. On the following Saturday, July 9, they play Toronto Cricket Club in Toronto, and on July 16, the postponed game with Lindsay.

CARL HUBBELL HANGS UP 200th VICTORY AS GIANTS WIN 5-2

Nats Advance To 4th Place In American

NEW YORK, June 27—(CP)—It's a shame, all those glowing obituaries about the Pounding Pole will have to be torn up. All those pretty words about his two straight American league batting championships; about the way he led the Athletics to three pennants and two world titles; about his records sprinkled all through the book—all of the stuff that has been written about the "washed up" old boy will have to go back on the dead hook.

Because the Pounding Pole (Al Simmons is the name) isn't any more washed up than the week's laundry at 4 a.m. Monday morning. That $15,000 price tag "Old Fox" Clark Griffith paid the Tigers for him looks like a bargain at the moment, and that .279 batting average he turned in last year must have been a mistake.

If there was any one outstanding development of the just—concluded swing through the circuit of the American league's eastern teams and the National west—outside of the Dizzy was the whole thing wound up—Simmons' return to form is it.

Drives In 24 Runs.

In the 11 games he played during the Senators' trek through the Hinterlands, "Assassin Al" batted a mere .375, drove in 24 runs and collected six homers, four of them in the last six games, and two of them in yesterday's doubleheader as the Senators socked St. Louis Browns 9-1 and 7-2. The second with the bases loaded, and gave him 10 for the year.

The double win pushed the Nats up to fourth place in the American League over Detroit Tigers, who had their ears knocked off 10-3 by the reviving Yankees.

As Giants licked the Cubs, 5-2 yesterday, King Carl Hubbell came through with the 200th pitching victory of his big league career, the only National League elbower active in the game today in that select set.

By winning yesterday, the Giants stretched their National League lead to two games over Cincinnati Reds, who broke even with the Phillies in a twin bill. Homers by Chuck Klein and Phil Weintraub helped the Phils to a 10-3 win in the opener. Harry Craft's four-bagger aided Paul Derringer to an 8-5 Red win in the nightcap.

The Dodgers and Cardinals played to a 1-1 tie before rain washed them out in the sixth inning of the first game of what was to have been a doubleheader. Everything else in both leagues was rained out.

The Hard Way

This striking action shot from the tennis courts was taken at Wimbledon as the feminine racquet-wielders of England and United States battled for the Wightman cup, won for the 12th time by the latter. It's Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Febyan, American star, going after a hard one in her match against Margot Lumb of England, whom she defeated.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP).—Max Schmeling owes Mike Jacobs $40,000 covering advances over a two-year period, and will have to pay every dime of it before returning to Germany . . . Reason: Mike is among those who believe the German is not coming back . . . On the night Louis kayoed Schmeling, Negroes from in and around Orange, N.J. paraded in front of Tony Galento's Orange drinkery shouting: "Louis for President" . . . Low down on Dizzy Dean's condition due any day now and prescription is likely to be a year's rest.

Oscar Vitt of Cleveland Indians said: "Johnny Allen is hard to handle, but harder to beat" . . . It was a surprise that Babe Phelps of the Dodgers made the National League all-star team . . . It was an even greater surprise that Hank Leiber was picked.

Mike Jacobs has Maxie Baer tied to a three year contract, but they're betting along Broadway Mike doesn't get Baer into the same ring with Joe Louis this year after what Max (who ain't blind) saw the other night . . . Baer begins a week's tour of New England today, refereeing boxing and wrestling matches . . . If Rudy York of the Tigers slams out a homer with the bags loaded again this season he will equal the major league record of four such wallops in one year, held jointly by Frank Schulte of the old Cubs, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig . . . Most popular visiting player to visit the Polo Grounds is Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs.

If Lou Ambers, now on the injured list, can't go through with his lightweight title bout with Henry Armstrong July 26, Armstrong is willing to defend his welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia of Los Angeles on the same date . . . Has Eddie Mead gone plumb out of his head? . . . Garcia is the only guy who is apt to half kill Armstrong.

Game Is Called With Kingston Leading 2-0

Kingston was leading 2 goals to 0 in the exhibition soccer game in the city on Saturday afternoon on King Edward Park, when the referee declared the field flooded and dangerous to the players through the slippery condition of the ground. The teams started in a drizzling rain but as time wore on, it came down heavy, and after half on hour play the game was stopped.

There was no choice in the selection of the goals. From the kick-off, the Petes carried a strong offensive against the defensive system of the full-backs, Ryce and MacFarlane, who were well-nigh impregnable. The latter intercepted a dangerous raid on the next visit by transferring the play to the other end, where Wright dribbled his way towards goal to leave his outside right in possession. Cadhill drove a hard shot to the inside of the upright, but the C.C.F. goalie cleared quickly. Wassell, centre-half of Kingston, settled down to business to upset the Petes' forwards by his interception of positional play to keep feeding his forwards with ground passes that were well timed to the action of his attack. Cahill registered the opening counter after his centre man had made the opening. Petes kept plying the ball from wing to wing in an endeavor to break down the solid defence of the visitors. Lang at centre for the Petes broke through time and again to be held in check when in the act of scoring, in fact, he was right through, but slipped in a pool of water. At this juncture the game was called.

Kingston — J. Edwards, goal; J. Ryce and J. MacFarlane, backs; A. Ryce, J. Wassell, and J. Gerard, halves; T. Cahill, J. Wright, G. Palmer, J. Harrison, and G. Barrington, forwards; sub., F. Fitzgerald.

Peterborough C.C.F. — W. Denisin, goal; F. Lawrence and G. MacDonald, backs; J. Denisin, F. Dyer, and P. Hogan, halves; J. Henwood, G. Lovett, J. Lang, W. MacKenzie, and E. Jobe, forwards.

Referee—T. Foster. Linesmen—T. Wilson, Kingston, and J. Sargeant.

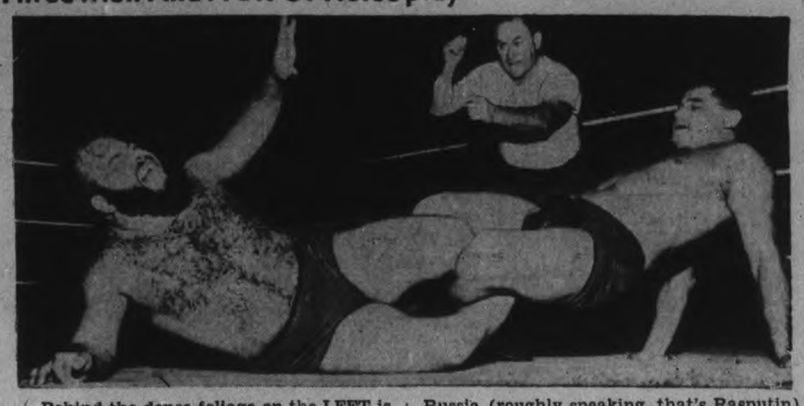
Visitors Entertained.

Kingston arrived in the city at three o'clock and were all ready for action at a quarter past three, but the local team was minus some of their regular players, with the result that G. Lovett and W. MacKenzie completed the Peterborough team.

After the game the contestants retired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Post, Crescent Street, where supper was served. Captain W. Denisin was chairman and called upon Mr. MacBirnie and J. Wright, captain of the visitors, to speak on behalf of the club; while the president of the local association gave a resume of the benefits to be gained from affiliation with the Ontario Football Association. The visitors thereafter travelled throughout the city sightseeing, and left for home at midnight, after a pleasant visit.

Three weeks ago the Reds refused to cough up $12,500 for Bob Seeds, the ex-Newark veteran for whom the desperate Giants laid $25,000 (or more) on the line. The Yanks turned down a $125,000 offer from the Cubs for Charlie Keller, youthful Newark outfield star.

Three Men And A Bit Of Horse play



Behind the dense foliage on the LEFT is Ivan Rasputin, who is a wrestler. On the RIGHT is Sandor Szabo, who is also a wrestler. In the MIDDLE, on his feet is Joe Gardenfield, who is no, not one of the fans, but the referee. The Hungarian champ (that's Szabo) has the Pride of Russia (roughly speaking, that's Rasputin) in the grip of his powerful legs, soon to toss him and take the bout, and with it the championship of something or other. Mr. Gardenfield, forgetting his profession for the moment, is either requesting less noise or cheering one of the lads on.

Royals Split Double Bill With Toronto

TORONTO, June 27—(CP)—It appears to be Rochester's turn to take a crack at the International League leaders.

Jersey City Giants, having threatened for a time, seem to be sinking to their regular level again, and Buffalo Bisons aren't doing at all well these days, so the Red Wings have rolled up their sleeves and gone to work.

And the Wings didn't pick on any "pushover" to get their drive under way. Scheduled in a four-game set against the second-place Bisons over the week-end, they went over the course in par—winning all four tilts, and today they showed a .500 record for the season, which boosted them into third place over the nose-diving Giants.

Their pitching in this surge has been nothing to speak of. Not one starting flinger went the route, but in the four games they connected with 36 hits and made them good for 27 runs to finish on top. Yesterday they came through in both ends of a twin bill, 9-7 and 3-2.

Orioles Get Twin.

The Giants, meantime, were handed a double dose of Baltimore dynamite. The Orioles trounced Travis Jackson's lads 14-9 and 14-6. This gave the Giants a record of just one win in their last five starts. And even Babe Herman should realize you'll never win pennants that way.

Newark's Bears, However, saw little to worry about in this latest threat. Even without Bob Seeds, the Bears exploded a lote of base hits as they divided a twin bill with Syracuse. The Bears belted three pitchers for 21 hits and A 17-1 victory in the opener. In the nightcap, the Chiefs came from behind to tie up the game in the sixth and then go on to win in 11 innings 6-5.

Montreal's Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs split a pair of close one. A four-run rally in the second inning gave the Leafs a 6-5 win in the opener. Harry Smythe pitched a five-hitter for a 2-1 Montreal victory in the afterpiece.

Twelve In a Row

It took 18 years for someone to break Tris Speaker's major league mark for consecutive hits, set at 11 back in 1920. The man who turned the trick was Pinky Higgins (ABOVE) third baseman for Boston's Red Sox, who bagged four for four one day and then eight in a row in the next day's double-header. He was blanked in the next game, leaving the new mark at 12.

Flashing At Last

Deloro Game Rained Out

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 27. — Brinton football team, unbeaten contender for Peterborough and District Football League's honors, came all the way to Deloro on Saturday only to discover that conclusions could not be tried with the Smelters because of intervening rain.

The Brinton aggregation, resurrected to show prowess of former representative teams, has absorbed several players of the now defunct Packers team and in the fraternizing at Deloro Hall when awaiting the referee's decision regarding possibility of the game being staged, the Examiner noticed the enthusiastic quartette, Downer Brothers, as well as Will Curtis, who has done some neat goalkeeping here on former occasions. The home crowd were interested in the appointed referee, H. Hanlon, who has not officiated in Deloro before, but who has experience in the old country and also gave good satisfaction in the recent Brinton-C.C.F. game.

Bill Brown of the Smelters' front line, has a memory of the disappointing as well as of the gratifying features of local football history. "Tell the Examiner," he said, "that this is the first time in ten years that a visiting team arrived in Deloro only to have the game rained out. Manager Withers and his team can therefore expect better luck from the weather standpoint when next they are slated to meet the Townson squad.

Cemetery Is Mass Of Flowers As Decoration Day Is Observed By Oddfellow Lodges

Scarcely Grave In Cemetery That Was Not Adorned With Beautiful Flowers

Peterborough remembered her dead on Sunday in the annual Decoration Day ceremony originating with the Independent Order of Oddfellows and now shared with them by the whole community—a ceremony in which the memory of departed friends is kept green by decorating the place in which they lie sleeping.

Little Lake Cemetery, more beautiful than ever, was crowded with visitors from an early hour Sunday morning, the heavy shower of the previous day having interfered with the practice adopted by many people of placing flowers on the graves on Saturday evening in preparation for Decoration Day. By the afternoon it would seem as if scarcely a grave in the spacious cemetery had been forgotten so profuse was the display of flowers on every side.

There was a very large turnout of members of Otonabee Lodge No. 13 and Peterborough Lodge No. 111 as the parade marshalled by J. H. Price of Peterborough Lodge and headed by the band of the Salvation Army entered the cemetery gates to the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers". The Oddfellows marched at once to the chapel and on the roadway outside the simple but impressive service was held with J. H. Price in charge. Brothers Richard Ford and Joseph Lancashire took part in the service, the musice for which was led by the Temple band.

The opening hymn was "Nearer My God to Thee," the hymn "Abide with Me" was played by the band and the final musical number was "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

First Decoration.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, B. A., B. D. pastor of Knox United Church gave the address and in so doing he began by reading a portion of two chapters of St. Luke, describing the visit of the women to the tomb of Jesus. That incident he said was the first Sunday Decoration Day in the history of Christianity.

The speaker pointed out that the woman had seen Jesus' tomb had seen that it was sealed and therefore they had planned to visit it not for the purpose of annointing the body of Jesus with spices and oils as was the custom at that period but rather to leave the spices outside the tomb. They had gone with their minds filled with tragedy and sorrow, believing Jesus to be dead and they found the stone rolled away, the body of Jesus gone and then had received the message that He was not dead.

Rev. Mr. Zufelt said that he felt it should be possible for his audience to leave the cemetery with something of the same thrill of soul with which these women had left the tomb of Jesus. The friends whose memory they had gathered to honor were not really dead but were alive and living in Him. Furthermore there was every reason to feel that those friends were not only alive but sharing in companionship with those who had assembled to remember them. 'They remember the happy hours they have spent with you" said the speaker," just as you recall the happy hours you spent with them.

At the conclusion of the address wreaths were placed on the I. O. O. F. monument near the chapel, erected in memory of the Oddfellows belonging to outside lodges who are buried in Little Lake cemetery. Bros. R. S. Cotton and Stanley Gillespie were the representatives who looked after this floral tribute.

Then the Oddfellows were divided into nine sections and proceeded to carry out their task of placing flowers on the graves of departed members of Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges. The section leaders were Bros. Richard Ford, R. Martin, Joseph Lancashire, William Constable, George Worby, Fred Ford, Alex Sage, Herbert Frost and Nelson King.

The chapel of the Little Lake Cemetery was open for the occasion and beneath the bronze plague which commemorates memory of the founders of the cemetery, the little coterie of far-seeing citizens who established God's acre on the shores of Little Lake some 87 years ago, was placed an urn of flowers as a token that Peterborough had not forgotten them.

aries to Canada to spread the seed of Roman Catholicism that has found root in 5,000,000 Canadians.

Head of the procession had reached the plains, where Cardinal Villeneuve celebrated in the morning before 100,000 people the closing Pontifical Mass of the five-day congress, long before the Sacred Host was carried from the Basilica.

Thousands crowded the arena of seats around the buff-colored repository, awaiting arrival of the Papal Legate, and his entourage of the color Papal delegation and dignitaries of Church and State, including Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, Lieutenant-Governor E. L. Patenaude and Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

There were no bands in the procession, and the guard of honor was provided by the Zouaves in their grey, red-sashed uniforms with bloomer trousers, and the various uniformed Parish Guards, with rifles slung over their shoulders.

The Cardinal, wearing his square biretta, was in red robes, with sandals, silk stockings and a flowing cape. The Archbishops and Bishops were gowned in purple robes with white capes.

More than 100 men, women and children were overcome during the long procession. Some, collapsing on the sidewalks, were rushd to hospital for treatment, while others were treated in first-aid tents on the plains. Ambulances screeched through the streets.

Bishop Collapses

Members of the St. John Ambulance Association and other first-aid attendants had their busiest day of the congress. Aided by Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, at least fifty persons were treated during the service at the plains in the morning.

One Bishop was taken from the plains in an ambulance after collapsing during the Mass. The Pope's broadcast at the end of the morning service was interrupted once by the screeching siren of an ambulance removing a stricken person from the sun-baked field, crowded with 100,000 persons.

The Pontifical Mass celebrated by Cardinal Villeneuve was the most impressive of several held during the congress, and attendance exceeded by more than 20,000 the 80,000 men at the candlelight midnight Mass Thursday.

It is estimated the service was heard in the city by 150,000 persons. The ceremony was carried to thousands, gathered in small groups around loudspeakers scattered throughout the city. A group of 200 boys in blue uniforms and berets heard the service near a loudspeaker in front of the Basilica.

Besides the thousands on the plains and around the loudspeakers the churches of the city were filled with people at the last Mass of the morning.

The crowds on the plains and in the streets knelt with bared heads under a noon sun when the Pope's address, interrupted frequently by static, was broadcast. Shority before, led by Cardinal Villeneuve, they pledged themselves to combat the forces working against the Church and the sound of their voices was heard over the rooftops of the city.

The Cardinal, speaking both in English and in French, described the Congress as an "incomparable spectacle" and a "moving ceremony." It was an "act to profound faith, an act of religion toward the Almighty God, Master of all the universe and Father of our souls."

"There are nations blaspheming God, nations seeking to deny and destroy Him," His Eminence said. "We attest the existence of God and we believe in God."

Then the Cardinal, son of a Montreal shoemaker, led the 100,000 in the recitation of an act of faith. They lifted their voices and shouted in prayer, "We proclaim Him Christ, King."

Youngsters Aid In Ploughing Farmer's Farm

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 27.—The honor of being Ontario's youngest ploughboys if not held by Joe and Steve Gabovic, 12 and 10 respectively, of Marmora Township, must be well contested by them.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gabovic, moved from Deloro in April of this year to the farm in Marmora Township originally occupied by Louis Bedore. Mr. Gabovic has purchased this farm of 300 acres after a little over eight years of residency in this country. He inherited his father's name as well as his father's fondness for the agricultural life.

Of their five young children, Joe and Steve were born in their native province of Bratislavia in Czechoslovakia. "We had about forty houses in our village there when I left in 1930," said Mike. With his genial wife, he was most expressive of his pleasure in residing in Canada, particularly at this time.

Arriving at the farm, the new Canadian farmer (he was naturalized about a year ago) saw there was much ploughing to be done and as he has other employment, thought he might be able to meet the wishes of his sons to plough. So with a plough which had been brought over with the household effects of another settler from Czechoslovakia, which Mike had purchased at Port Hope, the boys attempted the entire ploughing of a 7-acre field and sections of other fields also. The team, Dick and Maud, being of the docile type peculiar plough being of the type peculiar to Chechoslovakia, the full ploughing was in course of time accomplished.

The plough has two wheels in front, one large and one small; the beam being loose on an axle of the wheels. Attached to the axle also are two chains which besides controlling the depth also pull the plough. The furrow which is cut by the plough is at least 12 inches and the owner informed the writer that these ploughs in his home country cut a 16-inch furrow. One disadvantage of this plough noticed by the writer is that the team must turn to the right. In using this plough Joe, the elder, takes the handles while Steve handles the lines. The father attended to the seeding alone and now school holidays have arrived, the boys have found other use for their energy. They are going to try their luck as in former years at a local huckleberry patch.

the House of Refuge, this council or Deremo?"

It transpired through Deputy-reeve Harry Reid of Otonabee, chairman of the House of Refuge board, that Deremo had obtained a marriage license in Port Hope and was ready to straighten out and regularize his position. "I think Miss Williams should be put back in the House of Refuge and then properly dismissed," he added, after explaining that Mr. Fry evidently thought the affair would dispose of itself by Monday.

"Fry hasn't done his duty," Warden McDonald commented. "He has acted arbitrarily. When Miss Williams was taken away from the House, Fry should have seen that she was brought back. Probably this story will get a headline like the one yesterday and it won't be amiss either."

"How about sending Mr. Reid out with Constable Silvester," Reeve Wallace Shearer jokingly suggested; "and if we can't get action we'll have to appeal to the city police," Warden McDonald added.

Mr. Reid was instructed to telephone Mr. Fry to get busy, but the superintendent was in Peterborough having taken a separator to the De Laval factory for some tuning up repairs. And although it was Saturday afternoon, the De Laval reported that Mr. Fry had been there, but "had just left." Rather than send some one out to search down town for Mr. Fry, the job of justifying the council and maintaining its official procedure at the House of Refuge was left with Mr. Reid with power to act.

Acting on instructions from the County Council, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fry, officials of the County House of Refuge and County Constable Bruce Menzies visited the home of John Deremo in Douro Township early Saturday evening and took Miss Harriet Williams back to the House of Refuge. Miss Williams objected to leaving and Deremo is also said to have remonstrated with the trio, but was restrained by the Constable. Earlier in the week Mr. Fry accompanied by Provincial Constable Silvester had visited Deremo, but the officer hesitated to remove the woman because Deremo was in possession of a marriage license and advised Silvester, he and Miss Williams would be married right away and would live with Deremo's son in Port Hope.

"HERE'S What I Expect An Advertisement To Tell Me!"

"WHERE CAN I BUY IT? Naturally, one of the first things I want to know about something I see in an ad is—WHERE CAN I BUY IT? It isn't simply a matter of convenience and of saving time in planning my shopping either! No, the NAME OF THE MERCHANT, itself, often decides whether I buy or not. Invariably, you see, I give preference to stores whose ads I see regularly and often—I know those stores MUST have good value or they couldn't go on advertising year after year!

"WHAT WILL IT DO FOR ME? I find it so much easier to make up my mind when the ad tells me FACTS about the merchandise! What is it? What will it do? How will it help me Why do I need it? I want to know about color, weight, texture, material, style—I enjoy reading those things and I usually buy from the merchant who tells them to me.

"HOW MUCH IS THE PRICE? Of course nearly every ad mentions the price, but if an item has been marked down I want to know from how much. So many sale ads say 'Was Higher' . . HOW MUCH HIGHER? I want to know how much I am saving and I want the chance of deciding for myself if the item is a real value or not. I have more confidence in the store that is consistently truthful and buy from such a store regularly—and my husband says an old customer is worth three new ones because new ones cost additional money to get!"

Toronto Couple Are Rescued From Rice Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett of Toronto, week-end visitors at Bewdley narrowly missed death in the choppy waters of Rice Lake early Sunday morning when the skiff which they had been rowing, upset as Mr. Burnett throw the anchor overboard. Their screams for assistance brought P. H. Salter and Frank Fleury who live on the south shore of the lake, and when the rescuers arrived in a motorboat they found the two clinging to the keel of the upturned boat and on the point of exhaustion.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett had rented the skiff from Kennedy's boat livery at Bewdley and had rowed about two miles down the lake, near the south shore when the near tragedy occurred. Other fishing boats nearby could not hear their shouts because a strong wind was blowing inshore. Mr. Stalter, who operates Pine-Oka-Point, was attracted by the cries and aroused Fluery, a summer resident from Oshawa. The two men launched Fleury's motor boat against the handicap of the rough water and weeds and arrived in the ...k of time. The upturned boat was barely visible in the water and every wave that broke across it slapped Mr. and Mrs. Burnett strongly. Mrs. Burnett was almost unconscious and was being held up by her husband, who clung to the narrow keel of the boat. Her watch was lost.

The middle-aged couple were unable to walk when shore was reached and were put to bed with hot water bottles at Fleury's summer home, and Dr. Beatty of Garden Hill was called. Later yesterday, they were taken back to Bewdley and to their home in Toronto.

Dog Is Rescued From Store Roof

Officers Stevenson and Rogers rescued a wire-haired terrier from an unusual place early Saturday morning when on complaints received from residents along Simcoe street that a dog was barking loudly, they investigated and found the canine was on top of a George street store. GOES TO SLEEP AT TYPEWRITER

Gamblers are not the only people who suffer when police stage an early morning raid on their quarters, as reports today indicate a local reporter for a Toronto newspaper stayed up so late getting the story of the raid that before morning he was pounding the typewriter keys with his face instead of his fingers.

The reporter noted for his midnight key pounding started to write the story about 4.30 Saturday morning after working all night. It is believed he propped his chin on his cupped hand and fell asleep, then his elbow slipped off the desk and his face plopped down on the keyboard. He awoke with a start and discovered his upper lip to be cut, and as he made repairs to the bruised and bleeding face in the bathroom, other members of the house were aroused and the over-worked reporter was hustled off to bed without ceremony. When he awoke, it was one o'clock, just one hour too late to catch the deadline.—McG.

Charges Of Selling Again Adjourned

Just when it looked as if the charge against Chris McGrath of illegally selling liquor was going to get under way at last in police court today after several adjournments, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry was forced to ask for another postponement.

"A material witness is absent" he told the court "and his presence will be necessary owing to the fact I have just discovered that one of the other witnesses who made a statement to the police has now changed his story. It will be necessary now to bring another man from Oshawa whom we had not intended to call."

The case was adjourned until next Monday. Another charge of illegal selling also scheduled for today failed to get started but this time it was the defendant Bert Ferguson and not the crown who was not ready to go on. He had not had a chance to secure a lawyer, he said, and was remanded until Thursday.

Elderly Woman Is Injured As Shaft Falls

An elderly mother, loyal to the memory of her little daughter who died at the age of five, twenty-seven years ago, was injured on Saturday afternoon as she attempted to place a token of flowers on the girl's grave in the Little Lake Cemetery.

The 69year old mother, Mrs. Emma Swartz, 29 Victoria Avenue slipped as she walked on the grass betwen the grave stones, and in falling clutched a tall granite shaft which fell pinning the woman to the ground. Mrs. V. Lynch of Victoria Avenue with whom Mrs. Swartz had been visiting attempted to lift the tombstone but was not strong enough. Her shouts for assistance brought two cemetery workmen who between them removed the stone. Mrs. Swartz was painfully injured and semi-conscious, when taken by car to the office of Dr. O'Brien. She is suffering from back and chest injuries.

The tombstone which fell on Mrs. Swartz was a tall granite shaft which rested on a large base, and it is believed weather action down through the years, had loosened the upper portion, which weighed several hundred pounds.

Mrs. Swartz spent most of her life in this city, but left ten years ago and since has been living in the Peace River district of the Northwest. She came to Peterborough last Spring to spend the summer with Mrs. Lynch, a close friend. In 1911 her five year old daughter, Annie died and was buried in Little Lake Cemetery. It was this little one's grave that the mother wished to decorate with flowers.

NO FISH STORIES FOR FIREMEN

Hap Bradshaw whose boasting as a fisherman of outstanding ability has galled the fire department staff lost his first argument of the season over the week-end. Hap told of a small lunge he had caught at the lower locks after paddling several miles down the river and back. The fire-fighters not only convinced him that it was a pickerel instead of a muskie but badgered him into believing he could have caught the fish without leaving the dock and making the tiresome paddle downstream and back. Hap is said to have confided in George Smith that hereafter the fire department will not even hear of his fishing luck.

A HUGE MUSKIE.

30 TROUT IN 3 DAYS

COUNTY ROAD OPPOSED

Assumption of the north three miles of the middle line of Smith as a county road was held over for further consideration by the county council Saturday. The lower section to the eighth line is already a county road, and Reeve Mann wants the entire strip to the lake to be assumed by the province. But, as a preliminary to that stage of development the north end must first be taken into the county road system. Reeve Anderson opposed the idea, and suggested instead that Smith should approach the department with their project.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was "The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." (Isaiah 35:10.) Selections from the Bible included the following from Luke 9:1-6, "Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases... And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing everywhere." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christian are under direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christlike, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ-example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning."

Two Autos Crash, Four Persons Have Close Call

Four persons had a narrow escape from death or serious injury when two automobiles crashed early Sunday morning in front of the Filtration Plant on the Lakefield Road.

Robert Hewett and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hall, were driving north when a roadster driven by Michael J. Murray, Jr., 30, coming south, sideswiped their car and then overturned on the road. The Hewett car was considerably damaged along its left side, but the occupants were unhurt. The other machine skidded sideways after the impact and then turned turtle, coming to rest with its four wheels in the air and with Murray underneath the badly damaged machine. The Hewett party could not even see the driver when they ran to the capsized roadster, and it took some time to move the car and extricate him.

Murray was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure, and after medical examination indicated that he had ecaped the crash without any serious injuries, he was arrested and taken to the police station on charges of drunken and reckless driving. Sunday evening he complained of a sore leg, back and chest, and on the advice of Dr. J. M. O'Brien was returned to hospital for the night.

This morning he limped into police court to face a charge of drunken driving and another of reckless driving. He was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair, who said that he would reserve election and entered a plea of not guilty.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry asked that the drunken driving charge should be treated as an indictable offence, instead of on summary conviction, the difference being that as an indictable offence the penalty is from one month to three months' imprisonment, while under summary conviction the maximum jail sentence is one month.

The Crown was not able to go on today and Murray was remanded until Wednesday, bail being fixed at $750.

Woman Faces Charge Of Drunk Driving

As the aftermath to an accident on Highway 7, two miles west of Norwood on Saturday night in which two cars were damaged, but no one was injured, Mrs. Ella Fisher of Campbellford faced charges of drunken and reckless driving before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning.

Represented by T. J. Carley, K.C., she pleaded not guilty and asked for an adjournment.

"I am merely anticipating the Crown in this request," said Mr. Carley, smiling..

Both charges will be heard next Monday, Mrs. Fisher being allowed out on bail.

W. Marsh of Campbellford, who was a passenger in the car allegedly driven by Mrs. Fisher, pleaded guilty to being drunk on Saturday night.

"Whenever a person is found drunk in a motor car," said Magistrate Langley, "my practice has been to impose a fine of $15. It is true that woman who was found guilty of that offence this morning was allowed to go with a $10.00 fine, but that was because she was a woman and because we do not often have women here on that charge. She will be the exception, and you will be the rule in this case, for I am going to fine you $15.00, and costs." The costs amounted to $5.65.

The accident that caused to-day's proceedings occurred at 10.30 o'clock on Saturday night when Mrs. Fisher's car was in a collision with an automobile driven by Glen McColl of Deloro.

Provincial Traffic Officer McClure who investigated the crash arrested Mrs. Fisher and Marsh. The woman was examined by two doctors after her arrival at the Police Station, and at the request of her husband a blood test was also taken.

FICTION AND FEATURES

FIESTA

by OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Entranced by the southwest country, and in love with a footloose Texan, Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star, has just decided to purchase an Arizona ranch and forsake her film career. A few days at the ranch of the wealthy Mexican Montoya family, which extended its hospitality to Ellen and Bill after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm, had given both the young actress and the Texan a new viewpoint on life. At Nogales, where Bill had driven Ellen to return to Hollywood, she makes her new decision and asks him to manage the ranch she plans to buy. He accepts but is hesitant to speak of his love for her because of his position and her wealth. They find the type of ranch they desire in the vast Durango property, 6,000 neglected acres in a beautiful Arizona setting. Back in Nogales to buy the Durango ranch, Bill is disappointed when Ellen tells him she is dining with Felix Montoya, son of their recent host. At a night club where Bill dines alone, an attractive entertainer urges him to dance with her. He is chagrined when Ellen, who happens to be there with Felix, sees them dancing. A newspaper reporter recognizes Ellen, obtains an interview, and a few hours later the Hollywood star is asked by the mayor of the city to attend a banquet in her honor. Ellen determines to do all she can to become a popular citizen of Nogales, placing her film career squarely behind her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 24

BREAKFAST next morning included an hour of planning, in which Ellen reiterated her desire to be settled in her own new home.

"If you're in such a hurry to get on your ranch, I can arrange it," Bill told her. "You can move out today."

"But there's no house!"

"No. And won't be for a while yet. But did you ever live in a tent?"

Ellen Dale had been born in Brooklyn, reared figuratively in a subway, worked in a crowded five-and-10-cent store, then in Hollywood. Tents were just things some of the movie producers used occasionally for outdoor scenes.

"I could learn," said Ellen, gamely.

"Wolves will howl."

"Will they?"

"Yes. And coyotes. Ever hear a coyote? Ever see one?"

"No. Bill. Are they dangerous?"

"No. But they sound like banshees, or worse. I have had Mexican families moved out. They can squat in lean-tos or anything. You can have a big wall tent beside your stream, and the Mexican lady can be chaperon."

"I think it would be fun! I won't be scared much!"

"I'll give you a gun, two guns. You can practice outdoor craft while we build the ranch home. But I'm more worried about your getting lonely more than anything else."

"Will you be there, part of the time?"

"All of the time. Until you fire me. I expect to supervise the construction work. And get the ranch going as agreed."

"I'll go out today," Ellen said.

Some of her personal things had already been shipped from her Hollywood apartment, and Ellen spent an hour this morning adding to them. She bought several books, among other things. And magazines, clothing, shoes, a portable phonograph, a battery radio, a typewriter, stationery. Bill met her at 10 o'clock and bought a saddle that, "fitted" her well; also pistols, shot gun, rifle, and abundant ammunition. He bought a small truck, too, saying it would be constantly needed at the ranch and would come in handy at the start.

"I've spotted four horses," he told her. "They'll come out this afternoon. I'll load the tent and all the duffel on the truck now, and you can start out with it."

"Me?" Ellen looked her inquiry too.

"Sure, you. If you're going to be a rancher, be a rancher. Never heard of a ranch woman who couldn't drive a truck. It's a lightweight one. Listen, sis if you hang around me long—I mean, if you let me hang around long as foreman of the DD—I'll have you learning to milk cows!"

"Bill!"

"Sure! Glory, you don't think ranching is like living at the Biltmore?"

He grinned broadly, and she stuck out her tongue saucily at him.

"All right, smarty! I will drive it, then! And milk the cows, too. See if I don't!"

He had, as a matter of fact, been joking about most of it. But after all a truck is just a work-model car, with the same general controls. Ellen drove it out of the dealer's place and down the street without any trouble. Bill glowed with pride for her.

"The kid's got nerve," he murmured.

Ellen had on her "work" clothes (although she looked more like a model from Fifth avenue and so did considerable manual labor. She helped load the truck, and started out alone.

"Hey!" Bill shouted. "Whoa up! It's not enough to have nerve, missy. You gotta think, too. Where you plan to eat? And what? And in this southwestern country, a canteen of drink water is always in the height of style!"

Contrite, she left her driver's seat and waited. He teased her a bit more, and bought some food for her to carry, purchased five-gallon and two-quart canteens—the latter for saddle or shoulder carrying—filled them and put them in her truck.

"Okay, kid, high-tail it out now," he instructed her. "And beware of the wild Injuns. I'll be along in half an hour."

They made two trips that day, the second one to bring the Mexican family. Bill introduced them to their employer. Concepcion Rivera was the mother and wife, a likeable woman, industrious, clean. Her husband was a cow puncher. They had a grown daughter who reputedly was an excellent cook. A 'teen-age son, handsome as any youngster could possibly be, played a guitar and sang beautifully; said he could dance, make baskets, mix and mold adobe bricks, shoot wild turkeys, trap foxes, do trick roping, read and write, catch fish, and do wood carving. Such versatility merited being put on the pay roll. Bill grinned after chinning with the lad.

"It's $10 a week, Pablo," he told the boy. "Handy man, you. Whatever Miss Dale can think up for you to do, see?"

The boy was made supremely happy. He came, in time, to worship Bill Baron; he became Ellen's abject slave.

He caught the horse she picked out when the first of the remuda arrived. It was a peppery pony, white with brown marks splashed over his hide, and with a curly white silken mane and tail. A "painted horse" Bill told her.

"What'll you name him" he asked her.

She considered it briefly, admiring the animal.

"What is the Spanish word for 'painted'?" she asked.

"Pintado."

"That his name, then. Pintado. You like it, Pablo?"

The boy nodded, smiling; Bill voiced his approval, too.

Ellen learned to put on a bridle and saddle. Presently she was mounted and galloping around the flat area there.

"Stop 'posting', gowgirl!" Bill yelled. "That's done only by the elite, which same you ain't one of no more."

"You needn't talk like a hick!" she called back. "The stable master at Beverly Hills taught me to post, so there!"

"I bet he never saw a cow, though. Nor a cow pony. But you'll learn. Say, Pintado's got class!"

"By inference, then, his rider hasn't!"

He laughed at her, waved and turned to his work. He had plenty to do, including erection of her tent and temporary home.

Thoroughly delighted with her mount, Ellen rode on off around the turn in the hill, out of sight. Some intuition, or some memory of conversation with Bill, warned her to get her bearings. She glanced at Mount Wrightson, then at Thunder Peak, which Bill had pointed out before. She couldn't be lost with these as landmarks.

She rode a mile, two miles, up a gradually narrowing canyon.

The rocks preesntly became more and more intimate, rearing higher, leaning as if to squeeze her and Pintado in. She paused beside a gigantic century plant stalk, a dead flower from last spring, but still 20 feet tall. Other scrubby growths interested her. "This is my land!" she breathed. "My ranch!" It was exhilarating. She had never owned land before, and the possession of no other property in all the world, not even of gold, is so thoroughly satisfying.

Pintado had been in a stable for a week, hence was full of energy himself. He moved rapidly even when walking. He evidently was mountain bred, moved with the sure-footed steps of a goat. Ellen was noting these details and having a perfectly delightful time when a shot startled her.

She halted at once. Bang! Somewhere near—maybe a few hundred yards further up the now brushy, rugged canyon, the shot was repeated.

It frightened her, a little.

"Yoo-hoo!" she called.

She didn't want some hunter to shoot her by accident. Bang! Bang! Two shots answered.

It sounded like a signal, maybe. But she wasn't sure. She debated what to do; finally decided to investigate.

In 10 minutes she had threaded up the brush and rocks and was looking down at a man on the ground. He was an elderly man. A very weird, bearded man, with rough clothing. His rifle lay beside him. He held up one hand, tremulously, and gazed at Ellen with pleading eyes.

For a moment she could only stare down at him, spellbound.

DOROTHY DIX

Regulate Your Conduct by Your Principles Rather than by the Temperature When You Hie Away for the Summer Months, and You Won't Be Sorry

WHAT qualities do men like in women? That is a riddle to which no girl knows the answer. Perhaps men themselves don't know, since their conduct is so often at variance with their theories.

Every man has a picture of his mind's eye of his ideal woman and he knows to the last detail just exactly the kind of one he is going to pick out for a wife, but he generally marries one who does not in the slightest degree resemble the girl of his dreams. I have known men who were such beauty worshippers that they put pulchritude above all other charms in a woman, yet whose wives were homely enough to stop the clock Also, I have known legions of men who loudly proclaimed that none but practical, sensible, domestic girls would ever get them, yet who married little nitwits with the brains of a hystercal hen and who couldn't boil water without scorching it.

But, for all of that, and making all due allowance for the difference in tastes of men and their fickle fancies, and the super-salesmanship which enables a clever girl to make an unsuspecting male see her in whatever light she wishes to be seen, there are certain qualities in women for which practically all men fall.

The first of these is, of course, looks. Not so much beauty as just prettiness. Most men regard the beauty as being out of their class. She looks too grand and expensive for human nature's daily use. Besides, they couldn't afford the upkeep. So they pass by the living picture for the girl who is just easy on the eyes and who would look nice in a pink bungalow apron across the breakfast table. In reality, it is just as bad for a girl to be too good-looking as it is for her not to be good-looking enough.

A man likes a girl who dresses well and does a chap credit when he takes her out, but who is not a clothes-horse. Men like a girl who will make the other woman "rubber" a bit, but whose clothes are not so spectacular that they make her conspicuous. Men don't like freak hats or shorts or britches on women. They prefer their strip-teasers on the stage and to surmise about the anatomy of the girl friend rather than have her structural defects thrust upon their attention.

Men like cleanliness in girls. They like a girl to look as if she used plenty of soap and water on both her person and her clothes. Frowsy hair, unkempt hands, soiled neckwear and run-over heels men regard as the unforgivable sin in a woman.

Men like sincerity in girls. They like a girl who is honest and truthful, who doesn't pretend to be anything but what she is. The girl who poses as literary when she has never even read a sixth best seller; the languid salesgirl who tells every one that the reason she went in business was because she was so bored with society; the poor girl who says her new dress is just a simple little thing that she only paid $150 for, never make a hit with men. Women's lies make men uncomfortable. They don't know whether to appear to believe them and seem suckers, or to call down the fibber and seem rude.

Men like girls who are friendly. Girls who show that they like them and will meet them halfway in an acquaintanceship, but they hate and loathe and fear the girl who pursues them and shows that she is after a man and is determined to get him. Also anathema to them is the girl who takes a little love-making seriously; who shanghais them into making dates with her; who jeopardizes their jobs by telephoning them in business hours, and who makes them spend money on her that they can't afford.

Above all, men like a girl who is feminine. They like a girl who wears frilly clothes and perfume behind her ears. They like a girl who is domestic and who looks forward to having a kitchen of her own some day. They like a girl who gurgles over babies and chucks them under the chin instead of calling them brats. They like a girl who says her prayers and believes in everything that is true and good and beautiful. And they like a girl who has her code and stands by the ancient moralities and who will not do the things they are trying to persuade her to do. DOROTHY DIX.

You'll welcome this three-way costume in your wardrobe right through summer. It takes up very little space in your suit case for the week-end vacations and gives grand variety. For spectator wear, there's the smart jumper dress. Discard the buttoned-down-the-front one-piece jumper; and you're ready for tennis, hiking, or the beach in your tailored shorts and shirt. For sunbathing, wear the jumper without the shirt. You'll love its young flattering square neckline with suspenders in the back. White pique combined with a colorful peasant print cotton shirt is pictured here. Shirting striped chambray, hopsacking weaves, percale prints, etc., are other suitable cottons for this popular three-way costume.

Style No. 2685 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material for jumper and shorts; and 1⅜ yards of 39-inch material for blouse.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

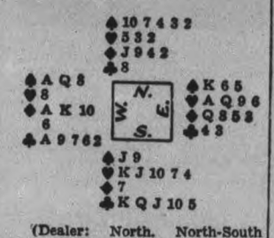
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

DANGER STALKS YOU

THERE ARE always possible dangers that may be lying in wait for you whenever you play bridge. Sometimes they hit you a lot harder than you would ever expect. Most bids involve a certain amount of hazard in both directions, a chance to gain and a chance to lose, especially those bids which seem somewhat doubtful at the time you make them. But then the main reason you play at all is because the game is an adventure. If the risk were gone, the fun would be gone too.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

When North and East passed on this deal South put in a bid of 1-Heart and West doubled. When this passed around to East he decided to let it stand. South had a chance to bid 2-Clubs, which he feared would also be doubled, so decided to take his chances on the first bid.

The diamond K was cashed and followed by the A, which South trumped. A club was led and West took with the A. He returned another diamond and South trumped. The declarer now cashed the club K and followed with the 10, which East ruffed. East laid down the spade K and continued with a spade which West took with the Q. The spade A was then ruffed by South. South led the club Q and East ruffed. He returned the diamond Q which South took with the spade J. The club 5 was taken by East's heart Q and the heart A took the last trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

What is the safest contract for the North-South players on this deal?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf ran up to the spider web. He gave one of the strands a hard pull. The next instant the spider came rushing out. "Who's there? Who's at my web?" she called.

"Good morning," Knarf greeted her pleasantly. "I'm here just to find out if you're feeling well."

"I'm feeling very well. Go away, please. I'm waiting for someone."

"Oh," said the shadow boy with a smile. "You're waiting for a fly."

"H'mm. I don't know how you guessed it. But that's exactly whom I'm waiting for. Now please go away."

"But I'll help you get a fly. I'll go catch one right away and bring it to your web. Be sure to wait for me now."

"Of course, I'll wait. I have no other place to go. I live here."

Then Knarf hurried off. He went out into the garden and sat down beside a buttercup where the sun was shining brightest. After he waited for a moment or two he heard a buzzing noise. He looked up. It was a little fly. "Oh, good morning," he greeted the fly. "Where are you going?"

"Would you like to visit Mrs. Spider?" Knarf asked.

Doesn't Like Her.

"I'm going round and round," the fly answered. "It's a very pleasant morning, isn't it?"

"Would you like to visit Mrs. Spider?" Knarf asked.

"Mrs. Spider," the fly exclaimed, with a little cry. Then it flew away.

"I guess the fly didn't like visiting Mrs. Spider" Knarff said to himself.

Just then he heard quite a loud buzzing. He looked up. It was a large yellow bumble bee. "Oh, good morning to you, Mrs. Bee."

"Morning," replied Mrs. Bee. "You don't seem to be very busy. It's good to be busy. Keeps you out of mischief."

"Would you like to visit somebody? She's quite nice."

"You mean Mrs. Spider? Of course, I'll visit her. In fact, I just did visit her. She ran away when she saw me coming. Has she come back again?"

"O-h," said Knarf, hurrying off to see whether Mrs. Spider had really run away. He found her hiding behind a piece of coal at the bottom of the scuttle. "A great big bee came along. I don't like bees. They look like flies, but they are no good to eat. They sting. Oh, I'm a very hungry spider. Why do all the flies keep away from my web? I wish I weren't a spider. I wish I never got hungry."

Garbo And Stokowski Are Badly Shaken Up When Car Overturns

Stockholm, June 27.

GRETA GARBO and Leopold Stokowski were badly shaken but uninjured today when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on a highway south of Stockholm.

The movie star and orchestra conductor, whose friendship has given rise to frequent reports of betrothal and of marriage, continued their journey after scrambling from the car.

Skidding at a corner turn, the car landed on its side in a field and was badly damaged.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

New Arrangement Cheese Weighing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27.—As the result of a letter from one of the Montreal buyers which drew attention to cheese being weighed here too soon before it was shipped and thereby necessitated the re-weighing of the entire shipment before export, a motion was passed deferring the weighing of all cheese at the Campbellford grading station from Friday to Saturday.

Members of the Board gave their sanction to the plan which has been adopted again this year of collecting the sum of five cents a box for one shipment of cheese, the money to be used for prizes at the Cheese Exhibition in Belleville, and to be collected through the buyers who will make the deduction from their invoices.

For Tuesday, June 28.

Auguries of a rather conflicting nature are noted in this day's astrological map, with benefits of a most gratifying nature as well as perplexities, confusions, and inharmonies. There is likely to be a demonstration of the latter in employment or in connection with superiors or those in authority.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year in which there may be some conflicts in the affairs, with perplexities and disturbances as well as benefits and lucrative operations. Occupations or relaxations with superiors may be subject to definite friction, with critical results. At the same time, there may be benefits from influential or elderly persons. Change or travel with new plans and contacts may mark the year.

A child born on this day may be quick, fiery, turbulent and wilful. However, it may have a warm, generous and sociable nature.

Fine Program Drawn for 'Y' Camp

Camp days are here again, and the executive of the Girls' Work Board met last Wednesday night to make final arrangements for the 'Teen-age Girls' Camp held at Stoney Lake from July 2 to July 9. As usual the Y.W.C.A. has opened Inglestane for this girls' week and many from Peterborough and this district will avail themselves of a splendid opportunity for a happy vacation.

The board has been unusually fortunate this year in procuring leadership. Miss Christine Gardiner who has had wide experience in girls' camps will be in charge. Besides these there will be the camp nurse, Miss Hilda Bell, and the camp counsellor, Miss Jean Ottowell. Handcraft will be under the direction of Mrs. Guilett of New York, discussion groups, etc., under Miss Mary Haddow and others to be chosen by the board.

From rising time till the camp-fire songs and taps, the days are planned to give the girls full advantage of the open air, beautiful Inglestane and the lovely lake. Shore dinners, boating, swiming and hiking will be part of the recreation program, while Bible study, handcraft and the more serious part of the day's events.

For many years this inexpensive outing has attracted large numbers from the 'teen-age girls' gropps of our Sunday schools and Canadian Girls in Training. With the unusual array of leaders available this year, the board is looking forward to an enthusiastic registration which will be larger than in previous years. Already the Bowmanville and Hampton girls have made their reservations, and all will be on their way next Saturday afternoon to be met by the leaders and workers, who have everything in readiness for a bigger and better camp than ever before.

—Sadly missed by his Aunt and Uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Calladine.

PEARSON.—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Dan Pearson, who passed away June 27, 1935.
Time speeds on, three years have passed
Since death its gloom its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us that shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
His vacant place there none can fill.
Down here we mourn but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

COURSEY.—In loving memory of our son and brother Billie, who passed away one year ago to-day.
To-day recalls sad memories
Of our dear son and brother gone to rest,
And the ones who think of him to-day
Are the ones who loved him best.
—Ever remembered by his Father, Mother, and Brother.

Spot that Favorable Market with Newspaper Advertising

. . . no amount of advertising can bring success to a product, if placed in the wrong market

FUNDAMENTAL factors influence the buying habits of consumers in the trading areas throughout the land. Climate, topography, density of population affects man's clothing, food, occupation, housing and manner of living. If a product is not in conformity with the desires and preferences which grow from the characteristics of the market, it can be said that no profitable volume of trade can be developed.

Newspapers advertising eliminates waste effort . . spots your markets. It conserves sales expense by focusing your sales message where conditions are most favorable to your product and offers a maximum reader attention in a concentrated area.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by the Ardiel Advertising Agency, Limited.

Equalized Assessment Change For Smith and Village Is Refused By County Council

Appeals Are Made For Lower Assessments In Dummer For Y.W. and Rotary Camps

Adoption of the reforestation committee's report authorizing purchase of 2,665 acres of Crown Lands in Dummer and Belmont townships from the Ontario government for $3,000, was one of the features of the concluding session of the county council Saturday afternoon. The details of the deal had been discussed thoroughly in committee, clearing the way for the passing of the enabling bylaw without debate.

Equalization of the county assessment remains unchanged. Reeve Allan B. Mann of Smith, and Reeves J. R. Thompson, E. Seeney and C. S. Tanner, of Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield respectively, faced a majority that offered them no support or encouragement. Reeve Mann found himself in an ironic position when, in the temporary absence of his Deputy-reeve, Harry Fowler, chairman of the equalization committee, the report of the committee devolved to Mr. Mann. "It's tough to have read a sad story like this," he remarked smiling, and later he refused to move the adoption of the report. However, two of the majority members attended to that bit of business. They were Reeve Coughlin and Deputy-reeve Johnston.

Both Reeves Mann and Tanner intimated that they were only retreating for the time being, but they were not surrendering their claims.

"If we can't get anywhere there's no use wasting time, but we may have a chance at it again later," Reeve Mann said.

With eleven of the members voting for no change in the assessment, Reeve Tanner remarked that obviously couldn't hope to get any further by increasing the opposition from three to four votes. However, he was counted with the minority nays on the division which Reeve Thompson requested the clerk to record in the minutes.

Two Camp Petitions

Increases in the assessment of the Y.W.C.A. camp and the Rotary Club's camp for boys at Stoney Lake were the subjects of petitions by two deputations during the week. Miss L. Brownscombe and Mrs. (Dr.) Yelland had represented the Y.W.C.A., and Alderman Dutton and T. A. MacKay, the Rotary club. Dummer township raised the local assessment, and the two deputations stated that the camps were not operated for profit, afforded moderately priced accommodation for young women and boys, and any increase in taxes was an expense that could not be readily met.

Warden McDonald said the new assessment followed an enquiry into assessments of resorts along Smith [illegible] other shores. He said that if the county would reduce the equalized assessment to cover these camps the township would in turn pass the advantage on to the Y.W.C.A. and Rotary Clubs.

Reeve Milby commented that Dummer was putting the cart before the horse, and that if the local assessment was reduced that fact could be brought to the attention of the county council. No further action was taken beyond that suggestion. Reeve Tanner said the council could not interfere with the local assessments. Mr. Dutton reminded the council that children from the county were included among those who had received treatment through the agency of the Rotary Club for deformities and other crippled conditions that would have left them impaired for life. Some of the children had been permanently cured.

"I feel this is an assessment Dummer should handle the same as any other, and if they show a loss in their local assessment by giving some concession to the two camps I think this council would then consider it," Reeve Gifford said.

Chemong Bridge

Reeve Gifford reported to the council the appeal by largely attended meetings of Ennismore to get some action for the construction of a permanent bridge over Chemong Lake. He contended that the reduction in the townships assessment was proof that for years Ennismore had been paying more taxes than should have been charged against it, and to that extent the township contributed to the county an amount equal to the annual upkeep of the bridge. Engineers have recently examined the locality, but they have made no new soundings. Contractors who have also expressed interest in the project said a bridge could be built at a reasonable cost.

The committee appointed at the Ennismore meetings was composed of Mayor Hamilton, Warden McDonald, J. J. Duffus, M.P., A. L. Elliott, M.L.A. and Mr. Gifford, and they had added as county representatives Reeves Mann, Anderson and Shearer, and Deputy-reeve Johnston. The council approved the inclusion of its members, and on Mr. Gifford's motion, seconded by Mr. Shearer, the city and county engineers will be asked to prepare separate estimates of the cost of a new bridge.

The Crippling Effect Of Rheumatism

Rheumatism is a constitutional disease caused by an accumulation of uric acid in the blood and is greatly aggravated by cold and dampness. It generally leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain and agony is almost unbearable.

Burdock Blood Bitters by invigorating the digestive organs, and eliminating the uric acid from the system will help in giving you relief from this torturing trouble.

MR. HENRY THORNTON, Beeton, Ont., writes:—"I have been a well digger for the past fifteen years, and five years ago I got rheumatism in my left hip and knee from the dampness in the wells.

I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do me any good until our druggist advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and it was only a short time until the rheumatism was completely out of my system."

Guenther Gustav Rumrich, who deserted from his post at Missoula, Mont., and Private Erich Glaser, a naturalized German attached to the army air corps at Mitchell field. Held in so-called "protective custody" for reasons never made public are Mrs. Kate M. Busch and Miss Santa de Wanger, both of whom are known to have been intimates of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, also indicted, and a key witness who has fled to Germany along with Werner Gudenberg and Heinz Spanknobel, other key witnesses in the probe. Mrs. Griebl was arrested as she was about to sail later, but then was released on bail. German officials in Berlin exressed surprise over the indictments and termed them "fantastic."

Alleged Spies Are Arraigned

These three men, TOP, who face federal spy charges are a trifle bashful about facing the camera as they return to the United States Marshal's van after arraignment in federal court, New York. The men, who are among 18 indicted for espionage by the U.S. government, are LEFT to RIGHT: Guenther Gustave Reimrich, Otto H. Voss, and Erich Glaser. Not at all bashful is Johanna Hoffman, 26-year-old beauty parlor operator of the liner Europa, as she rides in the front seat beside the driver of the Marshal's van, BOTTOM. The picnic will be held at Birdsall's Beach and committees to take charge were appointed booth committee, Mrs. J. Clysdale and Miss Mary Garrie; lunch director, Mrs. W. Morris; sports convenor, Miss Rita Faux.

A chorus by the school children who also led in singing the National Anthem, brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Temporary Jobs Are Hard To Fill

MONTREAL, June 27—(CP)—The combined effect of Montreal's heat wave and the effort to find men to fill jobs has almost prostrated the city's latest addition to its file of adlermen—Thomas Patrick Healy.

In fact, after he had dashed about in search of men, he was heard to cry out, "I'll give $50 to anyone who can get me 25 men to work on temporary jobs."

Heads of families on relief will not take temporary jobs, he said, and risk being cut off relief rolls. It would take them weeks to get back on, he added.

Father Of Eighteen Children Believes Best Days Were When Family Young

When Family Begins To Leave The Nest You Can't Help By Worry James Crough, Otonabee Farmer, Declares

To be father of a bright and study family of eighteen children in these days of little faith and—perhaps as a consequence—much trouble has never caused James Crough of Otonabee, and recently of Ennismore, any worry, he told the Examiner Monday evening, and then as if a little doubt was passing quickly through his mind he added, and he seemed to be not quite sure of it, "not until they begin to grow up."

"My wife and I used to say that our happiest times would come when the children were grown up," Mr. Crough mused in the twilight sitting on the roadside along No. 7 highway. "Perhaps those times are to come, but we have since said our happiest days were when the children were young."

With at least half his numerous flock still of tender years and the baby only ten month old, Mr. Crough obviously meant that period of his marriage when the first arrivals were tots around the house until their first years at school.

Future and Security.

"We never had to worry about such things as health and enough of the things we needed, but now that some of them are growing up, well it's like this, you begin to think of the world outside where they have to go, and I'm not so sure about it. Times have changed an awful lot in twenty years, and I simply don't know the young people of today. I mean young people in general. I don't want you to get the impression that I am doubting the children, that's not the point; I was talking about not worrying. I guess it is the common experience of all fathers, you don't worry when the youngsters are small and when they are healthy. As they begin to leave the nest you can't help worrying a little bit anyway about how the world is going to receive them, especially when your hope is that they will all grow up to be fine citizens. Well, I've done the best I can for them."

Any Preference?

Has a father of eighteen any preference among his children? Mr. Crough again hesitated a little when he answeerd "no" to that question. And that hint of an exception and its explanation suggested that there is something primal as well as sentimental to what is known as primogeniture, briefly, first in order of birth. Mr. Crough said that perhaps his keenest impressions and memories were of his eldest son, Timothy Joseph, who, according to Ennismore custom is called Tim Joe by the family.

James Crough and Bernadette Crowley, both of Ennismore, were married by Rev. J. V. McAuley in St. Martins Church, twenty years ago on June 11, and at the request of the elder children the anniversary was celebrated last Friday night. Mrs. Crough was the daughter of Patrick Crowley, formerly of Otonabee township. All the eighteen children were born in Ennismore, but last fall the 140 acre farm the family occupied was sold, so they moved into Otonabee about a mile off No. 12 school, the old Sargent farm.

"The two oldest boys and I were away working when we had to move on the first of March. We were away from the first of November

Herridge Sees Attempt At Party Merger

HALIFAX, June 28 (CP)—Charging reactionary forces in Canada control both the Liberal and Conservative Parties and are seeking to form a National Government, W. D. Herridge, Ottawa barrister, and former Canadian Minister to Washington, Monday advocated a Conservative program of reform to fight this reaction.

In a speech before the Halifax City and County Conservative Association, Mr. Herridge disclosed he was not a candidate for the Conservative Party leadership to be filled at the national convention in Ottawa next week. He has been mentioned as a possible successor to the present Leader, Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, who is retiring.

Urges National Policy.

Urging that the convention adopt a truly national policy, based on the principles of Canada first, to battle the attempt to merge the two old parties, which would be "a sort of anschluss, Canadian style." Mr. Herridge said: "There is no prosperity because there is an obsolete economic system unable efficiently to operate in the conditions of today."

"We must reform this system so that prosperity may take the place of want and unemployment. We must do it now. We will never do it without leadership. I feel it is my duty to urge these views. I have no other purpose in coming here, for I am not a candidate for the leadership of the Conservative Party."

He said that Canada's only hope is in reform, and the only hope of reform is in the Conservative Party.

"No party ever had so great a chance to serve its country. On the one hand, there are the forces of reaction building into fascism. On the other hand, there are the forces of freedoom building into revolution. Conservatism must be the master-builder. It must control these forces so that it can shape the future upon lines of prosperity and peace.

Purpose, High Profits.

"If at this convention it does not take the power to do so, it never then can be the master builder. It will itself go into the building of fascism. The Conservative Party will disappear. Hard-pressed democracy the world over will take time off to weep for it.

Mr. Herridge said that reaction now plans to merge the Liberals and Conservatives into a National Government and the purpose of this

Second Test Match Ends In Deadlock

LONDON, June 28—(CP Cable).—England and Australia remain deadlocked in the 1938 test cricket series. The second encounter at Lord's ended in a draw to-day, time being called with Australia 110 runs in arrears and only four wickets to fall.

With three hours left for play, Australia started its second innings in the second cricket test match against England, needing 315 runs for victory. Wally Hammond declared England's final innings shortly before 3.30 this afternoon at 242 runs for eight wickets.

Don Brandman and the Aussies faced the task of scoring 100 runs an hour, a difficult feat on a treacherous wicket. The overseas players made 422 runs in their first innings in reply to England's 484.

Fifteen thousand specators at Lord's saw Denis Compton and Arthur Wellard hit out vigorously to carry England's total from 142 for seven wickets to 216, when the latter was dismissed for 38 runs. The stand came at a time when a draw appeared likely.

Compton, who went in at the fall of the sixth wicket slashed at the bowling and remained unbeaten with 76, when Hammond declared. He hit 14 fours. His last partner was Douglas Wright, the young Kent bowler, defending well for 10 runs.

Prior to the Compton-Wellard partnership, wickets had fallen rapidly as the Aussie bowlers took full advantage of a wicket still wet from yesterday's rain. Edward Paynter, Lancashire, with 42 runs was second highest scorer.

Three Antipodean bowlers shared the wickets. E. L. McCormick dismissed three men for 72, W. P. O'Reilly took two for 53, and S. J. McCabe two for 58.

When the Australians went to bat in the final stage, England had Paynter keeping wicket in place of Leslie Ames. The Kent player received a hard crack on the hand while batting and went to hospital for an X-ray examination. Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire, took Paynter's place in the field.

Housing Bill Is Given Third Reading

OTTAWA, June 28 (CP)—Without discussion or dissent the House of Commons today gave third reading to the housing bill and sent it to the senate for approval.

The bill revises and extends the housing act of 1935, provides additional funds for loans to home builders in conjunction with loan companies, makes special inducements for the construction of small houses and for construction in smaller communities and authorizes the lending of $30 000,000 by the government for the erection of low-cost, low-rental housing projects.

The house also put through all stages two measures amending the seeds act and dairy industry act to bring their terminology into line with changes effected in reorganization of the agriculture department.

Three Englishmen Motor From Delhi To London In Car That Cost Them $70

London, June 28.

THREE young Englishmen have arrived here from Delhi, India, after a 6,500-mile drive in an automobile that cost them $70 and took them over a route never before attempted in a car.

The men, Captain C. V. Griffin of the Royal Engineers, Lieut. G. W. M. Kenrick of the South Staffordshires and O'Brien Thompson, an engineer, spent two months on the road, repaired one broken axle and three broken springs and stayed with natives in mud huts and tents.

Once they thought they were stopped by a seasonal river 150 feet wide and four feet deep. But coolies helped them dismantle the car and carry it across to the opposite bank where they re-assembled it.

210 Foreigners Leave Hankow By Special Train

HANKOW, June 28 (AP).—The international train draped with British, United States, French and German flags departed from Hankow today carrying 210 foreigners of seven nationalities, but 26 German advisers to the Chinese army were not aboard.

The Germans, it was said, would leave in special coaches to be provided by Chinese authorities July 5. They were unable to depart today, as scheduled, because of farewell functions planned in their honor.

The international train was routed toward Hong Kong.

The remaining international community includes more than 200 Britons, 150 Americans, 50 French and a like number of Germans, including the military advisers headed by General Alexander von Falkenhausen.

The Berlin government has recalled the German Ambassador, Oscar Trautmann, because of apparent displeasure over the reluctance of General Chiang Kai-Shek to part with his military experts who are credited with a large share of Chinese war strategy.

The German government requested the release of the military mission May 21, and later is reported to have threatened the advisers with loss of citizenship and property confiscation unless they departed.

High-Grader Sentenced

TORONTO, June 28.—(CP)—Grace Berghella, convicted of high-grading, was sentenced to three months in jail today by Judge James Parker. The young woman was convicted yesterday after police testified they arested her wearing a belt filled with $1,100 worth of gold dust. The woman said her only interest in the dust was the $30 she was paid for bringing it from northern Ontario to Toronto.

Hon. T. Ahearn Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP). —Hon. Thomas Ahearn, 83, pioneer Ottawa businesman and industrialist, died at his home here to-day.

After enjoying robust health most of his life, Mr. Ahearn took ill about a year ago and has been ailing since.

Originally a telegraph operator, he entered the field of electrical utilities and eventually formed through mergers the Ottawa Light, Heat and Power Company, of which he was president. In 1928 he was made a member of the Privy Council.

Morse Operator.

He received his early education at Ottawa but left when he was 15 to work for the Montreal Telegraph Company. He finally became a Morse operator at $8 a month. He never permitted himself to forget his start in life and even when more than 70 years of age was able to operate the "key" and the "bug" as well as he could in his youth.

As a telegraph operator he worked in the House of Commons office of his company, sending copy of the parliamentary writers for several years, then went to New York to work with the Western Union.

Two years later he returned to the capital and he and the late Wil-

Interest Rates To Be Cut On Small Loans

OTTAWA, June 28. — A measure of relief for the wage earner who is forced to borrow money from small loan companies, was given first reading in the House of Commons on Monday.

The Bill, an Act to amend the Loan Companies Act, reduces interest rates from 2½ per cent. to 2 per cent. It was introduced by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, acting for Finance Minister Dunning. The Finance Minister, who last week suffered a slight heart attack, has been warned by his physicians to avoid heavy Parliamentary duties.

If time permits before prorogation of Parliament, the Small Loan Bill may be dropped and the House will proceed with far more drastic legislation covering the whole field of small loans. The second measure, which is on the Parliamentary Order Paper, is aimed at the "loan sharks" industry.

Monday's Bill was merely an amendment to existing legislation governing small loan companies and the only change is the reduction of chargeable interest.

"If there is time to proceed with the small loans legislation, it may not be necessary to proceed with this Bill as it covers the same ground to some extent," Mr. Ilsley said yesterday in response to a question from Opposition Leader Bennett.

The second Bill is the result of many weeks of study by the House of Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce. If it is not approved at this session, it will make an early appearance at the next sitting of Parliament.

The Bill will regulate the cost of small loans and will have extensive powers concerning the incorporation of small loan companies and their licensing. The loan companies will be forced to pay a fee sufficient to cover the Government's cost of administering the Act.

"Love Strike" Ends As Divorcee Leaves

IRVINGTON, N.Y., June 28 (A. P.). — Mrs. Hedi Heusser, pretty red-haired divorcee, said she would end to-day her "love strike" in the home of Rollo K. Blanchard, 50, the wealthy water meter manufacturer.

Mrs. Heusser, mother of two children, entered the home a week ago, saying she would not leave until Blanchard married her. Blanchard promptly moved his two children and servants to his yacht in the Hudson River.

Tiring of her long vigil last night, Mrs. Heusser announced her new plans from an upper bedroom window to her attorney, Mortimer D. O'Brien, who stood outside in the rain.

Four private detectives hired by Blanchard had kept anyone from entering the house.

O'Brien said he understood Mrs. Heusser would return to her apartment in nearby Scarsdale. He said she had met Betty Blanchard, 17, a year ago, and the girl had introduced her to her father.

Blanchard, through his attorney, William D. Cunningham, denied Mrs. Heusser's contention he had proposed marriage to her two weeks ago. He said he would not marry her, but would "continue to be the hospitable host to an unwelcome guest."

Gibraltar Is Threatened By Insurgent Spain Duchess Of Atholl Claims

Frequent Critic of Chamberlain Government Enumerates Guns Which Threaten Gibraltar In Notice of Question

LONDON, June 28 (AP).—The Duchess of Atholl today gave details of what she said were guns "threatening Gibraltar" from insurgent Spain and issued notice she would ask Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons tomorrow what he intends to do about them.

The Duchess recently resigned the Conservative Whip and has been a frequent critic of the government over its Spanish policy.

The question of such guns, allegedly of German manufacture, has been raised repeatedly during the Spanish civil war. The government has taken the position generally that they are not a threat to Gibraltar, the fortess at the western entrance to the Mediterranean.

The Duchess' question enumerates the guns in greater detail than any previous list. It cites:

More than 20 guns in hills around insurgent-held Algeciras, across the bay from Gibraltar, including three pieces of more than 10 inches;

A number of long-range 5.9-inch guns and several howitzers "so placed that they could drop shells in Gibraltar but yet are invisible from the highest point on the rock";

Nine naval-type guns of about four inches on Punta Carnero;

At least one 15-inch gun on a high peak near Alcala de las Gasules, almost 21 miles inland;

About 45 guns ranging from six to 15 inches near Ceuta, in Spanish Morocco directly opposite Gibraltar.

Mounting indignation over continued bombing of British merchant ships in Spanish ports led some quarters to anticipate fresh demands to allow the ships to arm in defence.

Early Hopes Dashed

Earlier hopes that a five-day lull in attacks on British ships indicated General Franco at last was responding to repeated protests were dashed yesterday by the destruction of two more merchantmen, the Arlon and the Farnham, with a loss of four lives.

On top of that, six Insurgent planes bombed the British-operated port of Gandia, 35 miles south of Valencia, and dropped missiles near H.M.S. Arethusa, anchored off the breakwater.

British maritime losses now total 59 ships attacked, 36 seamen killed and 50 wounded. Two London papers, the Daily Herald (Labor) and the Daily Mail (Independent) today reported General Franco's "spies" were stationed at British ports to report the departure of every ship. The Daily Mirror headlined its story of the situation: "Premier Fooled by Franco."

Adding to uneasiness was a report from Rome that Premier Mussolini had held a conference with two of his foremost officers—Marshal Pietro Badaglio, Chief of the General Staff, and General Alberto Pariani, Under-Secretary for War.

Although it was supposed Mussolini meant the conference to direct attention to the Italian promise to answer with "cannon" any Spanish government attempt to back up its threat to bomb Italian cities, some sources suggested the discussion may have been on the general conduct of the Spanish Civil War.

One Big Final Drive.

The possibility was kept in mind

72-Year-Old Man To Stand Trial Murder Count

OWEN SOUND, Ont., June 28 (CP)—Lafayette (Harry) Dales, 72-year-old Sydenham township farmhand, today was committed for trial on a charge of murder as completion of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate E. C. Spereman in police court here.

The charge was laid in connection with the death last May 11 of William Waterton, 81-year-old Balaclava recluse. Waterton was found shot to death in his isolated cottage 12 miles northeast of Owen Sound.

The preliminary hearing was adjourned from June 23 when the results of a post mortem examination were presented and Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department, testified Dales' clothing was stained with human blood. Dr. Frankish said the gun from which was fired the fatal charge was held at a distance not less than 11 feet from the body.

Body Found In Quilts

According to the evidence, a charge from a shotgun found near the body of the one-armed recluse could have inflicted the fatal wounds. Waterton's body was found wrapped in quilts on a bed by a passing Sydenham township tax collector, Walter Reid, who testified the body was "lying on the bed at an angle, feet on the floor."

Mrs. Hanna Fanning, wife of Thomas (Shanny) Fanning who disappeared May 25, was today's first witness. Said by authorities to be a "key witness" in the case, Fanning set out on Owen Sound Bay to return a borrowed boat and never returned. The boat was found drifting several miles offshore.

Mrs. Fanning said the Fanning family were neighbors of Waterton, living in the only house in that district that was near Waterton's. On May 11, while her husband was visiting a friend about 8 p.m., she saw Dales "coming around the end" of Waterton's pig pen and then "went toward the door of Waterton's house," Mrs. Fanning testified.

"He opened the door and went in, then came out and picked up what looked like kindling wood," Mrs. Fanning added. She said she did not again see Dales so she returned to her home and her husband came back about 9 p.m.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Fanning said the last time she saw Waterton alive was on May 10. To a question by defence counsel F. G. Mackay, she said Waterton had not lived with his wife for two years prior to his death. The Fannings knew the Waterton family "pretty well," she said. "We visited both the Watertons."

Young Sea Rovers Sailed Stolen Yacht 2,000 Miles

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28—(AP)—The personal story of three young sea rovers who sailed a borrowed $25,000 yacht 2,000 miles before the law halted them was dispatched to the Associated Press today by Capt. Mathew Monise of San Diego, Calif., master of the Tuna boat Victoria.

Captain Monise messaged from Puerto Vallarta, on the southwest coast of Mexico, that he had made friends of the boys by feeding them their first cooked meal in days.

The youthful trio, Lyle Tara, 17, James Henninger, 17, and William Grace, 16, Santa Cruz, Calif., high school students, were detained by Mexican authorities at Puerto Vallarta June 22 after they had been missing from Santa Cruz with the yacht Tira 28 days.

Captain's Story.

Captain Monise said:

"Although they had had no previous sea experience, they had read many books and had for a long time craved a yacht and thought this the easiest way to get one.

"On the way down from Santa Cruz they stopped at Magdalena Bay and were sped merrily on their way by the Mexican coast guard. While there they lost a skiff which they believe was cut adrift.

"They missed their next destination, Cape San Lucas, sighting no land until the Tres Marias Islands in the Gulf of California. From there they made Banderas Bay easily, narrowly missing a severe tropical cyclone.

"The voyage was made entirely with sail as the starter on the auxiliary Diesel motor of the 52-foot ketch was broken.

Round-the-World Cruise In Seven Days Forecast

OTTAWA, June 28 (A.P.). — A 'round the world cruise in seven days in a deluxe "flying whale" was forecast to-day by one of America's outstanding aircraft engineers in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Igor I. Sikorsky, former Russian count who built the first four-motored cabin airplane in Russia in 1913, promised that such an equalling of the 'round-the-world solo record of the late Wiley Post is not a dream to be accomplished 10 years from now, but is almost an actuality.

The pioneer aircraft designer, now engineering manager of the Sikorsky Company at Bridgeport, Conn., showed his plans for a 100-ton flying whale before the Aeronautics Section of the association. The airplane is more than twice the size of the giant planes now flying the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

Resemble a Whale.

The new flying boats will resemble nothing so much as a whale, with a pair of wings instead of side fins and the circular pilots' windows in front forming the teeth. In such ships will be "roomy staterooms on three decks with sleeping accommodations for 100 or more passengers," a dining-room which can be converted into a ballroom, promenade decks, a bar, smoking lounges, and other conveniences," Sikorsky promised.

The wings will be thick enough to house the engines inside them, thus reducing the drag of engine nacelles.

Metal Button Deflects Bullet And Saves Life Of Young Farmer

Buffalo, N.Y., June 28.

A METAL BUTTON deflected a bullet yesterday and saved the life of a farmer near here. Police are searching for two men who were seen target shooting in the neighborhood.

Fatal Shot Fired 24 Years Ago

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia, June 28—(AP)—This Bosnian City, the scene 24 years ago of the assassinations or Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife the Princess Sophie, of Austria-Hungary, took little notice of the anniversary today of the incident that started the Great War.

A little bouquet of carnations withered on the almost forgotten grave of Gavrilo Prinzip, the youth whose pistol shots made Sarjevo historic.

A few tourists showed interest in the little bridge over the Miljazka River, marked now by a tablet, where the shots were fired June 28, 1914. That was all.

Hitch-Hikers Pick Wrong Car To Thumb Police Arrest Two

Welland, June 2..

THE WALLAND Provincial Police were informed by the Waubaushene police that Gilbert Boyd, Little Current, and Vernon Hall of Waubaushene, for whom they held warrants, were believed to be in Welland district.

Provincial Constables Peel and Fox conducted a search in Welland and Port Colborne without avail. On their return journey from Port Colborne they were stopped by two hitch-hikers. The police stopped and asked them their names.

"Gilbert Boyd and Vernon Hall," was the reply.

They were told to hop right in.

Remanded at Welland, they are now awaiting transfer to Waubaushene.

Daring Flier Sinks Jap Gunboat

Crashes Bomb-Laden Plane On Boat On Yangtse River

SHANGHAI, June 28 (A.P.). — A "dare-to-die" Chinese flier was said to-day to have sunk a Japanese gunboat in the Yangtse River by deliberately plunging his burning, bomb-laden plane into the vessel's deck.

Chinese air force officers said the act occurred near Anking, 215 miles down river from Hankow, China's provisional capital, on Monday in air attacks that damaged at least three Japanese gunboats and destroyed six Japanese warplanes.

The Chinese pilot, they said, dived headlong to the gunboat's deck when Japanese anti-aircraft fire set his plane aflame, "exploding his bombs and breaking the back of the man-of-war."

The officers pridefully called the deed another case of a "Chinese flier heroically sacrificing his life at terrific cost to the Japanese."

War Bogged Down.

With the war bogged down on all fronts, most Japanese operations were confined to aerial attacks over South China.

The Island of Hainan off the coast of Kwangtung Province was bombed yesterday. No new sign of a major Japanese offensive in South China was apparent, however.

(In Tokyo, the Japanese Foreign Office denied Japan had been warned by France and Great Britain against occupying Hainan Island, strategically situated near French Indo-China and British Hong Kong.

(Richard Austen Butler, British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, yesterday told the House of Commons a joint British-French warning had been issued to Japan to keep her hands off Hainan. He said the two Powers were pledged to act together to meet any "complications.")

Devastating floods of the Yellow River, in Honan Province, have swamped Japan's siege of Chengchow and inundated wide areas of what was the main battle area of the conflict.

Sister Refuses Peace Move

BEAVERTON, June 28.—With a two-foot piece of split stove-wood that had been used as a bludgeon resting on the Magistrate's desk as an exhibit in Police Court Monday, Magistrate C. F. Bick attempted to reconcile two Indian young women of the Rama Reserve near Orillia, with their sister, whom, according to testimony they had attacked and knocked unconscious on the Rama Road on the night of June 10.

The two sisters, Mrs. Greta Shilling and Miss Mammie Ingersoll were willing enough, when the Magistrate said he would give them two years' suspended sentence in place of a jail term, to shake hands with the injured sister, Mrs. Diana Duval, and forget past bad feeling, but Mrs. Duval refused to accede to the request. She wanted terms; she wanted back her children, whom, she said her sisters, her mother and her husband, who "deserted me for my mother," had taken away and hidden from her.

Decision on the case was finally reserved for a week, with the two sisters in custody.

Forbidden Air Travel

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—Bugs will not be permitted to hitch hike on the transatlantic airplanes, the United States Commerce Department said today. Imperial Airways and Pan American Airways are to inaugurate joint service between Great Britain and the United States this fall.

Regina Threatens To Use Raw Milk Unless Prices Cut

Regina, June 28.

AN ULTIMATUM, threatening repeal of the pasteurization by-law, thus permitting the sale of raw milk in Regina, if milk prices were not reduced from 12 to 10 cents a quart, was handed to the milk distributors and the Milk Control Board today by Mayor A. C. Ellison.

The Mayor also warned unless prices were slashed, the city would resort to the use of canned milk in its hospital and institutions, and would recommend the use of canned milk in relief diets.

He announced that the city, in answer to the pressure from the citizens, was definitely starting a campaign for ten-cent milk, "for a start."

Grant Governor Long Leave

OTTAWA, June 28—Lord Tweedsmuir will sail for England on Friday of this week for an extended leave of absence in the British Isles, it was learned here last night.

In one respect the Governor-General's holiday sets a precedent. It is the first time the consent of the Government of Canada has been required for the absence of a Governor-General. This provision is contained in the Statute of Westminster.

He will sail from Quebec on the Empress of Britain, and will return early in August to resume his duties here.

There is a two-fold purpose in this trip, which is his first visit home since his appointment as the King's representative in Canada. He is to be installed as Chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, a post to which he was elected some time ago. Secondly, he is anxious to join his wife, Lady Tweedsmuir, who has been absent from Canada for several months.

Slot Machines Are In For Ride

OTTAWA, June 28. — New and drastic regulations concerning the operation of slot machines will be written into the Criminal Code within the next few days, despite petitions from owners and operators of the machines.

Since the Government first announced that the Criminal Code amendments would be introduced his session, slot machine manufacturers have been on the doorstep of the Government, urging that the new regulations be dropped.

Justice Minister Lapointe has, it is said, taken a firm stand on the new measure and is determined to introduce it and have it approved by Parliament. The slot machine amendment is included in his new bill covering fifty or more changes in the Criminal Code. He has, it is said, given a curt refusal to the slot machine operators in reply to their petitions and lobbying.

The new amendment provides that wherever a slot machine is found it shall be "irrebutable presumption that such house, room or place is a common gaming house." The amendment provides that slot machines may be used as vending machines only, but that where there is any indication that gambling is permitted prosecution will follow.

Commons Hopes To Prorogue Next Thursday

OTTAWA, June 28 (C.P.). — A two-hour morning period was added to the daily sessions of Parliament to-day, but judging from progress made in the House of Commons yesterday and the sentiments uttered with respect to the objective—Prorogation Thursday — it seemed likely much legislation would have to be side-tracked.

Long orations on monetary policy occupied most of yesterday and little progress was made. From J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit Leader, Opposition Leader Bennett, and the Liebral Monetary Reformer, G. G. McGeer, Vancouver-Burrard, came ideas and suggestions as to what might be done with Canada's vast credit and monetary resources lying unused in the banks.

This debate arose over the Bill to enable the Government to acquire exclusive ownership of the Bank of Canada. M. J. W. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) congratulated the Government on this move, which he said was long urged by his party and their predecessors in the Labor group. The Bill reached committee stage, but did not advance beyond that.

Not Given Third Reading.

After a brief debate the House in committee passed the housing legislation, but it was not given third reading. Revenue Minister Ilsley acted for the ailing Finance Minister Dunning on the Bank of Canada measures, and Labor Minister Rogers had charge of the Housing Bill.

During the last hour the House considered the Bulks Elections and Franchise Bill in which several sections have been held up pending amendments to meet points raised by the Opposition.

No progress was made.

Mr. Bennett raised objections at the start of the day's proceedings when Prime Minister Mackenzie King moved a resolution calling for morning sittings starting at 11 o'clock to-day. He said several committees were still at work and it was not customary to have daily sittings while committees were still in session. He thought the Government should determine now what legislation would be proceeded with if it was proposed to prorogue on Thursday.

Mr. Mackenzie King said the party whips had agreed prorogation could be reached on Thursday and he intimated if there were any contentious items among those still to be

Robert Shaw Dies In Electric Chair

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 28 (AP)—Twenty-seven-year-old Robert Shaw, saved from Indiana's electric chair four nights ago by a reprieve, kept his second date with death at 12:05 a.m. today.

Condemned to pay the supreme penalty for slaying a Lagrange county deputy sheriff, Shaw left his cell at 12:04 a.m. Walking unaided "the last mile," he was placed in the chair and the switch pulled a minute later.

At 12:08 the current was turned off, and 60 seconds later physicians pronounced the young man dead. Prison officials said Shaw, a British subject who came to Canada as a Barnardo Home boy made no statement before he died.

Shaw lived many years in Canada where he came from England in 1922. Warden Alfred Dowd said when Shaw was committed he gave as his home address George Feildine, Rural Route No. 2, Puslinch, Ontario."

Shaw was to have died early last Friday but Governor Townsend issued a reprieve 30 minutes before the scheduled execution because of a question as to the legality of a death sentence without a jury trial. Attorney-General Omer S. Jackson ruled, however, the sentence was valid and should be carried out.

The prisoner, who killed Deputy Sheriff Harry E. Spice last Dec. 3, read the Bible almost continuously. He spoke several times of his brothers and sisters in England, whom he had not seen since 1922.

Magistrate Langley remanded Dunford until next week, naming July 4 as the date.

"July the what?" asked the accused bluntly.

"Let me tell you," replied the magistrate "that magistrates in this country are not used to be spoken to in that manner. Could you not have put your question politely?"

liam Soper formed their partnership in the electrical equipment business. It quickly branched out into the building of telegraph lines for the Commercial Cable Company and finally obtained a large contract from the Canadian Pacific Railway for the telegraph equipment from coast to coast.

Then the firm of Soper and Ahearn went into the field of electrical transportation and in 1891 inaugurated Ottawa's first street railway line.

In 1893 the firm followed up its initial success with electrically driven street cars by proving that they could be operated through the winter months. It was the first time in Canada that such cars were used in the winter.

Made History in 1928.

His success and prestige in electrical deevlopment continued and in 1926 he made history by being the first Canadian to speak to England over the telephone by beam wireless system.

Later in the same year, he was selected chairman of the Ottawa Improvement Commission, a Federal Government body engaged in beautification of Ottawa and its environs.

Later the commission was formed into the Federal District Commission which Mr. Ahern headed until 1932, when he resigned. In 1926 he was rewarded for his enterprise in business, industry and commission work by appointment to the Privy Council, an honor seldom given a person not in public life.

His son, T. F. Ahern, Liberal member for Ottawa West, was for some years owner of the Ottawa Hockey Club which formerly played in the National Hockey League.

Besides his son, T. F. Ahern, one daughter, Mrs. H. S. Southam, survives.

Strong Protests Are Made To Oshawa Council

OSHAWA, June 28. — Recriminations, personalities and challenges, accompanied at times by the applauding and stamping of feet by the spectators as nineteen organizations sent deputation protesting against the lengthening of the closing hours of local beverage rooms, turned a special meeting of Oshawa's labor City Council Monday night into a three-ring circus.

When the noise subsided, the City Council had passed a by-law lengthening the hours of closing from 11 p.m. until midnight, passed a resolution suggesting how the temperance question should be handled a motion requesting the Provincial Government to close all beverage rooms in the Province at 10 p.m. and endorsed a resolution of the W.C.T.U. requesting the Government to go back to the single-permit system of selling beer so that a closer check could be made.

Mayor McLee, who was a central figure in the many arguments, declared "we owe the public an apology for the show put on tonight."

When the Council meeting opened, Alderman William Walker immediately suggested that all deputations be limited to two minute addresses which was later changed with only two speakers addressing the Council on behalf of the organizations. Mrs. C. W. Carr, representing the W. C. T. U. asked: "How can we ask for more relief funds and champion the sale of beer?"

When Alderman Walker brought in a by-law rescinding the previous by-law and extending the closing hours, Alderman Anderson moved that the by-law be laid on the table for three months.

A motion requesting the Government to close beverage rooms throughout the Province at 10 p.m. and that the Government steps to curtail the illegal sale of beverages sponsored by Alderman Anderson was adopted without argument.

Burglar Escapes Leaving His Car

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28. — A burglar early this morning broke into the meat shop of Joel McArthur and there secured $3.55 in cash. He overlooked $250 in cheques which were all endorsed and ready to be deposited in the bank when it opened today. From the butcher shop he went into the adjoining grocery store and there missed $50 in cash which was in a bag at the back of the till.

The burglar raised a window into a room at the rear of the store and from there broke through the door with an axe. The till was not locked.

Constable Hardy noticed the broken window and then saw a car parked near the armouries. Just then the burglar came out and on seeing the constable he took flight leaving his automobile.

The burglar earlier in the evening is believed to have boken into the gas pump at Frasers service station and stole 10 gallons of gas.

The owner of the car which is thought to have been stolen had not been found at a late hour this afternoon.

Sea Is Found Rich In Plant Life

LA JOLLA, Calif., June 28 (A.P.). —If an acre of the top waters of the sea could be strained of its unseen plant life, the harvest would equal the yield of an acre of land.

This clue to the richness of plant life in the sea comes from a study of oxygen consumed in Pacific Ocean water off the coast of California. One square meter, 100 meters deep, produces five pounds of microscopical plants a year, it has been found by the Scripps Institution of Oceanography here.

These plants, diatoms, dinoflagellates, and Coccolithoporidae, probably furnished the earth's first meals, when life started in the waters. This primitive crop is still the only source of food in the sea. All the sea animals either feed on it, or other animals which live on the tiny plants. Kelp and seaweed are a negligible source of food in comparison to the almost invisible surface water crops.

Average Family Not In Position To Obtain High Standard Of Living Rotarians Are Told

Canada's Welfare Problem Aggravated By Haphazard Method Of Approaching It

Canada's social welfare problem is aggravated by haphazard method of approaching it, by lack of public knowledge and awareness of its extent, and by an attitude which still regards the conditions of the last seven or eight years as an emergency likely to correct itself as swiftly as it developed, Miss Muriel Tucker of the family welfare division of the Canadian Welfare Council of Ottawa told the Rotary Club at its Monday luncheon.

Miss Tucker came to Peterborough as substitute for Miss Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., executive director of the Welfare Council, who was prevented from keeping her engagement for which a group of ladies and other citizens interested in local welfare were invited as guests of the Club.

Referring to the economic background of Canadian home life, Miss Tucker said that according to the 1931 statistics the average wage of men was $927 and women $560, but it had been estimated that the man's wage today might not exceed $860. With that comparatively low income the average family was not in a position to attain a high standard of living, and save money against the occurrence of illness, accidents and unemployment.

No Reserve Finances

Too often when the wage-earner was thrown out of employment the family lacked reserve of finances to provide for extended idleness, and the problem of the family was transferred to the state.

Miss Tucker said that 20 per cent of the population were wage-earners with an additional 13 per cent. engaged in agricultural work, business or other means of obtaining their livelihood. The rest are dependent on the earning power of parents, other relatives or some form of social service. And 32 per cent are under fifteen years of age. Exact information about the social problem of this country was obscured by the lack of co-ordination by the nine provinces, and by divergency of policy and method even between rural and urban municipalities.

Ontario and British Columbia lead the Canadian provinces in their social programs with New Brunswick and Quebec at the other end. The forms of social assistance include direct unemployment relief by work schemes, cash payments or the voucher system of providing the necessities of life, mothers allowances, care of children through such agencies as the Childrens Aid Society, health service, hospitalization and sanitaria care, and the special relief that was distributed among the farmers of the drought area of the western provinces.

Direct Relief Cost $115,000,000

In 1936 the amount of money expended in direct relief in Canada was $115,000,000. Significant of the difficulties confronting social welfare effort was the fact, Miss Tucker said, that the National Employment Council tried for eighteen months to correlate information about conditions in the various provinces, and finally had to admit failure to fill in a true picture of the Canadian problem as a whole. Even in such details as the periods of residence there was no general agreement, the terms ranging from three months upward for the establishment of a right to receive local relief.

With the economic basis Miss Tucker linked inadequate housing, overcrowding, unsanitary conditions, infantile mortality, all of the circumstances which formed a vicious circle of deprivation.

Miss Tucker posed the question to her Rotary audience, what can be done to improve these conditions, and affirming or repeating that uniformity of plan was impossible in Canada she recommended that each locality should be fully acquainted of the problem as affecting that sector including town and country comprising a certain district. There were not only city slums but also rural slums which were more generally ignored because of the distance between such homes in country places.

National Program Needed

The local facts which should be known comprehended the information received by welfare boards, the resources of the branch of the Childrens Aid Society and the problem it had to deal with, the health level of the community, care of mothers, hospitalization and so on. Child delinquency was also mentioned in this suggested survey, and with it Miss Tucker spoke of patients recovering at sanitoria and youths returned from training schools, gravitating back to the home conditions which had impaired them. In the lack of a complete national program, Miss Tucker said that local communities could at least assist to national betterment by activities on a broad scale directed to the correcting as much as posible the local debilitating causes.

In expressing the thanks of the Rotary Club to Miss Tucker, Rev. Dr. Barr emphasized the seriousness of the problem of social welfare in its local aspects, the need of public understanding and sympathy, and the responsibility that rested upon those who assumed public administration.

Some of the Club's guests were: Mrs. R. H. Turner, representing the Red Cross; Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, the Y.W.C.A.; Miss R. Young of the Childrens Aid Society; A. G. Metheral and Miss A. Beavis of the city's relief office; J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Comerce S. R. Armstrong, city clerk; Miss Z. It was decided that each branch secretary send Mrs. Farley a card in recognition of her faithful services in the work of the Institute.

Branch reports were given by the various secretaries and Mrs. Howard Clark discussed the work carried on by the branches.

Miss Greta Pollard of Bowmanville gave a talk on the girls' work and offered suggestions on promoting friendliness and goodwill in the Institute, and congratulated the Warkworth branch on the efforts of the girls' work at the achievement days. Miss Norma Snyder sang "Sweeter Songs Than the Brown Bird Ever Knew."

A. H. Martin Speaks.

A. H. Martin, agricultural representative, gave a very excellent address on "Home Beautification," studying it from four angles—rural home property, rural school property, roadside planting, and private property. Mr. Martin paid tribute to the district Institute in starting the first musical festival which has proved a worth-while effort. He also paid a tribute to the school and music teachers and requested Mrs. Denyes to present the Musical Festival Shield to the Percy Institute branch, who won the first prize for singing at the festival. Mrs. James Black expressed her thanks on behalf of the members, and handed the shield over to Mrs. Helson, president. A certificate was presented as the third prize for the annual competition to the York Road branch.

Mrs. F. Denyes then brought greetings from the Federative Institute and explained what the Federation did for the branches. She complimented the branches on the work done during the year. The Crippled Children's Fund superintendent wished to thank the Institute for the splendid contributions. Ninety-eight per cent. of the branches in Ontario responded to the appeal and as a result $4,317.50 was received.

Greetings from South Africa, England and Wales were read in regard to the International Peace Day.

The vote on the district project resulted as follows: A training school will be held in Buymanship at Warkworth in the early fall, instructed by Miss Collins of Toronto.

The meeting was then dismissed, quite a number remaining for afternoon tea served by the York Road ladies.

CHARLESTON, W.Va., June 28 (AP)—Romeo Reveal, 24, who admitted he shot and killed his uncle, Clarence Walker, for singing a "Hill Billy" song, pleaded guilty yesterday and was sentenced to 15 years in prison. The shooting occurred at a party last September. Reveal told police he wanted Walker to stop singing because the song made his aunt cry. Her father had died a few days before.

This Is Worth While

When a man who has an orchard prunes his fruit trees, what does he do with the branches and stuff he cuts out? In most cases he would pile them in a heap, and when they dried out a bit he would probably set fire to them. He would look upon the heap as so much rubbish of which he would be glad to be rid.

That was the situation which attracted the attention of two Toronto men, H. R. Petersen and R. J. Hart. They had an idea that the trimmings from fruit trees in a district such as the Niagara peninsula would make good paper. That is all they had—just the idea. They were not technical men; they knew nothing about the making of paper—but they had an idea.

They took the idea to the Applied Science Faculty of Toronto University, and T. L. Crossley, a chemical engineer, was given the task of dealing with it. At that time Mr. Crossley candidly admits he considered the idea rather fantastic, but he went to work. He found out how much of this material would be available, and after satisfying himself on that point he started testing at the Paper Research Institute in Montreal. And then what? Mr. Crossley states the results this way:

"Then we took five tons of prunings and made them definitely into pulp and paper. Some of it was made into coated paper and the paper produced gave good printing results. We found the fibre was excellent.... As a result we have applied for patents in the larger countries of the world."

Mr. Crossley said he and his associates had also taken the slash from forest trees and found that half this ordinary waste could be used to make good serviceable paper.

That is the kind of news which should be printed in the papers. We only wish there was more of it showing that we are making progress in finding something useful in that which in our ignorance we formerly called useless.

No Person Benefits

This is the season of the year when the big circus is on the road, and the time when it must make its money. But the circus of Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey has quit. When they closed at Scranton, Pa., a day or so ago it was announced the circus would go back to winter headquarters at Sarasota, Florida. That means only one thing—the circus is definitely closed for the season of 1938.

When the big show went on the road for the season there were 1,600 people with it, and a contract covering wages and conditions had been signed between the managament and the Actors' Union. A circus is something like a farmer: has to depend on the weather a good deal. There were a good many days when the weather was bad; there was rain and storm and the attendance fell off to such an extent that no money was being made.

It was then that John Ringling North came to the conclusion that if he was going to stay on the road for the season there would have to be a reduction of wages. He offered to allow officials of the Actors' Union to go over his books and see for themselves just how matters stood. There were some negotiations but they fell through and today the circus is off the road and 1,600 people will soon have nothing to do. That does look like a case where reasonable people should have been able to come to some sort of an agreement. Going into winter quarters with the best earning months of the year ahead is not going to do the circus any good, neither is it going to provide any work or income for the 1,600 people who quit.

The Use Of Sunday

On Monday the Globe and Mail produced a number of pictures showing what some of the people were doing in Toronto on Sunday. Some young ladies had spread straw over a hill near the Humber and they were skiing there. Another group was taken at a riding academy and a dozen or so people of both sexes were mounted on horses for Sunday morning.

Several folk were found at a golf driving place where they get in practice shots; in another group were young men at a place where they go in for the revival of that old sport, archery, and the last picture showed a baseball game in operation.

We believe similar pictures could be taken in any community. It would be possible to show people working in their gardens, getting ready for outings for the day, pitching horse-shoes, or merely doing nothing at all.

Small wonder that a good many of our churches today are casting about looking for the answer to it all. Sunday morning the attendance may be fair enough, but it will be found the basis of the congregation is made up of people of older years, and when it comes to Sunday evening we have great auditoriums with few people in them.

One is moved to wonder what the effect would be if the people among whom the foreign missionaries of our churches work were able to look at some of our Sunday evening congregations.

Two Men Fell

There was something in the paper a few days ago about George Marshall who was killed in his home in Pennsylvania. He had stepped out at night and tripped on the back steps, and in a fall struck his head on a cement curb. It was stated the distance he had fallen was not more than three feet. For several years Mr. Marshall had been with a travelling circus working on a flying trapeze. Previously he had been riding a bicycle on a tight wire. And yet accustomed as he was to taking risks he died from the effects of a fall on his own back steps.

On the same day there was announcement made with pictures of the crashing of an 18-ton truck through the guard rail of a bridge at Rouge River, near Toronto. The truck fell 75 feet to the bottom of the ravine, after which Jack Thompson, the driver, emerged from the wreck with few injuries, and none of them serious.

So there seems to be no table or chart by which the effect of a fall can be measured in terms of injury.

Goes Back To The Home

The Sault Ste. Marie Star says there is a juvenile in that city with a list of 26 convictions. The Star also reports an officer as saying that when boys are going to the weekly session of the juvenile court they look upon it as something like an outing. There is no sense of fear and apparently no feeling of shame. We believe the average adult who has to appear in magistrate's court to answer a charge of having broken the law feels his position keenly. We say that because we know how they resent having such a case reported in the paper.

What to do with these young fellows continues to be a problem which must cause a good many magistrates a deal of trouble. In London, Ont., there was a lad of 16 years and he faced a charge of having sent a threatening letter to a man in that city, the letter saying that unless $500 were paid at once his place of business would be blown up. A little investigation revealed that this youth was making a good record at collegiate; he was rather outstanding in athletics and well up in his studies. Against him was not only the present charge but the fact that some time ago he received suspended sentence for an attempt at breaking and entering.

The magistrate asked that the father of the youth be called, and to him he put the plain question if it were not a fact that both he and the boy's mother were frequently drunk. That accusation as might be expected was denied, but the magistrate said his information was that the father had not set a good example to his son; of that he was certain.

But the magistrate could not punish the father because it was the son who stood with two offences against him, and he sent him to the reformatory. We doubt much whether that will be beneficial because it so seldom is.

To get back to the charge of the magistrate regarding the conditions in the home from which this youth came—is it not possible that the serious increase in such cases in courts all over the country is merely an outward and public admission that the homes of the land are breaking down? And that is why the young fellows from such homes are doing the same thing—breaking down. We would gladly enough offer some other explanation but at the moment we know of none which is adequate and in line with the facts.

Better Stay Away

Premises were raided in Peterborough last week and those in charge pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping a common gaming house, and those who were participating were charged with being what is usually termed "found-ins." That is, they were found there by the police at the time of the raid.

There has been a question sent to the Examiner asking what a gaming house is, and whether people cannot play games of chance without being subject to raids by police.

The information is all set out in the Criminal Code. Section 226 describes it this way:

A common gaming house is:

(a) A house, room or place kept by any person for gain, to which persons resort to for the purpose of playing any game of chance, or any mixed game of chance and skill; or

(b) a house, room or place kept or used for playing therein at any game of chance, or any mixed game of chance and skill in which

(1) a bank is kept by one or more of the players exclusively of the others; or

(2) the whole or any portion of the stakes or bets or other proceeds at or from such games is either directly or indirectly paid to the person keeping such house, room or place; or

(3) any game is played the chances of which are not alike favorable to all players, including among the players the banker or other person by whom the game is managed, or against whom the game is managed or against whom the other players stake, play or bet.

That in a general way covers the case, and indicates that the real point is that in such cases some individual is making money out of the operation of such games.

It is probably none of the business of this paper what people do in their spare time or how they spend their money, but in the course of years a newspaper has opportunity to see a good many things happening; has a chance to watch new folk coming along and tripping where those ahead of them have tripped. With a background of that sort it may not be out of place to offer the suggestion that a gaming house is a good place to avoid. People go to such places for two reasons, (1) for the fun they get out of it, and (2) for the money they hope to make. Not often do they figure on the money they are liable to lose. The average person in these days has to work fairly hard for any money he receives, and we doubt also whether the average individual wants to take money away from others who cannot afford to lose it. The chances of winning are small indeed and the chances of losing are much greater. When an individual goes to a gaming house he knows, or should know, that the place is likely to be raided; that can happen at any time. The reason and authority for so doing are all set forth in the Criminal Code. So we can come to no other conclusion than that the wise course is to stay away.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is at least this to be said about a heat wave. It affords a topic for conversation.

Now that Max Baer has asked for another fight with Louis we expect Ethiopia to make a similar demand upon Italy.

Ottawa is keeping its eye upon Anticosti, according to Premier King. At least, then, we can be assured there is no danger of it being stolen.

Millions are being spent upon the Oshawa harbor and now even Oshawa folk are saying that only a few fuel dealers benefit by what is being done.

Toronto police may be permitted to leave off their heavy coats this summer. It is a sensible practice and has worked out well here.

The West has had heavy rains and that is about the same thing as if the prairies had been flooded with showers of dollar bills.

The House of Commons is making a strenuous effort to get through this week. Everybody probably wants to help make the Conservative convention a success.

R. J. Manion and Earl Lawson are said to be neck-and-neck for the Conservative leadership. When the delegates get through, however, it may be found that both have got it in the neck.

British Columbia has asked transients to stay away from the coast province. The ban applies only to transients without money, for we assume that tourists will still be welcome.

A lad in Mt. Albert lost control of his bicycle and crashed through a store window. We were under the impression that drivers of cars had a monopoly of that field.

Man in London, Ont., who drove his car at 90 miles per hour had his license suspended for three months. He's fortunate in that his ability to drive was not also permanently suspended.

The Canadian National Exhibition is to give a prize to the youngster with the best crop of freckles. That is what might be described as putting little folk on the spot.

"Develop Canada for Work" says an editorial heading in a Toronto paper. The trouble, however, seems, to be that some of the provincial administrations seem to be trying to give the Dominion the works.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science is meeting in Ottawa and some of the theories the delegates will advance would have resulted in their being summarily executed back in the days of witchcraft.

SLUMBER

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Alfalfa now must go away, her system craves a holiday, she needs the summer breeze; Alfalfa says with faltering tongue, her nervous system is unstrung, she wobbles at the knees.

¶ Alfalfa says her work is hard, it's stacked before her by the yard, she don't know what to do; at noon she feels her strength is done, she longs then for the setting sun, when for the day she's through.

¶ Alfalfa's shed some pounds I fear, she's thinner than she was last year, some times she drags her feet; and when it's ninety in the shade, Alfalfa then grows quite afraid, for she can't stand the heat.

¶ Alfalfa though keeps on the jump, asserts that she's no sit-down chump, she's many things to do; she dances many jigs at night, and thinks that things are somewhat right, when she gets home at two.

¶ If there are dates she keeps them all, she hasn't chucked one since last fall, she really longs for more; she'll drive in cars for miles away, and calls it just a perfect day, when she gets in at four.

¶ And so Alfalfa needs a rest, has pains around her spine and chest, so tired that she can't creep; she's old enough to rush and go, and really old enough to know—she ought to get some sleep.

Farmer Cannot Raise His Price

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. J. S. FURNISS, (Muskoka, Ontario): There is another aspect to the farm problem about which I wish to speak. I often wonder if those who are not engaged in farming ever realise the position that agriculture holds, relative to the other industries that make up our economic system. Let me use a simple illustration, so simple that I feel like offering an apology for it, but I know of none better and so am going to use it to serve my purpose. It is nothing more than a direct application of the underlying principle of all business, which at some time or another is applied to adjust prices by the various industries that make up the round of our industrial life. Might I ask hon. members to indulge their imaginations for a short time and think of me as a farmer raising hogs on an extensive scale?

Some years ago, just before a sharp rise in freight rates took place, I sold a carload of hogs to be delivered two weeks hence f.o.b. shipping point. In the meantime the increase in freight rates had gone into effect. When the meat packer received the hogs he found his freight bill was up $50, and likewise the freight on all his other shipments of hogs was up corresponding amounts. He immediately gets busy and says, "Here, my hogs are costing me more money; I must have more money for my products." He marks up his prices accordingly. He passes on the increase. He sells his products to the retailer who receives them over the same transportation system. The retailer finds that his invoice is marked up, as well as the cost of his freight or express. He gets busy and says, "My goods are costing me more; I must mark up my prices." He marks them up accordingly and passes on the increased cost. A housewife comes in for her weekly supply of foodstuffs and discovers that prices are up. When she goes home she says to her husband, "I will have to have a larger allowance next week because I find that groceries and other necessities have gone up in price." Her husband meets with his fellow workmen to talk over the matter, and finally they decide that since their living costs have gone up they must ask for more wages. Their employer being a reasonable man, he grants their request. They pass on the increased cost to their employer.

Suppose this employer is a manufacturer of farm implements. When he looks over his payroll he discovers that it has gone up ten or fifteen per cent. He says, "My labour costs are up; I must mark up the price of my implements," and he does so accordingly. He passes on the increase. I may need a new set of implements the following spring. When I interview the agent I find that prices are up fifteen or twenty per cent. As I must have the implements I buy them. If the cost of my implements is up, I must have more money for the next car of hogs I send to market. However, when I try to pass on my increased cost, what happens? I am just as likely to have to take less for my hogs as I am to get more. I am lucky if I break even in a comparison with the previous year's prices. That is the position which agriculture occupies as compared with other industries in our country. Farmers today are working eighty, ninety and one hundred hours a week for less wages than the urban worker receives for a forty-four hour week. That is why people are leaving the farms and flocking to the cities.

A LARGE RIDING

Mr. THOMAS FARQUHAR (Algoma East): I wish to make a few observations which have come to me as I have sat in this house and listened to the debates for the past three years.

As this is the first time I have risen to speak in the house, may I, Mr. Speaker, impose on your good nature to the extent of saying a few words in regard to the constituency of Algoma East, which I have the honour to represent.

First, let me say that I live on Manitoulin Island,—the island of one hundred lakes, the largest island in fresh water, one of the beauty spots of the province of Ontario, which is fast becoming one of the most attractive tourist resorts in Canada. Manitoulin Island, however, though one hundred miles long, is a very small part of the constituency of Algoma East.

To give you some idea of the size of the constituency of Algoma East, let me say it covers an area of 17,700 square miles, and is as large as all of the following constituencies combined—you will note in making this comparison I have left out all the larger centres and have confined my comparison very largely to rural constituencies:

Glengarry	Prince Ed.-Lennox
Haldimand	Russell
Halton	Simcoe East
Hastings South	Simcoe North
Huron North	Stormont
Huron-Perth	Waterloo North
Kent	Waterloo South
Lambton West	Welland
Lincoln	Wellington North
Middlesex East	Wellington South
Middlesex West	Wentworth
Norfolk	York East
Northumberland	York West
Ontario	York South
Oxford	York North
Peterboro' West	Brant
Prescott	Durham
	Elgin

All of these thirty-five constituencies could be comfortably placed within the boundaries of Algoma East constituency.

I am sure, when you fully realize and appreciate the amount of work involved in keeping in touch with and looking after the needs of my constituents, you will agree with me that in fairness to my constituents, the Minister of Transport (Mr. Howe) should supply me with an aeroplane. Nevertheless, if I were asked today what part of my constituency I would be prepared to give up when the next redistribution bill comes down, I would find it very difficult to decide.

Brazil's new immigration law is considered by Brazilians to be more liberal than former legislation.

DESIRE

"Take it? I only wish I could give it."

• Selling Property In Woodstock

Letter in Woodstock Sentinel-Review

EDITOR, Sentinel-Review: I desire to draw your attention to the erroneous impression created in connection with the so-called dispute between the city and R. H. Harrison over a triangle of land north of the lane at the rear of Harrison's bake shop as reported in yesterday's issue of your paper.

The impression that I was instrumental in petitioning neighboring merchants is false and is deserving of an apology from the author of the statement, as I was opposed to such petition and therefore not a party thereto. If the councillors agreed unanimously that the price of $250 was far too high they were certainly misinformed, as that figure was never even mentioned by me. If the City Council thinks that Mr. Nesbitt, its solicitor, purchased the same area of land for $10 as that offered the city by me they certainly are laboring under a flagrant misapprehension, inasmuch as the triangle of land purchased by the city for $10 had a dimension on the west side of six feet by ten feet on the south side with the third side curving inwards—therefore with an area of slightly over 25 square feet, whereas the triangle of land offered the city by me was twenty feet on the west side by 20 feet on the south side with the third side forming a perfect triangle, therefore with an area of 200 square feet. Thus the parcel of land offered by me to the city had eight times the area of the triangle purchased by the city through Mr. Nesbitt, which last mentioned triangle is about large enough to accommodate a fair-sized dog kennel.

R. H. HARRISON.
Woodstock, June 25.

• Getting An Interview With Hitler

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

EDWARD PRICE BELL is one of the most distinguished of the small band of American journalists who roam where they please and get interviews with people who are inaccessible to almost everybody except their immediate associates and friends. Mr. Bell aims at the biggest game and he usually succeeds because those he seeks are made acquainted with his status and know they can trust him. Chancellor Hitler of Germany is one of the least accessible of men, but it is not surprising that he agreed to talk with Mr. Bell in the Chancellor's own office in the Wilhelmstrasse. The interview was published in a recent number of Liberty.

Der Fuehrer first asked Mr. Bell to grasp the fact that there is a New Germany, a fact which is surely obvious to the whole world. Mr. Bell said he had already sensed something new in his travels in that country, and the thing he had sensed was that Germany is a great democracy. How he arrived at this conclusion himself Mr. Bell does not reveal, but he quotes Hitler as saying: "Germany is the most democratic country in history by the acid test of the popular vote. Go among our people and study them. Ask yourself if they look or act like slaves." Mr. Bell, being a polite and well-mannered gentleman, could not have laughed in Hitler's face. Besides that would have suddenly ended the interview. But he must have been tempted to ask how that "popular" vote represented democracy. The form of the ballot papers only permits the people to vote for one candidate who represents one party—the Nazi Party. If anybody balked at voting that way he would be rushed straight off to a labor camp as thousands of those who have not come to heel have been. And when the candidates are elected they do not meet and discuss measures as Canadian representatives do at Ottawa, and as is done in most other countries, but they merely meet once or twice a year to shout "Heil, Hitler," and say "Aye" to his dictatorial decrees. That is all the result of the "popular" vote and Hitler calls it democracy. It is surprising that Mr. Bell with his American training and traditions should call it that.

Hitler denied that the Nazis were treaty breakers. Such charges, he said, were "baseless and impudent." We have some recollection that German troops marched into the Rhine zone under his orders, and that among many other things Nazi Germany, after murdering one Chancellor of Austria and putting another one under lock and key, incorporated that country in the Reich. Yet in May, 1933, Hitler said in a speech: "Germany neither intends nor wishes to interfere in the internal affairs of Austria, to annex Austria or to conclude an Anschluss." No status quo could have been more explicitly guaranteed.

And said Hitler to Bell: "We are not against the Jews as Jews. Germans will keep their fingers out of other people's pies. We will not be unjust to a minority."

Mr. Bell does not say that he laughed there. It wouldn't have been wise. We would like to know, however, how these statements may be reconciled with the events of the past few weeks.

• Problem Facing Rural Church

(St. Mary's Journal-Argus)

THE AVERAGE "country corner" today serves as an index of the change that has come over the rural community during the past generation.

In conversation with an aged lady who has spent her life in a neighboring hamlet, she recalled the other day that during her girlhood there were three taverns at this country corner. There were also three churches. Today there are neither churches nor taverns. The blacksmithy and waggon shop are gone but in this settlement, with a population of fifty people, there are no less than three gas stations. Today the farmers have cars to get about in and the changed condition does not deprive them of blacksmith's service or the products sold by taverns which are within easy driving distance.

The institution that is really missed in the community, according to our aged friend, is the church. Of course people could drive to town to church just as they come to town for other reasons but the fact is that in the community in question, only two or three families go to church. The neighborhood is made up of decent and law-abiding people. A generation ago their parents were the pillars of the community church. They are benefitting in many ways from sound early training. But what about the children who are growing up in their homes? Are they losing anything vital by their lack of connection with the Christian Church? If they are, and we surely think they are, in the next few years Canada will begin to pay dearly for its lack of solution of the rural church problem.

• One Youth Has Had 26 Convictions

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

ONE SAULT YOUTH, still ranked as a juvenile, has had 26 convictions in the local courts in nine years.

That is one evidence of the problem with which the Sault police authorities have to cope in dealing with juvenile offenders.

Not that the situation today is much if any worse than it has been in the past. Nor does it mean that there is any particular increase in the number of offenders. But the same ones, from all sections of the city, keep coming back into court, mostly on charges of petty theft, and the penalties handed out and the advice given by the magistrate seem in most cases to be without much effect.

The trouble, in the view of experienced police officers, lies largely with the parents, who do not take the interest in the children that they should.

"Often," one police officer told The Star, "the youngsters come into court without parents or guardians coming with them."

"And too frequently," added another, "when the boys are brought down here for special court on Saturday morning it just seems to be another outing to them, a sort of Saturday morning show."

Probation officers following up the cases into the homes would help, police are inclined to think, though they also claim that the force as at present constituted has neither a sufficient number of men nor men properly trained to do the work effectively. Tribute is paid to the assistance given by the Children's Aid, the Y.M.C.A. and other bodies. But this cannot meet the needs.

The responsibility goes back in nearly every case to the parents. And the question is how to deal with them.

The problem is not by any means a local one, for in Toronto it is coming in for a great deal of discussion at the present time.

Right now police express anxiety that with the school closing for the summer holidays, there may be more trouble, idle hands getting into mischief.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

IF YE LOVE ME, keep my commandments.

And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him; but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you....

Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us and not unto the world?

Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you. But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.—John xiv, 15-17, 22-26.

TRADE IN TORPOISES

(Port of London Monthly)

A THRIVING but little - known trade is based at the London Dock where cargoes of live tortoises have been arriving for some years from Casa Blanca, Morocco.

As many as six hundred crates arrive in a consignment, each case containing 60 to 80 tortoises. The tortoises used to be shipped in barrels, but the mortality was so high that crates came into use and only a limited number is put into each crate. The tortoises are shipped in a comatose condition, but they appear to be quite awake when they reach the London Docks.

The majority are consigned to live-stock dealers, chain stores, etc.

Two Examiner Junior Merchants Return Home With Cup Won In International Contest

Inspiring Story of Effort And Reward Is Told By Two Young Salesmen

Home with their trophies of silver and bronze, with fresh and unforgettable memories of travel in strange places and beyond far horizons, Lloyd Williamson and Arthur Roode ,the team of Examiner carrier salesmen who won, local, provincial Canadian and international championships in competitive demonstrations of salesmanship, related something of their adventures and achievement to a reporter Monday afternoon. It is an inspiring little story of effort and reward.

After winning on their home grounds, in the local contest for all the carrier boys of the Examiner, and then in their stride sweeping the Ontario field, Lloyd and Arthur, accompanied by their coach and custodian and "big brother," H. B. Cowan, Jr., circulation manager, set out by automobile for the east and higher rungs in the ladder Saturday June 18. They stayed for a while in Kingston, saw the Royal Military College and Queen's University, then down along the St. Lawrence River past rapids and canals to Montreal. They spent the night at the Mount Royal Hotel, and left on Sunday for Quebec City. The boys arrived in Three Rivers just as a largely attended Corpus Christi procession was passing through the streets, and in Quebec they saw the preparations that were being made for the Eucharistic Congress.

The boys were luncheon guests of Major Dunne, owner of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, at his home on the Isle of Orleans, and dinner at Kent House at the top of Montmorency Falls. Then back to the Chateau Frontenac. Monday was a day of rest and relaxing. One of the boys of the Quebec provincial team, from the Montreal Star carriers, was ill and the Examiner lads agreed to a postponement. Their contest was held Tuesday afternoon at a special session of the Canadian Circulation Managers' Association.

Off to Plains of Abraham.

That meant a little celebration, so a caleche was hired and the Williamson-Roode team drove out to the Plains of Abraham. Wednesday brought the final competition for the all American-Canadian title. The Examiner boys were opposed by the U. S. champions, two boys from the Toledo News-Bee. The competition was held o nthe stage of an auditorium as large as the Collegiate Institute's during the afternoon of the Wednesday session of the International Circulation Managers convention. The announcement of the winners was made at the anual dinner and dance that night by the President, David Smith of the Portland, Oregon, Journal.

The boys telephoned the big new home to their parents, and they frankly admit that those voices were the sweetest sounds they heard during the week.

Thursday was spent in and around Quebec, at the docks where they saw a British cruiser, and elsewhere along the water front. Friday they motored to Ottawa, a splendid outing along the river, heard Parliament in session for an hour or more, and finally arrived home on Saturday. When they saw the familiar skyline of Peterborough and the countryside, the boys told each other it was the finest scenery of their entire journey.

The Major Prize.

A heavy bronze replica of a newsboy was the major prize, and a tall silver cup was the Canadian trophy, Arthur Roode and Lloyd Williamson brought back. They spoke of all the bustle around the Chateau Frontenac, the majestic beauty of the St. Lawrence River, and the historic recollections Quebec and the Plains of Abraham brought to them. Going up and down in the Chateau elevators, the boys found themselves brief companions of Cardinal Villeneuve. The humanity of the leader of the Catholic Church in Canada was indicated by his noticing the two Peterborough boys, their badges in their lapels, and enquiring about their trip to Quebec. Another recollection was the extent of the Trenton airport, and an object lesson in the making of newsprint at a bill mill in Quebec.

A Collegiate Student.

Lloyd Williamson is 15 and in the first year at the Collegiate. Both he and Arthur Roode were proud enough of the gold pins which they received from Editor and Publisher, the trade paper in New York. Truth is both the boys took occasion to impress upon the reporter that the pins were gold.

We asked Lloyd Williamson if there was anything in or around Quebec which from a study of history he had desired to see.

"Yes, there was. I wanted to see Wolfe's Cove and the Plains of Abraham."

"Did you hear much French spoken?"

"Yes, indeed you hear it on all sides."

"And English too?"

"In places where one goes to buy anything like a chocolate bar you find they speak both French and English."

"Is that general?"

"In most places it is especially in the summer, and they told me if any person was going to get a job in those places they had to speak both languages."

"From what you heard of the French spoken there would you say it was pronounced the same as you are taught in school?"

That question seemed to be a poser for a moment, but Lloyd replied "No, I would say in some ways it is quite different, and they speak very rapidly."

"Did you meet any of the church dignitaries attending the Eucharistic Congress?"

"There were many of them at the Chateau Frontenac where we were staying. One time some of those who were in charge called and said I could go and stand on the running board of the car of Cardinal Villeneuve, but I told them I had already met this distinguished dignitary."

"And where had you met him, Lloyd?"

"Why when I was riding up and down in the elevator at the Frontenac. He was in the same lift and he spoke to me several times."

Likes Peterborough Best.

When Arthur Roode started to tell something of his experiences in Quebec he admitted that never before had he been interviewed. Arthur, you see, is just 11 years of age. When the Examiner reporter told him he was going to undergo that sort of treatment, he didn't mind in the least.

"Were you at all nervous?" he was asked.

"No sir, not a bit, at least I don't think I was." was Arthur's answer.

"Did you think you had a pretty good chance to win?"

"Well, that's pretty hard to tell because we were not allowed to hear the others."

"Could you tell by the reception you had whether your chances were rather good?"

"Well perhaps I could, but you know all you can do in a case like that is go ahead and do the best you can."

"How did you like Quebec, Arthur?"

"Oh it was all right and lots to see."

"Would you like to live there?"

"No sir. I wouldn't."

"Why?"

"I don't know exactly, but I'd rather live at home where I am."

"So you like Peterborough better?"

"Oh my yes, this is a swell place."

"And you were pretty well used when away?"

"We had a great time," replied Arthur, "and every person was good to us."

Arthur Roode is a pupil at King Edward school in the junior fourth class.

Strike Forces Circus To Winter Quarters

The old adage "the show must go on" went into the discard as the Ringing Bros., Barnum and Bailey circus packed up and moved back to winter quarters following the strike of 1,600 circus employees. The circus management announced that a 25 per cent. cut of the union wage scale was necessary for the show to go on. Strikers refused to accept the cut so the circus retired for the season. Police were called to preserve order when scores rushed the ticket office for a refund on their tickets (ABOVE), at Scranton, Pa.

Franco's Forces Being Dislodged

HENDAYE, June 28 (A.P.). — Spanish government commanders reported to-day that insurgent forces slowly were being dislodged from their stranglehold on the Valencia highway south-east of Teruel.

Both sides conceded the fate of General Franco's compaign against Valencia hung on the battle along the Teruel-Sagunto road.

Advices from Valencia said the constant pounding of government counter-attacks had driven the insurgents from many heights in the Muela de Sarrion Range, about 22 miles south-east of Teruel and 45 miles north-west of Valencia.

On the coastal front, however, where another insurgent army is pushing south toward Valencia, a government counter-offensive came to an abrupt end and General Jose Miaja's militiamen were hard-pressed to stop a renewed insurgent drive.

Franco's cavalry broke through government lines south of the River Seco, between Onda and Bechi on a five-mile front about 32 miles north of Valencia.

They established advance positions in the foothills of the Sierra Espadan Range, last government-held heights on the coastal plain leading to Valencia.

A government communique also acknowledged loss of positions in the Lucena Del Cid sector, 14 miles further north, but declared a terrific onslaught by insurgent tanks and warplanes was repulsed in the Ribesalbes are. Ribesalbes is about 13 miles inland from Castelon de la Plana and nine miles south of Lucena.

PLANNED BUYING MAKES BETTER LIVING

Buying a Used Car is Good Business and makes business good

IT is good business for you because you get many thousands of miles of motoring satisfaction—give your family all the advantages of motor car ownership—yet pay far less than the car cost when new.

It makes business good for everybody because your purchase of a used car stimulates the sale of new cars; increases activity and employment in factories which employ more than 30,000 Canadians and pay out more than $50,000,000 a year in salaries and wages; speeds up the flow of dollars through a myriad of Canadian incomes, enhancing the prosperity of the whole country. Indirectly a share of this increased wealth comes right back to you.

Reliable automobile dealers are in a position today to offer you your choice of a great number of exceptional bargains in good used cars. You can find just the car you want at a price you can sensibly afford to pay. And, through Industrial Acceptance Corporation finance plans, by paying only a part of the price in cash and arranging modest monthly payments for the balance, you can start right in to enjoy all the advantages that a car will give you.

Buying out of income is a sane, intelligent way to accumulate durable, worthwhile articles which really will contribute to your health, your convenience, your comfort—such as a motor car, an electric refrigerator, a washing machine.

It is not a plan by which people who cannot afford these comforts can have them. In fact responsible finance companies, such as Industrial Acceptance Corporation, do their best to prevent people buying beyond their means. But it does enable those whose incomes more than cover essentials, to have modern conveniences and comforts while they are paying for them.

Through the judicious use of Industrial Acceptance Corporation finance plans, thousands of thrifty Canadians have used their incomes to the best advantage in adding to their comfort and convenience and improving their standard of living.

Baseball Magnates Look For All-Time High Attendance Records In Current Races

Indians And Reds Help In Clicking Of Club Turnstiles

NEW YORK, June 28 — (AP — Major League Magnates, kindly souls who are in the game for the pure fun of the thing, with no thought of profit, are rubbing their hands in glee over the unpredicted way the current pennant races are unfolding.

While the experts look for answers to the merry-go-rounds both Leagues are putting on, the moguls joyfully contemplate the size of the piece of pie they're going to slice up if the things keep up.

The totally unexpected surges of the Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds in their respective leagues, together with the one-too-secure picture presented by both defending pennant-holders, have the turnstiles clicking at a tune indicating a possible all-time attendance high this season.

On the basis of a semi-official Associated Press survey today, 10 of the 16 Big League clubs should go over their 1937 figures; three others, including the Yankees, who pulled 1,141,996 through the turnstiles last season, should finish with about the same attendance, and the whole set-up promises a good chance of eclipsing the record "gate" of 10,186,000 fans who made a banner year of the 1930 'Depression campaign Only the Phillies, St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago White Sox look as if they may not duplicate or better their 1937 figures.

Out in Cleveland, where the folks have the "fever" and bad they're thinking of running manager Oscar Vitt for public office, the Indians look like a cinch to have their season home attendance pass the 1,000,000 mark. Where some 570,000 turned out all last year, the tribe already has attracted about 423,675 in 30 games this season, and they have 44 more to go.

Yesterday some 10,000 turned out to see Bobby Feller hand it to Lefty Grove and Boston Red Sox in one of the two games on the Big League program. Young Bobby treated the folks to a seven-hit flinging job and fanned 10 while his mates landed on 'ole mose" for 15 hits and a 7-3 victory. Jimmy Foxx hit his 21st homer of the year off Bobby.

In the only other game on the card, the White Sox took a 9-4 decision over St. Louis Browns in the battle for the cellar. Ted Lyons pitched a nine-hitter and Hank Steinbacher clouted a homer.

The Cleveland victory boosted the tribe's American League lead to four games over the Yankees, and dropped the Red Sox to 1½ games back of the New Yorkers.

It's a Hit

Crack! And there goes a single over second base. Johnny Vander Meer, sensational pitcher with Cincinnati Reds, is out there on the mound, but he wasn't hurling goose eggs this game. Jimmy Ripple is the batter who's just tagged Johnny for a hit in the Reds-Giants series. Ernie Lombardi catching, Ballanfant umpiring.

All Saints Bantams Cop Church Title

All Saints Bantams beat St. James 33-25, last night at King Edward to win the Church Softball League championship in that section, it being the second playoff encounter. Like the first, it was another slugfest with weak pitching and numerous errors. The Anglicans led all the way but St. James were always within striking distance. There were 21 runs scored in a wild fourth frame by both teams, the winners getting 11 of them. Leether retired as the Saints' pitcher in the fourth and Estlick also was hit hard. Kempt managed to stagger all the way for the winners, as he was the only pitcher. Plenty of triples and doubles were conked, with Lacheur, Hotrum and Miller of the winners, and Leether, Lawson and Woodcock the big hitters. Leether was the lone player who failed to make at least one fielding error. After the game, Elmer Frost, St. James' Sunday School Supt., presented the championship shield to Capt. Jack Lacheur of All Saints. The teams:

All Saints: Miller, lf; Lacey, 2b; Hotrum, 3b; Lacheur, c; Dyer, cf; Burns, cf; Edgar, rf; Reid, ss; Blackwell, 1b; Kemp, p.

St. James: Estlick, 2b, p; Baldry, c; Murduff, cf; Leether, p, 3b, lf; Lawson, 1b; Wildman, 3b, 2b; Rutherford, 3b, ss; Woodcock, ss; Welch, rf.

Umpires—D. Charlton; B. Smith.

Central Winners In School Loop

Central won baseball honors in the Public School League this season, and Prince of Wales took the softball title. Six teams competed in each division and a good spring season was enjoyed. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AFTER A RECESSION in baseball of five years, the Public School League returned to the big diamond sport this season. And made a right good job of it, too. Naturally, the kids found it a bit trying at first to get the hang of it, that hard pellet being harder to field and hit than the big turnip they had been used to playing with. The pitching was fine and after a time the fielders and hitters began to hit their true stride. A lot of quite promising ballsters were unearthed in the School Loop this year, and they'll be heard of again ere too long. The younger lads had a softball circuit and it was run off okay, too. Central won baseball honors and Prince of Wales copped the softball title. Standings are in elsewhere. We'd like to slip our congrats to the teacher-coaches on their good work this year.

* * * * * *

THE BOYS from Bowmanville fell down and doggone nearly broke the second commandment here not so long ago in a Junior Lakeshore Ball Loop tussle, and they still vow they can take the Young Petes. Well, this is their last chance tomorrow when these junior baseball squads clash at 6.30 in Riverside Park. Ought to be a good game as the Rubbertown bunch will be battling their heads off to stay in the running. They'll use their ace twirler, Lefty Siemon, while Herb Ralph will probably pitch Bob Todd—long lean righthander who whistles that pill in like a chunk of greased lightning. Fans might do worse than trek over for this twilight tilt.

* * * * * *

IN BOXING the cardinal rule is "protect yourself at all times," while in baseball it's "keep your eye on the ball always." And there is a legal saying that "possession is nine-tenths of the law." Seems to us the C.O.B.L. is observing all three rules by hanging onto its imports and letting the O.B.A. do the worrying. The Central Loop clubs obtained the players first, because they had an eye out to what fans would insist upon in a runty league, and they are not letting any rulings or bluffings feint them into an opening for a sock on the puss—or in the purse! And we see an item from Smiths Falls saying Brockville may get into trouble for importing three U.S. ballsters against the wish of the St. Lawrence League. Well, Brockville, you are in good company.

* * * * * *

THE PETES PLAY in Oshawa tomorrow eve at 6.15, and it'll likely be a duel of southpaws, Lefty McNally against Jake Biddle. With the league leadership at stake in this struggle. The same two teams clash here on the holiday morn, Friday, at 10.30 o'clock. No doubleheader here that day. The tickets returned to rained-out fans at Riverside last Saturday will be good for Friday's contest, and it ought to see a huge crowd. If we get a decent break in the weather for a change. Kingston Ponies will play in Oshawa on Saturday, while the Petes and Merritton have an exhibition tussle here that day at three bells.

* * * * * *

MERRITTON is a strong club in the Niagara Falls' senior ball circuit. They beat St. Catharines six out of seven games last year and fans up this way will recall that St. Kitts the previous season went to the Provincial finals before Oshawa GM-men knocked 'em off. Yep, they staged a long midseason winning streak last summer to make the finals in the Niagara district against St. Catharines. And then, we'll be blown through a keyhole if they didn't oust the favorites in three straight playoff games by scores of 8-7, 8-5 and 7-2! Only oldtimers with whiskers down to the third button on their vests will recall when an Inter-County League or a Niagara Loop team played a ball game in Peterborough, so this one Saturday should be an attraction all right.

* * * * * *

MIDGET LACROSSE LEAGUE opened its schedule last night at the arena down the main drag, with Lions Club copping a 6-1 nod over Y's Men's before a slim but appreciative audience. Had an edge in the third quarter of a lively struggle, and the losers tried to travel the rocky route with no spare tires. The lads played a good game and gave definite indication that it won't be very long before some of the senior veterans around these parts will have to battle for positions on the O.L.A. team—youth being no respecter of former greats. For Lions, L. Vitarelli, Maloney and Detlor shone; whilst Rishea, Dundas and Martin stood out for the losers. Kinsmen and Rotary have a practice tonight at 6.30 o'clock, thes esame teams tangling in a loop fixture Friday p.m. before the O.L.A. senior "B" scrap here.

* * * * * *

OVER AT THE BOWL last night in the twilight, two men's softball squads battled it out to a 5-4 score in nine heats. Motorists got but three safe hits off Parsons, while Westclox massaged Fleming's offers for an even dozen blows, yet Westclox barely won. On account of Motorists went much better in the field and tightened up like the law in the pinches, while the Clockmen kicked the apple around in scandalous style. Strong men wept and women fainted at the futile fielding efforts of this classy crew last eve! There were enough men left on bases to start another game, and it might have been a good idea. However, the fans more than enjoyed this exciting affair between the old rivals. Westclox go to Omemee tomorrow, while the Motorists meet a Southend League team at the Bowl on Thursday.

ALL SAINTS won their first Church Softball Loop bantam title last night, with a 33-25 smirk over St. James, who led in '33 and last season. In between those years, Park St., St. Paul's and George St. won out. Manager Geo. Beauclerc, whose gang also won bantam hockey honors this year, proved a hard-hitting collection though none too strong afield. Individual crests go to the players. Coach Jack English and St. James deserve much credit in surviving so long this season after losing all but one of their 1937 champion players, and losing their best hurler late this season. Games tonight: All Saints vs. St. John's at Central in the deciding junior playoff; and Mark St. vs. George St. at Oval in the second juvenile final. Third if necessary will be Thursday eve. Tomorrow sees a senior final at the Oval, a playoff between Mark St. and George St. Majors. Second will be Monday. In case of rain on the morrow, this tilt will be Thursday.

Baer's Right In Good Shape

Two views of a right hand. It belongs to Madcap Maxie Baer, boxing's most colorful figure, one time playboy and now a confirmed family man...according to Maxie. The skeleton-like picture is an X-ray shot of the Baer right hand, as it was when he fought Braddock and Louis, says Manager Ancil Hoffman. Four small bones near the wrist were broken, thus refuting many allegations of cowardice hurled at Baer (Hoffman still speaking). The hand in its present condition is shown in the other picture as the Livermore Lover waved it in jubilation as Joe Louis battered Max Schmeling in their recent fight. "It's like steel," concludes Ancil.

Havelock Wins Easy Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 28. — The Havelock "Wreckers" were the easy victors last evening in a rather slow moving game with the Deloro softball squad, defeating the latter by the large score of 18-4.

The locals piled up an eight run lead in the first stanza and added the other ten runs in the next six innings.

Brunton on the Havelock mound allowed the visitors only five hits, but issued 12 passes. He had 12 strikeouts to his credit.

Percy Gray, Deloro hurler, was relieved in the fifth inning by G. O'Neill, after allowing 16 hits and 5 walks. O'Neill in the remaining two stanzas held the locals to 3 hits and 2 walks.

Harnden was the Wreckers heavy hitter of the evening with two homers and a single in five times up. Ketchen had a perfect night at the bat with a three-bagger, two doubles, a single and a walk.

Austin May End Tennis Career

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 28 (A P)—Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, for 10 years Great Britain's model of classical tennis, may end his distinguished career on the centre court tomorrow.

When this Wimbledon tourney is done, Bunny has indicated he will have no more of it. And this Wimbledon may be gone for Bunny after tomorrow's semi-final against Henner Henkel of Germany.

Ever since 1929, Austin has been in Wimbledon's last eight. Five times in this stretch — 1929, 1932, 1936, 1937 and this year—he reached the semi-finals. Once—in 1932—he reached the final.

The only trouble with Austin was that he was born in an era of great tennis players. He came up first when French tennis was in its ascendancy. He stayed until Ellsworth Vines came out of California and crushed him in that final of 1932. He taught Fred Perry until the pupil mastered the master. And by the time Perry passed along—along came Don Budge.

Technically his game has two weaknesses. The big boys hits his services for home runs. And overhead he definitely is not a big timer. There, however, his weakness ends. On forehand and backhand shots he is a picture. He is graceful as a ballet dancer and mentally and physically he is a trigger-quick.

Moreover Wimbledon has become accustomed to and fascinated by his extravagant tastes—his passion for shorts long before they became popular; his tea taken from the referee's bench while changing courts; his brandy taken when the going's particularly tough.

Austin, however, has decided to take all the knowledge he gained and put it all into writing for the papers and plays for the stage.

Mark St. Seniors Defeat Knox 15-11

Mark St. Seniors took a 15-11 Church Softball League win over Knox last night at the Oval, to eliminate Knox from the senior finals—for the first time in five years. Mark St. now advance into finals against the George St. Majors. Mgr. Mel Hunter started himself for the first time this year as pitcher and, barring three runs in the second, pitched a good game for the victors till the seventh. Knox began hitting him and he called in his cousin, R. Hunter, to finish it. The East City gang had been hitting Alex Wedlock regularly to garner a neat lead. Darwin hit well and was a fielding star. He and Hawkes each had three hits, one of the latter's being a homer. M. Hunter also batted well. Mgr. Ralph Charlton had four hits for Knox with McDonald getting two homers. McKinley and A. Wedlock hit homers. Teams:

Knox: Gatfield, ss; Masters, c; Allen, 2b; McKinley, 3b; W. Wedlock, 1b; Charlton, rf; McDonald, cf; A. Wedlock, p; Copping, lf.

Former Champion Is Rarin' For Another Go At Louis

New Angles On Ring's Most Colorful Figure

NEW YORK, June 28.—When Max Schmeling went down like a felled tree before the slashing fists of the Brown Bomber, a broad-shouldered tanned man in the eighth row ringside could not conceal his emotion.

The emotion was happiness, and the big chap expressed it with a a wide grin as he turned to one of his companions.

The man was Max Baer, and his friend, who seemed equally satisfied with the result, was Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman.

"That gives me the chance I've waited for," Max told me after the fight. "And this time I'll get him."

Incredible? That Max Baer, who cringed in defeat before the same Joe Louis, should now be so eager to fight him again? That Baer, who took at least 100 crushing punches without sending one in return when he met the Dark Destroyer before, should want a return engagement with the man who cut him down?

More Than Meets the Eye

It may sound so, but behind Baer's wish to see Louis beat Schmeling is a vibrant story that the thousands who booed him when he stepped into the ring at Yankee stadium, did not understand. The story has the same motive that actuated Louis in his sudden furious destruction of the German—a burning desire for revenge, and a wish to come back against the man who beat him.

The story has another theme, too, furnished by an eight-month-old baby in his mother's arms at Lake Tahoe, Cal. The baby is Junior Baer, to whom Max gave three blood transfusions two months ago to help the little fellow in his winning fight against pneumonia. Still a third objective in the story is the pride of Junior's mother, to whom Max was the same old hero even after Louis beat him into a bloody wreck.

Max wants to win for them. In the two years that have passed since his complete defeat at the hands of Louis, a new ambition has grown. Now it dominates his life.

The whole pattern of Max's life has changed. When he was in New York for the fight, accompanied by Robert Taylor, the actor, the old play spots were neglected. Quiet dinners at the homes of friends, yes, but none of the rip-roaring hilarity of old. On the beach at friends' homes on Long Island, Baer and Taylor were the target of many admiring members of the opposite sex. Particularly, in justice to both young men, was the movie idol sought for many parties and dances. Naturally, the invitation included Taylor's friend, the big, masculine Maxie. Taylor refused many bids, because Max did not want to go.

The Right Hand

I talked to Ancil Hoffman, manager of the ex-champion, one night after Max had been tucked into bed at the seemly hour of 11 p.m.

Hoffman brought out still another angle in the story of Baer's abject downfall and his new determination to win. That concerns Max's right hand, his greatest weapon, the bludgeon with which he himself knocked out Schmeling and butchered the massive Primo Carnera.

"I have the x-ray pictures," said Hoffman, "showing the clean break in the metacarpal bones of Max's hand. He broke the hand in Cleveland hitting Frankie Simms on the head. There were four broken bones in the back of the hand. When he lost the title to Jimmy Braddock, and later when Joe Louis knocked him out, his hand was practically useless. It might as well have been strapped to his side.

"The crowd took that for cowardice, because he didn't even seem to want to fight back. But I will tell you now that it was worry over his hand, more than fear, that wrecked his mental condition before that Louis fight. He had to fight one of the hardest punchers in the business without being able to use his own best weapon. How would you feel?

Farr Fight the Test

"The fight with Tommy Farr was a test not only of his attitude towards fighting but the condition of his right hand. The hand is like steel now.

"I had him go easy against Farr in the early rounds. I wanted to find out for sure how much Max really had. You saw him against Farr. He didn't do a lot of fighting in the early rounds because he was following orders. He wanted to go out and tear Farr's head off. I told him to wait.

"When the ninth round came up, I told Max to cut loose and see now it felt. He turned to me in the corner and said, 'Okay, Ancil, here's where I win one for Junior'. He went out and knocked Farr from one corner of the ring to the other in the ninth, tenth and eleventh. Then I told him he had the fight sewed up. He came out of that fight without even breathing hard. His eye was closed, but the handicap didn't bother the guy a bit."

Well, that is the story of Max Baer as far as it has gone. The next chapter will have to be written in September when the discredited, booed Baer sits in his corner waiting for the signal to come out and meet Joe Louis again.

This time Max will be ready, as ready as Louis was when he leaped like a tiger at Max Schmeling, ready to do his best against that same Louis with a new incentive to drive him on. Revenge—and Junior.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

In anwering our question of Monday night, we submit it is possible to score 9 points in one end. It happened on the west green last week during a scheduled game and we will now explain it to you. One skip had played his second and last bowl and his rink was lying 6 shots all acros sand in front of the "kitty." His opponent skip studied the situation for a moment and being one of the chaps who lean towards a running shot decided to play a runner. He took aim and then with a firm grip and the ball straight and true travelled down the green splitting the six bowls in the middle, his own bowl going through to drag the kitty back six feet, and when the smoke had cleared away, his rink was playing three shots. He had converted a minus six into a plus of three, a difference nine shots. Wednesday's query: "What is meant by 'burnt' kitty or bowl?

We picked up a litle poem yesterday that we believe will be helpful to all of us. It is a little too long to publish all at once so we will submit a paragraph each night.

BURNS REPLACES DAN HOWLEY AS MANAGER TORONTO LEAFS

Veteran Pilot To Hold Down Office Post

TORONTO, June 28—(CP)—It's a time-worn and often useless stunt for a losing baseball club to try to save itself by getting a new manager but they keep right on doing it. The trick worked for Baltimore Orioles last year; it has brought considerable success to Syracuse Chief this season, and it may help the Toronto Maple Leafs, current cellar dwellers of the International League.

The Leafs shifted their allegiance from Dapper Dan Howley, the veteran who has piloted them through many good years and bad, to the somewhat younger Irving (Jack) Burns last night.

It wasn't a matter of "off with his head." They like Howley in Toronto and besides it was Dan who went to a lot of trouble to get Burns for his team. The change was announced just before last night's game by Club President Donald C. Ross, who said Howley would continue to divide his time between his extensive mining interests and a front office job which will include handling player deals and advising the new pilot.

Persuaded to Return.

Howley tried to retire once before, back in 1933 when he was managing the Leafs, but he was persuaded to return when the club was reorganized last year.

Burns, whom Howley brought from Toledo this season and who has been keeping interest in the Leafs alive, despite their slump, by his flashy fielding and long range clouting, took charge last night.

The Leafs then went out to gain an 11-inning 5-4 victory over the second-place Buffalo Bisons and, incidentally, do their best hitting job of the season.

Toronto nicked Bob Kline, who went the route for the Bisons, for 16 hits. They rallied twice to tie the score, evening it in the ninth, then won out on three singles and an intentional pass. Toronto's own Bobby Porter drove in the deciding run when he bounced a single of Dueker's shins to send Joe Gantenbein home.

Royals Win 4-3.

Montreal Royals won the day's only other game, turning back Rochester Red wings 4-3 when they nicked Hoaard Krist for four runs in the first two innings, then staved off a series of rallies. Del Witherell finally saved the day when he relieved Ed Chapman with none out and two on base in the eighth and pitched hitless ball the rest of the way. The victory gave the Royals sixth place by a few points over Baltimore Orioles.

The Baltimore-Newark and Jersey City-Syracuse games were set back to make doubleheaders some other and sunnier day.

Schmaltz Deprived Of Canadian Title

GUELPH, June 28. — Jackie Keegan, youthful Guelph boxer, last night won the Canadian amateur welterweight boxing title from Gordon Schmaltz of Kitchener in a savage five-round scrap at the arena before the largest crowd ever to see a boxing match in this city.

The fight, one of the most bitter battles ever fought hereabouts, was featured by much heavy punching by both boys. Early in the second round the blood was streaming from both boxers as terrific right-hand wallops found their mark. Neither of the contestants troubled to use any scientific measures as they stood toe to toe and slugged it out to the wild delight of the fans. In the third stanza Keegan's long left kept Schmaltz at a distance and allowed the local boy to connect solidly with his right hand. Schmaltz retaliated with a number of overhand rights which Keegan had difficulty in avoiding. The scrap was billed for the Canadian welter title, which Schmaltz won in Winnipeg about two months ago.

Contrast in Threesomes

Celebration, animation, even a smile on the usually expressionless face of world's heavyweight champion, Joe Louis, are all shown in this picture taken at the home of Julian Black, Joe's manager, as the champ made merry. His companions, as you may guess, are Bill Robinson, 60-year-old tap-dancing wonder, and Joe's pretty wife, Marva.

There are no broad smiles in this private room in New York's Polyclinic hospital, where Max Schmeling is recovering from the spinal injury he sustained during his two minutes in the ring with Louis. The battered ex-champon has as visitors, on the LEFT, his talkative manager, Joe Jacobs, and his trainer, friend and confidant, Max Machon.

Young Petes Play Bowmanville Here

Bowmanville Lions of the Lakeshore Junior Baseball League play the Young Petes here to-morrow (Wednesday) evening at 6.30 o'clock in Riverside Park in a loop fixture. It will be the final appearance in Peterborough of the Bowmanville bunch this season, unless they should happen to meet in league playoffs. Manager Herb Ralph of the locals is hoping for a good twilight crowd Wednesday to help defray the heavy expenses necessary to operate a junior ball club in this circuit. Fans are likely to see a much tighter tussle than the last time these teams clashed, when the locals were too good for the Lions. However, the latter are still considered a good bet for the loop playoffs.

No pitching assignment has been made definitely as yet, but it is likely that Lefty Slemon, ace Bowmanville southpaw, will get the hurling assignment for tomorrow night for the visitors. And Bob Todd, lanky right-hand speedballer for the Young Petes, is likely to go on the slab for the home outfit in this fray. Both clubs will be at full strength and battling hard all the way. A good lively junior baseball game is likely to result.

Westclox Win 5-4 Over Motorists

Westclox nosed out a 5-4 Men's City Softball League win over Motorists last night at the Bowl in a hectic tussle. Though outhit by a big margin, the Motorists held their rivals in a tight tilt most of the way and went down fighting. They went strong in the pinches and left a number of Clockmen stranded on the sacks, the winners being weak in the field this game. Westclox got 12 hits off Fleming while Parsons pitched lovely ball to give but three hits and four walks as he fanned six. Flemnig fanned two and issued three walks. The Barrett boys pulled off one double play, from left to second.

Ellis hit a homer and double for Pat Hayden's squad, while Parsons, Gainey and Currie had two singles each, and W. Calladine a double. For the Motorists, P. Calladine conked a double, with Dorrington and Weir getting a single each for the only clean hits. Crowe turned in a nice fielding game, covering first on bunts, and Playford, Gainey and O'Leary looked good defensively. It was an exciting game for the fans all the way through. The teams:

Lions Club Wins Lacrosse Match

Lions Club defeated the Y's Men's squad, 6 to 1, last night at the George St. arena in the opening game of the Midget Lacrosse League. It was a lively lacrosse squabble with both sides showing some fair play and a lot of promise. The count was 2-1 in the first frame, 3-1 in the second and 6-1 going into the scoreless fourth quarter. The losers were minus subs and faded somewhat in the third but managed to hold their own in the final heat. For the winners, L. Vitarelli, Maloney and Detlor shone; while Rishea, Dundas and Martin starred for the Y's Men's team.

In the first period, Roberts scored from D. Vitarelli and Maloney tallied alone for the Lions, with Martin counting one for the other side. Maloney got the only goal of the second, aided by Detlor and Roberts. In the speedy third, Lions scored three times. Detlor getting one from Kinmond, Detlor tallying again from L. Vitarelli, and Tony Carvaggie notching the final goal. There was no scoring in the fourth. Penalties were drawn by Dundas, Vitarelli and McMahon. The teams:

Lions: Goal, Anderson; defence, L. Vitarelli and D. Vitarelli, centre, Carvaggie; wings, Detlor and Kinmond; rover, Maloney; subs, Crowe and Roberts.

De Laval Wins 7-6 From Quaker Oats

Cashing in on scoring chances last night at the Brinton field, DeLaval eliminated Quakers, 7 to 6, in a tight South-end Softball League tussle. The loss knocked Quakers out of a third place playoff berth in the first half. To-night Hawks and Cogs hook up in another sudden-death game for a third place spot, the winner to meet DeLaval on Monday for third place in the playoffs. Little Harlem has defaulted their scheduled game with Keene for first place, thus giving Keene first position and Little Harlem getting second place. Second half schedule will be out on Saturday.

Last night's winners tallied all their runs in the first four heats, though Shine allowed but seven hits and six walks as he fanned seven during the game. The Quakers got 10 hits off Naish, but good support kept them from threatening till the last inning, when they had the winning run on bases at the final out. Abbott was the lone DeLaval player to get more than one hit, and Shine got three in five for Quakers. Starr and Caccavelli for the losers, and Dallin and Wiley for the winners went well in the field.

Quakers — Cournyea, lf; Caccavelli, ss; Starr, c; McCullough, 1b; Coughlin, rf; Stanley, 2b; Fisher, 3b; Shine, p; Delpellaro, 3b.

DeLaval — Abbott, lf; Dallin, cf; Pearson, c; Weart, ss; Jamieson, 1b; Wright, rf; Wiley, 3b; Griffin, 2b; Naish, p.

Baseball's Greatest Figure Back To Wars

The forgotten man is remembered. For the first time since he quarrelled with Judge Emil Fuchs, of the Boston Braves and resigned from the club, Babe Ruth donned a major league uniform to coach for Brooklyn Dodgers. Baseball's most dynamic figure and greatest single attraction was signed to coach the Daffiness boys the rest of the season for a reported sum of $15,000 and here is Manager Burleigh Grimes helping him on with his uniform.

CAMPBELLFORD

Garage Robbed For Sixth Time

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28.—For the sixth time in the past two years, Brown's Service Station located on No. 30 Highway between Campbellford and Trent River, was broken into and a quantity of tobacco, chocolate bars and cash amounting in all to about 15.00 was taken. In their efforts to gain entrance to the building the thieves broke two windows, the first one located near the door was broken with the intention of letting an arm in to turn the lock on the door but with the previous experiences, the proprietor had learned a lesson and a board had been placed in the way and thus prohibited this means of entrance and so a second window on the south side was broken and it was through this that they made their way into the building. It is thought that the persons involved live in this district and Provincial Constable D. G. Campbell is investigating.

HAVELOCK

Oddfellows Hold Decoration Day Parade Sunday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 28.—Members of the Oddfellows Lodges from Madoc, Campbellford, and Springbrook and other outside points joined with the Havelock Royal Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 286 and Rebekah Lodge No. 98 for the annual decoration day service held Sunday afternoon at Maple Grove Cemetery.

The members assembled at the lodge rooms and headed by the Havelock Brass Band under the direction of Grey Kemp, paraded to the cemetery grounds. Here a crowd of people from town and the surrounding community were gathered to witness the service and decoration of the graves.

The program for the decoration ceremony was in charge of Brother E. J. Leeson P. D. D. G. M., lodge ritual being taken by acting Noble Grand, Carman Coon, and acting Lodge Chaplain, D. A. Forde.

The service began with a hymn "He leadeth me, O Blessed thought" and prayer by the Chaplain. At this point the placing of the floral tributes on the plot took place, in memory of the departed brethern.

Following the singing of the hymn 'Blest be the tie that binds," a few brief words were spoken by Rev. S. A. Kemp, of the United Church. The band then contributed a selection to the program, and the service concluded with the hymn "God be with you till we meet again," the benediction being by Rev. Hugh Brown.

After the floral tributes had been placed on the graves the procession re-assembled and again headed by the Havelock Band paraded back to the lodge rooms.

Nearly 200,000 motor vehicles were made in Russia last year.

Herridge Sees

Government will be high profits, its technique deflation, and its consequences the wreck of Canada.

"It will be government by the international money power. That is fascism. Foreign fascism will be its patron and its friend. Disunity of every shape and kind will stress and strain. Revolt will follow. . . .

"For some time it has been, I believe, an ambition in the higher circles of finance to devise a political instrument to serve its purposes, more powerful and of sterner stuff than is the Liberal Party. This ambition has now expanded to a vision in which the Conservative Party is promoted to a place of equal vassalage with Liberalism so that from their collective virtues may arise a super party to be called the National Party and to be the National Government.

dealt with, the Government would consider leaving them for another session.

To Contentious Measures

Mr. Bennett replied at once that at least two measures were contentious but he did not name them. Pensions Minister Power said he was convinced the special committee on electoral reform and expenditures had decided not to proceed with that measure this session.

On the Bank of Canada debate Social Credit Leader Blackmore said the move to nationalize the Central Bank was a good one but would be effective only if the government used the bank to create and distribute credit, free of interest or borrowings. All depended upon how the government used its added powers.

Mr. Bennett told something of the history of other central banks and their operations and recalled that in the emergency of 1915 the Dominion Government had issued $26,000,000 in currency without real backing and could do so again. The Liberal party had promised measures of this kind but had not produced them.

Canada Is Rich

Mr. McGeer bitterly assailed those in responsibility both at present and in the past for failing to recognize that Canada was rich and failing to put its resources to work for the people. Finance ministers had refused to learn the practical side of financing.

Banks had been permitted to buy huge quantities of government bonds by the mere formality of entering a deposit to the government's credit. This power was designed to impoverish the people and the state to enrich an isolated group. He urged a managed currency system utilizing the $10,000,000,000 worth of credit which he said the Bank of Canada had at its disposal under existing monetary legislation.

Mr. Coldwell said his group would not push for government ownership of the chartered banks.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvan Kinsman of Cavan quietly observed the sixth anniversary of their wedding day on Saturday, and with her parents, Mr and Mrs. D. L. Armstrong, motored to Niagara Falls for the week-end.

Miss Jessie Clarke returned to Millbrook on Wednesday evening, after spending two weeks visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. Wesley Clarke, Havelock, and is with her cousin, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Eakins until this week, when she expects to start for her home in Weyburn, Sask.

Canadian Army Manoeuvres At Camp Borden

OTTAWA, June 28—(CP). — First large-scale manoeuvres the Canadian army has staged since Great War days will be held at Camp Borden, Ont., early in September, climaxing a month of collective training by 2,300 members of the permanent force from every military district in Canada.

All arms of the force—infantry, artillery, cavalry, engineers, army service and mechanical transport units and the signal and medical corps—will combine with the Royal Canadian Air Force in a display of progress made in Canadas defence program. Announcement of the manoeuvres was made last night by the defence department.

For the first time infantry rifle regiments will demonstrate in the war games the use of the Bren light machine gun and the three-inch mortar, with which they all will be armed eventually. The tactical use of mechanized transport, ultimately to form part of each unit's equipment, also will be demonstrated.

The four-weeks' camp is to open August 8 with the general manoeuvres to be started probably on September 4.

Bars Found Sawn On Jail Windows

STRATFORD, Ont., June 28 (CP) —An alleged attempt to break out of the Perth County Jail by at least three different windows, each window on a separate tier of the cell block, was discovered subsequent to the alleged attempted jail break by Jack Stone of Toronto Saturday.

The discovery that at least one prisoner was going to make an attempt to escape from the jail was made Saturday at noon when a turnkey heard sounds of a rasping metal against metal in a washroom on the third tier of the cell block.

Jack Stone of Toronto, sentenced a few days ago for his part in the Willow Grove Creamery robbery, was in the wash room at the time. After he had been removed from the room and placed back in his cell it was discovered that at least three bars in the window had been sawn through and were ready to be broken in case a jail break was planned.

The sawblade was found in the washroom. The discovery that the bars were partly sawn in two other washrooms directly below the top floor was made after jail authorities began a systematic inspection of the place.

Rioters Going "Sissy"

DUNCAN, B.C.—Unemployed who rioted a week ago in Vancouver seem to be going "sissy." They stopped here a few days on their way down Vancouver Island to Victoria. Sunday they went to tea—at Queen Margarets, a girls' private school.

5,000 New Guests For Hotel

PORT WELLAND, Ont.—A hotel-keeper here, who received more than 5,000 new guests last Saturday, should be happy but he isn't. The new guests are a swarm of bees which moved into a tree right behind his hotel.

Summer Outfits Of Police Are Satisfactory

Peterborough City Police force is setting the style in proper summer dress and many tourists who noticed the officers wearing the smart blue broadcloth shirts and Sam Brown belts have remarked that local police are the only ones so attired in the province.

This perhaps is an exaggeration but many centres are getting complaints from senior police officers that the heavy service tunics, the same as are worn in the winter are totally unsuitable for summer wear. The high collar, military style causes the officers much distress particularly in the months of July and August and it is a breach of the rules to unbutton the top clasp.

Inspector James Reid said yesterday the uniforms now worn during the summer by the local officers are very satisfactory, practical and comfortable. The men appear neat, are easily distinguished in a crowd and have their regulation tunics for wear at night if the evening turns cool. Officers are easily distinguished as to rank, because the sergeants wear the three red stripes on the sleeves with black buttons and black crest on the cap. The constables wear bright metal buttons and a bright silver cap crest, while the inspector has a gold crown on each shoulder epaulet, and gold buttons.

At Belleville and other centres, the old style uniform, never varying from season to season is still in vogue and the officers many who weigh well over the 200 pound mark, swelter during the summer months because the various commissions will not consent to a change in the clothing. Many leading police authorities point out that the heavy summer uniforms reduces the efficiency of the officers, while the lighter, and just as serviceable uniforms keep the police men on the alert regardless of the temperature.

Two Lindsay Men Seriously Injured

LINDSAY, Ont., June 28—(CP).—Two young Lindsay men are in critical condition in the hospital here and three others are suffering less serious injuries as a result of a motor accident on the Fenelon-Rosedale road early Sunday.

Berney Mackin, Lindsay, and Jack Hepperson, Lindsay R. R. 2, are in hospital, the former suffering from a fractured pelvis and head injuries and the latter from a severe fracture of the femur above the knee as well as serious head lacerations and bruises.

Three other youths, John Curtin, Lloyd Stoughton and William Brodek, all of Lindsay, are suffering from shock, slight bruises and cuts.

The five, with Brodick driving, were returning to Lindsay from a dance of Coboconk, when the accident occurred. The car hit a cement bridge, demolishing it.

Marmora Barn Lost In Early A.M. Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 28—The barn of Sylvester Phillips of Marmora township was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. The owner of the building received the first inkling of the blaze when he was awakened from his sleep by the noise of the roof falling through. Outside of the building there was little loss as the only contents consisted of a few tons of last year's hay. It is not known whether the building was insured.

OBITUARY

WALTER BIGELOW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, June 28. — Relatives and friends have the deepest sympathy of the entire community of the very sudden passing of the late Walter Bigelow. While not enjoying the best of health, he still attended his farm duties, and the very sudden passing last week was most unexpected to his family. The deceased was the youngest son of the late Mr. William Bigelow and his wife, Grace Price. Both predeceased a few years ago.

He is survived by his sorrowing widow and baby daughter, not quite two years old, also three brothers, Harry and Frank, James near the village, and Dr. Louis of Edgar, Ont; and one sister, Mrs. Harold Kincade of Cavan.

The deceased was 30 years of age and was married to Miss Jean Thorndyke in October, 1935. He had lived all his young life in Bethany district, and was a very highly respectable young man.

The funeral was held from his home on Wednesday and was very largely attended. The floral tributes which literally filled the living room around the casket bore mute testimony of the high esteem in which he was held. Rev. C. Ferguson, his pastor, officiated and brought sweet messages of comfort to the bereaved family and friends present.

Interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery, Manvers, in the family plot. The casket was carried by intimate companions of the deecased, namely: Keith Thorndyke, Ken Thorndyke, Clarence Rowan, Morgan Bigelow, Gordon Bigelow, and Harold Bigelow.

MRS. S. T. MEDD.

After a lingering illness, the death took place on Sunday evening, at half past nine, at Lovat Lodge, Lancaster, Ontario, of Estelle Lumsden Medd, beloved wife of Sydney Taylor Medd, K.C., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ackerman, and mother of Scott Medd, student of the Royal Academy of Art, London, England, and Mary Medd, at home. Mrs. Edna Waddell of this city, is a sister of the deceased, and brothers are William C. Ackerman and Lt.-Col. Charles H. Ackerman, also of Peterborough. A third brother, the late Lieut. Arthur Ackerman, died overseas.

Born at Norwood, the deceased resided for a time at Port Perry, and has lived in Peterborough since 1892. Her education was received in Port Perry and at the Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby.

The late Mrs. Medd was an outstanding example of a passing generation; a woman of sterling character, indomitable spirit and abiding courage, whose chief interests in life were bound up in the advancement of the church, the good of the community, and the welfare of her family and household. Of late years, increasing ill-health confined her to the house, and hampered the exercise of qualities of leadership which had at one time placed her at the forefront of social and philanthropic movements.

Prior to her marriage, she was an active member of George Street Church, and following that event, was affiliated with St. John's Church, where she co-operated loyally in all activities, taking an especial interest in the establishment of a Girls' Friendly Society, which accomplished much for the girlhood of the community.

She was also a pioneer in two important organizations; the local Women's Art Association, of which she was a charter member, and the initial branches here of the Home and School Association. In the last-named movement, she was associated with the founder, the late Mrs. A. E. Courtice, of Toronto, in promoting a society which has at present branches spread across the Dominion, from coast to coast. She was at all times keenly interested in artistic and musical endeavors, was an amateur artist in her girlhood, and in recent years assisted in every possible way in the encouragement of the Madrigal Singers and other worth-while cultural efforts.

The funeral will be held at half past two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon from the family residence at 452 Charlotte street, with interment in Little Lake Cemetery. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson.

Occupants Unhurt As Car Overturns

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. McLaren, 251 Prince street, had a very lucky escape from serious injury Monday night, when their motor car overturned in a ditch after a crash at the intersection of Braidwood Avenue and Park street south.

Although the automobile in which they were riding was badly damaged the two occupants got off very lightly. Mrs. McLaren received medical treatment at her home for bruises and lacerations on her knees and face and for shock while her husband although shaken up, had no other injury except a cut finger.

McLaren was driving south on Park street and another car driven by John J. Hunter, 25, of Gooderham, Ont., was travelling east along Braidwood. At the intersection the two machines collided, McLaren's car being struck at the rear and rolled over into the east ditch, landing on its side, with the top crumpled and the body damaged. The front of Hunter's automobile was also damaged but neither he nor any of the five other persons in his car was hurt.

Provincial Constable David Silvester who investigated the crash, laid a charge of reckless driving against Hunter, and the Gooderham man will appear in traffic court here tomorrow.

Board Being Sued For $1,500 Damages

Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, is presiding in the Court House to-day in a special sitting of the County Court hearing evidence in an action instituted by George Sorenson, Argyle street florist, to collect $1,500 damages from the Board of Education, allegedly occasioned to his property by flood waters on March 27, 1936.

The allegation is that the Board of Education built a tile train and placed a grill over the intake, and covered the tile with fill. The grill became obstructed with rubbish or ice, and an artificial lake was formed near the intake, eventually running over the tile drain and down on to the Sorenson propetry and greenhouse at the foot of the hill. In addition to direct flood damage, the plaintiff alleges the water extinguished the fires in two furnaces and that much of the Easter stock of plants and flowers were damaged by frost.

Weller Emery pleaded guilty before Magistrate Langley in police court this morning to stealing two keys from E. F. Mason and was remanded until Saturday morning, to give the authorities a chance to find out something about him.

W. J. Arthur Fair defended the accused and asked for leniency in his case claiming that he had been drinking when the offence was committed.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry K. C. explained that while Mr. Mason was in his store on Monday evening, three persons, one of whom was the accused had come in and after they had gone out the keys which had been in the front door were missing. One was the key to that door and the other to the cash register. Later when Sergeant W. E. Wigg was about to arrest Emery he had seen the prisoner throw the keys away.

"There had better be a remand until Saturday" said the magistrate. "This may be a dangerous man."

Accordingly Emery who has been living in the Sudbury district will be held until his case has been investigated.

Woman Is Fined $20 And Costs Having Muskie

Pleading guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley K. C. in police court this morning to the illegal possession of one maskinonge and five large-mouthed black bass on June 18, during the closed season for these fish, Mrs. Lottie Taylor of Curve Lake was fined $20 and $3 costs. She was given 10 days in which to pay the fine, with the alternative of 10 days in jail.

Fisher and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons said that it was not a case for the minimum penalty and Magistrate Langley agreed with that view.

Percy Knott, also of Curve Lake, was found not guilty of the illegal transport of the same fish, the Magistrate finding that Knott according to the eidence had no knowledge that the fish were in his car until they were found there by two fish and game overseers. Knott was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair while Overseer Lyons prosecuted.

Mr. Lyons as the first witness for the crown told of stopping the car driven by Knott on the morning of June 18 and of finding a maskinonge and five large-mouthed black bass in the rear part of the car. Mrs. Hiram Taylor one of the passengers in Knott's automobile claimed the ownership of the fish, which were done up in four parcels. He admitted ownership of the automobile. The fish and car were seized. Overseer L. A. Gibb of Havelock who was with Overseer Lyons corroborated his evidence.

Claim's Protection.

For the defence Mrs. Taylor who claimed the protection of the Evidence Acts swore that the fish mentioned by the overseers were her's and that Knott who had at her request given her a ride into Peterborough had no knowledge of them. She had not told him anything about the fish and she could not see how he could see them because the fish were in a basket and a shopping bag.

Knott, testifying in his own behalf, said that he had given Mrs. Taylor a ride in his car but did not know anything about the fish until they had been discovered by theofficers. "my car was taken by the overseers and they have it yet" he told the court.

Magistrate Langley dismissed the case saying there was no evidence to show that Knott knew anything the fish.

"Will you give direction for the return of the car?" asked Mr. Fair.

"No. I simply dismiss the case" replied Magistrate Langley.

Overseer Lyons said that the Minister of Game and Fisheries must authorize the return of the automobile.

"You'd look nice if we sued for the car" said Mr. Fair.

"Go ahead and sue" replied the overseer.

SAFETY FIRST ALWAYS.

School days are nearly over and many of our boys will be going on holidays, camping, etc. To you all I would just give a word of warning:

Those of you who ride bicycles, please keep to the right side of the road; don't turn in circles in front of cars, etc.; you are not only endangering your own limbs and lives but also the nerve of the man behind the wheel, and his life and limb.

Next, when swimming, do not go out of your depth if you are swimming alone, always go in pairs at least.

Above all, have a good time and come back home healthier than you left, also come back whole.

Westclox Plans To Return To 5-Day Week

Western Clock Company working hours will be stepped back to almost normal when the employees return from two weeks summer vacation on July 18th, J. H. Vernor, general manager said today.

"The factory staff will be working at least five days a week for the balance of the year and there is a strong possibility the working week will be even longer than five days," he said. This week all departments are busy for the four days from Monday to Thursday preceding the holiday period which begins Thursday night. All employees who have been on the company's payroll for two years up to July 1st will be given two weeks holidays and one weeks pay, and those with five years service or more will get the full two weeks holidays with pay.

The Westclox employees have been the most fortunate perhaps in the entire city in the matter of steady employment as the factory production has been steadily maintained until the reduction in output a few months ago. Very few of the employees according to reports will miss a vacation because of reduced earnings, and the few who have been hit the hardest by virtue of having large families plan to spend at least three days by the side of some lake or river.

Father Of 18

to the 18th of March, and the third boy looked after all the work of getting the family down here. They were here more than two weeks before we arrived.

What became of the Ennismore place? Well, I don't want to say anything that would hurt anybody's feelings, but the fact was that a millionaire from Toronto bought it. It's one of the best farms in Ennismore with a big frontage down on the lake. I really hoped I might be able to buy the place, because I could have had lots of help and the best of it from the older boys and we could have kept the family together, because there'd be lots of work, but when you want to buy a farm its dollars that count. The man with the million comes first, and the man with a lot of children is just nowhere. Does that sound bitter? It shouldn't. It is only stating a fact; but just the same I felt greatly disappointed to have to leave the place, especially when all I needed was $2,100. For a farm like that and lot of help to work it, you'd think you could get the money to take it over, but I couldn't. Really, I felt I'd be able to pay that place off in five years, well—ten at the outside."

So, two of the older boys are working in Ennismore, another is with William H. Elmhirst and Son in Otonabee, "and with a real farmer, he is," Mr. Crough added. Patricia is trying her entrance examinations in Ennismore; Helen recently got through with "exams"; Doreen is living with her aunt, Mrs. Loyola Moloney, in Douro.

Household Planning

Providing for the family requires not only work but considerable planning. Jokingly or otherwise, Mr. Crough quoted his wife as saying every other day was bake day, and the days between were wash days.

"We certainly miss the lake," Mr. Crough said. "Last year Helen had a special job of looking after the younger children down at the lake. They went there every day, and they were the picture of health when the summer was over."

One of the girls has the work of helping with the dishes, especially in the evening, and another has to see that the children are washed and prepared for bed, and "to help them with their prayers."

The Croughs invasion of Otonabee was not without a little touch of humor as when the trustees of the school on the highway heard that six children were arriving during the first week in March, and all the seats were occupied, requiring a scurrying around to get six extra ones.

A Tulsa minister recently sued a theatre for damages, claiming bank nights at the show had ruined his church collections.

CHAPTER 26

"W-WHO ARE YOU?" Ellen asked the man on the ground.

Then she began unconsciously to dismount. It was obvious that the old fellow could not talk. His face seemed flushed, feverish. But she could not escape his penetrating eyes.

She did a foolish thing. She did not drop her reins in dismounting, and Pintado calmly wandered on.

"Are you—injured? What is it?" She knelt beside the old man. Inspecting him as best she could, she saw he must be suffering. Then she learned that he could whisper.

"I fell," he managed. "Water!"

She had no water. She hadn't yet learned the westerner's dependence on a canteen. But she knew they weren't far from her stream.

"I have none. I'll get help—can you—can we get you on my horse. Are you in pain?"

had the devil's own time catching

She looked then for Pintado, and him. The frisky animal wanted to play. He dodged artfully, even in that narrow canyon. With more nerve and determination than she imagined she had, Ellen eventually caught his reins—and thereby learned a first lesson in horsemanship which she never forgot.

The old man was heavy, but was able to help himself a little. With great straining, Ellen got him across the saddle, not astride but dangling across. She tied his body there with the rawhide saddle strings, at the old man's whispered instructions.

"I'm Brown, Buckshot Brown," he rasped then "I ain't nigh daid yit!"

"I'm sure you're not, Mr Brown! We'll get help at once"

She started down the canyon leading Pintado

Their trek was a tedious one She had come farther than she realized. But she was able to cut over a hill and come to her mountain stream. there to give the old man a much needed drink. He could still talk only in a broken whisper. "I ain't daid yit, they cain't kill me," he insisted.

When she reached her camp with him, the place was deserted. This disappointed her immensely. Unconsciously she had been wanting to shift the burden of responsibility for her injured man.

But Bill had set up her tent, and she got the old man in and placed comfortably in her camp bed. She learned then that his ankle was broken, or badly sprained, enough at any rate to make him almost helpless in the hills alone. He had lain there for four days, he said, subsisting on the raw meat of a rock squirrel he'd chanced to shoot. He was a prospector. He had mining claims back in the hills. The heel had come off his shoe, tripping and injuring him as he climbed down a rocky cliff. He had crawled more than half a mile, he guessed, seeking help. Ellen got his story by degrees while tending him, giving him what first aid she could.

A note from Bill said he had gone to Sonoita to see about purchasing some more stock and hiring some men. The Mexican family was nowhere in sight, either.

"Are you feeling any stronger, Mr. Brown?" Ellen asked.

"Strong's a b'ar," he lied gamely. "And th' name's Buckshot, ma'am. Blackshot Brown. Don't cotton to no handle."

He could speak more distinctly now. She brought him some food and he thanked her. Slowly his strength was returning.

"If you feel that I can leave you safely, I'll go for a doctor now?"

"Hanh! No'h, I don't need none. I'm all right. Four, five days of grub and water, I'll be up and travelin', This ankle ain't broke. After a bit I'll trouble you for some hot water and a pan, and do my own doctorin'. What in tarnation are you doin' out here in these hills? With this here camp? You, a purty —"

He was at a loss for words, in his curiosity. Ellen explained how she came to be there.

"I have a Mexican family here somewhere, probably back in the little canyon a few blocks—a half mile or so yonder, Mr. Brown. I'll go—"

"Buckshot Brown."

". . . yes. Buckshot. But you are older than I am!" She smiled kindly at him. "You're a strange man!"

"A damned old fool, you mean. I don't cotton to handles, anyhow. I been called Buckshot for 40 years. What was you sayin'?"

"I will go look for the Mexican family. The Riveras. They are out here somewhere, I know. That is their tent over yonder."

"You married to this Baron feller you mention?"

"Oh! No. My name is Dale. Ellen Dale. I'm sorry I never thought to tell you, Mr.—Buckshot. No I am not married. Bill told me he was going to make love to me, though!"

She added that last mischievously, smiling at the man. Instantly she thought it must have sounded silly. But the urge to confide heart secrets in someone often is powerful, and as yet Ellen had made no intimate friends in Arizona.

"Did, heh? I'll have to study on it."

Ellen brought the Riveras, bade them tend Buckshot Brown while she went for help. Bill had taken the truck. In spite of Buckshot's orders, she went for a doctor.

The road to her ranch was about four miles until it joined the main public highway, and she met no other cars until she got on the latter. Traffic was never heavy there, but a few motorists whizzed by.

One of them knew Ellen, indeed was coming out to see her, but did not recognize her as they passed on the road. He was Felix Montoya.

Felix was definitely in love with Ellen Dale, or thought he was. She had impressed him greatly down in Sonora. It delighted him to know she did not go back to Hollywood. Following now the instructions he had obtained in Nogales, he made the correct turn and ended up eventually at her ranch site.

"She ain't here," Buckshot Brown explained. "She's went for a doc, dadgummit; Ain't you a Mexican, young feller?"

Old Buckshot glared at Felix, who bowed an affirmative.

"Be danged! Didn't understand thet. Waal, ef you're th' one, you're th' one. Whar you frum?"

"I live in Sonora. Miss Dale she was a guest at my father's ranch. She save the life of my seester, when the Yaquis capture her. She is grand! Miss Dale, I refer to. She—"

"That a fack? She saved my life, too. Who'd you say you was? Ain't you a count ,or a baron, or something like that?"

"Montoya, senor, is the name. Colear Montenegro Felix de Capablanca y Montoya."

"Gosh amighty, son! Enough name for a family of kids, by dads! What do you do?"

Old Buckshot was considerably stronger now. He was able to eye Felix closely, studying him. He plied Felix with many questions mostly quite personal.

Felix didn't like it. After a bit he became rather short with his answers, impatient of an old man's inquisitiveness.

"Miss Dale, she is not returning soon? I am much anxious to see her?" he demanded of Buckshot, finally.

"Sorry to say she ain't, son. She swore I had to have help. I'm disappointed in her pudgment. More ways 'n one, by dads. I'll have to study on it."

"I beg pardon, senor?"

"I says she has went to town, and won't be back till tomorrer or so."

That didn't please Felix, but he believed it. He had no way of knowing that Buckshot Brown had prevaricated, was in fact a consciousless old liar whenever lying suited what Buckshot conceived to be a worthy purpose.

Suddenly, Felix got in his car and headed on back toward Nogales.

New Summer Draperies You Can Make Yourself

Dainty—Airy—Lovely

The living room looking a little dingy these bright summer days? Gay flounced curtains dress it up. They're inexpensive, quickly made—and you'll fall for the clever valance that looks like a smart new cornice.

Imagine these draperies in a cool-tulip-patterned chintz, crimson and green on gray. Or in lemon-yellow with an all-over design in gray and emerald green. Or in Swedish blue piped in red.

To make the valance, simply take a straight length of material and shirr on two flat rods with a frill on both edges (A).

For each flounce of the draperies, bind or picot lower edge, gather top, stitch to muslin foundation (B). Let each flounce overlap the one below.

For summer glass curtains alone, use one of the many lovely suggestions in our 32-page booklet—such as dotted swiss held back with rickrack rosettes. Diagrams and step-by-step directions for draperies, valances, cornices.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, June 29.

A very likely day is presaged from the ruling astral operations, although such enterprise may be directed toward the breaking down of old obstacles, crystallizations and postponements. Change or travel may prove beneficial, although strange contacts may hold certain elements of hazard or disagreeable friction. However, well-laid plans and personal restraint should result in definite progress despite tenacious obstructions.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and interesting year, with much stirring in the way of breaking up old and stubborn congestions of a disappointing and exasperating nature. Well-directed effort and restrains from strife and nervous manifestations may result in achievement, although there is need for precaution with strangers and unfamiliar contacts.

A child born on this day may have a lively, restless and high-strung temperament. It may be difficult to understand and to handle owing to certain conflicts in its inner nature. By inculcating sound and wholesome principles with kindliness and consideration, it may be given a more optimistic outlook on life.

Railway unions in Ireland are appealing to the public to not patronize highway freight service.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am engaged to be married and have been for some time, but I have had to put off marrying because I am the sole support of my family. My father is barely middle-aged, strong and healthy, as able to work as any man and has plenty of opportunities for good jobs, but he simply won't work, and I am paying the bills to keep my mother from worrying. I have said everything to him that I can, but the situation does not improve. My fiance is bitterly opposed to this, and says that when we get married this state of affairs will have to stop. Have I a right to go ahead and make my own home? Another thing, my boss has fallen in love with me. He is a married man with children, and is willing to give them up and break up his home and throw away the respect of his friends if I will marry him. I have told him how wrong this is, and that I couldn't do it, anyway, as I am in love with somebody else, and have offered to give up my job, but he won't hear to that. What should I do?

WORRIED GIRL.

ANSWER:

My goodness, but you have problems and perplexities aplenty, and I don't wonder that you are worried! But the solution of them all is very simple. Marry your man at once and that will settle both Papa and the married Lothario.

There are a lot of fathers like yours, who lay down on their jobs just as soon as their children get their working papers, and who never do another lick of labor as long as they live. These despicable creatures who make a graft of parenthood are particularly prone to prey upon their daughters because girls are easy-marks and lack the nerve to deal with them as they deserve.

Generally, Father develops some mysterious chronic ailment that the doctors can't diagnose about the time Sally gets a job that prevents him from swinging a pick, or standing behind a counter, or bending over a set of books, but that does not keep him from eating three square meals a day and walking miles and miles around a pool table, or sitting up until all hours settling the affairs of the world at the corner saloon. He says he looks well, it is true, but nobody knows what he suffers. Which is true enough.

Girls are simply silly when they let a morbid sense of duty to their fathers make them support a man who is far more able to work than they are, and whose only disease is incurable laziness. And they are worse than silly, they are downright criminal, when they sacrifice not only their own lives and happiness, but the lives and happiness of the men to whom they are engaged to keep these contemptible parasites in idleness.

So just walk out on Papa and leave him with the bag to hold. When it is a question of work or going hungry he will get a job. And it will do him good, physically, mentally and morally.

Of course, it will be hard on your mother for a time because he will rave and talk about how ungrateful you have been, forgetting how long you have supported him, but in the end he will pay the bills. Besides, if your mother loves you she wouldn't want you to sacrifice yourself for her.

It isn't safe for any girl to continue working for a boss who is in love with her, in spite of the fact that he has a wife and children. Sooner or later she will find herself in a pretty mess, no matter how discreet she is. Better leave before your sweetheart gets green-eyed, or the man's wife names you as co-respondent in a divorce case.

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you believe it is true, as Kipling says, that "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet?" A girl friend of mine is very much in love with a boy of a nationality different from hers. As two individuals, separate and distinct from their racial heritages, they believe that they are suited to each other. However, the boy feels a strong sense of loyalty towards his father, who expects him to marry within his own race. Should the boy heed the teachings and desires of his parents, or the promptings of his heart?

OLIVE.

ANSWER:

Interracial marriages are seldom successful, and they are particularly risky when the woman is an American. For American women are spoiled, as foreigners say. They have enjoyed a freedom and a consideration that the women of no other race have, and they find it almost impossible to adapt themselves to the ways of husbands who are accustomed to seeing the women of their own lands occupy a subservient position and live restricted lives.

I take it from your letter that the boy in this case is an Oriental and that he expects to return to his own country. If he took an American wife with him, he would be most unhappy because he would deeply offend his parents and his family, who would give her a cold shoulder, if they did not refuse to receive her at all. For Orientals are just as much opposed to their sons marrying white women as white parents are opposed to their daughters marrying Orientals. And the girl would find herself most miserable, with no society, no amusements to which she had been accustomed, nowhere to go and nothing to do, and perhaps after a while to find herself just one of several wives.

It will be far better for both the boy and the girl in this case just to kiss and part, and fold their little romance away in lavender.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Two men wish to marry me. One is rich and one is poor. The rich one I do not love because he is illiterate, morally weak, inconstant and bores me to death. I love this poor one madly. He is clean and fine and brilliant. But, being an extravagant woman and quite clothes-mad, I feel I cannot be happy without the life of ease and all the lovely things to which I am accustomed. On the other hand, the poor one would give me a beautiful love and be my intellectual equal, but little else. Ultimately, which will be my greater need—love and companionship, or ease and luxury? I do not know. Yet I must make a decision before long.

JENNIE.

ANSWER:

If you have more back than heart and would rather ride in a limousine with a bore than to have your true lover's arm about you and walk through life with a fascinating companion, then take the rich man. But the trouble with marrying a man for his money is that so often he loses it, and you have nothing left. Whereas the poor man often makes a fortune. But whichever way you decide the question you will probably have your moments of wishing you had taken the other.

DOROTHY DIX.

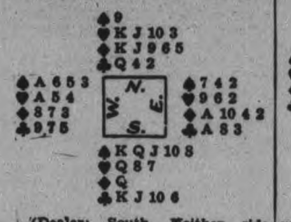
"The Authority on Authorities"

THE PICTURE CHANGES

NO TRUMPS is a difficult declaration if you hold a singleton in the suit with which your partner responded to your opening bid. You may have a hard time then to bring in his suit effectively. But if, after rebidding your own suit, he names a third in which you have three cards, you probably can develop the necessary communication between the two hands. Granting satisfactory stoppers in the fourth suit and enough general strength, you can soundly steam on to a no trump game contract.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

When North and East passed, South opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade, North responded with 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, North 3-Hearts and South 3-Spades. North feared making any further bid and there it remained.

In the play of the hand, the declarer lost nothing but the four aces, which made him realize the mistake he made in not bidding for a no trump game after his partner was able to bid two suits.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf and Hanid, the shadow children with the turned-about names, aren't like real children, you know. Well, they look a good deal like real children—all shadows look like the children they belong to. But they could do lots of things which real children can't even begin to do.

For example, they could talk to all sorts of things. More important than that: All sorts of things could talk to them!

The other afternoon Knarf and Hanid went up to the cactus plant which was standing on the sunny table near the window in the children's playroom. "Good morning, cactus plant," Knarf began

"What does that mean?"

"Buenos Dias!" the cactus answered.

Knarf and Hanid looked at each other.

"What—what does that mean?" Knarf asked.

"It means good morning in my language. I'm Mexican," answered the cactus plant. "I speak Spanish."

"Oh," said the shadow boy. "I didn't know you were a Mexican."

"Of course I am. I don't come from this playroom. I come from Mexico. I was born on the side of a very warm hill. The sun shone all day long. It was very pleasant there. My father and mother and all my brothers and sisters grew all around me. We were a very large family One day a man came along with a shovel and dug us up. Then he put us in a big box and put us on a wagon drawn by a couple of oxen—"

"Oxen? What are they?"

They're Like Cows.

"They're like cows. They have horns. They're very strong. They pulle dthe cart with all of us in the box. Then we were put on a train. Finally, I was taken out and put in a little clay pot, and by and by someone came along and bought me and brought me here."

"Aren't you glad to be here?" Hanid said.

"Isn't it much better than just being on the side of a hill where on one ever saw you except the man with the shovel and the oxen?" Knarf added.

"It's pretty nice here," the cactus said after it paused to think. "The children don't do me much harm—"

Hanid Indignant.

"They don't do you any harm!" Hanid broke in indignantly. "They take care of you very well. They give you plenty of water and—"

"That's just it. They give me too much water. I don't like water. A drop once in a while—every few days—is all right. But to get water day after day—well, that's too much for a cactus like me. I'm not used to it. It gives me a damp feeling all over. But I'll do my best to keep from going away. Well, buenos dias again. I'm very glad to mave made your acquaintance."

Tiny satin buttons trimmed the full length of the gown, and a finger-tip veil was caught at the back with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Historic Kingston Is Marking Its 100th Anniversary Of Incorporation As A City

Limestone City Was First Capital Of Re-united Canada

BY CENTRAL PRESS CANADIAN

KINGSTON, Ont., June 28.—Few cities of Canada can boast the romantic history of this old city which will don festive clothes this August for the celebration of its centennial.

Not the oldest, but one of the most historic cities in the Dominion, Kingston was first known as Kalarakouri. First to note its important military and trading possibilities was a French Intendant Talon, who urged the French king to establish a trading post on the site of what now is the city of Kingston. It was three or four years later before his urgings met with success, however, and then the great Louis de Buade, Count de Frontenac, continued the investigation of the military possibilities of the site. Impressed with its importance Frontenac ordered constructed a stronghold which was known as Fort Frontenac.

Cavalier de La Salle, who acted as envoy for Fronetnac on his first visit to Katarakoui, became the first captain of the new fort. Mis-government, jealousy of the traders and treachery brought about the demolition of the fort after Frontenac had returned to France. But the iron-hearted Frontenac was once more dispatched to New France and rebuilt the fort in 1696.

British Demolished Fort

The Fort reigned supreme until the coming of the British, under Col. Bradstreet, in 1758. Bradstreet completely destroyed the fort after its capture and left the shattered stonework as a reminder of the downfall of French power in Canada.

Years passed and then the revolt of the American colonies broke out and Katarakoui once more resumed its rightful part in Canadian history. It was to this region that the first exiled loyalist came after fleeing from their homes in the south. The first band of these stalwarts reached what is now Kingston in 1784 under the leadership of Capt. John Michael Glass. He is credited with having founded the town and township of what we now know as Kingston.

It was here that the first governor of the newly created Upper Canada—John Graves Simcoe—was inaugurated in 1794. The ceremony took place in the then St. George's church.

British Military Post

It was left to Lord Dorchester to follow in Frontenac's footsteps and realize the military importance of the town. He selected Kingston for a naval and military centre in 1788, giving it a status which it otherwise might not have acquired. The fort, established by Lord Dorchester, was named Fort Henry and is still in evidence, having been put into a state of good repair during the past year.

Never the scene of actual conflict the fort and harbor of Kingston were the headquarters of the navy during the war in 1812. It will be reopened as a fort-museum during the celebrations in August.

Incorporated in 1838

The town of Kingston was incorporated into a city by an act passed by the legislative council and assembly of Upper Canada on March 6, 1838. The new city's council met on April 2, following the passing of the act, for the purpose of selecting its first mayor. The honor fell to Thomas Kirkpatrick, later destined to become the first member of parliament for Frontenac county, following confederation. In his first civic election a young lawyer, later destined to become premier, John A. MacDonald, acted as returning officer.

The newly created city became the first capital of a reunited Canada under Lord Sydenham, who under the Union Act of 1841, had the power to select the capital. Bright visions rose before the eyes of the inhabitants only to vanish into thin air shortly afterwards.

Today Kingston still retains much of its old world charm and romance. The reconstructed Fort Henry, in which much of the old stone work has been conserved, offers much to the casual visitor who is interested in the early history of the country. The burial places of Lord Sydenham and Sir John A. MacDonald are also of interest to tourists taking part in the centennial celebrations of the Limestone City this year.

Birthday Party For Springville

(Examiner Correspondent)

SPRINGVILLE, June 28.—Mrs. Harold Cathcart was hostess to the societies of Springville United church for their meeting on Wednesday. For the devotional period Mrs. Hunter spoke on God's care. She used as an illustration a story told by Pearl Buck concerning her father's missionary work in China. Whittier's poem "I Know Not What the Future Hath" was given and in concluding Mrs. Hunter read the hymn, "Does Jesus Care."

Mrs. Hunter gave some echoes of the recent W.M. convention held in Peterborough. Letters were read from Mrs. (Rev.) Brown and Mrs. G. Whitfield thanking the society for flowers sent them while in the hospital.

A number of items of business were then discussed. It was decided to have the birthday party in July and Mrs. M. Johnson kindly offered her home for that occasion. As the bale was being packed at this meeting, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. L. Whittington read a chapter from the book, "Through Missionary Windows". The children who took part in the recent W.C.T.U. contest were present and provided the remainder of the program. As an introduction to this Mrs. Hunter told a very fitting temperance story.

The following children contributed numbers: Ila Dunford, Give It To Me; Hazel McIntosh, A Good Resolution; Marilyn Bowles, Only; Audrey Kelk, My Pledge; Doreen Bowles, Papa's Darling; Eleanor Bowles, Dorothy's Sewing Lesson.

After the appreciation of the society was expresesd to the children, the closing hymn was sung, and the benediction pronounced by Mrs. Hunter.

A meeting of the Women's Association was then held with the president, Mrs. H. Rowan, presiding.

It was decided to have new tables made and Messrs. J. Staples, A Hunter and W. Whitfield were appointed as a committee to look after same. After the concluding of this meeting, the ladies repaired to Mrs. Cathcart's spacious lawn, and a social hour was spent. Mrs. Hunter moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Cathcart for her hospitality and this was most heartily endorsed by all.

Rev. C. C. Miller Is Honored At Bridgenorth

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BRIDGENORTH, June 28. — A presentation and address was read Rev. C. C. Miller and Mrs. Miller by the congregation of Bridgenorth United church when they met in the basement of the church last week. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are leaving for their new field of work in Bobcaygeon shortly. Following the program given below George Ball read the address:

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Family:

We, the members of your Bridgenorth congregation are gathered here this evening to attempt to show our appreciation of your service among us.

To Mr. Miller:

You have ever been ready to lend a helping hand to those in need, your activities in young people's work, men's club, skating rink, tournaments and all church entertainments has been of much greater value to us than perhaps you have realized. Your inspiring sermons have been both a source of pleasure and of comfort. We realize that your task here has not been an easy one but you have fought your battles bravely and without complaint. You have dared to tell us plainly of our shortcomings and our faults, and have not failed to point the way to the fuller and richer Christian life and to those of us who, having felt the problems and perplexities of modern life too great, have sought your aid you have given sound advice with comfort and encouragement.

Nor have you been lax in visiting the sick, your cheeful manner and comforting messages having brought sunshine and hope to many an invalid.

To Mrs. Miller:

The various church organizations want you to know that they have enjoyed and appreciated your friendship and guidance. Your work as president of our W.M.S. and as a teacher in our Sunday school calls for special mention and we trust that you may find an outlet for your ability as a leader in your new field.

To you both, we want to say that your memory will live long in our hearts and our best wishes follow you wherever you go.

We are happy to be able to take this opportunity of presenting you with this chair, not for its intrinsic value, but in order that you may have some tangible evidence of our esteem.

Little Doris Jopling, flower girl, presented Mrs. Miller with a large bouquet of carnations.

Mrs. Miller responding with many thanks a cordial invitation to their new home in Bobcaygeon, following Jas. Jopling, W. Telford, W. Robinson carried in a beautiful lounging chair and foot rest, presenting them to Mr. and Mrs. Miller. Responding Mr. Miller thanked the people for their kindness and co-operation during the years as pastor of Bridgenorth United Church. Italy Warns Franco On Bombing

Approves Ship Raids But Says Go Easy On British Craft

ROME, June 29 (AP).—A spokesman for the Fascist regime declared to-day that Italy had adivsed General Franco, the Spanish insurgent leader, to use "moderation" in his efforts to prevent British and other foreign ships from bringing supplies to Government Spain.

The spokesman, the noted editor Virginio Gayda, said, however, that Italy approved of the bombing of vessels carrying contraband, but disclaimed any Italian responsibility therefor.

In an inspired article in the Giornale d'Italia, Gayda disclosed the content of the conversation last night between the Earl of Perth, British Ambassador in Rome, and Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano.

The editor said Count Ciano told Lord Berth that General Franco already had taken a series of measures to give the British Government satisfaction with regard to the long list of bombings of British ships, against which London has protested vigorously.

Franco's Orders.

These measures, Gayda said, were:

First, Fronca has given orders that British ships should not be attacked while navigating.

Second, he had ordered that the British flag be respected as far as possible in Spanish government ports.

Third, Franco was willing to name free ports in Western Spain (insurgent-held) where "honest traffic" would have free entry.

The Perth-Ciano conference produced speculations that it might bring an end to air raids on British merchantmen in Spanish waters.

Some diplomatic quarters thought Great Britain might have made renunciation of her still-inoperative friendship treaty with Italy the price of continued air raids on her shipping. The treaty, signed April 16, was not to become effective until a "settlement" was reached in Spain but Premier Mussolini recently has sought to put the pact into force withfout delay.

Political circles expressed belief Mussolini was aware of the difficulties the air attacks have raised for Prime Minister Chamberlain and considered it likely Mussolini wanted to smooth Mr. Chamberlain's way at home.

Report sthat Il Duce Monday had summoned his military advisers to find out if bombardment of Spanish government arsenals would not substitute effectively for attacks on supply ships in government-held harbors tended to bear out this belief.

"Lie" Roars Shaw Of Broken Diet

LONDON, June 20 — (AP). — George Bernard Shaw indignantly denied yesterday he had broken a half-century vegetarian rule as a cure for the anemia from which he is suffering.

"Its a blazing lie," roared Shaw, though he admitted he had "a bit of a breakup" through overwork. Author of "Doctor's Dilemma," Shaw set his own physician a problem—how to keep the dramatist inactive.

He was reported to be working on a synopsis for a new play, despite medical orders to keep quiet.

Old War Issue Of Privilege Rocks Commons

LONDON, June 29 (C.P. Cable).—Duncan Sandys dropped a resounding bombshell into the House of Commons to-day. Sensation followed sensation. The Chamber echoed to the old cry of privilege.

From the Labor benches James Ede read passages from the Grand Remonstrance and the Bill of Rights, laying down the liberties of Parliament. He raised again the old issues which led to Civil War between Parliament and the King.

On Monday, Mr. Sandys, a Conservative and the son-in-law of Winston Churchill, told the House that as a result of a letter he had sent Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, Attorney-General Sir Donald Somervell had questioned him about the source of information contained in the letter, with an implied threat of proceedings under the Official Secrets Act.

Mr. Sandys asked for the appointment of a special committee of the Commons to investigate. The Government has agreed to the committee, appointment of which Prime Minister Chamberlain will move tomorrow.

The Army Council also has appointed a Board of Inquiry under General Sir Edmund Ironside to investigate the source of the leakage of information.

Ordered Before Court.

This afternoon Mr. Sandys, rising again to ask the speaker, Captain E. A. Fitzroy, for guidance, told the astonished House that "in my capacity as a Territorial officer, I have received orders to appear in uniform before this military court to-morrow for the purpose of giving evidence."

"The question of how far it is permissible to compel a member of Parliament to divulge a source of information is being considered by this House," Mr. Sandys added. "In these circumstances I submit to you, sir, that it is a gross breach of the privileges of this House that I should be summoned to give evidence before this military tribunal. I accordingly ask you, sir, whether I have not to make out a prima facie case of breach of privilege."

Jury Placed Blame On Occupants

Inquest Is Held Into The Death Of Cordova Girl

(By A Staff Reporter)

HAVELOCK, June 29.—Investigating the death of thirteen-year-old Zella McCulloch of Cordova Mines who died in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on June 17 after an accident at Cordova two days before, a coroner's jury under Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield sitting in the town hall here Tuesday returned a verdict that the girl had come to her death accidentally as the result of injuries sustained in falling off the running board of Lloyd Babcocks car.

"We also believe," continued the verdict, "from the evidence given, that the occupants of the car were negligent in not putting these children off the running boards. We further cannot understand why the occupants of the car did not notice these children on the running boards We strongly urge all car drivers to pay more attention and see that no one is allowed to ride in their cars other than in the proper police. This jury recommends that the law provide a suitable penalty for this offence."

Last night's session was occasioned by an adjournment from a previous sitting of the coroner's inquest. At the first session Lloyd Babcock, the driver of the car and three companions including his sister, Mary Babcock, had said there was no one on the running boards of the automobile. Later it developed from the evidence of a young girl that there had been other persons on the outside of the car as it left the ball field at Cordova in addition to Zella McCulloch, and the session was adjourned until tonight at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., in order to allow more evidence to be secured.

Four on Running Boards

Last night John Quinlan, a youth and Arleigh Wilson and Maggie Yeomans, two young girls, all swore positively that they were riding on the running boards of Babcock's car when Zella McCulloch fell off as the car crossed a bridge en route from a ball game, and was fatally injured. Yet the four ocupants of the car when recalled persisted in their story that they had not seen these persons.

Crown Attorney McElderry examined the witnesses, the first of which was Provincial Traffic Officer J. H. Hatch of Marmora who produced seven photographs showing the scene of the accident and the car involved.

John Quinlan testified that when Babcock's car left the scene of the ball game, the witness was sitting on against a fender and a little girl named Arleigh Wilson was sitting on the running board next to the back door of the car. "She would be plainly discernible to anyone in the back seat?" queried the Crown Attorney.

"I would think so," replied the witness who said he had not seen anybody on the other running board. He had seen Babcock put somebody off the running board before he himself got on.

Quinlan said that the first he knew of the accident was after the car had crossed a little bridge and then stopped and looking back he had seen Zella McCulloch lying on the bridge.

A Young Witness

Arleigh Wilson, who said she was 10 years old, swore that she had been on the running board of Babcock's car as it left the ball field. She had held on with one hand in the car and the other on a parking light. She said she felt a bump when the car reached the bridge and was "a little bit frightened". She did not hear any one call out, she told the Crown Attorney.

Mrs. John Edwards testified that

Prison Board Bill Advances As Lapointe Voices Fear

Claims System Unsafe To Continue Longer And Bennett Drops Opposition

OTTAWA, June 29 (CP).—A bill to create a three-man commission to control all Canadian penitentiaries was given first reading in the House of Commons today after Justice Minister Lapointe declared he could not be responsible for penitentiary administration without passage of the measure this session.

On Mr. Lapoint's statement Conservative Leader Bennett withdrew his opposition to the introduction of the bill, thus making it possible for the House speed up its business and perhaps conclude the session tomorrow night.

Yesterday and today Mr. Bennett raised strong objection to the resolution preliminary to the introduction of the bill, contending the House had not had time to study the report of the Archambault commission on penitentiaries which recommended the proposed new system of control.

In the circumstances it was necessary to proceed at once with the creation of the commission, said Mr. Lapointe. The present system was wrong and it was unsafe to continue it longer.

Mr. Bennett said if Mr. Lapointe had made that statement in the first place he would not have objected. The maintenance of law and order was of first importance and if the Minister responsible for it felt a change was imperative he would not oppose the change.

Sorry About Ormond.

The Minister, replying to Mr. Bennett, said General D. M. Ormond, Superintendent of Penitentiaries, had served him loyally, faithfully and industriously. He was sorry the discussion had turned on a matter of personality as the work imposed on the superintendent was too heavy for one man.

Earlier Mr. Bennett had condemned the Archambault Commission recommendation that General Ormond should be dismissed, and charged the superintendent had been grilled by the commission for eight days without being told of the evidence given against him by convicts.

At present the penitentiaries are administered by the superintendent and three inspectors who are officers of the Justice Department. The

Ontario Trap Laws To Be Tightened

TORONTO, June 29.—(CP). — Sweeping changes in Ontario's fur trapping laws will follow this year's widespread investigation of illegal fur trapping, officials of Ontario's game and fisheries branch announced to-day.

At least a score of people have been arrested and more arrests will follow the month-long investigations in Northern Ontario from the Quebec to the Manitoba boundary.

The widespread violations of the fur regulations will be followed by stricter licensing of trappers.

Closer regulations of trading companies and the refusal of licenses to free traders in the area just east of the Manitoba boundary.

Most public attention has been focussed on Jacob Isaac Glick's arrest at Rouyn, Que., June 22 when he stepped from an airplane the police said was loaded with $15,000 worth of furs. Ontario authorities said Glick's business records showed a huge fur business and they had arrested four of Glick's associates and would arrest more.

Spies To Die Under French Law

Conviction Of 150 Last Year Forces Tightening

PARIS, June 29 (A.P.). — The French Government to-day issued a decree establishing the death penalty in peacetime for certain forms of espionage. The law was designed to halt the growing number of spy cases in France in recent years.

Sentences of penal servitude for life, hitherto reserved for wartime espionage offences, also were made applicable to peacetime convictions in a new drive which authorities said emulated Germany's recent counter-espionage activities.

There has been a feeling in Government quarters for some time that the existing penalties needed stiffening. There has been a huge increase in espionage arrests in France in recent years. In the Strasbourg area alone—near the German frontier—there were 150 convictions on espionage charges in 1937. This year convictions have averaged nearly four a week.

June Nuptials Of Aged Pair Are Fading Fast

Prospects of the Deremo-Williams engagement or understanding or negotiations for a "marriage de convenance," blossoming into nuptials while June is still in the air, everybody's doing it and all's well with the world, were suspended Tuesday afternoon on the resolute decision of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge that Miss Williams would not be permitted to depart from the institution until some dependable assurance was forthcoming that she would be properly cared for outside its walls where awaiting her is her affinity John Deremo.

Tuesday was a day of rumors that the bells were going to ring at four o'clock for "me and my gal" as hopefully represented by John and Hattie, but it seems they were largely inspired by a spurt of propaganda and expectations by the enterprising Alfie McKee, a Toronto newspaper correspondent with an order and a substantial drawing account to get the wedding definitely tied up in a photograph, a minister hooking John and Hattie together beyond the interference of county councils.

Nobody Was Happy

And when the day was done nobody was happy. How could they be happy when wedding bells are silenced, and the path of true love is unsmoothed? Deremo was still on the outside and in the same township with Reeve Martin Coughlin who in John's opinion had altogether too much to do with the separation. Deputy-Reeve Harry Reid isn't happy after a day of frequent calls to the telephone to listen to Alfie McKee's go-getting organizing efforts as M.C. (master of ceremonies) for the Deremo-Williams promises to a minister. It seemed to Mr. Reid that every time he made a turn of the hay field there was another telephone call from the industrious Alf who like John Deremo reckoned not with the county council, especially when it is rolled.

Is Hattie Williams happy? From all accounts, only to the extent that she cracked the "big sheets" with some of the McKee photography, and it "better be good." Go up and down the list of characters in this comedy-romance, the cast as it were, and they were all at odds and ends, a second act climax perhaps before the plot proceeds to resolve itself in the final third.

Reeve Charlie Tanner of Lakefield, one of the trustees of the county home, made up for any omissions in the Reid edict that Hattie wasn't getting out of the house until she had someone to look after her properly, and that was pointing the official finger right at the discomfited and drooping John Deremo.

Lord's Day Act Bill Hits New Snag

OTTAWA, June 29—(CP).—Herve Brunelle (Lib. Champlain) told the House of Commons last night he would not accept Senate amendments to his private bill which would provide jail sentences for directors of corporations which violated the Lord's Day Act by requiring their employees to work Sundays unnecessarily. The Senate amended the bill to eliminate the provisions for jail sentences.

"All that was left of my bill when it came back from the Senate was the number," Mr. Brunelle said. "It is still Number 13. I am not superstitious but I fear my bill has been keeping bad company." Presumably the bill will now be abandoned.

Isolated Robots To Predict New Weather

OTTAWA, June 29—(AP).—Establishment of automatic robot weather observers at the North and South poles, on mountain tops, and on isolated islands to predict the weather for a week or more ahead was forecast to-day by Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its summer meeting, Dr. Gregg declared a new type of international scientific co-operation is emerging between Democratic, Fascist, Communist and other forms of governments to make the earth's weather less of a hazard in carrying on human activities.

Practically all nations of the world are now working toward perfection of weather information and its mutual exchange by radio, he declared.

The newest instrument for gathering weather data, now being tested in Canada, the United States, and in at least five foreign countries, is the radio meteorograph, a device sent aloft by baloon which automatically registers its height, humidity of the air and temperature as it ascends into the stratosphere five miles and more above the earth's surface, Dr. Gregg declared.

More Accurate Decisions

With such data assembled from a number of observation stations it is already possible to make much more accurate forecasts than ever before.

Plans are already being made, he declared, to set up robot weather observers near the North and South Poles, on mountain peaks, and on distant islands near the equator to make similar automatic weather observations and send them by radio to a central weather observatory for transmission to all parts of the world.

Such automatic weather stations, which would make continuous records of atmospheric conditions, would be powered by electric batteries and would require only rare inspections by passing ships or airplane visits, Dr. Gregg said.

By the use of such instruments it would be possible for a radio weather station hundreds of miles away to contact the automatic weather observer, set it in action, and record its observations almost as easily as dialing a telephone number in a large city, the American meteorologist said.

Col. Miller To Attend Big Reunion

Civil War Veterans Are Celebrating 75th Anniversary

A veteran among veterans and perhaps the only survivor in Canada of the 30,000 Canadians who fought with the American Federal Army at Gettysburg years ago, Col. J. K. Miller, now 93 left yesterday with his son and four daughters to attend the 75th anniversary celebration of this battle in the States. Army records indicate there are 3,000 of the veterans still living, the youngest 90 years of age and of this number barely 500 will be able to attend the seven day celebration. Mr. Miller like the others is attending as a guest of the American Government.

He is also the only survivor of the 220 stout hearted young militia-men who marched out of this city 67 years ago with the Peterborough Rifle Company to fight the Fenian Raiders at Ridgeway.

His military career is colorful and started when he was but 15 years of age at which time he enlisted in the 6th regiment of the Regular United States Cavalry in the year 1861. As a dashing young cavalryman with the Union Army he fought in battle after battle with such famous generals as McClelland, Hooker and Mead. He was with General Mead at Gettysburg and during the battle his horse was shot beneath him. He was carried down with the horse and the animal rolled on him fracturing all his ribs on the left side and pinning him beneath it. After laying there for several hours, Colonel Miller was found by the Rebels who pulled him clear then took him prisoner and for two months he was in custody at Richmond, Virginia. Later in an exchange of 90 Southerners for the same number of Northerner, Colonel Miller gained his freedom, and returned to his regiment. He continued in the front rank of the fighting until that Good Friday in 1865 when an assassin's bullet killed Abe Lincoln in Washington.

Receives Pension.

For many years now, Mr. Miller as a veteran of that great American conflict has been drawing a pension of $100 a month from the United States Government." I have no complaint to make over the treatment accorded me by the American Government down through the years" he said "There were 30,000 Canadians with the Northern forces but there are only a handful remaining and most of these are old bent men who have difficulty getting around" he added.

The years have rested comparatively lightly on this grand old soldier. He is fairly active, although short in stature has had up until quite recently that old military bearing, a clear eye and above all a cheerful and optimistic outlook.

Of the five hundred survivors who are slated to attend the Gettysburg Celebration, are many afflicted with the infirmities of advanced age and old injuries but the authorities have taken elaborate precautions to ensure a happy holiday for even the oldest man who attends. A complete staff of nurses, doctors, dietitions and a modern hospital has been placed at their disposal, and the celebration which starts on June 29th will last until July 6th.

Col Miller left by motor car yesterday and his son Bert is driving on the 550 mile trip. They are accompanied by three daughters, Mrs. F. S.

Hitler Demands An Apology For Torontonian's Crack

TORONTO, June 29 (CP).—C. G. Kropp, German Consul here, protested today to Mayor Ralph Day against a recent remark by Alderman William Croft, following an inspection of the Toronto Zoo that it was so dirty "the only thing I'd put in there would be Hitler."

Mr. Kropp said he had been instructed by Dr. Erich Windels, German Consulate-General at Ottawa, on behalf of the German government, to request that "the offensive remarks be withdrawn."

Informed of the protest, Alderman Croft said: "I never heard of anything so ridiculous in my life. As far as I am concerned, the German Consul can go to hell!"

"You can tell him that yourself," the alderman told reporters. "If you give me his address I will tell him myself. Tell him the people of Canada are not going to do the goose-step for him or anyone else."

Mayor Day said he had told Mr. Kropp "the matter would be given consideration," and that he would make a statement after "considering what procedure to take."

In The Limelight.

Croft, a first-year member of the council, has been consistently in the news lately because of his criticism of virtually every civic expenditure. He protested grants of civic funds to public and private organizations and finally held the city was paying too much for the upkeep of Riverdale Zoo.

On June 23, on his 49th birthday, the alderman visited the Zoo and

Japs Fight To Buy Up Cotton As Cloth Curb Is Decreed

By Relman Morin
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

TOKYO, June 29—(AP). — Excitement prevailed in textile markets as manufacturers' agents fought frantically to buy the last shreds of raw cotton with the publication of a government decree ordering factories to quit producing a long list of cotton cloth and iron products for domestic use.

Giving Japan's economic thumbscrews another twist as a result of the Chinese war, the decree was designed in part to promote export trade, particularly of cotton textiles, without increasing raw cotton imports.

Pleading with the people to remain calm, the government assured them that present stocks of raw cotton would be sufficient to last this year. Thereafter staple fibre and synthetic products will be used instead.

Exporters were jubilant since the order will provide their machines with more raw material, but retailers were thrown into near panic. Scenes resembling a frenzied bargain counter sale developed as retailers battled to acquire every available scrap of finished cloth.

47 Banned Articles.

Promulgated by Seihin Ikeda, Minister of Commerce, with the slogan, "toward victory with all resources and efforts," the decree listed 47 types of articles which will be banned from production after July 1, and announced 34 additional types of goods would be banned July 15.

The newspapers reported Ikeda's hand tremble as he signed the decree, but they found some good humor in the probable immediate shortage of razors, scissors, and gadgets used in feminine hairdressing.

They predicted Japan would become a "long haired nation" with beards and mustaches to be seen everywhere and lightly predicted an "automatic settlement" of the vexing permanent wave problem which has been annoying police. Efforts have been made to discontinue the fashion on the ground it is immoral and frivolous in a time of national emergency.

Bennett Fights Dismissal Of General Ormond, Attacks Commission

Demands Prison Measure Be Left Over; Superintendent Entitled To Pension Lapointe Claims

OTTAWA, June 28 (CP).—Continued opposition from Conservative Leader Bennett to enactment of penitentiary reform legislation "in the dying hours of the session," promises to be highlight of closing deliberations in the House of Commons.

Speeding along at a promising rate yesterday the House seemed assured of its objective of prorogation Thursday until the penitentiaries resolution was introduced. Mr. Bennett proved a stone wall that could not be scaled immediately.

After six government measures, including the important housing, Bank of Canada and Criminal Code bills, had been passed and sent to the Senate, the penitentiaries resolution was introduced an hour before the dinner recess.

It proposes to substitute for the present administration of Canada's penal system the establishment of a three-man commission. It involves a dismissal of General D. M. Ormond, present superintendent of penitentiaries, whose immediate discharge was recommended in the report.

The legislation carries out one recommendation of the Royal Commission of Penitentiaries which was composed of Justice Joseph Archambeault of the Quebec Superior Court, R. W. Craig, K.C., Winnipeg, and J. C. McRuer, K.C., Toronto.

Mr. Bennett bitterly denounced the commission for its statements on the inquiry conducted five years ago into the firing of bullets into the cell of Tim Buck, Toronto Communist, during a riot in Kingston Penitentiary.

Scores Treatment.

The Opposition leader also denounced the treatment accorded General Ormond, appointed during the last Conservative regime as superintendent of penitentiaries. General Ormond was not a political appointment, he said, but was selected by an independent committee appointed by the Civil Service Commission.

The commission had taken evidence from "scores of convicts" against Ormond without the latter knowing who had testified against him. Later Ormond had been "grilled" for eight days by "three astute lawyers" who had recommended he be immediately dismissed, Mr. Bennett said.

In the Buck case the commission had "ventured" five years after, to say the inquiry conducted by three penitentiary officials, General Ormond, Inspectors J. D. Dawson and W. H. Craig, had been "dishonest."

Conclusions of the royal commission had been reached without having examined a single witness who had been present at the rioting, Mr. Bennett said, and in the face of recorded evidence by Buck himself that at the time of the shooting he was making speeches that might be calculated to urge on the rioters.

Mr. Bennett asked the minister how he could expect the House to act on a report that would charge with dishonesty three men who had risked their lives in the way of duty in the Kingston riots, without having examined any witnesses of the actual event.

Wants It Left Over.

Mr. Bennet indicated he would

Rioting Breaks In Jerusalem Eve Of Hanging

JERUSALEM, June 29 (C.P.). — Club-wielding policemen in steel helmets last night broke up demonstrations in Jerusalem streets against the scheduled hanging of the first Jew to be put to death since Britain's Great War occupation of Palestine.

A British constable and three Jews, one a woman, were injured slightly by stones hurled during the disturbance.

Benjamin Joseph, 19-year-old Jew of Polish origin, is to go to the gallows to-day, convicted by a military tribunal of ambushing an Arab bus last April.

Sir Harold Alfred MacMichael, High Commissioner for Trans-Jordan and Commander-in-Chief for Palestine, refused to intervene on behalf of the condemned youth.

Jerusalem authorities declared a curfew between 8 o'clock last night and 6 a.m. to-day. There was an air of tenseness over the Holy City. Jewish sops were closed in a strike of demonstrating against the execution and safe crowds gathered in the streets until police broke them up.

Nearly every Jewish community in Palestine was on "strike." Many orthodox Jews fasted yesterday and prayers were ordered in Palestine's synagogues.

The Jewish National Council and all Jewish civilians holding decorations of the Order of the British Empire, united in petitioning eleventh-hour clemency.

Seven demonstrators were wounded at Tulkarem when police fired on a mob in efforts to enforce curfew regulations.

In Tel-Aviv, protests against Ben Joseph's execution took the form of strikes, processions and prayers in all synagogues. In Jerusalem, police broke up a parade of Jewish women demonstrators, arresting three.

Trinidad's oil production established new high records last year.

Munition Orders May Keep C.N. Shops Busy

OTTAWA, June 29.—(CP)—Fresh hopes of employment were held today by nearly 1,800 Canadian National Railways shop workers because of Canada's modernization and enlargement of her defences and Great Britain's race to complete rearmament.

The war days of 1914-18 were recalled by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie's announcement Tuesday that C.N.R. and motive power shops are being surveyed by his department to determine availability and suitability for turning out war goods.

During the Great War huge quantities of war supplies, chiefly shell casings, were produced in the shops of the railways now comprising the Canadian National system.

Mr. Mackenzie emphasized that the Defence Department survey was concerned only with production for the Canadian defence forces and he warned there was no prospect of these orders being large enough to keep the C.N.R. shops busy.

It was learned, however, that there is a possibility, if not an immediate prospect, of orders for munitions and war supplies from Great Britain being placed with the C.N.R. shops.

Because of traffic volume reductions the C.N.R. has been forced to order a 25 per cent. reduction in working crews at its car and motive power shops stretched from Atlantic to Pacific. It is hoped that employment of these men may be continued by muniton and armament orders.

Shops Inspected.

Mr. Mackenzie announcement that Defence Department Inspectors had already looked over some C. N. R. shops came after he had heard a suggestion from a Stratford, Ont., deputation that tanks might be made at the C. N. R. shops there. Mr. Mackenzie said an inspection would be made immediately at the Stratford shops.

In 1931 the Stratford motive power shops employed more than 1,000 workers. the deputation headed by Mayor Thomas Henry told Transport Minister Howe and Labor Minister Rogers. With the present lay-off of 209 workers, 92 per cent. of them married men, there would be only 641 men reporting for work next week.

The relief burden on the Western Ontario city threatened to become unbearable, the deputation said. Mr. Howe and Mr. Rogers referred the deputation to Mr. Mackenzie and the brief presented to him said in part:

"There is a growing sentiment in Canada in our opinion, that the

Speaker Agrees

Speaker Fitzroy replied: "In giving my opinion, the house will realize that I am not giving a decision on whether a breach of privilege has taken place. All I have to decide is whether the honorable member has made out a prima facie case. I do say he has made out a prima facie case."

Then Mr. Chamberlain moved reference of Mr. Sandys' statement to the committee on privileges. The commons adopted the motion unanimously but not till after lively debating and sharp labor questioning of Mr. Hore-Belisha.

Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, described the issue as one of grave concern to the whole house. To order Mr. Sandy's to appear as an officer of the territorial army before a military court of inquiry, while the question was still before the commons, appeared to be "a very unusual case of breach of privilege: It is an affront to this house."

The Labor benches cheered. It seemed strange, Mr. Attlee proceeded, that while the matter should be under investigation in the commons, a military court of inquiry should be established under the authority of the government.

Mr. Chamberlain returned that the military inquiry was not acting under instructions from the government. In a case of such a kind, where information had been divulged in an alleged breach of the official secrets act, it would be an automatic proceeding on the part of the army council to establish a court of inquiry.

down was in their leaning too heavily on that slogan of go-getting "toujours l'audace," and if anybody doesn't know that phrase that brings home the bacon and generally keeps the world whirling, it means "be bold, be always bold." Well, sometimes it brings you an unexpected bang on the eye from either a large or small fist, and so John Deremo knows now that he might have attained his end with "finesse" rather than the old "audace." Carrying the House of Refuge or anything else around the county, including the council, may succeed for the moment, but as soon as the council orients itself to what has happened, it may seem a little slow in catching up with the audacious storm-troopers, but when it does it then was too late for "finesse."

County Council Vindicated

So, nothing hapened Tuesday in spite of Mr. McKee's gratuitous mediation; but the sovereignty of the county council within its own sphere has been vindicated and fully restored. Love may laugh at locksmiths and John Deremo at the county council, as it was said last week, when John did the "kidnapping" act, but who is laughing last? As Charlie Tanner would say —"I ask you!" indicating the affair is a joke to him, except that the Board has answered the challenging question of Reeve Martin Coughlin a few days ago, "Is John Deremo or the county council running the House of Refuge?"

Drew Demands Airforce Probe

Col. George A. Drew, RIGHT, has flung a challenge to Hon. Ian Mackenzie, LEFT, Minister of National Defence, to hold an inquiry into Canada's air defences. In his challenge Col. Drew charged that Canada's war airplanes were obsolete and that present training methods employed by the R.C.A.F. were producing inadequately trained pilots.

Flier Is Injured In Crash At Sham Battle

THEDFORD, June 29 (C.P.).—Soldiers of the Royal Canadian Regiment stood guard last night in an oat field, about a quarter of a mile east of here, over the wreckage of a Royal Canadian Air Force army co-operation plane, which crashed at the close of a sham-battle at the Pinehill training camp.

The plane, piloted by Flying Officer R. F. Gross, was making its final low-diving attack on a brigade headquarters station when it crashed through a tall tree.

This wrecked both lower wings and snapped one end off the propeller. Flying Officer Gross was able to pancake in a nearby oat field on the farm of J. A. Doan. But, in doing so, the plane plowed a swath through one field, tore through a fence, grounded its nose into the earth, teetered on end, and fell back into position.

Zooming from a flying position estimated at about 700 feet or more, the plane dived down to take the top off the tree, which was located in the school yard which served as the brigade headquarters. This was the last scheduled dive of a series of many made through the day when Officer Gross roared low over the heads of troops, and Corporal and Air Gunner Roy Plant tossed tiny bags of flour on the ground forces. The flour represented bombs and machine-gun fire in the sham-battle.

The only injury was a cut lip for Pilot Gross, and this was suffered when he was thrown forward as the plane teetered on its nose. Corporal Plant, a former Londoner, in the rear cockpit, did not receive a scratch.

Both climbed out, suffering only a bit of shock. However, the crash had been witnessed from the Military district camp headquarters, a mile away, and the ambulance was on its way as the plane hit the ground. Both the pilot and air gunner were taken to the camp hospital, where Colonel G. S. Lawson, medical officer, inspected them, treated Pilot Gross' lip and released them.

Both men are attached to the Ottawa Air Station, Esquimalt, B.C., and Croporal Plant is the son of Mrs. E. Taylor, of 660 Lorne Avenue, London.

The plane was a huge fully modern Atlas of the army co-operation type with a 450-horse-power engine, fitted with bomb racks, mounted machine guns, cameras and radio.

tI was brought here to teach the 2,350 of Western Ontario's Militia at Pinehill Camp to watch for enemy aircraft and to become so conscious of this danger that they will always keep to cover when in the field.

Holy Land Jew Hangs For Ambushing Arabs

JERUSALEM, June 29 (A.P.). — The first Jew condemned to death under the Holy Land's emergency military regulations was hanged today at Acre. He was 19-year-old Benjamin Joseph, of Polish origin, convicted by a military tribunal of ambushing an Arab bus on April 21.

Jews had attempted vainly to have sir Harold MacMichael, High Commissioner for Palestine, save the youth from the gallows. Nearly every Jewish community in Palestine struck on Monday in sympathy and sermons in many synagogues exhorted officials to give Joseph clemency.

Police wielded clubs last night to break up demonstrations in Jerusalem streets against the hanging.

Joseph wore the Revisionist Party uniform—similar to that of German Nazi storm troopers—when he went to the gallows.

then asserted the entire City Council should be "arrested and charged with cruelty to animals." He referred to the lions as "moth-eaten" despite the fact they "are better fed than Toronto's relief families."

When he reached the beavers' pool he remarked the "only thing I'd put in there would be Hitler."

Mr. Kropp, after lodging the protest with the Mayor, was reluctant to discuss the matter, other than to say: "Presumably Alderman Croft visited the Zoo, a civic property, in his official capacity as an alderman. Presumably he spoke in that same capacity."

Not The Council's Move.

Commenting upon the protest, W. G. Angus, acting city solicitor, said that in his opinion the onus of correction or withdrawal of the remark does not rest with the civic administration but with Alderman Croft. "The statement was not made in council and is not an expression of council," Mr. Angus said. "Therefore, the onus of correction or withdrawal would be on Alderman Croft."

Croft should "at least retract his statement," Alderman George Granell commented. "As long as we are at peace with Germany we shouldn't insult their officials. Alderman Croft should ease up a little on these things."

"It's just a swell-headed attempt by Hitler to stifle opinions about himself expressed in other countries," said J. J. Glass, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto St. Andrew. "If Hitler did less disagreeable things in Germany nobody would refer to him in such a manner."

The remark was "very dirty." Hans Hesse, president of the German Club Harmonie, protested. Alderman Croft "ought to take it back." But Alderman J. B. Salsberg, Communist member of the council, said he would put Chancellor Hitler "in a gorilla or monkey cage."

Schneider, Miss Ethel Miller and Miss Ada Miller. To-morrow Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller and Fred Miller all of this city will leave to attend the same celebration.

Invaded by Fenian.

Colonel Miller on being discharged from the American Army with "excellent" in Williamsburg returned home to Peterborough just in time to do his part in defending his native land from invaders. He joined the Canadian Rifle Company under command of Colonel Poole and in March 1866 was ordered to report for immediate duty. He was at Omemee when word arrived and his description of the sixteen mile trip to the city reads like a western thriller. Snowdrifts were piled six feet deep in places and no livery man at Omemee would rent a horse to make the trip. Early in the morning Mr. Miller set out on foot for Peterborough.

"It was the worst walk I ever had, he stated most of the way I had to hold my arms up, so deep was the snow. It had not been broken for days." However the call to arms at that time was just a scare, the Fenian raiders did not cross the border, but the Peterborough Rifle Company meant to be prepared and for months they drilled diligently.

Late in May of the same year, came the same call. With little delay the Peterborough Rifle Company, 220 strong, boarded a train, to Port Hope ,then Toronto and on June 1, Private J. W. Miller was with his company and a detachment of the Queens Own at Ridgeway awaiting the enemy. The invaders however were driven back at another point and the young Canadian who had been through three years under the American flag got no opportunity to fire a shot against the Fenians.

In 1867 The Peterborough Rifle Company became the 57th regiment with companies as follows, 2 at Peterborough, 1 in Ashburnham, Norwood and Lakefield. He was soon commissioned as a first lieutenant and was gradually promoted until in 1893 he became the fifth colonel of the regiment.

He continued as O. C. until the Great War broke out in 1914 when most of his men went overseas. To this day the old soldier holds front rank among militiamen in the district, not only because of his long years of soldiering but because of his high character and kindly nature that has endeared him to all.

All wheat futures advanced about a cent or more in early operations influenced by disappointing precipitation in Western Canada overnight and steadiness of Chicago.

Bill will substitute a commission of three under the Minister of Justice.

The commissioners will hold office for ten years, but may be removed at any time for cause. They will constitute a corporate body which will act as agent for the Dominion Government.

They will devote their whole time to their positions and will be paid such sums as the Government may determine. They will have control and management of all penitentiaries and of all prisoners and other persons confined in them.

Sets All Rules.

Subject to approval of the Justice Minister, the Commission may make rules and regulations for management, discipline and policing of penitentiaries, work and industry within the penitentiaries.

If necessary the government may appoint not more than three assistant commissioners. The government will also continue to appoint wardens, deputy wardens and other administrative and executive officers. Guards, trade instructors and subordinate officers, employees and servants will be appointed by the commission.

The assistant commissioners will fill the role now filled by the inspectors to some extent. They will be required to visit, inspect and report on each penitentiary, and receive and report on suggestions of the wardens and other officers.

CAVAN, June 29. — Twenty-three candidates from the three churches of the parish of Cavan were presented for the sacred rite of Confirmation at St. Thomas' Church on Sunday evening by the rector, Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A., the "laying on of hands" upon those who had been duly instructed and prepared for this important and impressive service being performed by Right Rev. Bishop Beverley, D.D., Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Toronto.

Following the solemn confirming of the candidates, the hymn "My faith looks up to Thee" was sung, and Bishop Beverley delivered a deeply spiritual message from the words found in Hosea 14, 5-6: "I will be as the dew upon Israel; he shall grow as the lily, and cost forth roots as Lebanon; his branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree."

There was a large congregation, representative of the entire parish, present for the service; lovely summer blossoms placed on the altar and at other points within the chancel brought the beauty and fragrance of nature within the sanctuary. The sidesmen were Messrs. T. A. Campbell and R. I. Fallis, and Miss M. L. Collins presided at the organ, the choir being augmented by members from St. John's choir, Ida, for the special occasion.

Bobcaygeon Votes More Horsepower

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, June 29. — The ratepayers of Bobcaygeon carried a by-law on Monday calling for the expenditure of $65,000 to increase power development by 225 horsepower. Out of 361 property owners who qualify for voting, slightly more than half turned up at the polls. The by-law carried by a majority of 135. With the new unit 400 horsepower will be available to the people of the village.

Elmer Kennedy and Torrance Robertson of Dunsford had a narrow escape from serious injury on Tuesday morning near Sunderland when a truck load of live stock was hurled into the ditch while going down a steep hill. According to the Provincial Police the truck was driven too fast with the result that the truck rack started to sway. It was loaded with eight head of cattle, one pig and one calf. Both men were thrown clear of the wreck, and sustained cuts and bruises. The truck was owned by E. German & Sons, Dunsford.

The Provincial Police are hunting for a new boat, the property of Harry Stone, jailor at the County Jail. The craft was stolen from his boat house on Balsam Lake.

Plan Aeronautics For Oshawa School

OSHAWA, June 29.—There is a possibility that there will be a course in aeronautics for students of the Oshawa Collegiate and Vocational Institute next fall, it was indicated at the regular meeting of the Oshawa Board of Education today.

The Controller of Civil Aviation will be interviewed and an attempt made to secure an airplane and two engines for the use of the proposed class. The course would be open to day students only.

Await Sentence

NEW YORK, June 28 (A.P.). — Two men convicted of trying to collect the $30,000 ransom originally offered for the safe return of the kidnapped Peter Levine, 12, awaited sentencing to-day as the State sought to send a third man to prison on the same charge.

A jury at White Plains yesterday found Fred Lock, 23, and Edward John Penn, 18, guilty of attempted extortion.

Japanese Capture Island

Japanese naval forces, aided by airplanes, have captured Namoa Island (shown by arrow). It is feared by Chinese military leaders that the capture of the island may presage the occupation of the Port of Swatow, which was bombed recently by Jap bombers. The island is a valuable asset to the Japanese as a base of operations against Canton and other South China ports.

Hunt For Gold Is Given Setback

HALIFAX, June 29. — (CP). — A treasure hunt on storied Plum Island, 20 miles from here, was at a standstill to-day, as searchers for pirate gold met an unexpected setback.

Ready to burst through three feet of granite into the chamber which may hold gold hidden by Captain Edward Swede, 17th century buccaneer, the expedition led by James P. Nolan had to return their air compressor to the contractor from whom it was borrowed. It was needed on a construction job.

The searchers decided to seek new equipment before continuing their hunt. They believe they are on the trail of treasure hidden by Captain Edward Swede more than 200 years ago.

2 CASES OF BLIND STAGGERS.

ASSINIBOIA. — Two cases of equine encephalo-myelitis, the first reported in Saskatchewan this year, were treated yesterday in this southwestern district by Dr. G. J. Macdonald, veterinary. In 1935 and 1937 epidemics of the malady, sometimes called blind staggers, killed hundreds of horses in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Agree On Three Points

Representatives of what is termed "Big Business" have been in conference with economists in the employ of the United States government, and there have been three points on which agreement of views has been found to exist. It is reported agreement was registered on these three points without argument; all those attending the conference were of one mind, so the three points can safely be regarded as self-evident facts. They were:

1: Bigness in business is not always desirable or efficient; many consolidations of smaller business units have not been able to do as well as the units formerly did when operating independently.

2: Business must find some means of more adequately taking care of dismissed employees.

3: Cutting prices does not always increase the volume of sales because it brings buyers to the frame of mind where they anticipate that further reductions are coming and therefore they postpone their purchases.

It is not necessary to go deeply into a discussion of these three points. It is highly significant that government economists and business representatives find themselves in agreement and it actually leads to the belief that sweet sanity is on the upgrade.

Estimating Relief Costs

Robert Ainsworth is the reeve of Mimico, a municipality not far removed from Toronto, and at the last meeting he had a gloomy message to present to council. He found the council had been too optimistic when striking the tax rate at the first of the year; it had been felt that conditions were rapidly mending and so the amount required for relief was estimated in that atmosphere of optimism.

The year is about half spent, but Mimico's 1938 relief budget is all spent. Even worse than that, for it has already been overdrawn to the extent of $12,000.

That means only one thing—an overdraft at the end of the year. Councils when striking estimates like to keep the figures down. There is always before them the tax rate of the year before, and public men do not like to see it increase. As a rule they are just as keen on keeping it down as the taxpayers themselves.

Against that there is the rule plainly set forth in the Municipal Act that they must not deliberately estimate expenditure with the knowledge that they will create a deficit at the end of the year. When it is found that the relief budget has been more than spent before the year is half over there is always the suspicion that the estimates for that work were unduly depressed. It is convenient to explain there was undue optimism at the first of the year, but that is another way of admitting there was poor estimating.

He Seeks a Million

A despatch from Chicago says Federal Judge John P. Barns set over until September 27 a hearing on the suit of Ivan Spears for damages of $1,000,000 launched against Oliva Dionne, father of the quints. Court announced the calendar was too crowded to permit a hearing of this case.

The basis of the claim is that Oliva Dionne signed a contract with Spears, a promoter, to exhibit his five children at the time of the world fair in Chicago in 1934. Had it not been for straight intervention on the part of Dr. Dafoe and the province it is likely Dionne would have made an effort to carry out his part of the contract.

If one ever needs a good argument to show that intervention was justified in the case of the Dionne family then it is provided by the signature of the father to that contract. At that time there was little enough of life or strength in the quints and rushing them off to Chicago might well have meant the end of them.

If things in general were properly balanced Promoter Spears of Chicago should find himself facing a suit for a million dollars for having attempted such stupid bit of exploitation.

Fighting Against The Police

If necessary a policeman can call a citizen to his assistance, and the citizen would be under legal obligation to comply with the request. But it does not seem to be as simple as that in the actual working out of the problem confronting the policeman. It seems the police are just as apt to meet resistance as assistance from a section of the population.

This way: A constable in Toronto was arresting a man on the street on a drunk charge. He took him along toward a patrol box from which he was to send in a call for the patrol wagon. The arrested man started to fight and a number of others joined in, and they were all fighting on behalf of the man who was being arrested. None was going in to help the officer. Several other police joined but the crowd grew and it was necessary to send a call for reinforcements.

One member of the crowd called upon others to arm themselves with pieces of pipe from a truck and the battle was on. The arrests then increased in number until in all seven were taken. We read that those who did not fight took part in a continual booing of the police and that women became as noisy as the men.

That incident raises a question which is not entirely pleasant. According to theory the police in uniform stand for the enforcement of law and order; they are for the protection of the community, and it was for the protection of the community that the officer was removing the drunken man from the sidewalk. And yet there was a fight, and the fight gave opportunity to prove that the crowd was all lined up with the drunk and opposed to the policemen. No doubt had some person been entering the home of any members of that crowd there would have been a feeling of assurance and safety had a policeman arrived on the premises; they would have been glad enough to see him.

One can figure the thing from any angle and the answer always comes to the same thing—that it is neither comfortable nor encouraging to think that a policeman might call for assistance in an extremity and receive nothing but interference or opposition.

How Does He Know?

Mayor A. C. Ellison of Regina is tackling the price of milk. The price in the western city is 12 cents per quart and the Mayor says it must come down to 10 cents. He has handed something which looks like an ultimatum to the milk distributors and the Milk Board. He threatens to rescind the pasteurization bylaw and permit the sale of raw milk; also he will go in for using the canned variety in hospitals and institutions and for the relief diet.

Mayor Ellison has not started anything which has not been tried in several other places. Rather has he joined a group which is already large and widely distributed which always tells the farmer and the producer what he will have to take for that which he offers for sale.

Regina according to the 1931 census had a population of 53,000, so it is about twice the size of what we refer to as Greater Peterborough. We mention that merely to indicate that the distance of milk delivery would probably be greater than is experienced locally. There is nothing in the report from Regina to indicate that the Mayor has made inquiries and secured information which would lead him to believe that milk could be produced with a fair degree of profit to the farmer and those engaged in distribution at the 10-cent price, and the fact that a Milk Board is in operation and has approved of the 12-cent price leads toward the belief that such matters have been previously settled and the 12-cent price has been found fair enough.

We dare say "Ten-Cent Milk" would be a popular slogan for the Mayor with a good many people in Regina, but before becoming enthusiastic about it we would prefer seeing a statement from the farmers and dairy people saying they could sell milk at ten cents and make a living.

When Children Grow Up

In the family of Mr. and Mrs. James Crough of Otonabee township in Peterborough county there are seventeen children. As families are rated in this age that is a large one. The mother has stated that every other day was baking day and the one in between was wash day, and even if those words were spoken in a jest they must contain a measure of truth which would be generously large.

Mr. Crough talked to an Examiner reporter about the family and there was a point raised which has probably occurred to parents the world over—when is the happiest time? Is it when the children are small and at home or when they begin to grow to age and start out for themselves. Mr. Crough said something which will find a responding echo in the hearts of a good many parents. Just this:

> "When they begin to leave the nest you can't help worrying a little bit any way about how the world is going to receive them, especially when your hope is that they will all grow up to be fine citizens."

Mr. Crough managed to give expression to a feeling there that lodges in the mind of most parents. We do not believe there is any great craving for unusual success or for marks of brilliancy, but there is that strong desire which parents cherish that when the children go to take their places in the world they will come up to the standard implied in that phrase of being fine citizens. If children were aware of that feeling on the part of their parents we doubt whether many of them would fail of attaining the mark set for them by parental anticipation and affection.

Forking a Piece of Bread

If advice counts for anything at all then the people of today ought to know a good deal more than the folk of the previous generation. It makes little difference where one turns there is advice about something or other. Our newspapers are getting full of it. Advice for people who want to invest their money, advice for those who bet on horse races; more of it for those who do not feel any too well; advice to husbands; advice to wives; advice on how to play golf or make a fancy quilt; advice on what to wear and what to say and how to behave yourself generally.

Today there arrived another of those little sheets where some person had more advice for sale. One of the questions and answers in the course of instruction was this:

> Q.: Is it considered right to use a fork to take a piece of bread at the table?
> A.: Certainly not. Such a custom would be regarded as nothing short of vulgar and evidence of poor breeding and training.

So there you are. When the bread plate is a little too far distant to be reached by the hand the fork cannot be used to supplement the length of the arm. It's vulgar, and vulgar is quite a strong word.

We can't claim that spearing a piece of bread with a fork was exactly a common habit on the Tenth Concession, but there were those who seemed to regard it as the proper method and the habit was neither applauded nor condemned. No person ever up and said it was vulgar.

When one used a fork to reach for a piece of bread it seemed to depend on how it was done. The hired man for instance was quite an adept at it. He had a certain easy sort of technique which must have come only from years of experience. Or else it must have been a gift. There were just two chairs at the table, one at each end, and along the sides were benches. The hired men used to sit toward the end of the bench, sort of at the northeast corner, and often enough the plate of bread was down near the centre of the table. The hired man was not one of those folk who always wanted people to be doing things for him; when he set out to do anything he attended to the thing himself and that same rule of life followed him to the kitchen table. (Yes—most of the eating along the Tenth was done on the kitchen table). Probably that's how it came that he began using his fork when he wanted to get a piece of bread. He was as deft at it as the man on the flying trapeze in the circus; never did he miss and never did he strike so deep that he disturbed the other pieces of bread stacked on the plate. And when he reached he never appeared to be straining a muscle or standing in danger of losing his balance on the bench. The skilled surgeon removing an appendix could not have had a nicer or more gentle variety of technique than had the hired man when he speared a piece of bread with a fork.

Of course we do not advocate or even mildly suggest that this old custom be revived, but we feel moved to defend the hired man on the Tenth Concession. He speared his piece of bread with such ease and precision that we resent the 1938 suggestion that he was a vulgar individual. He wasn't.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canada is about to celebrate her birthday and that might be a good time to do some thinking on a national scale.

It is complained that boys do not receive practical education in our schools. It is an old charge but there is more than a grain of truth in it.

Toronto auditor claims Ontario owes the city $20,000. Well at least there would be no use seizing on Chorley Park to secure payment.

British Columbia man who was elected to the Ottawa House in a by-election last fall has taken his seat at Ottawa for the first time. He has missed many 40-minute speeches.

It is said the new United States wage-hour bill has put a floor under pay rates and a ceiling over hours. That is all right if it does not also put the skids under business.

Under a house in Brockville seven skunks have taken up their residence. The man of the house knows who is paying the taxes and the rest of the bills but he is doubtful about who is actually running the premises.

FAMILY PEW

(By A. R. K.)

¶ It really was so long ago, how many years I scarcely know, they're far removed from few; we were well brushed and polished then, and went with other little men, unto the family pew.

¶ There was a space for each to sit, 'twas just a pleasant sort of fit, each had a little groove; but I remember in that stall, that there was room enough for all, a little left to move.

¶ And we could wiggle now and then, and gaze around at whiskered men, and see what folks might wear; and there was room to twist some more, and look back nearly to the door, to count the people there.

¶ And when we stood to sing the hymns, there was no need to cramp our limbs, and we could sing out loud; for there was room to sit or stand, we never felt cooped up or jammed, not like being in a crowd.

¶ But sometimes Aunt Lucile would come, our family pew was just the one, for which she'd always aim; and when Lucile sat in the pew, we measured every breath we drew, it never seemed the same.

¶ For Aunt Lucile was rather wide, and swept in like the flowing tide, I well remember when; when she got fixed and settled right, we all got huddled up so tight—I couldn't wiggle then.

The Members Seeking Light

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Debates in the House of Commons indicated a certain degree of doubt regarding material for house building which would be exempt from the sales tax:

Mr. STEVENS: I do not wish to seem to quibble over this matter, but as I read the proposed amendment it refers to building materials. What does that include? Would it not be necessary to classify under one group all the materials affected by that proviso? There is one item here: Bricks; building tile, building blocks and building stone—

And a number of items, all of which go into buildings. Am I to understand that this amendment will aply to all those items?

Mr. ILSLEY: Yes.

Mr. STEVENS: Does the minister think that is sufficiently clear?

Mr. ILSLEY: Yes, it will be placed at the end of a paragraph containing that list.

Mr. STEVENS: I suppose that will appear clarified in the bill?

Mr. ILSLEY: Yes.

Mr. STEVENS: Is the minister satisfied that this completely covers hardware, for instance?

Mr. ILSLEY: No; only the hardware named.

Mr. STEVENS:

Builders' hardware, namely: locks, lock sets, butts, hinges, pulleys and window fasteners.

Mr. ILSLEY: It covers locks, lock sets, butts, hinges, pulleys and window fastenings, and the material going into the manufacture of those are exempted now by the amendment.

Mr. STEVENS: Will that include, for instance, screws and bolts—

Mr. ILSLEY: No; it does not include anything except that named in the list. It does not include all builders' hardware but includes only the builders' hardware named in the item.

Mr. STEVENS: In locks there are a certain number of screws.

Mr. ILSLEY: If they are included in the locks, they are exempt.

Mr. GOLDING: Will that cover furnaces for heating?

Mr. ILSLEY: Furnaces are listed.

Mr. BENNETT: Furnaces for heating buildings only.

Mr. GOLDING: Furnaces for buildings are exempt, but the raw material that goes into those furnaces, that is the steel, was not exempt. Now that will be cleared up?

Mr. ILSLEY: Yes, exactly.

Mr. McCULLOCH: Is sewer pipe to connect the building with the sewer exempt?

Mr. ILSLEY: No; pipes are not exempt. That is not building tile.

Mr. GOLDING: The hon. member for Wellington South (Mr. Gladstone) has a letter here which covers the situation to which I have referred. In the plant with which I am connected we manufacture the steel boilers that this heating firm uses, and I am interested in this.

Mr. BENNETT: This clearly covers furnaces for heating purposes only.

Mr. ILSLEY: Yes.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford): That is, boilers of all kinds?

Mr. BENNETT: No; furnaces, not boilers.

Mr. GLADSTONE: Information has come to me from a circular that may have gone out to the customs officers giving a list of goods exempt from tax; "hot water and steam boilers, cast-iron and steel, used for heating buildings; bungalow heaters used for heating buildings; warm air furnaces, steel or cast-iron;"—and then this note: "Note carefully: materials used in the manufacture of exempted items formerly not subject to tax are now taxable."

Mr. ILSLEY: The amendment changes that.

Mr. MACDONALD: (Brantford): In heating buildings with hot water or steam, a boiler is an essential part of the heating equipment. A building could not be heated by steam or hot water without a boiler. I think the question raised by the hon. member for Wellington South (Mr. Gladstone) was whether the boiler would be exempt under the amendment.

Mr. ILSLEY: If it is part of a furnace, it will be.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford): The boiler is certainly part of the heating equipment, but I do not know whether they call it a furnace.

Mr. BENNETT: This does not cover heating equipment; it covers only furnace for heating purposes, and that has a well known trade meaning.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford): For the provision to be effective with regard to heating equipment it would surely be necessary to include the boiler that goes with the furnace.

Mr. ILSLEY: Not all heating equipment is exempt. For example, radiators or stoves are not exempt.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford): Practically all buildings of any size that are being constructed today use either hot water or steam heating. I cannot see why a steam or hot water heating plant should not be exempt as much as a hot air furnace.

Mr. ILSLEY: All I can say is that, if it is part of the furnace, it is covered by the amendment.

ANNOYING

Editor Examiner.

Sir: Can anything be done to prevent the taking of flower holders from off the graves in Little Lake Cemetery?

On Sunday last I went to the cemetery to place some flowers in my holder which was on my plot the previous week, but to my amazement the holder had been taken by someone who was too mean to purchase one for their own use. The same pilfering has taken place on other lots, one lady who lost hers on Sunday had a look round and fortunately located it on another plot. The party who had taken the loan of it was most indignant when spoken to about taking the holder although the owner's name was inscribed on it. This sort of thing should not be tolerated by the cemetery officials. The parties who do this kind of thing may see the humor in it; but it is a very mean trick and should be stopped. I trust this will catch the eye of the offenders, and be the means of stopping further complaints.

Yours faithfully,
ERIN-GO-BRAUGH.

• The Yellow River Claims Its Victims

IN THE GAME of war it is customary for combatants to assert that their own plays are God-guided, that the opposition's quarterback in the Devil. So, when diabolical forces of nature—rains and blood — washed out those of man in central China, the ground was no sooner covered with muddy water than the air was filled with mutual recriminations.

For the Yellow River to flood is nothing new. Its Chinese name, Hwang Ho, is taken from hwang tu, the "yellow dirt" which it carries down in great quantity from Shansi and Shensi. This pale silt is constantly being dropped on the riverbed, which consequently steadily rises above the adjoining land. To keep the river in line the Chinese have long built dikes. Rising floor and walls have made the river an aqueduct, lifted its surface at high water as much as 30 feet above the surrounding plain. So frequently has the ochre stream cracked its dikes and devastated the countryside that peasants of the area call it "China's Sorrow," "The Ungovernable," "The Scourge of the Sons of Han." Like a sluggish whiplash the river has many times changed its channel.

This month "The Ungovernable" lashed out with a flood which promised to change not only its own course but also the course of the whole Sino-Japanese War. Severe breaks in the dikes near Kaifeng sent a five-foot wall of water fanning out over a 500-square-mile area, spreading death. Toll from Yellow River floods is not so much from quick drowning as from gradual disease and starvation. The river's filth settles ankle-deep on the fields, mothering germs, smothering crops. This month about 500,000 peasants were driven from 2,000 communities to await rescue or death on whatever dry ground they could find. Thousands huddled miserably on the high right-of-way of the Lunghai Railfulcrum for the see-sawing central China warfare.

To the Japanese, who had been pushing along the railroad toward Chengchow, hoping to make it a base for their southerly drive to Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's provisional capital, the flood was a severe setback. Tokyo papers at once accused the devilish Chinese of having sprung the dikes as a strategic military move. "An atrocity," cried Domei, "by barbarian Chinese.... The Japanese are making frantic efforts to check the flow and to rescue the Chinese caught in the flood area, at the same time repulsing Chinese attacks."

These accusations, foreign observers thought, were absurd. For the Chinese to check the Japanese advance at possible sacrifice of half a million lives would be a monstrous pyrrhic victory. Besides, dike-cutting is the blackest of Chinese crimes, and the Chinese Army would hardly risk universal censure for slight tactical gains. But this apparent innocence did not keep the Chinese from countercharging that Japanese had caused the flood by shelling and bombing the dikes near Kaifeng.

• When A Man Goes To A Prize Fight

(New York Times)

THERE are all sorts of theories as to the fascination of prizefights, and no doubt most of them are correct. The most intriguing of them is the notion that most of us would like to hit somebody and don't dare. This suppressed impulse is bad for us, though not so bad a giving way to it would ordinarily be.

When we go to a prizefight we identify ourselves with one of the fighters. Then we identify the other fighter with the policeman who gave us a ticket, the man who shoved us aside in the subway, our employer, our venerable parent, who once spanked us unjustly, or perhaps the New Deal, Wall Street, the capitalistic system or the boy who went home from the church sociable forty years ago with our best girl.

We also make bets. Nothing makes one so vehement a partisan, or demands so little psychological analysis, as the act of laying a bet. Maybe the simplest explanation, as is often the case, is the best one. It may be immoral to win bets, but it is agreeable.

Setting all these considerations aside, a prizefight, or indeed almost any kind of athletic contest, has one supreme advantage.

In a world and at a time when almost all the news we get is fraught with significance, the prizefight doesn't mean anything. It doesn't mean that the Nazi philosophy is good or bad, that the Negro race is or is not rising in the economic scale, or anything else. It has to do with such elements as muscular strength, courage, indifference to pain, sense of balance, reaction time and the like, which may be combined in any member of any race at any time.

The heavyweight championship of the world is a fiction. Prizefighting is a business. The million-dollar crowd in the arena loses itself for a little while in enjoyable fury and suspense. But tomorrow will be exactly what it would otherwise have been. Nothing has really happened.

CROWD DEMANDS IT.

(Detroit Free Press)

JOE LOUIS did not foul Max Schmeling in Wednesday night's fight.

The kidney punch which sent Schmeling to the hospital is legal, as prize-fighting goes today, although formerly it was frowned upon as cruel and "unsporting."

The great majority of people who patronize pugilistic exhibitions are not content with clever and masterly boxing.

They clamor for the "kill."

The more blood is spilled the better they like it.

As in the days of Rome's gladiatorial contests, a ringside crowd doesn't want a drawing-room show.

Joe Louis fought cleanly, according to the rules of "boxing" which run in this country, and only took advantage of an opening which Schmeling gave him to land a blow that determined the fight before most heavyweight bouts get under way.

Any complaint which Max and his friends may have is not against Louis, but against the rules and the demand of the populace for blood and slaughter, which is back of the rules.

TO BE THANKFUL

(London Sunday Chronicle)

THERE ARE other things which make the British system of life worth any sacrifice. This week the principle of holidays with pay has been granted to every worker in the country. And the House of Commons has passed a bill forbidding a man to leave his wife and family unsupported if he has anything to leave them. When you feel inclined to praise foreign systems of government, compare your own. We have much that needs improving. Even so, we are a long way ahead of any other country in the world.

LECTURES HEPBURN

(Financial Post)

CANADA'S PRIME MINISTER unveiled last Saturday the chaste memorial arch at Niagara Falls erected by the Niagara Parks Commission in honor of the Mackenzie rebels of 1837-38.

Presence of two Ontario cabinet ministers did not offset the unfortunate absence of Premier Hepburn, whose name is carved in deep letters across the memorial as one who "dedicated" the archway. His failure to attend a score of important functions such as this, has become a habit that does him no credit.

It is time Ontario's Premier forgot his petty political provincialism and realized his social and public responsibilities as head of Canada's senior province.

Board Passes On Paint Job Public School

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29. — Dealing with the recommendations from the report of Public School Inspector A. A. Martin the School Board decided at their meeting held on Monday evening to act on the suggestion of painting the three rooms of the upper floor of Public School building during the vacation months and the matter was placed in the hands of the property committee with power to act. It was suggested however that the walls and ... of these rooms should be washed and then painted ... nineteen years since ... had been done to the ... building.

A ... dation made in ... levelling of ... de of the ... gestion of ... of the Property ... no felt the work ... was pointed out that ... sition of the Board at ... e would not warrant such ... nditure as would be required ... the windows with ... in the grounds to a dep... five feet in places.

Dealing with the ... to have the expenditure ... tional $200. for books ... the board the matter ... proval. Messers A. G. ... and J. A. Irwin were appointed ... a committee in conjunction ... Principal C. S. Haig regarding ... choice of Books. A further ... Mr. Free indicated that the ... work on the exterior of the ... school building was badly in ... of painting and he intimated ... any further delay in this ma... would probably result in the replacement of wood work. The belfry, he declared was in danger of being blown from the roof of the building by the first high wind and the wooden foundations to the steps had completely rotted out requiring both children and teachers to use the rear entrance to the building for safety. A motion was passed authorizing the Internal Committee to procure tenders on making the necessary repairs to these items.

Replace Wire Fence.

James Johnson, Ranney street, whose property adjoins the Public School requested that immediate steps be taken to replace the present broken down wire fence with a more substantial type of barrier which would prevent children from running over his garden. He stated that the children had destroyed berry bushes on his property and that it was up to the Board to see that a proper type of fence was erected. On motion it was decided the property committee should bring in tenders for the erection of a permanent type of fence at the next meeting.

No action was taken with regard to Inspector Martin's suggestion of placing the Domestic Science and Manual training facilities of the High School at the disposal of the Public School pupils. nor did the Board deal with the suggestion that a more adequate supply of water be placed in the building for drinking purposes, The report suggested that the present supply was quite inadequate and that until water could be piped to the upper floors, arrangements should be made for the installation of covered stone crocks in the junior class rooms.

A letter from W. Roy Loucks to the Board Claiming damages on behalf of his son Ronald who allegedly broke his collar bone as the result of a fall when he caught his foot in a protruding root on the Public School grounds was referred to the Insurance Company.

Following a resolution of thanks to both the Librarian and to the Library Board for their splendid co-operation in the matter of procuring books during the past year the pay sheet was passed and the Board adjourned.

When a Feller Needs a Friend

Donnie is a little young to know all the rules of safety for motorists and pedestrians, but Pat, his wire-haired constant companion knows them all, and he is making sure that Donnie obeys them. In the picture on the LEFT, Donnie is ... some of the older boys by trying out his thumb at ... king. But Pat, the pup, won't let him get away with ... The Department of Highways warns against it," barks Pat, "so put down that thumb and let's go back to our games." In the large CENTRE photo, Pat is showing Donnie how to cross the street safely. "Another Department of Highways rule," he says, "is to look carefully up and down the street, and especially when you have to come out from in front of, or behind, a parked car." On the RIGHT, Donnie is doing one of the most dangerous stunts he can think of—and he knows it, too. But Pat will have him off that bumper before the car starts, for he knows of the warnings of the Department of Highways has issued about children "hitching" rides on ice wagons, bread wagons, trucks and automobiles.

Picks His Father

STRATFORD, June 29—(CP) — Ernie Brown, Jr., pleased and embarrassed his father, Ernie Brown, Sr., at the Canadian National Railways war veterans' picnic here the other day. The child was selected to draw the winning numbers in a contest. His father blushed deeply as the child picked the winning ticket, one held by Ernie Brown, Sr.

Air Raid Dictator

Named by Prime Minister Chamberlain to devote his full time to air raid precautions, Geoffrey Lloyd (above), 36-year-old undersecretary for home affairs, already has been the target of criticism. Two women members of parliament attacked Lloyd on the ground that society women and debutantes had been put in charge of the womens staff of air raid precaution workers. Lloyd's job involves the training of the civilian population to meet wartime air raids.

UNITED STATES PLAYERS DOMINATING WIMBLEDON NET PLAY

Two Americans Likely Meet Singles Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 29. —(AP)—Helen Jacobs, struggling for another shot at Helen Wills Moody in the Wimbledon women's singles finals, thinks her rival is "still the finest competitive player in the world."

A victory for Miss Jacobs over Alice Marble to-morrow in the semi-final and one for Mrs. Moody over Frau Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling, Danish-German veteran, would bring the two Helens together for a replay of their historic struggle here in 1935.

Two matches from her second Wimbledon title, Miss Jacobs has nothing but praise for the woman who stands in her way.

"Watch her closely and you'll see she still has the most perfect concentration in the game," said Miss Jacobs, "and it makes no difference whether she's practicing or playing for the title, she hits and concentrates just as hard as ever."

If this keeps up Wimbledon will be a transplanted Forest Hills. The United States stars have been sweeping through Britain's outstanding tennis tournament in convincing style. At the rate they're going they may take far more than the men's singles title, which was all but conceded to red-headed Donald Budge before play even commenced.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, for whom it once was just a matter of stepping onto the courts often enough to win the women's singles honors, is meeting with such success in her comeback campaign that she holds a place in the semi-finals. She eliminated one of Britain's stars, Kay Stammers, in straight sets and will play Mme. Sperlin for the right to enter the final.

Chance For Four Titles.

Mrs. Moody has been having more trouble winning her matches than formerly, but she has been winning and that's the main thing. At that, the highly rated Miss Stammers gave her less trouble than some of her previous opponents.

Two other players give the United States 75 per cent of the semi-final round, with Helen Jacobs and Alice Marble being opponents in the other bracket.

Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan, by eliminating Thelma Coyne and Nancy Wynee of Australia, remained threats for the women's doubles honors, with Budge and Gene Mako favored for the men's doubles. Budge and Miss Marble in the mixed doubles give the United States a chance for the fourth title.

Public Servants

TRENTON, N.J., June 29 (A.P.)—The Cromwells of Somerville—James H. R. and his wife, the former Doris Duke—were both enrolled yesterday as non-salaried public servants of New Jersey. While the youthful tobacco heiress attended her first meeting as a member of the Control Board of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, her husband was appointed by Governor A. Harry Moore to the Commission on Tax Law Revision.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WEATHER PERMITTING, a Lakeshore Junior Baseball League game will be staged at 6.30 tonight in Riverside Park between Bowmanville Lions and the Young Petes. Rival managers say they will send Lefty Slemon of the Lions and Bob Todd of the locals to the slab in what may be something of a hurling duel. Bowmanville looked bad here last game but they can play a whole lot better ball and Herb Ralph's gang don't want to figure this one is in the old gunny sack. The Lions are liable to knock 'em off right in front of the home crowd. They must win or their chances of a playoff berth are skinnier than a streamlined skeleton. The Young Petes play good ball and should dish up another fine performance, with good heaving, fielding and hard hitting. It ought to draw well.

* * * * * *

THE PETES' C.O.B.L. fray today in Oshawa has been postponed on request of the GM-men. Dunno for why; maybe the grounds aren't available today. It's too bad as the Petes haven't had a league game now in two weeks and need the practice. There are several postponed tilts in the Central Loop this year, and they should be caught up soon. At least local fans can now pretty well bank on seeing a southpaw pitching battle here Friday on the holiday morn at 10.30 when the GM-men play the Petes at Riverside. It'll likely be Jake Biddle against Lefty McNally, and what a test that'll be! The Petes play Merritton here Saturday in an exhibition joust. So the players and fans of Peterborough will be getting their baseball in gobs.

* * * * * *

LACROSSE ENTHUSIASTS will have something to see Friday p.m., after sleeping in till noon on July 1st, when Owen Sound plays the Petes at nine in an O.L.A. senior "B" squabble, their first showing here this semester. We are told the Owen Sound gang are big, tough and experienced—which'll make for a good game, as the locals aren't exactly pansies in the gutted-stick sport. After their loss last Saturday in Brampton, the Petes will be hustling to cop a win again and keep up around the top of the ladder. At 8.15 the same p.m. Kinsmen and Rotarians clash in a Midget Lacrosse Loop joust, running three periods. So help yourselves, folks.

* * * * * *

A "BOOSTER DINNER" will be held by the Orfuns' Senior Rugby Club on Friday, July 15th, in the Empress Hotel at seven p.m. Tickets are 75 cents and may be had at the Empress, Ed Riley's, Brooks Grill, Playmor Sports or from executive members. Nominating committee at that time will present the proposed slate of officers and further nominations may be made from the floor. Reports on activities to date and future plans will be discussed, and a plan of the proposed layout of the grounds will be shown at this dinner. It is expected work will commence on the grounds shortly. Committees are to be named for grounds, tickets, equipment, etc., as activities must be started at once in order to have the Exhibition Grounds' gridiron in shape for the first home senior O.R.F.U. game on Oct. 15th against Balmy Beach.

* * * * * *

AND NOW is the time for all good men (and ladies) to come to the aid of the party. The Orfuns will need plenty of financial support before and during their ambitious schedule. They open on Oct. 10th in Montreal, and that's quite a distance away, both in time and mileage. However, this is the time to get lined up for the big fall season, and the Orfuns can use a whole lot of boosters. They may or may not have bitten off more than they can masticate, but we think they're really doing something worth while. Getting tons of fine advertising for this city and putting Peterborough in the major sport class. It'll cost heavy sugar but if run right should keep the club out of the red. So drop around early and buy a ducat or two for this spread.

* * * * * *

AND SO it'll be Westclox and Keene in the first half playoffs of the Girls' Softball League but not till Westclox vacation is up. Keene made it last eve with a 6-0 shutout here over Lindsay lasses, and so the old rivals—piloted by the Messrs. Ab Delahaye and Ivan Fletcher—should stage a rousing serial. Bea McDowell was downright ornery and mean last p.m. on the Keene slab, giving her opponents but four hits and nary a free base, while she whiffed three. And Jean Channon on the Scugog rubber wasn't in a Santa Claus mood either, allowing but seven bingles and two walks, as she fanned four. A classy contest all the way, with but three of the Keenesters' runs being earned. One D. Sexsmith of Lindsay was hypnotized as she attempted a steal of second in the eighth, and Dot Cocks rambled all the way out from behind the bat to tag her out! No gals' game till next week; schedule out in a day or two.

* * * * * *

ST. JOHN'S WON the Church Softball Loop junior title last eve from All Saints, 12-11, difference being a vain attempt in the ninth for a player to steal home with the tying run. Junior champs have been: George St. in 1930 and '36, St. Paul's in '31 and '32, St. James in 1933-34-35, and All Saints a year ago. George St. copped Church League juvenile honors last eve, by trouncing Mark St., 15-8, with the losers quitting cold in the ninth and leaving the field 'cause they didn't like some decisions of the base umpire. First time such a thing has happened in the history of this league here, and certainly isn't any too sporting. However, the George St. boys cannot be shortchanged on credit as they had their rivals beaten and they are worthy champs. No action will be taken against Mark St. for defaulting in this manner as they are out for the year anyway, but officials warn other clubs not to try it or they'll be through for the season.

* * * * * *

THIS ITEM was in a lacrosse column in a Toronto sheet last p.m.: "Long Branch, peeved at their trimming at Peterborough last week, decided to avenge themselves by swinging high, wide and handsome on the Petes' forwards and several carry marks of the fray which required several stitches to close. Why they should resort to such measures is hard to understand as the Petes are not a heavy checking team either at home or abroad. Rough-house tactics have no place in present-day boxla and a continuation may find some of the culprits as onlookers rather than participants, according to some O.L.A. executives who are looking into the situation."

* * * * * *

UP AND DOWN Sports' Rialto: St. Kitts' columnist says Vern Bishop, ex-Napanee hurler, isn't doing much down that way....Lake Shore Mines ball team in Kirkland Lake has such former C.O.B.L.-ers as Brennan, Clancy, May, Buck and Scrutton....Only reason Oshawa paper gives for the postponement of today's game is that twilight tilts at Alexandra Park are bad business for the players who face into the sun!....Westclox have a men's softball game in Omemee tonight, and Motorists play DeLaval at the Bowl on Thursday....Next gals' game will be about July 4th....Kitch Jeffers and Ken Long of Toronto Grads are hitting .380 and .316 now; neither hit .250 last year in the Central Loop....Some nifty twirling is being seen these days in the Junior City Ball Loop games at the Exhibition Grounds....The Merritton-Petes' exhibition game in Riverside on Saturday will be at three bells....Should be lots of competition for outside wing positions in rugby here this autumn....Lot of July 1st fireworks at Riverside, we expect....At this time of year, we wish we were school-boyin' it again!

Soccer Notes

Tomorow (Thursday) night, the first game of the Father Phelan Charity Cup will be played between the Corinthians and the C.C.F. Manager William Downer has collected some of the best in the city and expect to go into the cup final. The fans are assured of a treat. Referee Thomas Foster will handle the game.

The question of association with the Ontario Football Association was settled on Monday evening at a special meeting call for the purpose. All the club representatives declared themselves fully in accord with the proposed change. This will give the local board a contract basis to work upon and will do away with necessity of geting the permission of the Toronto T. and D.F.A. This will put the players in the category of fully registered players in organized soccer in which amateur and professional players can play together at any time under D.F.A. ruling.

A communciation was received by Brintons club from Beehive Socer Club, Toronto, that they have accepted the invitation to play in Peterborough on Friday, July 1st, 1938.

The Bowler's Prayer

"Help me to play, so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience that I have not taken a point unfairly, nor given offence to any man.

Grant, I beseech, that I may by earnest endeavor, earn, and by good repute hold my place in the team, and that I may be given grace to abide by the will of those in power, no matter what I think or how I feel their rubs."

The team "bumer" is applied to a kitty or bowl which has been interfered with or displaced otherwise than by a bowl in play.

Oshawa Team Here For Holiday Tilt

Oshawa GM-men meet the Petes here Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in Riverside Park, and a huge holiday crowd is expected to witness the struggle. It will be the Petes' first home game in two weeks, and the Oshawa-Peterborough contest slated for today in the Motor City was postponed. Hence a lively lefthanded pitching duel is expected with Jake Biddle and Lefty (Frank) McNally probably drawing the slab assignments. It is a most important fray to both teams with first place in the C.O.B.L. standing at stake for the rivals. In a three-team league with a short schedule every game is important.

July 1st has always seen good senior ball games in Peterborough, but this one should be exceptionally exciting. Oshawa GM-men have won the loop title the last two years, and the Ontario championship once. But the Petes this year have shown great improvement and appear to be the club to beat for the pennant. And if these two ace southpaws are matched, it'll be a memorable battle. Needless to say, both clubs will be at top strength and ready for a keen baseball battle. With a fair break in the weather, the biggest crowd of the year will turn out on the holiday morning to see the Petes take issue with their Oshawa opponents.

More than 2,000,000 people attended the Empire Exhibition in Glasgow, Scotland, in the first month.

NEW EXCLUSIVE SOLVENT in Esso and 3-Star dissolves gum fights carbon

SO GOOD

it is protected by Can. Patent No. 357976

Claims for gasoline improvements have been many and varied. But here is an improvement that has been granted a patent by the Canadian Government. That means definite recognition that the product has new, useful and improved characteristics.

A new solvent is now being added to Esso and 3-Star gasolines which dissolves gum and checks carbon formation that robs your engine of power. Instead of baking into hard, sticky deposits in your engine, these trouble-forming elements are blown out through the exhaust.

This solvent should not be confused with lubricating oils sometimes added to gasolines. Ample lubrication is provided by Imperial lubricants. The sole purpose of this exclusive solvent is to check gum and carbon accumulation in the engine.

No one can duplicate the new, patented formula of Esso and 3-Star. No other gasoline can duplicate the performance of Esso and 3-Star. Decide now to have a cleaner, livelier engine.

Next time you need gasoline, fill up at the Imperial Sign

YOU HAVE TWO CHOICES OF PERFORMANCE

ESSO The highest quality motor fuel Imperial Oil has ever made, containing a sufficient amount of tetraethyl lead to eliminate "knock" and "ping" and to give smooth power and cool running. Esso also contains the new Imperial solvent to keep your engine free of gum and carbon.

3-STAR This famous gasoline has long been recognized by motorists as a regular-priced gasoline of exceptional quality. Now it contains this new, exclusive gum-absorbing solvent which means more power, a cleaner engine than ever before.

VANDER MEER WINS NINTH STRAIGHT VICTORY FOR REDMEN

Southpaw Holds Buccaneers To Six Singles

NEW YORK, June 29—(CP).—It probably would be considered treason to mention such a thing in Rhineland, but there is a strong suspicion abroad in National League circles that Cincinnati Reds might not look quite so good if their spurt had not coincided with the slumps of New York Giants and Chicago Cubs.

There's no detracting from the feats of Johnny Vander Meer, who won his ninth straight yesterday when the Reds whipped Pittsburgh 5-2 and who pitched one of Cincinnati's most persistent jinxes right out of Forbes Field at the same time. The Reds had lost 21 straight in the Pittsburgh park before they chalked up their first victory there since August, 1936. And, like Johnny, such young fellows as Frank McCormick and Ival Goodman have done a lot toward changing the Reds from a last-place outfit into a pennant contended.

On the other side of the argument, however, are these facts: Cincinnati's best performance has come since June 4. The Reds, fifth then, have won 14 of their last 20 games and have climbed to a spot only 1½ games behind the league-leading Giants.

Giants on Downgrade.

New York's best spurt was right at the start of the season, 18 victories in the first 21 starts. The Cubs, from May 18 to June 7, won 15 and lost four. If either could hold the paces they set during those streaks, Cincinnati hardly would be in the running. But while the Reds were on the upgrade, the Giants have been playing about .500 ball, while the Cubs have lost 12 of their last 18.

Both of these slumps can be partly explained by injuries. The Cubs didn't get the aid they hoped from Dizzy Dean and in addition have had to get along for some time without "Sparkplug" Gabby Hartnett. The pre-season loss of Burgess Whitehead and the more recent injury to Joe Moore caused the Giants plenty of trouble which the acquisition of Alex Kampouris and Bod Seeds may have settled.

While Vander Meer was pitching six-hit ball at Pittsburgh yesterday and McCormick, Goodman and big Ernie Lombardi were supporting him with heavy hitting, the Cubs took a 9-3 licking from St. Louis Cardinals and dropped 1½ games behind the Reds.

Lean Lonnie Warneke limited Chicago to seven blows, while the Gas Housers fell on Tex Carleton for seven runs in the third, when Pepper Martin blasted a homer with two aboard.

In the American League, Cleveland's Indians increased their lead to 4½ games over the idle New York Yankees as they eked out a 5-4 decision over Detroit. A five-run blast, including homers by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner, won the game in the second.

An exciting ninth inning in which Marvin Owen stole home just after Rip Radcliffe belted a homer with two aboard enabled Chicago White Sox to beat out St. Louis Browns in the day's other game.

The eastern clubs in both leagues were rained out.

George St. Wins Juvenile Title

George Street won the juvenile championship of the Church Softball League last night at the Oval over Mark Street, being awarded the second playoff game when Mark Street, trailing by a 15-8 score in the last half of the ninth, walked off the field in protest of the base umpire's decision on a play. The official, an experienced arbiter, had a number of close ones to call, most of them going against Mark Street, and the latter finally defaulted in ninth—it being the first incident of this type to occur in the history of the Church Softball League in Peterborough. The George Street team proved worthy of the championship in their play through the season and in the two playoff encounters. Past winners have been: Trinity in 1931, St. Paul's in '32 and '36, Knox in '33, George Street in '34, All Saints in '35, and St. John's last year.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Johnny Vandermeer, Reds—Set back Pirates, 5-2, with six hits, fanning six and walking only two for ninth straight victory.

Rip Radcliff and Mar Owen, White Sox—Radcliff hit ninth-inning homer with two on and Owen stole home as Fox edged out Browns 10-9.

Pepper Martin and Lonnie Warneke, Cardinals — Martin drove in four runs with homer and single, while Warneke tamed Cubs, 9-3, with seven hits.

St. John's Win Junior Title

St. John's won the junior championship of the Church Softball League last night at Central from All Saints by a 12-11 score in the fifth playoff game. It was a hectic affair as All Saints put over five runs in the ninth-inning attack to almost sew it up. Pitcher Bus McDougall of the losers pulled a boner when he stole home with the St. John's pitcher standing on the mound in consultation with his catcher. The next batter singled, but it was too late. The Saints hit regularly with Craig the main sticker and the Clark boys also getting on often. Stinson, F. Hill, Hotrum and Gibson batted well for the losers and M. Hill pulled several nice catches. After getting four runs in the first, All Saints were held in check by Copperthwaite till the ninth when he was driven out, R. Clark finishing it up. The teams:

Bisons Drop Sixth Straight, Leafs Win 6-5

TORONTO, June 29 — (CP). — It's an old baseball maxim that a pennant contender must win the close ones, and if those Buffalo Bisons don't start winning a few extra-inning ball games, they're liable to find themselves not only out of the race for first place but out of the International League's first division as well.

The Bisons, who threatened for a while to give Newark Bears a run for the league leadership, lost their sixth straight game, five of which have been extra inning counters, when they were beaten 6-5 in 10 innings last night by Toronto Maple Leafs.

The defeat dropped the Bisons 11½ games back of the Bears who were rained out of their game with Baltimore. It also endangered their runner-up position, as the third-place Rochester Red Wings blanked Jersey City 3-0.

Paces Leafs.

Charley Sherin was the cause of the Bisons' woes last night. The Toronto infielder, who was benched for not hitting, came back against Ken Ash and Lefty Jacobs and walloped five hits, including four doubles, to pace the Leafs to victory. His fourth two-bagger came with two out in the 10th and scored Flea Clifton from second with the winning run. Player-Manager Jack Burns helped the Toronto cause with a two-run homer in the fifth inning.

The Red Wings moved within 2½ games of the Bisons as the veteran Si Johnson scored his sixth victory of the season. Johnson limited the Royals to seven hits and fanned five. He had a shutout until the eighth inning, when Joe Benning tripled Sammy Bell home from first.

The Chiefs, who are only a half-game astern of the Red Wings, boosted their lead over the fifth place Gaints to 1½ games. Earl Cook pitched two-hit ball and fanned 10 in white-washing the Giants.

Keene Girls Win Playoff Berth

Girls' softball (first half):

	P.	W.	L.
Westclox	6	6	0
Keene	6	3	3
C.G.E.	6	2	4
Lindsay	6	1	5

Keene qualified for the first half playoffs with Westclox by blanking Lindsay 6-0 last night at the Bowl before a big crowd of fans. B. McDowell hurled shutout ball for Ivan Fletcher's team, giving but four hits and no walks as she fanned three. J. Channon for Lindsay also twirled a good game, allowing seven hits and two free tickets as she fanned four. The fielding was fair on both sides in a nice softball struggle, both sides pulling a double-play, Lindsay's short to first and Keene's pitcher to short.

H. Nelson led the hitters with a triple and single, while R. Wood, T. Mills, D. Cocks, B. McDowell, M. Belle and H. McGrath got a hit each. For Lindsay, M. Mackey, J. Channo, L. Ashmore, and M. Campbell were the hitters. Fielding features were turned in by J. Corley, D. Sexsmith, H. Lelson, M. Miller, and D. Cocks, the latter running out to touch D. Sexsmith who was stealing second in the eighth. The teams:

Lindsay — F. Mark, ss; D. Sexsmith, lf; J. Corley, 3b; M. Mackey, rf; J. Channon, p; D. Botting, 1b; . Lees, 1b; L. Ashmore, 2b; E. Campbell, c; M. Campbell, cf.

Cogs Trim Hawks In Southend Loop

Cogs took a 14-5 win over Hawks last night at the Brinton Field to advance into South-end Softball League playoffs for third place in the first half. One big frame fixed them up as they scored nine runs in the fourth to chase Cavanaugh to cover. Elliott relieved him and fared better, giving five hits and fanning three in five frames. Akers hurled neat ball for Cogs, allowing eight hits and four walks as he struck out five. Mowry led the winners at bat with three timely singles, while Mackness hit a homer and Todd a triple with the sacks loaded. For the losers, Millard had a homer and McGregor and Pryde two hits each. Defensively, Art Heal pulled a circus catch to rob L. Calladine of a hit, while Pryde and Hallihan also looked good. Next game will be on Monday, when Cogs and DeLaval meet to settle third place, and the second half starts on Tuesday. DeLaval plays Motorists at the Bowl this Thursday. Last night's lineups:

Cogs — A. Heal, 2b; Leggitt, 1b; Todd, rf; Akers, p; Watkins, c; Mowry, ss; Mackness, lf; Murduff, cf; C. Heal, 3b.

Tigers Lose 8-7 To Greyhounds

In one of the most exciting Junior City Baseball League games of the season, the Greyhounds nosed out Tigers, 8-7, at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday evening. Smythe on the winners slab allowed but four hits and fanned 16 in a fine performance, while on the other hill gave nine hits and struck out a dozen. The Greyhounds' catchers were hurt and had to retire. The game went overtime and nearly ended in a free-for-all. Jones, Smythe and Shaughnessy had two hits apiece for the Hounds, Smythe hitting a triple. Wade went best for the losers with two bingles. Considerable argument followed the fracas. The teams:

Owen Sound Here To Tackle Petes

Owen Sound and the Petes clash here Friday evening at nine o'clock in the George St. arena in an O.L.A. senior "B" fixture, and it promises to be another nifty lacrosse scrap. The gutted-stick gangs have been drawing big crowds again this season in Peterborough and they have deserved good followings. A bunch of new teams are showing here regularly but having to hustle all the time. They expect plenty of opposition from the Owen Sound outfit, which has engaged in some grand battles so far this season against other senior "B" squads. In their last, a week ago, they lost by a single point to the strong Inglewood-Caledon Combines at home.

Co-Managers Frank Randle and George Scott have the Petes in tip-top shape and ready to fight furiously from now on, after losing recently in Brampton. The full squad is expected to take issue with the Owen Sounders on the holiday night, and it should pack in another large crowd of fans. The Owen Sound players are reported husky, full of fight and with plenty of lacrosse experience. They will have to be good to cop a decision over the Petes here, as the locals are hard to take in their own arena. At any rate, it will likely be a lively setto.

Egypt will push its new national defence program this year.

Claims Reds Are Conservative

LONDON, June 29. — (CP). — A withering attack on the Labor party in Britain is contained in "Workers' Front" by Fenner Brockway, secretary of the Independent Labor party.

He charges the Labor party "is dead from the neck up and the spiritual life is gone out of it." Few attend the party meetings even when the leaders are on view and those who go are "listless and unresponsive."

Brockway blames the Communists and says they have become conservative. He charges the Communists have betrayed the Red Revolution in Spain, France and China and even Russia where he sees the introduction of capitalist devices. He thinks sooner or later the Labor party will admit the Communists "because there will be no difference between them."

Lakefield Social Is Much Enjoyed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 29.—The annual strawberry festival held by the Women's Association of Lakefield United Church on Friday evening was a decided success.

After supper, a splendid program was presented, with Rev. Kelly acting as chairman. Miss Dorothy Rowland's orchestra of Peterborough provided three selections, with encores, during the evening, and Miss Nancy Spring, Lakefield's youthful violinist, provided two numbers. Ralph Darling played the piano accordion, and a girls' trio composed of Joan and Doreen Kelly and Muereta Hull, rendered two vocal selections. The highlight of the program was a short play entitled, "The Mayor and the Manicure," in which the cast was: Mrs. G. F. Kelly, Rev. G. F. Kelly, Robert Spence, and Nora Webster.

Here is a street scene in Castellon, Spain, as the inhabitants turned out to welcome the troops of General Francisco Franco when the town fell into the hands of his Nationalist forces. The vanguard of Franco's men had just entered the town when the photo was made.

Tweed Fisher Lands 36-Pounder On Single Hook In 2 Hour Scrap

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, June 29.—Using a 1937 silk line of 18-lb. test, and a single hoot baited with a white crab, Grant Simmons hooked what he thought was a small fish in Stoco Lake. He was reeling in to remove the fish when it was nabbed by a lunge. With the most unorthodox big-fish tackle, the greatest of skill had to be brought into play by the fisherman. His companion, Frank McConnachie, was with Simmons when he landed the strike.

After a struggle which lasted from three o'clock to five o'clock, the big fellow was gaffed and hauled aboard. Weighed at Tom Breen's it tipped the scale at 36¼ lbs., and measured 48 inches in length.

The fishermen were aided in their struggle by an American tourist, Charles Gertz, of Cleveland, Ohio, who supplied them with a gaff.

To give the old home town folks a sight of what still remains in the home town lake, the fish is being kept on ice until Old Home week, when it will be on display.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 29 (A.P.). — If there is any doubt in your mind as to which punch really did for Schmeling, take another look at the fight pictures....They'll convince you Max was just about out when Louis belted him into the ropes —several seconds before the much-discussed "kidney punch" landed.... Carl Hubbell's kid brother (he's a right-hander) has sprouted a soup strainer and is doing all right with the House of Davids....Golfer Ralph Guldahl's wife makes him walk the family poke every night after dinner....How those Giants are missing Jo Jo Moore.

Everybody is giving it the old ocilitch try....Tony Galento (knocking out Nathan Mann) said: "I done it for my kid."....Max Baer says he'll finish Louis for his....And Navy "done it" for their coach....Joe Louis, an out and out pro, is the only one who'll admit he did it for the cold cash—approximately $400,000 worth.

Nine straight for Johnny Vander Meer and try to laugh 'em off.... Don Giovanni, a Greek heavyweight, flew in yesterday on an Italian passport....He wouldn't consent to change his front handle to Johnny for sports page purposes....Since Hubbell joined the club back in 1938 he has seen 110 pitchers come and go on the Giants.

Los Angeles yesterday entered the bidding for a Louis-Baer joust in the fall. . . Promoter Tom Gallery is working through Eddie Mead, manager of Henry Armstrong.... The Coasters are willing to guarantee Mike Jacobs a "nut" of $200,000, but Mike probably will have to have more than that.

Junior Ball Game Here This Evening

A Lakeshore Junior Baseball League game is lined up for here tonight (Wednesday) at 6.30 in Riverside Park between Bowmanville Lions and the Young Petes, and it should draw a good crowd of fans. Bowmanville dropped their last decision here to Herb Ralph's gang when the locals went on a hitting spree at the expense of two visiting twirlers. However, the Young Petes didn't face the ace Bowmanville heaver, Lefty Slemon, and he is slated to take the slab for the Lions this evening. Bowmanville needs the win badly to stay in the race for a junior playoff berth and they will be battling their heads off for a win this time.

Manager Ralph expects to start Bob Todd on the home mound, and the speedy righthander will be hard to hit. The Young Petes are at full strength now and playing heads-up ball. They get good pitching, some fine fielding and plenty of hard clouting. Young Petes have half a dozen fine senior prospects and they are worth watching in action. Plenty of hustle and smart diamond work. It ought to be a tight tilt this time with both hurlers being stingy with hits and, if expectations are realized, the crowd will be watching a first-rate junior baseball struggle all the way through.

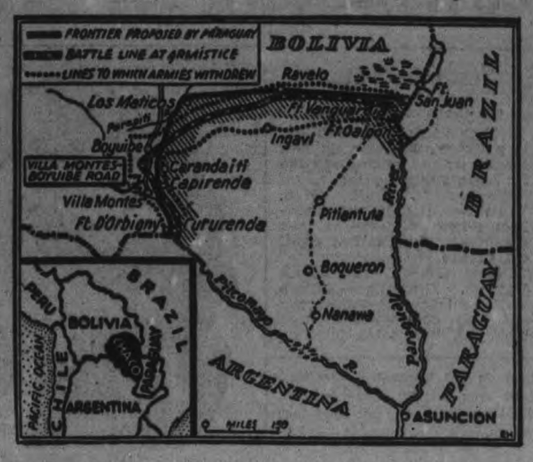
Border Plan Imperils Chaco Parley



The collapse of the Chaco Peace conference, which has been striving for three years to settle differences between Paraguay and Bolivia arising over the Chaco frontier, is feared, following the refusal of Paraguay to accept the settlement made by the conference. Delegates to the conference were fearful that the breakdown would lead to a fresh outbreak of war between the two countries. In a counter-proposal Paraguay has suggested a settlement which would give her the entire disputed area. The inset map shows (in black) the Chaco in relation to the surrounding countries.

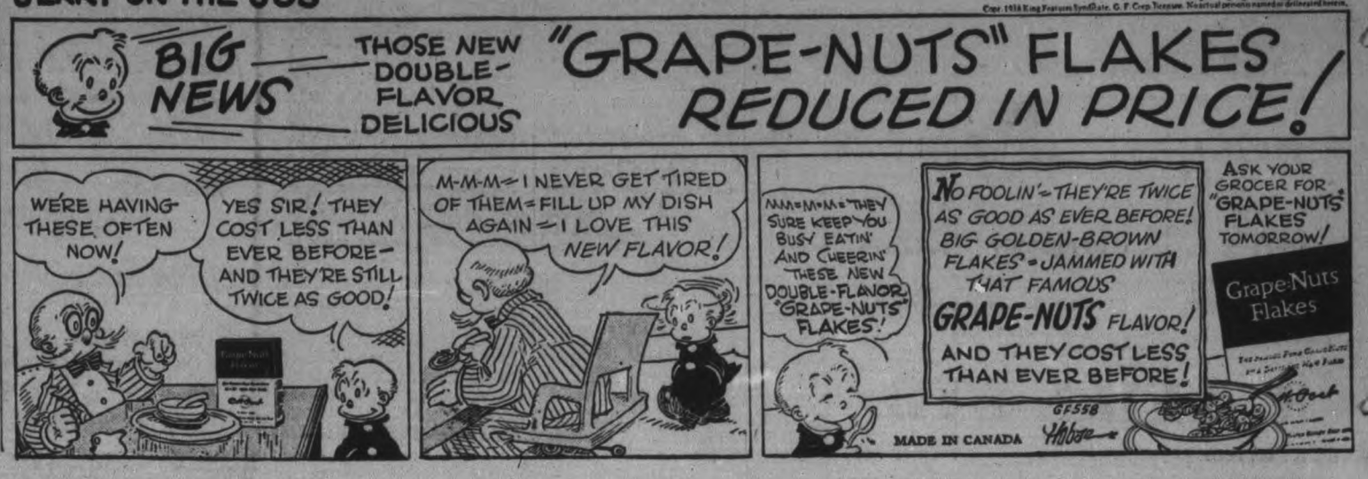
JERRY ON THE JOB — by HOBAN



Rain Is Needed To Aid Crops In Many Areas

TORONTO, June 29 — (CP). — Crops throughout Ontario are "generally good," but rain is urgently needed to maintain that condition, the Provincial Department of Agriculture said to-day in its weekly crop report. In some districts, Spring grains are a a standstill until moisture is received, the report said.

While scattered areas in Western Ontario received showers during the past few days, a general, soaking rain is required immediately, the report said. "Pastures in many cases are drying up," it added "Berries will be light unless moisture conditions improve. The grain, both Spring grain and Winter wheat needs moisture to fill properly."

Southern Ontario crops give promise of a good yield and in some areas look "exceptionally well," the report said. Though there has so far been little suffering from lack of moisture, a good rainfall is needed immediately. In Lincoln County, pastures "are beginning to dry up with the extreme heat of the past week and lack of rain."

Extreme heat and dry weather "is seriously affecting most crops" in Central Ontario, the report continued. The strawberry crop in Northumberland County "will be reduced considerably," it said. The first rain in two weeks fell on Hastings County to-day, coming at a time when "everything was getting very dry." However, in Peterborough County crop prospects were said to be "better than they have been for a few years past."

Rain is badly needed in Eastern Ontario. "All crops are suffering from the want of moisture as in many sections no rain of any account has fallen for two or three weeks," the report said. "The fact the land was in good working condition at seeding time and that there was a splendid supply of moisture is a big help in carrying the crops over the present dry spell."

In Northern Ontario, crops are a "little backward due to cold, dry weather." However, late reports to the department showed that heavy rains fell last night throughout the Nipissing and Timiskaming districts which have "greatly improved the outlook."

Throughout the province, the report concluded, haying now is well under way.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Bernard Shaw Faces One Of The Biggest Problems Of His Life

London, June 29.

BERNARD SHAW faced today what probably will be the biggest problem in his long life. It is to follow these physician's orders:—

Don't talk to any one about anything.

Don't read controversial topics in newspapers.

Don't answer the telephone.

Don't write articles.

The playwright, who will be 82 July 26, has been suffering for the past few months from what was called "a form of anaemia."

His latest play, "Geneva," is to be presented Aug. 1 and what is worrying him more than his illness is the probability he will not be allowed to direct rehearsals.

99.6 Per Cent. Stalin

MOSCOW, June 29 — (AP). — A plurality of 99.6 per cent. in the Moscow area was tabulated to-day for the unopposed "Stalinist bloc of non-party people" in elections for the first Supreme Soviet of the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic.

Of 2,520,146 voters, returns from the elections of the Legislature on Sunday showed 2,519,848—99.99 per cent.—cast ballots. In the whole Moscow region, the plurality was 99.8 per cent., in Leningrad 99.26 per cent., and in the whole Leningrad region 99.3 per cent.

Presentation Made Marmora Teacher

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 29.—About forty members of the Catholic Women's League assembled at the home of Mrs. J. E. Gehan on Friday evening to make the presentation of a walnut end table to Miss Mabel McCarthy, who has been a teacher at the Separate School for the past five years and for the same period, organist at the Sacred Heart Church. Miss McCarthy has been a popular resident throughout that period and her forthcoming marriage will be attended with the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

At Friday evening's gathering the presentation was made by Mrs. E. D. O'Connor and Miss Margaret O'Connor read a very suitable address. Mrs. O'Connor also read a poem composed for the occasion by Michael J. Moloney. Mrs. Hugh Brady followed with a humorous poem, "Is Marriage a Failure?"

A delicious lunch was served and with the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good fellow," the party broke sented Miss McCarthy with a beautiful Kenwood blanket.

Warsaw Dairyman Is Badly Scalded

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, June 29. — Charles Calder was badly scalded with steam on both forearms and hands, also on his chest, on Saturday afternoon. He was turning a tap on the boiler in the cheese factory when it exploded. Mr. Calder was able to go across to Dr. Munro's office, where the wounds were dressed.

He was so numbed he did not feel much pain, but he was faint, and it will be some time before he has much use of his hands.

A little later young Leonard Lonsberry had to go to the doctor with three fingers badly cut with a saw. He also will be unable to use his hands for some time.

Fortune-Teller Stirs Edmonton's Council Fee Is Not Boosted

Familiar to thousands of Edmontonions, husky-voiced "Madame" M. Fontaine told the aldermen if they increased her licence as a palmist she couldn't go on supporting her six children.

Large Attendance At Selwyn Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, June 28. — The annual strawberry festival of Selwyn United Church was held on Tuesday evening in the church shed. In spite of the intense heat a very large crowd was in attendance. In conjunction with the supper a three-act comedy-drama entitled "Aunt Abbie Answers an Ad" was presented by the young people of Trinity United Church, Peterborough.

In Defence of Freedom of Press

Illustrated above is the bronze plaque recently awarded by the advisory board of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism to Edmonton Journal "for its leadership in defence of the freedom of the press in Alberta." Marmora Festival Draws Big Crowd

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 29.—The rectory lawn furnished a charming setting on Tuesday afternoon and evening for the annual strawberry festival for which the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church is responsible and a large crowd patronized the excellent meal provided by them.

A fine program of instrumental music was given by Trenton Airport Band under Bandman Cooper, who also played two cornet solos "The Lost Chord" and "The Rosary." Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, during the program voiced the appreciation of the gathering of the band's excellent contribution to the evening's enjoyment.

Soft drinks and ice cream were other means of revenue besides horseshoe pitching with T. W. Rhind in charge. In this contest there were fifteen entries and T. W. Rhind and E. Brady tied for honors. To break the tie, three frames for each player were decided upon. T. W. Rhind eventually winning. A fish pond under auspices of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. was fished to the last fish.

Included in the list of visitors were Canon and Mrs. W. G. Swayne, Bonarlaw, and Rev. and Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Stirling.

"It is our understanding, for example, that the department of National Defence lacks an adequate supply of tanks. In our opinion, tanks could be produced efficiently in the C. N. R. shops at Stratford. Probably other equipment also could be made in railway shops—and skilled workmen at hand."

As the deputation visited the Ministers, word came from Montreal, that representatives of the unemployed shopment were in that city urging railway officials to bid on armament orders.

fight the penitentiaries measure to the end, and he urged that it be left to another session so that in the meantime members might read not only the report, which was tabled June 14, but the evidence on which it was based and which has not yet been tabled.

Mr. Lapointe said General Ormond would be entitled to pension. The Government would be following the line of least resistance if it delayed action on the report and would be open to grave criticism. He was not approving of the entire report and the important recommendations with reference to parole would go over to another session.

He had many applications, the minister said, for appointment of the proper commission, but would not act on any of them. The appointments would not be political.

In the earlier debate on the act by which the government acquires sole ownership of the Bank of Canada, C. H. Cahan (Con. St. Lawrence-St. George) declared the Monday speech in Halifax of Major W. D. Herridge of Ottawa, former Canadian minister to United States and brother-in-law of Mr. Bennett did not voice the policy of the Conservative party.

Wants Action Soon

Mr. Cahan expressed the hope that Major Herridge and his "disciple" G. G. McGeer (Lib. Vancouver-Burrard) and any other adherents he might enlist to his monetary reform policy, might raise the issue soon so that he could play a part in delivering the overwhelming defeat which he was convinced the people of Canada would administer to any departure from sound financing policies.

Mr. McGeer retorted the fight might come sooner than expected and that the intelligence of the people might react differently to what Mr. Cahan anticipated. "They have been too long bamboozled," Mr. McGeer said, by such arguments as Mr. Cahan had advanced.

Mr. McGeer continued the arguments he had advanced on several occasions for a managed currency, using the credit of Canada to finance the needs of Dominion, provincial and municipal governments.

Jury Believes

she saw a number of persons on the outside of Babcock's automobile and the driver ordered them off but they got on again. She named Zella McCulloch, Arleigh Wilson, Maggie Yeomans and John Quinlan as the four persons who were on the running boards as the machine drove off.

"I Think She Did"

Maggie Yeomans, 12, testified that she was standing on the right running board near the front and Mary Babcock, sister of the driver, was sitting on the right hand side of the car close to her.

"What do you say as to her seeing you?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"I think she saw me," said the youthful witness.

"I think she did to," Mr. McElderry declared.

The witness described the bump as the car reached a small bridge. She had not heard Zella McCulloch call out or anybody shout at the time of the accident. She said she had not seen all the occupants of the car because her head was too high up for her to look into the machine.

Bruce Rapport, one of the occupants of the car who had testified at the previous session, was recalled and declared that he had not seen Arleigh Wilson on the runing board although he could not explain just why in a journey of several hundred yards he had failed to notice the girl, except that he could not see because of the driver.

"Have you been trying to conceal anything?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"No, sir."

"Then tell the jury why you failed to see these people on the running board."

Witness was silent and was dismissed with a curt, "That will do," from the Crown Attorney.

Irene Barnes testified that she was 50 yards on the other side of the bridge when she heard the Babcock car coming down the grade, and looked back. She did not notice any persons on the running board. She had not been an eye-witness of the accident but looked around when she heard the car stop and saw Zella McCulloch lying on the bridge.

Saw Girl Fall

Leila Sharpe actually saw the little girl fall off the car as it crosesd the bridge. She saw Zella's hand go up over her head and then saw her falling off. The witness had failed to notice any persons on the running board.

James Fitzpatrick, another occupant of the car was recalled and declared that he had not seen either Arleigh Wilson of Maggie Yeomans on the running board. Pressed for an explanation of his failure to do so Fitzpatrick said that he had slumped down in his seat and was not paying enough attention.

"You still persist in telling the jury you did not see these children on the running board," asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes, sir."

"It put it to you that you are attempting to shield some one when you give that evidence."

Fitzpatrick replied that he had not seen the children.

Driver Recalled

Lloyd Babcock, the driver, was recalled and declared that he had not noticed the children on the running boards after they had been put off the first time. He could not explain why he had failed to see them. Nor could Mary Babcock when she was brought back to be examined again. She declared that she had not seen either Maggie Yeomans or Arleigh Wilson.

In his charge to the jury Coroner Dr. Smith said that the case was somewhat mystifying because of the tremendous amount of conflicting evidence. "Just what the purpose of some of it is I cannot say," said the coroner. It was plain the girl had been jolted off the car and possibly struck her head against the iron post of the bridge.

Crown Attorney McElderry reminded the jurors that to allow children to ride on the runing boards of motor cars was to court danger. In regard to the evidence that had been given the Crown Attorney told the jury that they could consider the apparent intention of the driver to shed all responsibility. He said that the evidence given at such inquests should be frank and above reproach because the witnesses were on their oath to tell the truth.

New Course Of Study Is Announced For Pupils In Upper Grades

New course of studies released by the Ontario Department of Education this week for Grades 7 and 8, formerly Junior and Senior Fourth, which go into effect on Sept. 1 of this year, follow the same style as the courses released earlier this year for the primary grades. The course caters to the natural curiosity of the pupils and their desire to do things, and thus the educators hope to get a greater degree of concentration and interest from the students.

History and geography are now combined under the heading Social Studies, and the various English subjects are grouped in one class named English. Grammar in the old sense of the word, which called for analyzing sentences, etc., has disappeared, and functional grammar is retained with the emphasis placed on the correct use of words. Business arithmetic in Grade 8 disappears under the new system, and in its stead there is mathematics which emphasize correct computation, practical mensuration instead of dealing with problems in an abstract way. Everyday problems in the home and daily life requiring mathematics in their solution will be given the pupils. Nature study is incorporated in a course now called Science for the Grade 8 pupils, and the course will teach practical and applied science in the home, business, garden, farm.

In short, the new course is arranged with the hope that it will so interest the pupils that the lure of the old swinning hole, the stream where the suckers are running, and the wild strawberry patches in some shady woodland spot will no longer be strong enough to woo the boys and girls away from the schools during the beautiful days of spring and summer.

Since the schools introduced the new curriculum in the six lower grades, teachers, parents and pupils alike are thoroughly satisfied. The studies undoubtedly interest the classes, there is new life and energy in the way the pupils concentrate on the work, and several teachers have said the actual work of teaching is not so tiring.

L. D. W. Magie Is Guest Of Honor On Eve Of Retirement At Banquet Tendered By C.G.E.

200 Fellow Workers Pay High Tribute To Qualities Of Man

Louis D. W. Magie, chief engineer of the Canadian General Electric Company and supervisor of the engineering, drafting and laboratory who retires from service with the company on June 30th was honored by his associates on the engineering staff and by company officials from Schenectady, Toronto and this city at a banquet in the Empress Hotel Tuesday night.

Two hundred men, many of them fellow workers with Mr. Magie for more than a quarter of a century, paid high tribute to his qualities as a leader in his chosen profession, and extended both congratulations and regrets that he had decided to retire from active service with the company. F. B. Munro, supervisor of the Test Dept. in the Peteborough Works presented the guest of honor with a silver salver, suitably engraved and at the conclusion of the program, J. J. Ashworth, General Manager of the Company at Toronto presented Mr. Magie with an illuminated leather bound address, in book form and in which are inscribed the names of all his colleagues in the Engineering Department, as well as those from outside the city who attended last night to wish him. good health and many years of enjoyment and rest.

Enviable Record.

Ian McRae, assistant Works Manager of the Peterborough plant was chairman and introduced the eight speakers, first of whom was C. A. Salmonsen, Works Manager. Mr. Salmonsen lauded the retiring engineer as a man with an enviable record and a long list of worthwhile accomplishments in an industry that is always changing. He described Mr. Magie, as a leading citizen and one who always took and active part in every worth while civic venture. He stated the guest of honor had always taken a great interest in the young men in the industry, and in so doing not only helped the junior engineers but helped the company. Mr. Salmonsen, said he was glad to see the former Works Manager E. G. Patterson present and asked him to stand up. Mr. Patterson was given a hearty ovation but declined to make any speech. Mr. Salmonsen told the gathering that Gordon R. Langley of this city, who has headed one section of the engineering department for 25 of the 27 years he has been with the company, has been named successor to Mr. Magie.

Mr. McRae, the chairman extended a cordial welcome to the guests and in a brief address outlined Mr. Magie's career with the company. He said, the latter may correctly be described as a pioneer in the business, and when he came to the local plant on November 15th, 1900, he was the first engineer on the staff. "Under Mr. Magie's executive direction the engineering department of our company has grown to be one of the foremost engineering organizations in Canada, if not in the British Empire". I could say many things about his good qualities but it can be summed up briefly by saying, Mr. Magie is a good engineer, an efficient manager and a gentleman."

Mr. Magie in replying said "I am simply overwhelmed by the remarkable turnout of friends and your kind expressions of regret and good wishes. It is very hard to break away from close associations and I can't help but have pangs of regret. It is doubly hard to lose interest in one's work". I saw many changes during my 38 years with the C. G. E. Company, I say the men with whom I have been have enjoyed the life and I can truly privileged to work are God's finest. I owe much of my success to them. He tendered thanks to the officials who had sent flowers to Mrs. Magie to mark the occasion, and extended a cordial invitation to all of his associates to visit his home whenever they are in the city.

The program concluded with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the men formed a single file to extend personal congratulations to the guest.

Peaches in Peterborough

Mrs. Flora Brock of Western avenue will pick her supply of peaches from a tree on her own property just outside the city this year, instead of visiting the fruit market. The tree which is four years old is heavily laden with well shaped and good sized fruit and a few of the peaches have started to turn a pinkish yellow and should be ripe within three weeks. Many other local people are coaxing along young peach trees and many report the young trees are making excellent progress.

Be No Waiting Exam. Results

The long waiting for publication of examination results in the primary grades of the public schools in the city has been eliminated by the action of the teachers in advising all pupils this morning whether or not they have been promoted. Those who passed moved into the new class rooms, selected a desk and when the Fall term rolls around there will be no confusion or fuss as pupils seek their new positions.

Entrance pupils and some of the High School forms are still writing examinations but to the pupils in the Separate and Public schools of the city, to-day rings with that glad cry, "School's Out." Swimming pools, fishing streams, the woods, and the baseball diamonds all beckon to the gay youngsters who now look ahead to two months of solid pleasure. A period that to them seems long, but which as all have learned gets shorter as the years roll by.

Police Probe Plans Are Outlined

Preliminary plans for an investigation of several charges relating to the administration of local police affairs were outlined by Alderman Gordon, chairman, at last night's meeting of the legal committee of the council. He reported that Judge L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg had expressed a willingness to preside at the enquiry at a fee of $25 a day, and that Leslie G. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay, could probably be engaged at $50 a day to conduct the examination of witness.

"None of the solicitors in town desires to assist in conducting the enquiry," Alderman Gordon said. "They feel that it might prejudice their position in connection with the police court, and I think it would be advisable to get a man from out of the city. We can also get a court reporter from Toronto at $8 a day."

Members of the committee agreed with Mr. Gordon that the investigation of stated cases should be entirely on an independent basis. It was preferable for all parties concerned, and would have the effect of assuring the public that everything was done to give complainants the fullest opportunity of bringing out any evidence relating to the charges, that nothing could be hidden, and that the probe should be what it was intended, thorough and fair to all parties, including the interest of the community as a whole.

The committee decided to refer decision for the investigation to the finance committee which meets this evening.

Employees Of C.G.E. Honor L. D. W. Magie

Two hundred executives, engineers and draftsmen from the various Canadian plants and offices of the Canadian General Electric Company attended a testimonial banquet in the Empress Hotel last night, paying tribute to L. D. W. Magie, chief engineer at the Peterborough plant, who is retiring this week after 38 years' service. Mr. Magie is shown in (4) after he had received an illuminated address from Mr. J. J. Ashworth, of Toronto, general manager of the company. The address in leather folder, book form, contained the signatures of more than 200 of his colleagues. Mr. Ashworth is on the Right. In (1) Gordon R. Langley of the C.G.E. engineering staff, who has been named successor to Mr. Magie, was caught by the camera in a gay moment. Guests at the head table are shown in (2), reading from the Left: Mr. M. P. White, manager Davenport Works, Toronto; J. J. Ashworth, Mr. Magie, Ian McRae, assistant to the works manager in the local plant, who was chairman, did a commendable and efficient job. Mr. C. A. To Stand Trial On Charge Drunk Driving

On a charge of drunken driving, arising out of an accident early Sunday morning on the Lakefield Road, Michael J. Murray Jr., of Peterborough was committed for trial by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning. Through his counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, Murray had elected trial by a higher court and pleaded not guilty.

The case is being tried as an indictable offence and conviction carries with it a jail sentence of from one to three months.

Robert Hewett was the first witness called by Crown Attorney McElderry. He testified that in company with Pat Hall and Miss Louise Hall he was driving north on the Lakefield road and when near the filtration plant he had seen the lights of another car approaching from the north. When this car got within 35 or 40 feet of him it veered toward crossing the white line at an angle and struck his car which was on its proper side of the road.

Hewett told of Hall and himself being unable to move the overturned car from on top of Murray until help came along. He said Murray was taken to St. Joseph's hospital by Traffic Officer McClure.

His own car had had a wheel crumpled and travelled across the road in a semi-circle after the impact.

Admitted Having Beer.

Murray admitted having had a pint of beer and there was a smell of liquor off him but witness would not say that he was drunk.

Dr. R. F. Nott who saw Murray after he had been admitted to hospital swore that the accused was under the influence of liquor. His eyes were bleary, there was a strong odor of alcohol, he was belligerent, and seemed apprehensive as to whether the traffic officer had got him or was going to get him.

To Mr. Fair, witness said that shock of an accident might cause some of the symptoms he had described but repeated that in his opinion the man's condition was caused by the influence of liquor. The reaction to the effects of an accident differed in individuals.

"Pat" Hall who was with Hewett corroborated his evidence as to the accident. He said he had seen Murray's car veer over toward another car in front of the Hewett automobile and then veer toward the Hewett car and strike it, afterwards overturning.

He said to Mr. Fair that Murray was dazed after the accident. What had happened could have been the result of bad judgment.

Car On Wrong Side.

Joseph O'Toole who was gathering dew worms at the filtration plant on the night of the accident told of seeing Murray's car swing over toward the wrong side of the road as one car passed north and then swing over and strike Hewett's car which was following. Both the cars going north were on their own side of the road.

O'Toole said to Mr. Fair that he was watching the cars because he had been anticipating an accident at that point for three years.

Girard O'Toole, brother of the last witness testified to seeing Murray's car turning over after the accident. The Hewett car had been on its proper side of the road, he said.

Roger Steele, waiter in the beverage room at South Beach Hotel testified that Murray had arrived in the beverage room at 11 o'clock Saturday night and had consumed a quart and a pint of beer before he left shortly before 12 o'clock.

To Mr. Fair the witness said he could not see any evidence of Murray being drunk when he left the place.

Traffic Officer McClure who investigated the accident and took Murray to the hospital swore that Murray was drunk when he saw him at the hospital. The accused, he said, smelt strongly of liquor, he wanted to fight and then he hung on to the traffic officer and did not want him to go.

Mr. Fair did not put in any evidence for the defence and Magistrate Gee committed the accused for trial. On a second charge of reckless driving against Murray there was an adjournment until July 20th.

All Spare Cash In Treasury Is For Relief

Civic esthetics seeking play in further improvement of the Little Lake crescent bumped into the year's relief bill and folded up at Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of Works. One of George A. Macdonald's ideas for the beautification of Crescent Street, following the construction of the stone embankment, was the thinning out of the old trees along the inner margin of the crescent, planting of new trees, shrubs, probably laying a cement walk, and generally turning out an avenue that would be a constant delight.

His successor, Mayor Hamilton, mentioned the same project Tuesday night, recalling the plans proposed by Harry Moore of the Ontario Government's forestry and landscaping staff and there was a brief review of what should be done, hedges, vines over the rocks, top soil to ensure vigorous growth, and all that sort of gardening, but the Mayor was immediately reminded of the fact that Alderman Dutton's relief committee would absorb all the council's spare cash, and then some, before this year's books are balanced.

At any rate, it was reported that the Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, will visit Peterborough in the fall probably to inform himself of the conditions relating to the proposed new postal and customs building. By that time the new dock in Little Lake will be completed. The work is likely to get under way early in July, it was stated.

Prince Street residents enquired why their street was unoiled while Princess Street was treated to prevent summer dust. City Engineer Parsons said the second street would be oiled when the equipment could get around to it. Mayor Hamilton said all the streets in the city were not oiled every year, one reason being that they don't need it.

Must Secure Man To Care For Stock

Archie Wilson, well known Harvey township farmer, pleaded guilty before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning to cruelty to animals in that he failed to feed properly cattle, horses and pigs.

Alex. Elliott, K.C., appeared for the accused and asked for suspended sentence, saying that Wilson had always had a good reputation and that this sudden change in him was a surprise. He suggested that the main consideration was the welfare of Wilson's stock and suggested that the accused should be called upon to see that they are better cared for.

Magistrate Gee allowed Wilson to go on suspended sentence on condition that he pay all the costs of the case and secure a man satisfactory to the authorities to see that the animals on his place are properly looked after.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

HORSES STAGE BOXING BOUT.

T. J. Hetherington, farmer on the Lakefield road, reported to-day that three of his horses which are in pasture, have on several occasions while playing reared on their hind legs and sparred with their front feet much the same as two kangaroos would stage a boxing match. The owner hopes to catch the animals in the peculiar stance and take a picture of them.

WELL REPRESENTED.

The whole district was well represented in the inquest into the death of Zella McCulloch Tuesday night. The inquiry was held at Havelock, nearly all the witnesses came from Cordova, the corner was Dr. Smith of Lakefield, the witnesses were examined by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry of Peterborough, and the provincial officer who investigated the case was Traffic Officer Hatch of Marmora.

SIDEWALK PAINTED GREEN.

A pail of green paint intended for use on the City Hall was liberally spread over the sidewalk on Simcoe street yesterday afternoon when George Gillespie stepped out of a car and plumped his foot right into the sticky mixture. His trouser leg received a generous amount and the balance of the paint flowed into the gutter. The pail had been set at the curb by one of the painters, engaged in giving the city hall a face lifting, and Mr. Gillespie failed to notice it when he stepped from his car.

TONY PEPE NEVER WINS.

Tony Pepe, genial Italian tailor, has a weakness for buying tickets on every draw that comes along, but immediately on purchasing the pasteboards tossed them out of the window. Yesterday Frank Millard sold him a few tickets on the Kiwanis model home without any sales talk, and was amazed when Pepe, after paying for the tickets, tosed them out the window. "If I kept all the tickets I purchased, this room would be filled, and I need the space," said Tony. "besides I never win, so I just toss them away first instead of waiting for the draw."

DANGEROUS ROAD

Many local motorists who visit Greenhurst complain that the road running north out of Omemee is not properly marked with road signs to warn of curves and turns in the road. It is said the road is in excellent state of repair and motorists step along at a lively pace, and are at a bad curve without warning. Several narrow escapes have been reported.

CYCLING HEALTHY EXERCISE

Tom Brownlee, 53 year old employee of a local factory has just returned from a vacation on which he travelled 600 miles entirely by bicycle. The veteran according to reports appeared fit and refreshed and is said to have enjoyed the unusual trip to the fullest despite the fact that he has passed the half century mark.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Molly, a grey cat owned by Mrs. Stevens at Crawford's Grove has successfully raised two Pekinese puppies since they were born six weeks ago. The mother of the pups died at childbirth and the owner, Bert Lacey, Rubidge street took them to Crawford's Grove, removed the old cat's kittens and substituted the pups. The old cat showed the newcomers every solicitude, and when they were taken from her two days ago, wandered around the farm, searching for them. The pups are now old enough to be fed by artificial means.

CHARGE IS LAID.

A charge of reckless driving has been laid against Lloyd Babcock, driver of the car from which Zella McCulloch of Cordova, fell and was fatally injured and the case was heard this afternoon at Havelock.

SCHOOLS CLOSE.

The Public and Separate schools of the city closed this morning for the long summer holiday and an army of youngsters are at liberty until September. With the closing of the schools will come the big exodus to the summer cottages as families take off for the annual vacation in Kawarthaland.

IMPROVING HILL TOP.

City Engineer Parsons was asked by the Board of Works last night to report on how another $500 could be spent with best results on the improving of the recently acquired northern section of Armour Hill. Considerable work costing $500 has already been done in levelling the top for parking space, but a new road requires gravelling. Alderman Bradburn said the grass was dry and a careless match or cigarette butt could easily start a fire that would destroy or damage many of the trees that are growing sturdily.

WOMAN IS FINED

For the second time this week a woman pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a drunk charge and was fined $10 and costs. This particular offender, 26, and married admitted being drunk on Hunter street.

HAD NO PERMIT

Ronald Lavis was fined $10 and costs for driving without a permit. He said that he had had a permit in Quebec and had applied for one in Ontario but had not yet received it. The magistrate imposed a fine, saying that Lavis might apply to the Highway Department for a refund if he saw fit.

PLEADS GUILTY

Harry Douglas of Oshawa pleaded guilty before Magistrate Gee today to reckless driving on Water street and the case was adjourned for sentence.

AN OTONABEE COLLISION

A truck owned by Dora Greenspoon of Bolton, Ont., and driven by Albert Steen and a car owned and driven by Ronald Lavis, Brock street, Peterborough, collided on the Lang-Westwood road last night and both machines were damaged. No one was injured.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

J. V. Monyhan and F. A. Condin were both charged in police court this morning before Magistrate Gee with reckless driving as the result of an accident on the Lakefield road. The former was defended by W. B. Gordon and the latter by W. J. Arthur Fair. Both cases were adjourned until July 13.

TO CANVASS TOWNSHIP.

Chandos farmers promptly decided last night at Kinmount to canvass the township and any other dairymen in neighboring Cavendish to ascertain their attitude toward the T.B. testing of herds to make the county a restricted area. It was believed the big majority of the residents would sign a petition requesting that the test be extended to the northeastern section, thereby completing the entire county. F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, explained the procedure and other details to the meeting.

THIRD CHARGE FILED.

In addition to the two charges previously filed against administration of local police affairs, a third supported by affidavit has been received for investigation, Alderman Gordon informed the legal committee of the council last night.

Pages' Paths Often Marked With Success

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP).—Parliamentarians, clergymen, lawyers, civil service officials, newspapermen and athletes have hailed from the pages' rooms of the House of Commons and Senate.

Clad in trim-fitting Eton suits, spotless white shirts and patent slippers, 23 youths—eight in the Senate and 15 in the Commons—usually orphans or sons of widows, who have entered service between the ages of nine and 12, will continue into their teens, filing sessional papers, running messages and waiting on senators and members of the House during the session. These lads are apponted on recommendation of a senator, M.P., school principal or clergyman and are chosen for good behavious, alertness and intelligence.

Formerly the pages supplied their own uniforms, but when the new parliament buildings were opened in 1916 after the fire in 1916, suits were provided by the government and the short black breeches changed to "longs." White ties are worn by Senate pages to distinguish them from the black-tied House pages.

From the old school of House page boys is Louis Boulet, chief of the branch of parliamentary papers who entered the service in 1903 and because of shortness of stature was able to remain 13 years. Gradually he rose to assistant chief page, chief page, confidential messenger, clerk of the court, assistant to the chief of the branch of parliamenetary papers until his appointment to his present position last year.

The late W. C. Bowles held the record for advancement in civil service among the Commons pages, holding the position of Clerk of the Journals before his death.

Others Go Up

W. H. White, a page in the early years, returned to the House of Commons as a member for the old Victoria-Alberta riding in 1908. Alvin H. McLachlan was trained in law and is practising in Edmonton.

A. Hudson has risen from a House page boy to be clerk of works in the Public Works Department in Ottawa. Allan Baxter, another former page boy in the House, holds a position in the editorial section of the Mines and Resources department in Ottawa.

Tommy Gorman, a figure in today's world of sport as manager of the Montreal Maroons hockey team, was formerly a parliamentary page and later sports editor of the Ottawa Citizen.

Senate pages who benefited by their early training were the late Charles Young, who entered at the time of Confederation and rose to be deputy clerk of the Senate; Alphonse Roy, who is now assistant chief of the Clerk of Committee and H. D. Gillman, deputy accountant.

J. A. Choquette became postmaster of the Senate and E. E. Berube curator of the Senate Reading Room. Both are now retired.

Junior pages receive a daily stipeind of $1.75 and senior boys $2. The chief page in the House is engaged on a yearly salary. Pages' hours are from one o'clock until the House adjourns in the evening, usually around 11 p.m. with a break of two hours for dinner. Senate pages are kept busy filing papers when the Senate adjourns during the session.

In old days tables were turned during leisure hours. Pages held a "mock parliament" in the House, the debates and parliamentary procedure causing merriment among the House members who often formed a large audience in the galleries. Too, the boys organized a baseball team which held its own when opposed by scratch teams of members.

To-day the sessions are longer than formerly. Pages in many cases do not enter the service at such an early age and discipline is more strict.

Parliamentarians are generous and at the end of the session a page finds he has benefited financially as well as educationally.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us a wild-goose chase, and is never attained. Follow some other object, and very possibly we may find that we have caught happiness without dreaming of it; but likely enough it is gone the moment we say to ourselves, "Here it is!" like the chest of gold that treasure-seekers find." — Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Dear Friends:

How many say to me in the course of a week, "Roberta, I am not happy. I have tried this, and have tried that, but I am still unhappy and unsatisfied."

Well, I used to be like that, hunting happiness, but never really finding it. There was then a dull unrest, a discontent, an emptyness. Now I do not seek it at all, and it is surprising how often it comes to me.

Everything that tends to bring happiness on earth is very simple, nothing elaborate about it, and often nothing to pay out for it. Yet some still persist in looking for it amongst their friends, and I will grant you we can get a deal of happiness there.

But, if we depend utterly on that friend, we will soon lose any happiness they can give us. It has to come from you in yourself.

How many unhappy faces we see as we go around, simply because they are chasing happiness, and never catching up with it.

Just the other day, I was amongst a group of young people. They all agreed this was a heck of a town, no fun, nowhere to go, (which is very true) no happiness anywhere. So, I suggested they stop looking for happiness, they learn to make their own, to ignore it, and believe it or not, it worked.

They went out that night, not caring, and they had the best time in weeks. I do not know why it should like that. We learn that if we want anything we must go after it, but why does happiness take wings and fly away when we go after it. It will take a better mind than mine to answer that.

But, truly, it is incidental to our work, we have little or not control over it, and as Hawthorne says, just as we tell ourselves we are happy, away it flies again. Candidly, I never said I felt great in the morning that I was not sick in the course of the day. Funny isn't it?

And so I do not look for it now. If it overtakes me, or if I meet up with it, I am glad. I enjoy it as much as possible, but I keep my fingers crossed when I think it will stay. Yet there is lots of it ready for us when we ignore it, so don't get too pessimistic.

It reminds me of a woman I knew in another country. She was a very nice person to know, but if you sought her too often, she had a habit of showing you her worst side, of scoffing at what you said, of belittling things to annoy you.

But, leave her alone, let her come to you, and there was not a more entertaining, interesting person within miles. So, we learned to leave her alone, we never sought her out, and we enjoyed her when she came.

And when we learn that happiness is like that, we shall stop hunting her, we shall leave her to come to us, and we shall have a better time when she does come.

Here is a quotation by Carlyle which will bear thinking over: "There is in man a higher than love of happiness; he can do without happiness, and instead thereof find blessedness." That would be a good thing to find, for all of us fell we would like to be blessed.

And so, when we are not so eager in the seeking of this, maybe it will come in ways we never expected. Maybe in the daily tasks it will pop its head up, bringing satisfaction, and peace, and blessedness to comfort and hearten us. But truly we have less of it than we could do with. Oh well, there is the next world, thank God, where we shall not have to seek it.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

PENSIONED OFF A FIT MAN

Rigours of Police Life Did Not Harm Him

At 50 years of age he was presumed to be beyond the arduous demands of police duties. But was he? Read what he says now—five years after he was pensioned:—

"It am a man of 55 years. It is now five years since I was pensioned off from the ———Police. I went through thick and thin, day and night in all weathers, while I was on the Force, and am today as fit as any man still serving on the Force. People often ask me 'How do you keep so young?' and my answer is 'Kruschen Salts.' I have used Kruschen now for the last 13 years, and I will certainly use these Salts for the rest of my days."—W. J.

The numerous salts in Kruschen provide just that gentle daily aid your internal organs require to enable them to perform their work properly. These vital salts keep your liver and kidneys in top-notch efficiency, so that they help to free your system of poisonous waste matter. The result is a feeling of youthful health and vigour—"that Kruschen feeling!"—Advt.

Then, on behalf of the Y.P.U. a beautiful floor lamp equipped with the modern indirect lighting, was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Miller by Max. McIlmoyl and an address was read by Miss Mildred Pudry.

Rev and Mrs. Miller thanked their friends for their kindness and everyone stood in a moment silence in respect to one who played a prominent part in the dramatical work of Selwyn and who now has passed to the Great Beyond—Sam Hughes.

In a very few words, Clayton Fitzgerald also moved a vote of thanks to the host and hostess of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. James McConkey, who so kindly opened their lovely home for the occasion. This was accompanied by a hearty hand-clap from all.

Bob Hendry and Jack Smith of Peterborough both attired in their Scottish regalia, then provided the entertainment, accompanied at the piano by George Nicholls.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Abide With Me," "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and "Auld Lang Syne," everyone clasping hands in the latter.

Firemen Brave Death To Fight Under-water Fire

Assault Charges Heard In Norwood

Charges of assault occasioning actual bodily harm were heard by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in the Norwood Town Hall Tuesday afternoon when two brothers, Fred and Harold Kennedy, were charged with assaulting Ray Fry of Peterborough.

The alleged offence took place at Marion's Tea Room in Havelock and Fry was stated to have sustained a broken rib as the result of the fracas.

The two brothers were defended by W. B. Gordon of Peterborough, and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

The charge against Fred Kennedy was heard first and after considerable evidence was dismissed.

Harold Kennedy pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $20 and $17.75 costs while he gave an undertaking that he would pay Fry's doctor's bill.

Warm Spell Hits Fine Pea Crop

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, June 29.— Saturday's wind and rain storm flattened some of the heavy grain crops in this district, fall wheat, barley and early oats suffering by the weight of the downpour.

The benefit of the rains to the growing grain however many times balanced the damage wrought. Crops were in need of moisture and the splendid rainfall followed by cooler weather has been of unbelievable value.

Until the warm weather of the past week, peas promised to be a bumper crop but farmers report that lice have affected the crops to a great extent and will lessen the yield considerably.

Haying is now well advanced and the crop generally is splendid. The present week will find haying on many farms completed.

Root crops and spring grains are todate promising excellent returns, while the strawberry yield has been the largest in some years.

Breaks Record

Piloting a specially constructed airplane, built by aviation students, Clarence McArthur, above, famous speed and stunt flier of Tampa, Fla., established a new world's speed record of 207.027 miles per hour. The new record, officially clocked by the National Aeronautics association, is for airplanes in the first category of light land crafts. The former record of 206.113 m.p.h. for 100 kilometers (62.1380 miles) was held by Maurice Arnoux, of Paris, France. McArthur flew the record-breaking airplane in his bare feet. This, he said, enabled him to get the feel of the ship's speed.

CHAPTER 26

MR. EPHRIAM BROWN, of no town in particular but "at homs" since about 1890 anywhere in the southern Arizona hills, was a man of extraordinary talents. Not only could he shoot surpassingly well (he had acquired the name Buckshot as a tribute to that), but he could sit down calmly and do what he called plain and fancy thinking. It is a combination not to be scorned.

He would undoubtedly have died slowly and agonizingly in the isolated canyon, if Ellen hadn't found him. To have been thus rendered helpless by a fall was a matter of shame in his mind. He had maintained self-sufficiency for half a century and more; to fall like a tenderfoot was disgraceful now. As reckoned he was getting a mite old. he lay there on her tent bed, he And that thought also served to infuriate him; 71 years is not old enough for any man to retire and come to live in a town.

He was giving thought to these personal matters when Bill Baron drove back into the camp.

"Hey, boss?" he called. Ellen's Pintado horse was in sight, but Bill's eyes sought the girl.

Buckshot made such noises as he could, hardly a strong call, for his voice was still husky. Bill peeped in, momentarily alarmed.

The young man stared in amazement.

"Where's Ellen?" he demanded quickly. "Who are you?"

"Keep yore shirt on, son. She's went for a doctor."

"What for? What are you— how'd you get in here?"

"She sot me here. I'm Buckshot Brown, son. Got a game laig. Ankle. She found me. Saved my life. She—"

He explained his presence, Bill sitting attentively on a folding camp chair. Presently Bill had ordered the Mexican woman to bring hot water, and was soaking the old-timer's foot, continuing to talk.

'Who'd you say was? You just happen too?" Buckshot asked Bill, finally.

"Nope. No,Sir. I'm here foreman. Work for her. We'll have a new ranch setup here in a few days. Ellen has some—she is a woman of some means, and I expect she'll go in for stock improvement work, experiments to produce a better grade meat steer. Anyway that's my plan. For her, I mean."

"You a Tenjano, aint you?"

"Yes. sir. Why?"

"I c'n always tell a Texas man, from his slow brogue. Borned jest south of San 'Tone m'self, by dads!"

They shook hands on it, like old acquaintances, laughing.

"You may calculate on upbreedin' range cows? Improvin' 'em?"

"Yes, sir, that's right. Look—for a hundred years, more or less, ranchers in the southwest have had to fight. First Indians, then rustlers, and drouths and shipping trouble and whatever. They haven't had time to do serious, scientific study on improving their herds. The universities have helped some, but not much. With their start—applying their unformation and going on from there—I can run all manner of tests as to feeding, breeding, building disease resistance, everything. In 10 years we ought to show good results. Keep your foot in that water. It'll simply take somebody who is both interested and able to finance it, for it won't be profitable. Not at first. Miss Dale is a public spirited woman, a fine type, as well as pretty as a peach. She—"

Williamn Baron lectured the old man for 16 minutes or more. His enthusiasm wsa so marked and his reasoning so sound that Buckshot was deeply impressed. Buckshot himself had worked on cattle ranches in past years. He knew some of the trials of the business, held a sympathy for the men who fought and slaved to produce the nation's beef. He swapped ideas with Bill, suggesting one or two courses that the younger man hadn't thought of. In short, they got along famously.

They were still at it when Ellen returned with a physician. The doctor didn't find much to do. Hot water treatment, already started, was about all necessary. He left some ointments and bandages, gave instructions to Buckshot to be patient for two weeks and stay out of the hills thereafter.

"You've neglected that foot too long," the doc ruled, "and it'll be game the rest of your life, probably. Get yourself a job in town. Or a pension or something, old-timer. You got any money to pay me for coming out here? If you haven't, it's all right."

He said it kindly, smiling. But Buckshot froze up at him. The bewhiskered old fellow began to dig into the voluminous pants he wore. He fumbled for several seconds, finally extricated a leather pouch. It appeared to be rather heavy.

"Git you a box, or paper or such," he commanded the doctor. Ellen supplied an envelope, looking on curiously.

From his leather bag. Buckshot poured outa tablespoon measure or so of gold dust—pure grainy gold spotted with nuggets as big as beans almost filled the bag!

"Grea-a-at day!", the physician exclaimed. "I only need four or five dollars; Not four or five rundred. You've got a pretty good bank account in that bag, Buckshot!"

'Yeamp. I been pannin' it for years. I can pay you."

They settled the matter amicably, amid much talk, and Bill sent his Mexican employe to drive the doctor home. Ellen took on herself the responsibility of soaking Buckshot's foot, changing the water often to keep it hot.

It was not an unpleasant task. She had fleeting memories—and smiled to herself at them—of her two maids in Hollywood, efficient servants who had obeyed her slightest whim. Somehow she was reveling out here in doing things not only for herself but for another person as well.

Concepcion Rivera, the Mexican woman, and her daughter, presently came with an excellent camp meal. For the second time Buckshot ate heartily. He asked for water to clean his face and hands and by 9 p.m. he declared he felt fit as a fiddle except for the swollen foot.

Bill was busy with Pablo Rivera fashioning a bed under a lean-to for Buckshot. The old-timer swore he would not sleep that night in Ellen's tent, depriving her. Stars he declared. made the best canopy. Could Bill lend him a blanket or two? His own duffel was back in the hills about three miles.

While Billy worked outside, Buckshot talked to Ellen in the light of her gasoline lantern.

"You ain't done so well, miss, at picking a lover," he came straight to the point he wanted to make. "I had a long talk with him."

Ellen looked up in surprise. She had had no experience with western characters such as Buckshot Brown.

"He doesn't really love me, I'm afraid," she answered. 'He won't ever say so. But what's the matter with him? Are you serious?"

"I been studyin'on it, ever since he come here. His eyes don't look right, miss. I been around. I seen plenty of people, good and bad. Look into a man's eyes; they're winders to what's in his mind."

"He has lovely eyes!"

"Yeamp. Mebbo so. But lemme tell you somethin'—ef you figger to marry a man, he better have more'n good looks er you'll regret it. Ef you had to pick you a man, why'nt you pick this'n? This'n that works for you? He's frum Texas, and that's a point in his favor to start with. He ain't so un-handsome, is he He's got brains—I augured him for half a hour before you come back. You had sense enough to hire him. Ain't he got sense enough to court you? I ain't got nothing against the Mexicans, by and large; they's some fine people below the line. But this slicker claimin' to be a baron—"

Ellen felt his contempt for somebody, but did not understand him.

"What are you—are you talking about Bill- Mr. Baron? The man who was just in here?" She was highly interested as well as amused. Th old man looked back at her in confusion.

"Which? Not him. He's the one I says you ought to pick, this big Tex-an. I'm referrin' to that feller with the mile-long name. From Sonora. He come out, and I steered him off."

"Felix Montoya?"

"That's it! Long Spanish name? Ain't he the' one you're soft on?"

Ellen rocked with laughter, so that Bill stuck his head through the tent flap inquiringly.

"What's up?" Bill grinned.

"You couldn't guess!" Ellen was still laughing happily. "and we don't intend to tell you, Bill Baron! Go on about your affairs. I'm entertaining another man!"

How Do You Rate as a Conversationalist?

Check Your Faults:

None of the Five Deadly Conversational Faults afflicts the talk of this happy group.

What are the Five Faults? They're errors that are easy to correct. But if they're allowed to go on—what damage they can do! Here they are:

1. Boring detail. Do people really care about the day-to-day mileage on your last trip?

2. Tactless "kidding." It's not funny to say while dancing with clumsy Tom, "You're light on my feet, big boy!"

3. Preaching. Even if you know you're right, don't sprinkle your talk with "You ought to."

4. Being "helpful." If John gropes for a word, wait until he finds it. Don't suggest one.

5. A hard voice, Relax! Hard to have a soft pleasing voice if you're tense and nervous.

When you've rid yourself of these handicaps, easy to learn how to interest and charm with your talk. Our 32-page booklet gives you the secrets of good conversation—what to say on all occasions.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf was just walking down the garden path when Mr. Worm put out his head. "Boy, will you just step this way?"

Knarf went over to the worm.

"Have you noticed any robins about this morning?"

"Robins? Yes—I saw one or two robins. But they've flown away. Why do you ask?"

"Well, I like to go out once in a while to get a breath of fresh air. But usually there's a robin around and I can't. I wish robins would find something else to—h'mm, to eat instead of worms. It keeps us from being good friends. I bet robins wouldn't like it very much if we suddenly turned around and started eating them."

"Oh, that would be a very good idea." Knarf exclaimed. "Look — here comes the robins back now. You just stay where you are with your head out and when they come near you say: 'Watch out, robins. I'm very hungry.' That'll scare them."

Worm Will Try.

"You're sure?" the worm said doubtfully. "Well, I'll try it."

At that moment the robins, spying the worm looking out at his door, came walking over very quickly. Then the worm, remembering what Knarf had told him to say, cried out as loudly as he could: 'Watch out, robins. I'm good and hungry.'

Knarf, who was hiding behind a gooseberry bush, waited to see what would happen. To his alarm, he saw the robins suddenly rush forward with their beaks wide open.

"Grab them," Knarf shouted to the worm. But, alas, the worm didn't do anything of the sort. He drew back into his underground house just as quickly as he could. And he wasn't a moment too soon, either. For if he had waited just another second, the first robin would have seized him. You see, it takes more than a worm to frighten a robin.

Psychologists Offer Startling Results of Survey Which Shows That Daughters-in-Law Really Like the Mothers of Their Husbands

WELL, of all things! The psychiatrists who probe into why we act like human beings have been collecting statistics about how men and women feel about their wives' and husbands' mothers, and they find that 95 per cent. of the daughters-in-law who have been questioned on this subject say that they love their mothers-in-law, while 53 per cent. of the men declare they can't abide 'em.

This is indeed amazing news, for, judging from our general observation of the in-law proposition—to say nothing of our personal experience in the matter—most of us had thought that mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law were continually in each other's hair, while sons-in-law and the old gals were likely to be on terms of diplomatic cordiality if not of actual affection.

Furthermore, this seemed perfectly logical, because it is well known that mothers look with a very different eye upon the marriages of their sons and daughters. Mother purrs like the cat that has just feasted on the canary when daughter gets married. She is filled with good will and gratitude toward the youth who has taken over daughter's bills and restlessness, and who is giving her a chance to catch up on the sleep she has lost waiting for Mary to come home at night and wondering where she is and if she is safe, or lying under a crushed automobile.

But it is a different pair of sleeves when son gets married. Mother is not wreathed in smiles at Tom's wedding, but sodden with tears. She does not regard the girl Tom is marrying as her deliverer, but as a sneak thief who has somehow, by cunning and adroitness, crept into her fold and stolen away her pet lamb.

Hence the welcome that a son-in-law gets into his wife's family is a warm one, while that which the bride receives from her husband's people is fringed with icicles oftener than not, and that gets them off to a bad start. It is not soothing to a young woman's vanity to be regarded as either a cradle-snatcher or an adventuress who has taken advantage of the innocence and ignorance of a guileless and unsophisticated youth to lure him into marriage, which is the attitude that so many mothers take toward their sons' wives. They are sure Tom never would have done it if he hadn't been led into it.

Nor has it ever needed any Sherlock Holmes to find out why mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law do not get along well together. That's a natural. It is because, added to the above-mentioned complications, the two women belong to different generations. This gives them different opinions, different tastes, different habits, a different point of view on every subject under the sun. More than that, each is filled with the special egotism of her age. Mother-in-laws is certain that her age has made her a Solomon in petticoats. The bride hasn't a doubt that being modern has made her infallible.

Mother-in-law is determined that daughter-in-law shall keep house just as she does; that she shall rear her children just as she reared hers; that she shall stay at home instead of belonging to clubs; that she shall save her good clothes and her best china for company. And daughter-in-law is equally determined to bring up her children by the Baby Book, wear what she likes and go where she pleases. And so the fight is on, and it is only in those rare cases where either the mother-in-law or the daughter-in-law is a self-abnegating angel that there is really much peace between the two. To say nothing of love.

On the other hand, it is easier for a mother-in-law and a son-law to get along together because, being of different sexes, their spheres of activities do not often collide. Mother-in-law seldom attempts to run her sons-in-law's business as she does her daughters-in-law's. She even turns a more lenient eye upon his faults than she does on her daughter-in-law's, on the ground that they are just men's unaccountable ways that women have to put up with. It is only the occasional mother who doesn't try to patch up differences between her daughter and her husband, while many a mother is first aid to her son's divorce by pointing out to him faults in his wife that he would never have discovered if she hadn't turned the spotlight on them.

So it is hard to explain why sons-in-law are less fond of their mothers-in-law than daughters-in-law are of theirs, except on the ground that almost all men are abnormally jealous of their wives' mothers and resent their influence over them.

"Mother said we should do so-and-so" and "Mother's pies" have ever been the fighting words in domestic circles. And maybe that is just human nature.

Lads Land Muskie With Sunfish At Crowe River Dam

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 29. — Robert Webber and Leo O'Connor caught a ten-pound 'lunge on Monday evening sooner than they expected. They were after sunfish in Crowe River near the dam, intending to use the sunfish as bait for 'lunge. They had a sunfish on a minnow hook, and simultaneously the larger fish gobbled the small one and the youths landed their prize with customary strategy.

To study their movements, all the fish in Lake Constance in Switzerland will be numbered with a red celluloid plate fastened to a gill.

THE NO TRUMP FETISH

SOME PLAYERS have the no trump fetish so badly that they favor it over a rebid of good five-card, six-card and even seven-card major suits. Queer results can come out of deals involving such tactics. Their saddest feature is the worthlessness of a beautiful long suit in declarer's hand, useless because he can't get the lead and run its tricks. He simply has to keep discarding them on tricks taken by the defenders.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North started the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond, East overcalled with 1-Spade, South bid 2-Hearts, North 3-Diamonds and South 3-No Trump. Playing duplicate, the South player figured he might get a better score at no trump than at a suit.

West disliked leading his Spade A, as he hoped to later South's K. He hated to kn his partner's entry which n was a club and as the decla bid hearts, West hit on a d lead. For Thursday, June 30.

A day of rather intriguing as well as adventurous experiences in both the private and business lives is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations. Writings, publishing and promotional enterprises may prove lucrative. In the intimate relations there is need of discretion , as peculiar or subtle slants might prove regrettable.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and surprising adventures involving change through writings, publicity, renewed contracts and strange associations.

A child born on this day may have a very lively, progressive and adventurous nature, with tendencies to the subtle and shrewd in attaining its objectives. It may be easy-going, generous and kindly, and may find it difficult to conserve the fruit of its enterprise.

J. O. Fife Asks Restoration Of Salary Cut

A request by J. O. Fife, superintendend of the sewage disposal plant, for restoration of his salary on the scale granted to other city employees earlier this year, was re ferred by the Board of Works to a special committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Wilson and City Engineer Parsons for consideration that is to include a nenquiry into the general "labor situation" at the plant.

Mr. Fife was originally engaged at $1,800 a year, and his salary was cut to $1,600. He has appealed to the coucil by letter for the same adjustment of salaries accorded to city officials generally this year, and last night he appeared in person. He told the Board he had to work seven days in the week, with the sole exception of two weeks' holidays. Two other men, also working eight hour shifts, are paid $1,200 a year.

Alderman Stocker declared that Mr. Fife's duties were "only a lubricating job". He proposed that the salaries should be pooled and equally apportioned among the three men.

It was Alderman Dutton who suggested the special committee to report on the work and hours at the disposal plant. His motion was seconded by Alderman McCannan.

For Ex-service Men.

The following resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Stocker, was unanimously approved: That the Mayor and Alderman Cotton be authorized to pay the expenses, such as they deem sufficient, of ex-service men of the city who desire to attend the Toronto reunion to be held on July 30 and 31 and August 1, such ex-service men being those who through lack of means or inability may be selected by the Mayor and Alderman Cotto nto attend, representing the city.

"I don't think there will be any more than half a dozen men who might need this assistance," Alderman Gordon said, 'and it shouldn't cost more than $10 each."

Alderman Dutton suggested that selection of the men might be left to the Canadian Legion thereby relieving Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Cotton of a responsibility which they might prefer to avoid.

Dangerous Corners.

On Alderman Bradburn's recommendation City Engineer Parsons was asked to have a white strip painted in the middle of the pavement at the corner of Homewood and Belmont Avenues as a means of reducing the traffic hazard, especially from the west turning from Homewood into Belmont Avenue; also to have "slow signs placed at Monaghan and Weller Streets, and at King and Water Streets.

Ald Bradburn said the view of motorists on Weller Street, approaching Monaghan road, was obstructed. and hedges around the Homewood Avenue corner shut off the vision of drivers nearing the Belmont corner.

British Inject Realism Into Naval Manoeuvres

Great Britain injected some realism in the recent naval manoeuvres, witnessed by the King, of the home fleet off Weymouth. Salvage crews from H.M.S. Newcastle are shown as they recovered a pilotless, radio-controlled "Queen Bee" airplane that was shot down by anti-aircraft fire during the manoeuvres to demonstrate the efficiency of the British navy's anti-aircraft equipment.
